THE FAIR.
A Great Occasion for Greenville

CLOSING DAY.
 There was another good attendance at the fair on closing day. All through our people showed their appreciation of the enterprise and encouraged it all they could. This, on the last day could see the ribbons fastened on many articles exhibited which indicated that they had won premiums. THE REFLECTOR will publish a list of the prizes in later issues.

The program of races for the closing day consisted of a free for all trot and pace and a running race of three-quarter heats. The trot and pace was won by Alfordley, owned and driven by B. T. Birney, of South Natic, Mass. The running race was won by Lockwood.

Following is the summary of these races:

| FREE FOR ALL. | | | |
|--------------------------------|---|---|---|
| Alfordley | 1 | 1 | 1 |
| Nominee | 2 | 2 | 2 |
| Bird Eye | 3 | 3 | 4 |
| Holly Nutwood | 4 | 4 | 3 |
| Time 2:19 1/2, 2:18 1/2, 2:18. | | | |
| Running Race. | | | |
| Lockwood | 1 | 1 | |
| Grand Ma | 2 | 2 | |
| Vermont Bradford | 3 | 3 | |
| Time 1:20, 1:22. | | | |

The fair all through was a success, and considering that it was the first undertaking and had been inaugurated only a short while it was remarkable. Secretary H. A. White was certainly the right man for his place, and the Association made a wise choice in selecting him. He labored energetically for the fair and much of its success is due him. Of course he had the co-operation of our people, for all wanted to see the fair a success.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 31, 1898.

THE REFLECTOR has felt no more gratified at the defeat of a man not known personally than it did to learn of the defeat of J. F. Click, editor of the Hickory Times-Mercury, who was one of the Senatorial candidates in the district composed of Catawba, Wilkes, Lincoln and Alexander counties. Early in the campaign when the people of the west began learning of the conditions that prevailed in the east, and Gov. Jarvis' letter telling of negro domination in Greenville had been published, Click wrote to Rev. A. W. Setzer, who came from his county and knew him well, asking for information on the subject and if the statements published were true. Mr. Setzer wrote the facts as they existed, but his reply not being the way Click wanted it to be he suppressed it. Later another man in Catawba wrote Mr. Setzer for information and upon receiving his reply gave it to the Newton Enterprise to be published. Click then in his own paper began denouncing Mr. Setzer, and villainously tried to break down the character of the young preacher. But Mr. Setzer was able to take care of himself and in subsequent letters to the Enterprise fully showed Click's duplicity, and no doubt helped to increase the Democratic majority up there. It is all over now, and as said at the outset we are glad to know a man of such character has been defeated.

Men and brethren, wains set up on the proposition that our complaint is not against the negroes. It is against the pale faces from whom they derive their inspiration. The people of Wilmington did well yesterday when they saw George Z. French on a train and exacted a promise from him never to return. The people of North Carolina will do better when they put Marion Butler on a train and secure his promise that he will never show his face in the State again. Nobody did as much as he, in public speech, in the late campaign, to inflame the negroes. Senator Pritchard's advice to them was good. John C. Dacey, colored, proved himself, in his campaign, a perfect gentleman, as compared with Butler. He was the worst of them all—he is the State's most dangerous citizen. There will be no peace in North Carolina until he is eliminated. "Defenda est Carthago."—Charlotte Observer.

The suggestion of the Observer is a timely one. North Carolina would be much better off without Marion Butler. And some others of his ilk ought to be included if the invitation goes forth for a snaking off the dust of the State; notably Dan Russell and Cy Thompson. They are but little behind Butler in the depths of infamy to which they stoop, and both bear a share of the responsibility of bringing shame upon the State. And, by the way, even Greenville might spare a citizen or two and not be any the worse off by it.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular Correspondent, WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11 98.

It is known that Mr. McKinley feels very keenly the rebuke administered to Algerism by the voters of the country at the Congressional elections, and probable that if he had it all to do over again, he would not be willing to stand sponsor for Alger. The first Cabinet meeting after the election was a very mournful affair; it lasted nearly four hours and was devoted entirely to attempts to extract a few crumbs of comfort from the result in the few States in which the Republicans held their own, and from the fact that they will have a majority in the Senate of the next Congress. The mourners are feeling a little better now, over the probability that the Republicans will by the sup of their teeth barely hold control of the next House, but they are afraid to count too much even upon that little, for fear that the official count, necessary to determine the result in a number of close districts, will leave the Republicans in the minority.

When all the circumstances connected with the campaign are taken into consideration, and the vote cast is compared with that of '96, it will be seen that this week's elections were a great triumph for the Democratic party—a triumph that was really extraordinary in the face of the obstacles which confronted the party. It seems incredible almost that an administration which had the undivided support of the country in fighting a triumphant close a foreign war should have so soon forfeited and lost so much of that support, although all sorts of appeals, ranging from patriotism to cupidity, were used to rein it. If the Democratic party maintains its present aggressive attitude, it will surely win the Presidential elections two years hence.

Senator Jones, of Ark., chairman of the Democratic National Committee, does not regard the election of Roosevelt as a serious loss to the Democracy of the country. On the contrary, he talks as though he believed it would be decidedly beneficial. He says the Democratic leaders in New York went astray on the party platform and that he regards the defeat of the party in that State as the legitimate reward of straddlers and piecemeal politicians. There are many other Democrats who are not sorry that the party failed to carry New York, some for one reason and some for another, but the most of them because they think that Tammany should be satisfied with the control of the party in the city of New York and not seek to control in State and National affairs. They say that if Van Wyck had been elected governor, Mr. Croker would have attempted to control the National Convention, in 1900, and that such attempts bring nothing but injury to the party.

The Peace Commission had an other joint powwow, at Paris, this week, but they are still talking in the air and not ready to get down to business. As soon as the price we are to pay Spain for the Philippines, is agreed upon, Mr. McKinley will notify the Commission to settle the business.

Story of Lincoln.

This Lincoln story is told in Short Stories: A New York firm applied to Abraham Lincoln some years before he became president for information as to the financial standing of one of his neighbors. Mr. Lincoln replied as follows:
 Yours of the 10th inst. received. I am well acquainted with Mr. X. and know his circumstances. First of all, he has a wife and baby; together they ought to be worth $50,000. Secondly, he has an office, in which there are a table worth $1.50 and three chairs worth, say, $1. Last of all, there is in one corner a large rathole, which will bear looking into. Respectfully yours, A. LINCOLN.

There were twin babies in the neighbor's house, a great many babies little Ella thought.

PRECIOUS METALS.

Sold and Platinum Are Cheap Compared With Some of Them.

"The majority of people when asked to name the most precious metals usually mention gold as first, platinum as second and silver as third," said the proprietor of a large assaying and refining establishment to the writer recently. "Now, let us see how near the truth they would be. Gold is worth about $250 per pound troy, platinum $130, and silver about $12.
"We will now compare these prices with those of the rarer and less well known metals. To take them in alphabetical order barium, the metal which Davy isolated from its ore, baryta, in 1808, sells for $950 a pound when it is sold at all, and calcium is worth $1,800 a pound. Cerium is a shade higher. Its cost is $160 an ounce, or $1,920 per pound. These begin to look like fabulous prices, but they do not reach the highest point, chromium being $200. Cobalt falls to about half the price of silver, while didymium, the metal isolated by Masander, is the same price as calcium. Then comes gallium, which is worth $3,250 an ounce. With this metal the highest price is reached, and it may well be called the rarest and most precious of metals.
"Glucium is worth $250 per ounce; indium, $150; iridium, $658 a pound, janthanium, $175, and lithium, $160 per ounce. Nidium costs $128 per ounce; osmium, palladium, platinum, potassium and rhodium bring respectively $640, $400, $130, $32 and $512 per pound. Strontium costs $128 an ounce; tantum, $144; tellurium, $9; thorium, $272; vanadium, $320; yttrium, $144, and zincinum, $250 an ounce.
"Thus we see that the commonly received opinion as to what are the most precious metals is quite erroneous. Barium is nearly four times as valuable as gold and gallium more than 160 times as costly, while many of the other metals mentioned are twice and thrice as valuable. Aluminium, which cost $8 and $9 a pound in 1890, is now produced as cheaply as are iron, zinc, lead and copper."—Washington Star.

It Sailed.
The other afternoon I was in a gentleman's outfitting shop when a customer came in to purchase a hat. He tried on several and was evidently hard to please, the counter becoming covered with the rejected. At last the salesman picked up a brown felt bowler, brushed it round with his arm and extended it admiringly.

"These are being very much worn this season, sir," he explained.
"Are they?" said the customer thoughtfully, surveying himself in the mirror, with his hat on his head. "Do you think it suits me?"
"Suits you to perfection, sir, if the fit's right."
"Yes, it fits very well. So you think I had better have it?"
"I don't think you could do better, sir."
"No, I don't think I could, so I won't have a new one."
The salesman had been praising up the old hat.—Pearson's Weekly.

Hard on the Reporters.
"I had a strange dream the other night," said the major.
"What was it?" asked the young thing.
"I went to heaven, and as an old newspaper man was interested in their journal up there. It was a miserable thing; not a well written story in it, and I told St. Peter so."
"What did he say?"
"He said: 'It's not our fault. We never get any good reporters up here.'"

It's Bliss For Her.
Mrs. Wicklins—You and your husband and Mr and Mrs. Caddley seem to be very good friends.
Mrs. Dimpleton—Yes. You see, Mr Caddley and I used to be engaged.
Mrs. Wicklins—But I don't understand why that fact should make you enjoy each other's society now.
Mrs. Dimpleton—Well, of course, I can't speak for him, but he married a woman who is at least five years older than I am and not half as good looking, if I do say it myself. You don't know what a comfortable feeling takes possession of me when we are together and I see him glancing first in her direction and then in mine.—Cleveland Leader

Crows.
There is some reason for calling an owl the bird of wisdom, and yet there is cause for wondering if the crow is not mentally his superior. Crows are not disheartened by the gloom of late autumn. If the fog is too dense to fly through it, they rise above it or trot about the ground, discussing the situation with their fellows. Is this speaking too positively? I have long been familiar with an observing man who has lived all his days within sight and hearing of crows. He claims to understand their language and can repeat the "words" that make up their vocabulary. Certainly crows seem to talk, but do they? Does a certain sound made by them have always the one significance? Year after year I have listened and watched, watched and listened, and wondered if my friend was right. He believes it. I believe it—almost. Are there limitations to ornithological interpretation? And is this an instance where truth is unattainable?—Lippincott's.

Opinion of a Pessimist.

Many a man it suspected of being cruel when his wife's pained expression is due to tight shoes.

If men could see themselves as others see them the woods would be full of people.

A man who is always striving for things that are beyond his reach, frequently gets others that are equally as good.

As a rule, homely girls know more than pretty ones, but most men are afraid to praise them for it.

The woman passenger who says she would rather stand, when you offer your seat to her, gets mad if you take her word for it.

MORE THAN PLEASED.

There is a firm, to know their name, Just on this paper o'er, Who once asked me, as they ask you, To step into their store. I bought a suit. I took it home, I found it cheap and nice. And I never fail to recommend That firm for Price. Price. Price.

I took a walk, I saw all eyes Observing my new clothes: I was a model and I admired By friends, also by foes. I set the fashions for the town, And travelled many a mile To tell the people where to go For Style, Style, Style.

The more I wore that suit of clothes The better they did please I had used Munford's store until The clerks were brisk as bees. This suit so kept its stylish shape, (Well-made and fitly knit), 'Twas still it takes the premium! For Fit, Fit, Fit.

So if you'd be a happy man, Just follow my example And if you'd be a stylish man. Just take me for a sample. Go to Munford's store where the grade Are new, and cheap and nice, And see if they do not excel For Style, and Fit and Prices.
