AXE WAITS FOR BERNARD'S HEAD.

District Attorney's Official Days Are Numbered.

Washington, December 30.—
United States District Attorney Bernard is here. It will probably be his last visit here in his official capacity. He came of his own volition, and will leave probably by tomorrow.

For two days Mr. Bernard has been cooling his heels in the waiting room of Attorney General Griggs, but he had not, when this dispatch was filed, succeeded in seeing him. He had seen several of the subordinates in the Department of Justice and tried to explain certain charges preferred against him. One of these officials was asked by The Post representative if he had had any official business with Bernard. He significantly answered: "I only transact business with him in writing."

Mr. Bernard came here to explain away, if he can, a damaging report made against him by Leigh Chalmers, an expert of the Department of Justice. It is against rules to make the report public, but the report is severe on Bernard.
It states, among other things, that when Chalmers called, the only person in the office who seemed to know anything about the affairs of the office was a negro employe; that the docket was kept in the most confused and unintelligible manner, and that general inefficiency was apparent everywhere.

Mr. Bernard brought with him a great mass of books and documents from his office to refute the charges made, but he has failed to convince the Department of Justice officials.
Among North Carolinians here his days are considered numbered.

The Post correspondent saw Mr.
Bernard at his hotel this afternoon and endeavored to learn something about his visit here. Mr. Bernard treated him in the curtest manner and only said there was no news in his visit. The fact that he is on the point of official decapitation may have accounted for his churlish action. The Post correspondent was already in possession of the facts herein stated which Bernard did not deem to be the kind of news he wished his home folks to know of.—Special to Raleigh Post.

Turkeys $10.

Some members of the First North Carolina Regiment now in Havana to kee up with the home custom and eat turkey for Christmas, but when they went to market and found the price to be from $6 to $10 for a single gobbler they decided turkey was not good for Christmas dinner.

A RICH TREAT IN STORE.

The Band Will Give a Concert.

We are informed by Manager Burch that there is a treat in store for the Greenville people in the musical concert to be given by the Greenville Cornet Band on next Thursday night, January 5th, at the opera house. The band has been under the tutorship of Prof.
H. G. Frankenfield, of Philadelphia, for a month and the boys have been down to business and now can render some of the finest solos, duets, trios and quartets ever listened to in this section.
The band has arranged a programme that will please you all, and far above anything ever attempted here. It will be inter-persed with specialties of different kinds by Prof. Chas. V. Murphy, who has ten years experience in the vaudeville and minstrel business. A number of Greenville people will assist the band by rendering songs, readings, &c. The band deserves a full house and we predict it will be, for they are laboring under a heavy expense for their teacher and for the instruments. Greenville now has one of the finest bands in the State and on next Thursday night let everybody turn out and show that we are with them and wish them success by giving a large audience.
Reserved seats will be on sale at Wooten's Drug Store Wednesday morning, January 4th at 50 cents, general admission 35 cents, children 15 cents.

NOT ON THE PROGRAM.

But a Feature Much Enjoyed.

Just before the "Singin' Skule" entertainment in the opera house Friday night, came to a close, Mrs.
J. B. Cherry, in behalf of those who had taken part in it, presented Messrs. Bertram and Willard with a basket of beautiful flowers, expressing the appreciation each held for the kindness, courtesy and patience exhibited by these gentlemen while instructing their "skollers." This took the gentlemen by surprise, but the presentation and responses came in so nicely that the audience could not have told but what it was a part of the program.
Messrs. Bertram and Willard have twice visited Greenville for the purpose of giving entertainments, and in every way they proved themselves to be gentlemen of the truest type. Greenville people will be glad to know that they are to return here and give another entertainment early in February.
They will be given a cordial welcome whenever they come.

Don't borrow trouble; lend what you have.

Accept our many thanks for your liberal patronage
during the holidays and we promised to keep up our reputation for goods at
LOW PRICES.

Frank Wilson, The King
Clothier.

Thank you good people for your liberal patronage during the past week.
We will keep at the head of the procession for good goods
and low prices.

We desire a live correspondent at every Postoffice in the county, who will send in brief items of news as it occurs in each neighborhood. Write plainly and only on one side of the paper.

MONDAY, JANUARY 2, 1899.

THE REFLECTOR never entered a new year feeling happier than it did at the beginning of 1899. We are always glad when a year's labors can be closed successfully, and there is gratification in looking back over the record of 1898. In some respects it was a hard year, it was a year of almost unceasing work, it had its trials and its hardships, but these were all overcome and the march has been forward. THE REFLECTOR knows full well that its success is not due alone to its own energy and perseverance, but it is due to the confidence it enjoys with the public and the liberal patronage they give it. Either weekly or daily this paper has been going to the people for seventeen years, and they have an esteem for it that is gratifying. The business men of Greenville have always been liberal supporters of the paper and have shown their faith in it. Our endeavor has always been to merit the favor of our patrons, honesty and integrity being deemed of more value than the making of money. We shall continue this course.

As THE REFLECTOR starts out upon the new year's work its first duty is to return sincere thanks to the patrons who have stood by it. And we wish that 1899 may bring to each and every one a year of great prosperity and happiness.

The South must raise its own supplies, or it will never be independent. If every farmer in North Carolina would raise his own wheat, corn, bacon and beef this year (and there is hardly one in the State who cannot do it) no matter what the price of cotton next fall, our farmers will be independent and happy. They will have enough to eat and can sit back and laugh at the cotton speculators. Four or five cents means ruin to the South, if she produces cotton alone. As long as the planter's smokehouse is in Cincinnati, his stock-yard in Chicago and his flouring mill in Minneapolis, he cannot produce cotton at a profit.—Charlotte News.

Dewey says: "I am now ready to hold this position against the world." There, now, Sampson may just as well not expect to be admiral.

The Spaniards have called us pigs. But just wait until McKinley sends to the Court of St. James the great American Choate.

Southern Farm Magazine.

Published upon the principle that farmers are interested in more subjects than any other class of men, the Southern Farm Magazine in its January issue enters upon a wider range of improvement than ever before. Determined to aid as far as possible the healthy movement toward diversification of crops as a solution of the cotton problem it contains several practical articles notably two by Col. J. B. Killebrew and Mr. M. V. Richards, dealing with the progress already made in the cultivation of fruit, vegetables, grasses and the cereals, and valuable hints for additional achievements. These two writers, by virtue of their life work, are thoroughly equipped with facts, and are in close daily touch with events that are placing the South upon a higher industrial and agricultural plane every year, and their contributions are consequently especially valuable.

Side by side with greater variety of crops Southern manufactures are multiplying and becoming more and more diversified. To help this development capital will be needed. Particularly timely, therefore, is an article by ex-Governor MacCorkle, of West Virginia, in which he sets forth succinctly, clearly and convincingly the benefits accruing to farmers from a wise co-operation with capital in the up-building of industries, small and great, the extension of railroads and the opening of new fields of endeavor.

Other articles discuss markets for hay, the value of good roads, pea canning, diseases among stock, the manufacture of starch from potatoes, corn-raising, experimental farms and other topics appealing to the intelligence of the farmer, while the departmental features are up to their standard of interest. They contain reading for the family circle, bits of Southern humor, selected and original matter for the children, comment upon manifestations in the literary world, with careful estimates of leading new books, suggestive hints about special crops of the South and the record of the movement of a sturdy population to the South from other regions of the country less inviting. Reflecting, as it does, the life of the South, the magazine meets the needs of a constantly-increasing number of thoughtful readers.

The Southern Farm Magazine is published monthly by the Manufacturers' Record Publishing Co., Baltimore, Md. Price $1 a year.

The Newbern Journal says that upon a recount of the vote it is found that Pamlico county is Democratic by majorities ranging from 15 to 40.

The total resources—money, stocks, bonds, real and other properties—of the State, Private and Savings Banks of this State increased the passed year from $9,451,823.40 on October 5th, 1897, to $10,526,900.30 on September 20th, 1898, making $1,075,076.80 increase for the year. We referred yesterday to this gratifying increase in the banking facilities of our State during the past year, without giving the exact figures of such increase. This is one of the best indications of the steady improvement in business conditions and prospects of our people. The old State is gradually but surely looking up.—Raleigh Post.

"Am I the first woman you ever kissed?" she asked after the osculatory process. The war hero knew that it would be useless to reply in the affirmative. "No," he said truthfully; "but you will be the last." And then she realized that she had indeed won him for her own.

If a certain one dollar silver certificate now in the hands of Assistant United States Treasurer Finney, at the Sub-Treasury, could speak it would probably unfold a startling tragedy of some kind, or, perhaps, it would only be able to record the freakish action of some practical joker. On the back of the bill, written in red ink in distinct characters, are these words:

The last one I have.

Take it You took all the rest, and with it my soul. May it scorch your fingers when you touch it; may what you buy with it damn you forever. God's curse go with it to you. You got the last. I hope you are satisfied, murderer.

So far as human ingenuity could do so the bill was traced back from bank to bank until it was finally located at a bank that had received it from the treasurer of a theatre. He had received it from two young ladies who were strangers to him. One of them jokingly remarked as it was exchanged for admission tickets that there "is blood on that note." Those who have had it in their possession since declare that while they carried the bill some kind of bad luck was sure to come to the possessor.—Ex.

Care For Confederate Graves.

Auditor Ayer is in receipt of a letter from the Chief of the Record office, General Marcus A. Wright, requesting the names of the Confederate cemeteries in the State and the number of veterans buried in them.

Auditor Ayer hasn't the information and he desires that those persons who can give the facts desired by the War Record Office, write him at once.

While General Wright did not state his object in requesting the information, it is believed that he is following up President McKinley's utterance at Atlanta, in which he declared that the time had come when the government should care for the graves of the Confederate dead.

The gathering of this information is very likely the beginning of a movement on the part of the administration to carry into effect the President's suggestion.

The Sun says that since Christmas there have been ten failures in New York of concerns which made a specialty of goods intended for the holiday trade, and it is a notable fact that of the ten none of them advertised, while the stores that did advertise were crowded to the last minute and did the greatest business in years.

Our War in Two Hemispheres,

By ALBERT SHAW,

Editor of the "American Monthly Review of Reviews" and author of "Municipal Government in Great Britain," etc., and a number of prominent contributors.

EVERY American teacher possessing a library, and many that do not possess one, will be interested in the announcement of the history of the late war with Spain, now published by the REVIEW OF REVIEWS COMPANY. Much of the narrative was written by Dr. Albert Shaw during the actual fighting of the summer. This has been revised and amplified by him in the light of the official reports and documents, which have only become available after hostilities ceased. A free quotation from the critical Congressional debates and other public utterances at crucial periods aids in making this work what it is, the standard reference history of this decisive and successful struggle. But it is much more than a lively and comprehensive narrative. It goes back to the years of struggle in Cuba which prepared the way for the war; it discusses energetically all problems which confronted the United States after the war as to the Philippines, Cuba, and Porto Rico; and as a whole it forms a broadly conceived picture of the year which has seen America brought face to face with new world duties.

The important special and technical matters of the war period, generally dismissed by the historian with only slight and often insufficient discussion, are fully and authentically dealt with in contributed chapters, written by men who had unusual opportunities for studying their subjects. Thus, the lessons which the war has for us as to the relative efficiency of rifles and machine guns are in a carefully written chapter by Lieut. John H. Parker, of the United States army; the military movements of the Santiago and Porto Rican campaigns are analyzed by the editor of the Army and Navy Journal; the battle with Cervera is described by the novelist, Winston Churchill, who is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy; the actual condition of Cuba before the war and the facts which caused the war are described by eye-witnesses, Murat Halstead and Stephen Bonsal.

The illustration of the book is especially valuable in the hundreds of portraits, pictures of the navies, photographed scenes of the war, and the entertaining cartoons reproduced from the Spanish, French, German, and English papers, as well as from the American.

How to obtain the handsome edition by a payment of only ONE DOLLAR DOWN.

The three beautifully bound large octavo volumes and a year's subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS can be obtained by any of the readers of this paper by joining the Review of Reviews Club and paying one dollar. The volumes will be sent as soon as ready to those who remit the sum, and the purchase will be completed by the payment of one dollar per month for twelve months. The first volume will be ready early in December. The subscription to the magazine which goes with the offer can be dated from any month.

If C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money

A gentleman remarked recently that had a stranger or an outsider come to North Carolina, and made the cures among our people that Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy had made, the people would have stirred as never before. Read this and suppose a case:

Eleven years ago I had a child that was delicate from birth, and for six months she was under constant care of the best physician we had in our town. But his medicine seemed powerless to control the bowel trouble, which had become chronic dysentery. She also suffered from some aggravated blood trouble, which caused large sores and risings to break out on her body. Oft time there would be as many as 20 or 25. We had several doctors to treat her at different times, but nothing reached her case. They would lance these risings, but as soon as one was cured another broke out, and the doctors gave me no hope of her cure. After she had led a life of agony and suffering for six months, I was inspired to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. There was a change for the better in twenty-four hours, it seemed to check the bowels at once, and after using a few bottles my child was entirely cured, and has never since had any sign of trouble and is now in perfect health. A few years after this I had two sores to break out on my ankle, and strange to say I did not think of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. I was under the treatment of doctors for three years, but the sores continued to get worse until they had eaten to the bone. I then thought of trying Mrs. Joe Person's Wash and did so, and it is almost useless to say it soon made a cure.

I wish I could speak so that every man, woman and child, in North Carolina could hear, that I might tell them what Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and Wash did for me and mine. I advised one of my friends who had been a terrible sufferer for a long time, with nurses sore mouth. She used the Remedy and Wash, and it soon made a cure.

I have recommended it to ever so many of my friends, for indigestion and other ailments, and I have never known it to fail to cure yet. There is no medicine equal to it.

WINE OF CARDUI MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $1.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?

Such Weather.

The old year went out calm and quiet enough Saturday night, but the first few hours of the new year gave us some weather to talk about. It rained and it blowed, it hailed and it snowed, and the thermometer tumbled down like the bottom had fallen out.

Advertising a Study.

Many business men give too little attention to the preparation of the advertisement. Men who are particular to employ the best salesmen to represent them will get up most commonplace advertisements and place them in papers that either do not reach their trade or have no prestige. An advertisement, to a certain extent, answers the same purpose as a salesman. It should be attractive and forcible, just as a salesman should be able to gain the attention of a customer. It is a waste of money to pay high rates for advertising and then not prepare the ads that will be most effective. It is like paying high prices for material and then not putting it properly together or buying a stock of goods and then not trying to dispose of them.—St. Louis (Mo.) Farm Machinery.
