THE LEGISLATURE.

What The Law Makers Are Doing.

At Monday's session the following of general interest was introduced:

HOUSE.

Act to amend section 1,788 of the Code in regard to the selection of jurors by county commissioners, by striking out the words "each year" in lines two and three and inserting the words "in 1900 and every two years thereafter."

Act to amend sections 739, 747 and 3,756 of the Code, providing for the payment of witnesses.

Act to amend section 148 of the Code, removing the disabilities of married women. That act reads:

Section 1. A married woman may contract to the same extent, with like effect and in the same form as if unmarried, and she and her separate estate shall be liable thereon, whether such contract relates to her separate business or estate or otherwise, and in no case shall a charge upon her separate estate be necessary.

Sec. 2.—Provided that this act shall not apply to any contract between husband and wife.

Sec. 3. This act shall be in force from and after its ratification.

Act to amend charter 38 of the Code, providing for appointment of the Board of Internal Improvements by the General Assembly.

Act providing a short form of chattel mortgage to secure an existing debt and a lien to secure advances to be made and to prescribe the fees thereon.

Act to protect lives and provide against incompetent service.

Act to establish the Vance Textile School at Charlotte.

Act to promote the comfort of passengers on railroad trains by providing separate accommodations for white and colored passengers.

Act to prescribe a course of study for the public schools of the State and provide the books to be used.

SENATE.

Petition asking that the State refund certain moneys to North Carolina College at Mt. Pleasant.

To repeal chapter 203 Public Laws 1897, to regulate the distribution of dead bodies for the benefit of medical science.

To appoint a joint committee on superior and criminal court districts.

To appoint a committee to investigate the reasonableness of railroad, express and telegraph rates.

To provide for the election of railroad commissioners by the people.

A resolution with reference to the peace treaty now pending before the United States Senate.

Stop the Nuisance.

Since the passenger train has been moved within the corporate limits we understand that the Town Council will be asked to make a law that will prohibit the gang of loafers crowding around every time a train comes in. This is right. And there should be an enclosure about the depot through which no one is allowed to pass except on business.

"Strife" is being rehearsed nightly and the public may expect something good.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Work of the January Term.

The following cases have been disposed of since last report:

Henry J. Mills, J. R. Mills and B. J. Mills, affray, Henry J. Mills guilty, judgment suspended upon payment of costs, others not guilty.

Tom Edwards and Jack Daniel, affray, plead guilty, judgment suspended on payment of costs.

Rick James, carrying concealed weapon, pleads guilty, judgment suspended upon payment of costs.

Joe Cox and Hoyt Cannon, larceny, plead guilty, judgement suspended on payment of costs.

J. W. Brewer and R. W. Faithful, affray, plead guilty, judgment suspended upon payment of costs.

Henry R. Mills, assault with deadly weapon, guilty, fined $15 and costs.

Democrats to Take Charge.

It was decided in the joint caucus of Democratic members of the Senate and House of Representatives last night to take possession of the penitentiary, Agricultural Department and other institutions, which are in control of the fusionists.

It was further decided to have a thorough investigation of all these institutions.

A resolution was also adopted committing the caucus to the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people. The resolution was introduced by Senator Cocks and passed without objection. It is in substance as follows:

That it is the sense of the General Assembly of North Carolina that the Senators of the United States be elected by the people.

That we request our Senators in both branches of the United States Congress to use their endeavors to have submitted to the Legislatures of the different States, amendments to the Federal Constitution looking to this end.

That the Clerk of the Senate be directed to furnish each member of Congress with a copy of the resolution.

The question of taking charge of the penitentiary precipitated an interesting and animated discussion. The caucus was almost equally divided on this policy. There was a more conservative element among the members, who advocated a delay in action and who desired the appointment of a special committee to look into the advisability of taking charge of the institutions, pending an investigation. It developed that Capt. Day had a number of warm friends in the caucus.

The resolution to take charge of the penitentiary was discussed very fully. As to the matter of immediate policy the resolution prevailed by a vote of 50 to 47.—Raleigh Post, 10th.

WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Jan 11 '99. A. G. Cox offers the highest market price for cotton seed.

Mr. John Harper is the proud father of a baby girl this morning.

A car load of salt just received by B. F. Manning & Co., which they offer at lowest price. They also have a fine stock of oats.

Mr. Dick Parker, who has been working here for several weeks, has moved his mother up here, and they are keeping house.

The boys say they are making some fine wire fence now. Well the longer a man works a trade the more he ought to learn about it.

Mr. L. N. Edwards, who has been clerking for B. F. Manning & Co., for several weeks, moved in town Monday. We are glad to have Mr. "Nash" in town, and besides it is much more convenient for him.

A car load of dressed lumber for the new depot has just arrived. It is to be hoped that the railroad company will put a force to work on it at once, in order that we may have better accommodations.

Snow or no Snow,

The A. G. Cox Manufacturing Co. Have Wagons and Carts

In a great long row,

In front of their do'.

But the row is getting shorter every day. Yesterday 4 carts were sent to an order in Scotland Neck.

Mr. E. G. Cox left yesterday evening on another trip in the interest of the Winterville Cigar Co. He says his greatest trouble is that they cannot make the goods as fast as he can sell them. The company will have to increase its force of cigar makers in order to supply the demand.

Pitt's Representatives.

In the list of committees appointed for the House of Representatives we find the members from Pitt county on the following:

Representative W. J. Nichols is on the committees for Counties, Cities and Towns; Education; and Oysters.

Representative T. H. Barnhill is on the committees for Institution for the Deaf and Dumb; Agriculture; and Penal Institutions.

NOTICE.

Application will be made to the present General Assembly of North Carolina for an amendment to the stock law fence around the town of Greenville, N. C., requiring the County Commissioners to extend said fence from its eastern terminus on Tar river up the bank of said river to the town line. Greenville, N. C., Jan 9, 1899.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 11, 1899

In all the suggestions so far offered to the present Legislature, we do not recall seeing one that the homestead law be repealed. If there is any one law on the statute books that has served its day and long since been diverted to a harbinger for fraud, it is this same homestead law. It would be a good act to repeal it.

Craven county has a colored representative, in the person of Isaac Smith, in the Legislature. In the election of Speaker of the House Smith voted for Judge Connor, and said that he preferred decent government. At a subsequent caucus of the Republican members of the Legislature Smith's action was discussed and a resolution was adopted expelling him from the caucus. On the floor of the House Monday Smith arose to a question of personal privilege and genteelly roasted the Republicans for their action against him in the caucus.

Several of our exchanges opened the New Year with "Now is the time to turn over a new leaf."

The new leaf business has long been discounted, for many of them proved blank pages, with nothing thereon to guide or to govern. This looking forward to a new leaf period has proven a pitfall to many a man. It is the road paved with good intentions which is said to lead to a very, very bad place. If to-day's page be bright and clean and punctuated with good thoughts and deeds commensurate with such thoughts, no date in the future will have to be fixed for a new departure. To-day's deeds are strongly indicative of what Tomorrow's will be. The Living Present is therefore the time of all times for good resolutions, above all, good actions. —Raleigh Post.

With all due respect to the learned gentlemen who are discussing the question, "Have Angels Wings?" in the Charlotte Observer we are inclined to the opinion, while it has gone into the realm of the invisible, and the unknowable in this life, it seems to be taking on a taint of sacrilege. After columns and columns of arguments, opinions and much discussion, what is to be accomplished? Will any one know any more about it than he does now? And may it not have a tendency to weaken the faith of some weak believer, who is just opening his eyes to spiritual things? Brethren, let us, as laymen, approach the Shekinah with reverence, fear and trembling. —Durham Sun.

A Board of Pardons.

One subject to which the Legislature might well address itself is that of the establishment of a board of pardons. The subject is brought to mind at this time by noticing that the Richmond Times is advocating the creation of such a board in Virginia. "It is too great a responsibility," it says, "too great a tax to put upon any one man the burden of exercising the pardoning function: With the large number of convicts in the penitentiary there is hardly a day during his term that the Governor has not one or more applications for pardon under consideration, and sometimes the question of human life is involved. He ought to have help, he ought to have counsellors, he ought to have others with whom to divide the responsibility. This, not merely as a matter of Justice to the Governor, but to the State and to the convicts. One man may sometimes be imposed upon, and again one may sometimes fail to see the merits of a case under consideration."

This is a good argument, applicable to any State, and if it has force in Virginia, the Governor of which is perhaps an average of Governors, with how much greater force does it apply in North Carolina, the present Governor of which, even if his intentions were good, is without judgment or discretion. But no matter how wise and good a man a Governor may be, this is too tremendous a responsibility to lodge in the hands of any one individual—and it is often the responsibility of life and death. The Legislature of North Carolina might well constitute the Governor and the council of State a board of pardons. It is true that under the present administration the council of State would not contribute much to the wisdom or the good purpose brought to the consideration of applications for clemency, but this legislation would not be for the present administration alone but for the future. The reason the council of State is suggested is that this additional duty could be put upon its members without extra compensation. Their present duties are not so exacting that they could not take on this extra labor without cost to the State.—Statesville Landmark.

Newspaper Laws.

The courts have decided that the following are the laws that apply to newspapers:

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.
2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodical, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the postoffice to which they are directed, they are responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.
4. If subscribers move to other places, without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former address, they are responsible.
5. The courts have decided that taking the periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of fraud.
6. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice with payment of all arrearages is sent to the publisher.

The latest postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can arrest one for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under this law the man who allows his subscription to run along for some time unpaid, and then orders it discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused" and have a postal card sent notifying the publisher, leaves himself liable to arrest and fine, the same as for theft.—Tarboro Southerner.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA.

TO GAIN FLESH, TO SLEEP WELL, TO KNOW WHAT APPETITE AND GOOD DIGESTION MEAN.

Make a Test of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines. The real seat of the mischief is lost sight of. The stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every organ. In some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite with accumulations of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headache.

Send for valuable little book on stomach diseases by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. All druggists sell full-sized packages at 50 cents. Prof. Henry W. Becker, A. M. the wellknown religious worker and writer of St. Louis.

Secretary of the Mission Board of the German Methodist Church, Chief Clerk and Expert Accountant for the Harbor and Wharf Commission. Public Secretary for the St. Louis School Patrons' Association, and the District Conference of Stewards of the M. E. Church; also takes an active part in the work of the Epworth League, and to write on religious and educational topics for several magazines. How he found relief is best told in his own words:

"Some weeks ago my brother heard me say something about indigestion, and taking a box from his pocket said "Try Stuart's Tablets." I did, and was promptly relieved. Then I investigated the nature of the tablets and became satisfied that they were made of just the right things and in just the right proportions to aid in the assimilation of food. I heartily endorse them in all respects, and I keep them constantly on hand."

The Mad Poet's Retort.

Many stories are told of McDonald Clarke known 50 years ago in New York as the "Mad Poet," which show that he had a vein of great shrewdness, such as is often possessed by people who are counted insane. One day he was seated at a table in a New York hotel quietly eating his simple dinner when two young men took their seats at the same table. They were gentlemen in the best sense of the word, and it occurred to them that they might have some sport with the poor poet. Consequently one of them said in an unnecessarily clear tone:

"I have seen almost everything and everybody in New York except McDonald Clarke." I have a great admiration for his poems, and I would give a great deal to see the man."

When he paused, the mad poet leaned forward and said with evident gratification:

"Sir, I am McDonald Clarke, whom you say you wish to see."

The young man stared at him with much rudeness for a moment, and then, drawing a quarter from his pocket, he laid it on the poet's plate, saying, "That's for the sight!"

Clarke looked at the coin for an instant, and then, placing it in his pocket, he took out a "York shilling," 12½ cents. This he handed to the young man, saying gravely, "Children half price."—Youth's Companion.

A Decidedly Novel Claim.

A claim once made on the explorer, Cameron, in the neighborhood of Gaboon, Africa, shows the peculiar workings of the native African's mind. Some of Cameron's possessions proved unduly attractive to a native, and he determined on transferring the ownership to himself. He accordingly paid another native $200 to procure for him the coveted goods.

The assistant took the money and did his best to earn it, but Mr. Cameron had perversely locked up the very articles that the fellow's employer had set his heart upon. The man could not carry out his bargain, and neither did he feel that he could part with the money. Therefore he ran off with it. What more logical than that the man who was the loser by $200 should expect the explorer to make the loss good? This he assuredly did expect.

He went to Mr. Cameron and told him the story, demanding in the first place the $200 which he, Cameron, by locking up his goods, had compelled the complainant to lose, and, secondly, the actual price of the goods themselves, which, but for these arbitrary measures, would now have been in his possession. It is not stated that his expectations were realized.—Watchman.

Sterne's Destitution.

Laurence Sterne, the writer, was the victim of the intensest poverty. A little time before his death, being in a state of destitution, he went one evening to borrow £5 from his friend Garrick. Upon arriving, he heard music and knew that a party was going on. He heard the merry laughter, and, gently replacing the uplifted knocker, retraced his steps.

We never feel our miseries so keenly as when contrasted with the joys of others, and it is only then that we realize Wordsworth's picture:

And homeless near a thousand homes I stood
 And near a thousand tables pined for food.

Another story of this writer does not evoke so much sympathy. It was known that Sterne used his wife very ill, and in talking with Garrick one day in fine sentimental style of conjugal love and fidelity he said, "The husband who behaves unkindly to his wife deserves to have his house burn down over his head."

"If you think so," said Garrick quietly, "I hope yours is well insured."

A Malay Sultan's Letter.

In the cover there were three inclosures—a formal letter of extreme politeness, written by a scribe; secondly, a letter written in my friend's own hand; and thirdly, another paper, headed, "Hidden Secrets," written also in the sultan's own hand. At the top of the first page of the second letter is written, "Our friendship is sealed in the inmost recesses of my heart." Then this, "I send this letter to my honored and renowned friend" (here follow my name, designation and some conventional compliments). The letter then continues: "You, my dear friend, are never out of my thoughts, and they are always wishing you well. I hear that you are coming to see me, and for that reason my heart is exceedingly glad, as though the moon had fallen into my lap or I had been given a cluster of flowers grown in the garden called Benjerana Sri, wide opening under the influence of the sun's warm rays."—"Unaddressed Letters," by Swettenham.

A Newcastle (England) man wrote this to the editor on a postal card: "What be, Mr. Editor, what price this? If the mouth is the window of the intellect, toothache must be a sort of window pain."

WINE OF CARDUI MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $1.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. ROZENA LEWIS, of Oenaville, Texas, says: "I was troubled at monthly intervals with terrible pains in my head and back, but have been entirely relieved by Wine of Cardui."

OXFORD, N. C., Dec. 20th 1898. To All Whom It May Concern:

I take pleasure in recommending Dr. J. Henry Odom to all who may need work in his line. He has been with us some weeks and has done a large business here, perfectly satisfactory in every instance.

We have found him a most pleasant, affable gentleman. His treatment of my own case has given perfect satisfaction where others failed.

MRS. C. M. WILDER, Propr. Irwin Hotel.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan 10th, 1899.

I wish to say to the Press and to every individual that knows me, that I have personally known Dr. J. Henry Odom for 20 years. He is a gentleman and master of his profession and you can rely on what he tells you. If you need his services you need not hesitate to call on him, and you can recommend him to your friends.

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. N. M. Watson, the services in the Methodist church tonight will be conducted by Rev. A. W. Setzer.

Greenville Should Have One.

The Greensboro Furniture Manufacturing Company has declared a ten percent dividend after passing over a good sum to swell its surplus. This is a good argument that there is money in manufacturing furniture. THE REFLECTOR believes a factory of this kind in Greenville would pay well.

Greek Andrews Attempts Suicide.

Washington, Jan. 9.—A well dressed young man of athletic build registered Saturday night at the Dunbarton Hotel as G. L. Adams, Baltimore. He did not leave his room yesterday, and in response to inquiries said he was not ill and wanted nothing. A similar reply was given this morning. This afternoon a strong smell of gas being traced to his room, the door was forced and the man was found unconscious on the bed. Cracks around the door and keyhole were stuffed with paper and gas was flowing from two open burners. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital, and after several hours of hard work was restored to consciousness. On being questioned he admitted that he was Greek O. Andrews, of North Carolina. At midnight his condition was still critical, but it was thought he would recover.

Clothes Choosing

isn't such a hard matter, for the eye tells the nobbiness, pattern and fit. But clothes buying is somewhat harder, because you must use good sound judgment as to values and some of the value getting doesn't show until after usage. Don't know of a place in the city where you're less liable to go amiss than in our store, the cloths are our weaves, and clothes our make, and we ask only a small profit above our mill cost. Men's, Young Men's and Boys' CLOTHES under the best conditions.
