Superior Court.

The September term of Pitt Superior court convened Monday with his Honor Judge G. H. Brown presiding and Solicitor Wheeler Martin representing the State. We did not have the opportunity of hearing Judge Brown's charge to the grand jury, but those who did hear it speak of its excellence.

Those who know Judge Brown and his ability as a lawyer, know he could have delivered no other than a good charge. He is among our very best Judges, in fact is second to none in the State, and his high character and faithfulness to duty command the highest respect wherever he presides over a court.

The grand jury is composed of the following: J Mc Dixon, Foreman, J M Cox, N W Campbell Toiy Pippin G B Stokes, J S Warren, Moses Jones, John A Wilson, G H Andrews, J J Bryan, W A Teel, G L Sancill, J A Smith, J W Venters, J R Bullock, Henry Griffin, E E Dall, J J Stokes. FOR COMMISSIONERS

Greenville N. C. Sept 19th 1898.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

Knowing the men who the Republicans and Populists have put on their ticket for county commissioners, we wish to suggest for our ticket the names of Jno. W. Page, of Carolina Josephus Cox, of Cententnea and W. M. Lang, of Farmville who are men more competent of managing the county business. A DEMOCRAT.

Looking After Depot Facilities.

Messrs. J. R. Kenly and E. B. Pleasants, of the Atlantic Coast Line, were here Saturday to look after increasing the depot facilities of the town. Committees from the Chamber of Commerce and the Tobacco Board of Trade met these gentlemen to make suggestions as to what would best serve the interests of the town. We regret that there was a difference of opinion between the two committees and that no definite conclusion is yet reached. THE REFLECTOR thinks the most plausible suggestion made to the officials was from the Chamber of Commerce committee, that the passenger and freight departments be separated by building an exclusive passenger depot on the north side of Dickinson avenue and build an additional freight room on the end of the present depot towards the avenue. This would be a three-fold improvement, it would largely increase the facilities for handling freights, it would give us a handsome passenger depot at a more convenient place than the old one, and it would place the passenger depot within the corporate limits so that ordinances might be passed that would preserve good order around it. We believe the improvements embodied in this suggestion would suit the interests of the entire town better than any other.

Yet one of this class directed his wife to buy Clothing from another firm because they charged more for it, and "it must therefore be better." His better half bought some from us and some from the other house, and showed her husband that they were identical. This proved conclusively how foolish a man can be when he really tries. The lady of the house generally knows where she can get the most and best for the money.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Star Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 19, 98.

Mr. McKinley may be compelled to abandon that investigation of the war by a commission, owing to his inability to get men of prominence to serve thereon. John Sherman, who was kicked out of the Cabinet because it was alleged that his wits had gone wool-gathering, punctured this commission scheme when he called attention to the fact that it could not compel witnesses to testify. That is a fatal defect. The Commission can only take voluntary testimony, and every school boy knows that military officers are not likely to volunteer to give testimony that will reflect upon their superiors. Mr. McKinley may succeed in forming his commission, and it may go through the form of making an investigation, but there will be no real investigation until it is made by a Congressional Committee cloaked with all authority of a court of law. Then the facts and the rascals will become known

Is Mr. McKinley preparing to throw Secretary Alger overboard? Many persons think so. Secretary Alger is the only member of the cabinet who was not specially summoned to Washington to participate in the extended consideration and discussion of the instructions given to the American Peace Commissioners previous to their departure for Paris. It is asserted that this public snub was administered to Alger as a hint that his resignation of the War Portfolio would be acceptable to the administration. Another reason given for not having Alger in Washington just now is that Mr. McKinley wished the other members of the Cabinet to feel free in expressing themselves about the intended investigation of the War Department, which would have been impossible with the Secretary of War present. Mr. McKinley is said to be fully convinced now that the investigation will result in finding Alger guilty of some of the gravest charges that have been made against him, and to be fully determined to do nothing to shield Alger. Some say that he has been brought to this state of mind by evidence laid before him by military men; others that it is the result of the existing panic among the Republican managers over the outlook for Democratic success in the Congressional campaign, and their insistence that something be done at once to counteract the wave of indignation that is sweeping over the country as a result of the knowledge of the unnecessary hardships and deaths among the volunteers. If Mr. McKinley will really try to assist the investigating commission, which will shortly get to work, by officially stating his wish that all army officers asked to testify shall tell everything they know about the mismanagement of the war, the truth may be got at, notwithstanding the commission's lack of legal authority to compel witnesses to testify.

It is said that Gen. Scofield's refusal to serve as a member of the investigating commission resulted in a stormy scene between him and Mr. McKinley. It is certain that when Gen. Scofield left the White House, after he had finally and positively declined to serve on the commission, the old gentleman was in a towering passion.

There is much speculation in Washington concerning the nature of the instructions given our Peace Commissioners and the belief is growing that the instructions were not specific, farther than to demand possession of the island of Luzon, and that everything else was left to be determined by circumstances, after the commission meets, and there is an opportunity to learn the attitude of the Spanish Commissioners. In any event, it is certain that Mr. McKinley does not intend, if he can prevent it, that the position of the administration shall become known until after the Congressional election. If he was certain as he claims to be that the policy of the administration would be endorsed by the people, he would be only too glad to announce that policy before the Congressional election.

Senator Quay came over to Washington to pull a few administration wires that he hopes will aid him in his fight for reelection. He admits that the present is the strongest fight ever put up against him, and leaves it to be inferred that he is far from being certain of winning. His opponents have been smart enough not to name a candidate against him and to adopt the general motto of "Anybody to beat Quay," leaving the question of who shall be the candidate to be settled after an anti-Quay legislature has been elected. The administration is, as a matter of rule, helping Quay to a certain extent, but Mr. McKinley would not do any worrying if Quay was beaten, provided, of course, that his successor was Wanamaker or some other Republican. Quay has made Mr. McKinley feel his power too often to be cordially liked by him.

That the competition between the big shipyards of the country is largely imaginary, when it comes to bidding for the construction of ships for the government, was demonstrated as usual when the bids were opened for the construction of three battleships, the Maine, the Ohio, and the Missouri. Contracts have been given at practically the same figures to the Union Iron Works, San Francisco Oramp & Sons, and the Newport News Company, each to construct one of these battleships, all of which are to have a speed of 18 knots.

Some of the Connecticut Republicans who helped to defeat John Addison Porter for nomination for governor are not disposed to let the matter end there, but will try to get Porter ousted from his position of Secretary to the President. Porter says he will not resign. It remains to be seen whether his enemies are strong enough to get his dismissal.

Mr. McBride Holt Says:

Greenville, N. C. July 16, '97.

Outside Cotton Mills:

About two and a half years ago my little boy about four years, and my little girl about two years, each had an enlargement of the glands about the ears. The trouble appearing on each about the same time, I was inclined to think it mumps, but soon observing to the contrary, I called in the doctor, who said the trouble came from colds, prescribing accordingly, yet swelling continued to grow, until each had to hold or the lane, the little boy having been lanced in three places, and at three times, his face at times, looking alarming. The nature of the trouble was termed one thing by one and another thing by another. This however, did not concern me, as I was looking for a cure, and Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy having been called to my attention so favorably, I dropped the treatment from the doctor and commenced to use Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. To say that the results obtained have been satisfactory is putting it in mild terms, the children, and especially the little boy being entirely well, yet wearing the scars that will ever keep fresh in my memory the merits of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. Respt.

The Smallest Motor.

Perhaps the smallest electric motor in the world is in the scarf pin of D. Goodwin of McKinney, Tex. He is a skilled watchmaker and recently he constructed the motor, which is so small that a 10-cent piece will cover it. It weighs only 9-100 of an ounce. The front of the motor is of highly-polished gold and the commutator and segments are of the same metal. Mr. Goodwin wears the curiosity in his necktie and it makes a very attractive decoration, the nature of which can only be discovered by close inspection.

Cultivating Horse Radish.

Horse-radish is grown from small pieces of the root four to eight inches long. For cultivation in the garden, the ground is prepared as for other crops and the pieces of roots are planted in rows from two to three feet apart and 15 to 18 inches apart in the row. Mark off the ground and make a small hole with a dibble or planting stick and set so that the upper end is slightly below the surface. Press the soil firmly about the root, keep the ground free from weeds and cultivate as beans or cabbage. The soil should be rich and in good condition. The horse-radish is dug in the fall during the cool moist weather after other crops have been taken care of. The earth is all shaken from the roots and these are stored in houses or pits, to be marketed during the winter.

NEVER IMITATED IN QUALITY.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, remember the name of the Company.
