Tetter on the Hands.

For several years I was a sufferer from Tetter on my hands. It would come in little watery pimples, and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from the scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one-half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took it my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well.

LETTER FROM HAL SUGG

He Writes Interestingly About the War

Co. C. 1st D. C. VOLS.,
SANTIAGO DE CUBA,
Via Key West, July 17th '98.

DEAR REFLECTOR:

There is a victory to be gained in war and such we have accomplished. Yes, the Spaniards surrendered to us about noon July 14th 1898 just, as we were about ready to "make them do" what they have done.

Now that victory is gained it is rumored that the 1st D. C. will be sent back to America. It is true, as every one knows, that we would love so much to see the dear ones at home but we do not want to be sent home until the American people, of all classes have been able to, and have avenged our living dead who sleep beneath treacherous waters with our good ship Maine. Then and not till then do we want to be taken home.

It is also true that we the first D. C. have not been fortunate enough to face the Spaniards in open battle, but that is not our fault, but as soon as the beautiful strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" floated from our musicians o'er the lines of the Spaniards they knew two well that it meant victory. The next day they surrendered to us the ruined, but magnificent city of Santiago de Cuba.

Since writing the above, the American colors have been raised o'er the town and the Spaniards seem to gaze at them through admiration in the distance. Today the people who left Santiago before the battle went into the city.

I was sitting on a roof about a mile from Santiago watching them as they passed. I saw some sights that will be memorable to me till the day of my death. Were I to tell you what I did see it would be enough to make the blood curdle in the tender hearts of all North Carolinians. They were dropping all over the road from starvation. They roam through the woods and when night comes on they lay down their weary limbs under some tree and sleep in mind (in some cases) till day dawns again. They have been living on fruit for some time and they beg for hard tacks of the soldiers, more than once have I given my food to them for I could not bear to see them starve. Yesterday a pretty Cuban girl offered me a gold ring for one can of roast beef. But how could I thus rob a starved person? I could not, I dare say there is no one who could who has a conscience.

Cubans are good natured people as a rule but they are lazy. Some of the girls are good looking but I have seen none whom I thought were beautiful.

In a fight the other day some Cubans were put in front to lead the Americans but when the battle was over it was found that the Cubans had got to the rear and had robbed the Americans of all the rations that was in their haversacks—they were no where to be seen. The weather is the most disagreeable feature of the game. It rains every day and night and for the last few days we have been in it with no tents. We cook our own food and as yet the novelty has not worn off.

Although it is reported that we will leave for the United States soon we expect to go to Porto Rico if possible for us to do so. We are in this for business and we want to make quick work of it.

All the boys are feeling fine and as far as I never felt better in my life. The thermometer registers at 110 here but it feels very pleasant in the shade. I expect to visit Greenville if the war ever closes and nothing would please me more than a letter from my friends in said town.

Yours most sincerely,
HAROLD SUGG.

POPULIST CONVENTION

Skinner and Moye Make Compromise

The Populists held their county convention here this afternoon to select delegates to the Congressional and Judicial conventions. W. M. King was made chairman and J. A. Lang R. W. Ward and R. A. Bryan secretaries. No delegates were called only the roll of townships being gone over to see if all were represented. This failure to read out names may have been due the fact that two colored men occupied seats in the Belvoir delegation.

A motion was adopted that each township should retire and select its own delegates to the district conventions. About half hour was consumed in this during which time the convention was at ease.

When the townships reported the names of delegates were read by the secretary, the names of the alternates being omitted. All of the delegates were white, but as the alternates were not read we are unable to say whether they included any colored men. No motion was made to ratify the township reports.

Immediately following the reading of the names of delegates a motion was made to adjourn. Slade Chapman moved to table the motion to adjourn, which was adopted, and he offered a resolution that the delegates to the Congressional convention be instructed to cast 20 votes for E. A. Moye and 11 votes for Harry Skinner, and abide by these instructions until a nomination is made.

S. V. Laughinghouse, another aspirant for the nomination, was instantly on his feet in opposition to the resolution, saying that it entirely ignored him and that he was as good a man as either one of the others. He offered a substitute for the resolution that the vote of the delegation be divided equally between himself, Moye and Skinner. When the vote was taken on the substitute only Laughinghouse himself voted for it. The resolution was adopted, though there were several votes against it.

W. M. Brown then offered a resolution endorsing the platform and resolutions adopted by the Populist State convention on the 17th of May. Laughinghouse was on his feet again. He said he was opposed to the resolutions of the State convention, that it was only a scheme of Butler to lead them all back to the Democratic party. He said E. A. Moye was in Raleigh working for the resolutions and was now a tool in the hands of Butler. That when he (Laughinghouse) left the Democratic party he burned the bridges behind him, (this brought a yell of applause) and he did not propose to be led back by anybody. Laughinghouse's speech was a hot number. He "cussed" the resolution square out and used about as much profanity as could be squeezed in the same number of words.

The resolution was adopted and the convention adjourned.

Stop Smoking
If you are a smoker, you know the effects of the habit. It is a deadly enemy to health, and it is a waste of money. It is a habit that is easily broken, and it is a habit that is worth breaking. The only way to break the habit is to stop smoking. The only way to stop smoking is to use the "STOP SMOKING" remedy. It is a simple, safe, and effective remedy that will break the habit in a few days. It is a habit that is worth breaking, and it is a habit that is worth stopping. The only way to stop smoking is to use the "STOP SMOKING" remedy. It is a simple, safe, and effective remedy that will break the habit in a few days.

TO THE EDITOR.

From our Star Correspondent. WASHINGTON, D. C. Aug. 12, '98.

If proof were needed that Mr. McKinley made a serious mistake in not definitely naming all the terms of peace that Spain must accept, instead of leaving some of them to be settled by a joint commission, it was furnished in chunks by Spain's first answer, accepting the terms of peace, but on condition that numerous things including whether Cuba should be responsible for a portion of the Spanish bonded debt, should be determined by the peace commission. That it was compelled to waive the conditions and accept the terms of peace without conditions, does not lessen the mistake Mr. McKinley made in leaving anything to be settled by commissions, as the country will realize long before that commission completes the work.

and all. The excuse for not doing that is not a valid one. It is that the administration had not decided what should be done with the Philippines. The people have decided that Spanish rule ought not to be continued in any part of the Philippines, if the administration hasn't.

Sampson's "pull" extended to Mr. McKinley, as it has been decided to make him a Rear Admiral for his services in the war, although not a few persons say that his share of prize money, on prizes he had no hand in taking, will largely overpay him for anything he has done. The public agitation in favor of Schley is doubtless the cause of his also getting made a Rear Admiral, but the pleasure at his promotion is lessened by Sampson being promoted ahead of him, thus keeping up the injustice by which Sampson was jumped over his head in the first place.

The wily Sultan of Turkey appears to have talked this government to a standstill in the game of diplomacy that has been going on for several years over the claims of American missionaries for $100,000 for property destroyed by Turkish mobs. The claim was first made by the Cleveland administration, and from its first filing until very recently the public has been told from time to time that the government was about to compel the Sultan to settle up. Nothing official can be obtained at the State Department, but from other sources it is learned that the Sultan has positively refused to pay a cent, taking the ground that his government was not responsible. Ordinarily such a refusal could have been easily met, but in this case the refusal was based on a quotation from an answer given by this government to another government that had presented a claim for property destroyed by a riotous mob. That is what brought this government to a standstill, until the next move can be thought out. It would be an easy matter to send a strong fleet to Turkish waters and force payment, but it must first be decided that it would be wise to establish such a precedent.

Now that they no longer have the Spaniards to fight, the army officials who have been so busy trying to shift the responsibility for the shameful shortcomings in the furnishing of proper supplies to the men in the army, not only at Santiago, but in camps in the United States from their own to somebody else's shoulders, can give their entire attention to fighting each other, instead of welding the official whitewash brush. Perhaps it may be possible when Congress assembles to get an investigation that will really investigate. If so, there is little doubt that much incompetence will be located, and some crookedness, too. By that time many volunteers now in the service will have ceased to be soldiers and their evidence will be available, while now their tongues are tied by military regulations.

There is trouble, and lots of it ahead of the War Department, on account of its management of its end of the war, and that may account for the rumor that Secretary Alger intends shortly to resign and that his portfolio will be offered to Joe Wheeler, of Ala. It would be a shrewd move on the part of the administration to attempt to head off democratic criticism of the War Department by making such a good democrat as Gen. Wheeler Secretary of War, but it remains to be seen whether Gen. Wheeler would accept that place, if it were offered him. Gen. Wheeler is as good a politician as a fighter, and he would see through the scheme at once, and would probably decline with thanks. It is very probable that Alger contemplates resigning as an easy method of escaping criticism.

What a commentary upon the laws and enlightenment of a State, to say nothing about the fitness of things, when for the sake of permitting ignorant negroes to hold positions as school committeemen a provision is made in the school law of North Carolina which says that a school committeeman who cannot sign his name to a teacher's voucher may make his mark. The Charlotte News calls attention to such a fact, and we agree with our contemporary that this law ought to be repealed and that no school officer, be he white or black who cannot write his name has any place in our school system.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

How the Chinese Do Things.

The Chinese do everything backward. They exactly reverse the usual order of civilization, says the Richmond Christian Advocate.

Note, first, that the Chinese compass points to the south instead of the north.

Men wear skirts, the women trousers.

The men wear their hair long, and the women wear it short.

The men carry on dressmaking, and the women carry burdens.

The spoken language is not written, and the written language is not spoken. Books are read backward. What we call foot-notes are inserted at the top of the page.

The Chinese dress in white at funerals, and in mourning at weddings, while old women always serve as bridesmaids.

The Chinese launch their vessels sideways, and mount their horses from the off side.

The Chinese begin their dinner with dessert and end with soup and fish.

In China the hands of the clocks are immovable; it is the dial that revolves.

Golf Defined.

Just before the rising of the London law courts a case involving the playing of golf was heard, says the London Daily Telegraph, and a Queen's counsel engaged in it thus described for the instruction of the judge the ancient and royal game. "I believe, my lord," he said, "that the game of golf is played in irregular field or waste grounds with a small ball which the player tries to hit with a stick. If he succeeds in hitting the ball he spends the remainder of the day in looking for it. That, as I am informed, my lord, is the game of golf."

A Bright Idea.

"The new missionary," said the King, as he plucked a bit of wool from beneath a splinter on his club, "is a strange sort of person. I hardly know what to make of him."

"Soup," suggested a voice, at which the King brightened visibly.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

No Change For It.

The best description of a counterfeit dollar we have ever heard was that given by a saloon-keeper in a trial at Wichita, Kan., the other day. He said: "Well, Dawson threw a piece of money on the counter to pay for the drinks and I could tell by the sound of it that I did not have the change."

How They Got Rich.

She—I could have married either Whipper or Snapper if I'd wanted to, and both of those whom I refused have since got rich, while you are still as poor as a church mouse.

He—Of course. I've been supporting you all these years. They haven't.

Not to the Swift.

"You told me this horse had won half a dozen matches against some of the best horses in the country. He can't trot a mile in six minutes to save him."

"It was in ploughing matches that he took the prizes, sir."

A Power Behind the Throne

Sometime you go into a large factory and while viewing with wonder and admiration the perfect working of the mass of machinery you may for the time being forget that all this machinery would be motionless but for some hidden power that gives it seeming life. Down in the power house is the throbbing engine that supplies this force and without which all the machinery would be useless. There are some men very much like this engine. They are not so much for words, but for action they are a power. Greenville has some men of this kind. One of them is Mr. Oscar Hooker, one of the proprietors of the Eastern Warehouse. Amid the bustle and stir and noise attendant upon the sales on the warehouse floor you see and hear little of him, yet at his place back in the office he is a power that is indispensable. Sitting there quietly at his desk he has not much say and attends strictly to business, but the farmer who steps up and gets a check with his signature knows that he possesses something that is guilt edged.
Mr. Hooker has been a strong factor in the Greenville tobacco market. He has shown his faith by his works. He has invested more money in buildings than any other one man and today is more largely interested than any other. He is quiet and unassuming in his manner, yet his presence and means give strength to the market, and his enterprising spirit is worthy of emulation.

ORIGINAL OBSERVATION.

Made by the Orange Va Observer.
It is now fashionable to pull ears—of corn.
Creeds are but slim rounds on the ladder of religion.
It is always the sure horse that wins the prize at the horse show.
There is no life in the friendship of a person who does not strive to aid his friend.
It is more pleasant and less painful to have people throw bouquets instead of bullets at you.
Fogies are people who are already dead to the present—they exist only in the past and burrow in its gloom.
All the world is in a happy hum, for de glory time has dun cum—de watermillion's ripe and sweet—earth has no greater treat.
