THE LOUISBURG DISPEN-SARY.

tion in Louisburg for something the time. like eighteen months. I shave watched it carefully and closely of the Louisburg Baptist Church. during that time. The Christian element of Louisburg do not endorse the dispensary system because they think it the best system ever operated we endorse it because it is the best system that can be operated successfully at the present in curtailing the whiskey traffic in Louisburg. Many of us think that prohibition is far better than the dispensary. In fact we know it is. But it is a well known fact that probibition will not prohibit until public sentiment is strong enough to enforce the law. Public sentiment is not yet strong enough in this town to enforce the law and manage the blind tiger. Consequently we gladly take the dispensary in preference to the abominable saloon. We believe it is a gigantic step toward the final abolishing of the sale of whiskey in this town.

After a trial of some eighteen months, public sentiment, among the law-abiding, God-fearing element of our citizens is strongly in favor of the dispensary in preference to the saloon. This is true too almost without exception. Greenville whereby a white major- textile school for the education of . There may be one or two who have property to rent to the saloonists and one or two whiskey heads who favor abolishing the dispensary. of correct government that the A very shocking incident occur-But it can be truthfully said that town favors the dispensary. Publie sentiment has steadily grown against the saloon and in favor of the dispensary since the dispensary went into operation.

The sentiment is stronger today in its favor than it has ever been. Even all our better negro element believe the dispensary preferable to the open salson.

Trade has been flush in almost every department of business within the last twelve months. We have had here in Louisburg this present season something like a third more tobacco than was ever sold on this market in any one season during the reign of the saloon. We do not claim that the abolishing of the saloon has increased our tobacco market. We give this fact to place along the side of the statement of the saloonist when he says it kills the business of a town to abolish the saloon. This is not all either. There have been more public buildings, better buildings, more costly buildings, more buildings representing various business interests erected here in the past twelve months than at any other similar length of time in the history of the town, and do not forget the fact that this was done ton. in a town here in good old North Carolina, in a town from which the saloon has been abolished.

Tell the croakers, the opponents of good society and good government, and the whiskey men that this town has really lived and prospered without the saloon. It is no Utopian dream either. It is an indisputable and incontrovertable fact. I emphasize this thought to show that a town can get on without the saloon and that one has gotten on better without the saloon than it ever did with it. Yes, from every standpoint we have gotten on better under the dispensary system than we ever did under "the reign of the bloody days of the saloon." Of the two give me The dispensary has been in opera- the dispensary first, last and all Very truly,

Bad Roads and Dull Times.

Every city or town which is sit nated in an agricultural section finds the trade of its retail merchants very largely influenced and governed according to the weather.

A period of bad weather, such as rain or snow, finds little produce coming to town, and few country buyers in the stores.

A period of clear weather finds plenty of produce and numerous country buyers in the city.

Why should the weather be thus so effective as a trade producer or trade destroyer, can be easily answered.

It is simply because rainy, weath er makes traveling over country roads as they now are, very bad during a rainy season, and the more protracted this season of bad weather, the harder the travel, and the consequent falling off in the movement of country products to market.

It thus follows that bad country roads means dull times and poor business for the city or town which is thus situated.

conditions, and must the farmer and periods of bad roads and dull times or is it possible that the periods to bring them, individually and when the farmer cannot travel over very short duration?

The remedy is the proper building of the public roadway, and its careful maintenance afterwards.

No matter how unseasonable the weather may be, roadways may be constructed which cannot become impassable even after a long period of rainy weather.

In this climate and section of North Carolina, there is no good reason for dull times consequent upon bad roads, unless the people permit the roads to remain without being improved, and if they do this, the farmer must expect less for his products, and the merchant must have his dull days and weeks, when business 'drags and there is nothing to do but wait for clearing skies .- Newbern Journal.

Figures From The Report of The Auditor.

The annual report of the Auditor fthe State for the fiscal year ended November 30, 1898, is to hand. It is an interesting volume and a day's study could be profitably given it. Some mention of it was made in these columns when its advance sheets appeared, but it will do no harm to thresh over a part of the straw. It shows that the receipts of the public fund for the fiscal year ended November 30, 1898, were $1,334,082.24; an increase of $41,534.57 over the year ed. S97, and an increase of $74,623.84

The following timely thoughts are taken from the editorial columns of the Greensboro Telegram, and it vou will substitute Greenville where the name of Greensboro appears, they will apply with equal force to this town: How many blacksmith shops, coachmakers, wheelrights, tinners, painters, plasterers, etc., are there in Greensboro, and who are they? The newspaper columns are watched for their ads and they are not found. The editor is asked, often, about these departments and is at a loss to give information. And where are the upholsterers, mattress makers, etc? They are frequently asked about. Where are the brokers and real estate agents? They advertise very little. All of these have an important part to perform in building in the local papers go far towards showing to the world that the town Is there any remedy for these is on the move. CATARRH OF STOMACH.

A PLEASANT, SIMPLE, BUT SAFE AND EFFECTUAL CURE FOR IT.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing; headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed

The cure of this common and obstinate trouble is found in a tréatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. The Larynx.

The larynx has been compared to a wind, a reed and a stringed instrument. The comparison of it to a violin gave me and mine. I advised one of my rise to the not very accurate phrase "vocal cords," as the name of the two cushions which are its most prominent sufferer for a long time, with nurses "vocal cords" could produce a musical the city, and their advertisements bass note. In fact, the comparison of the laryux to any instrument which cure. produces only musical tones is inadequate, to begin with. There is no instrument but the larynx which produces both song and speech, and as those comparisons view the larynx merely as a producer of musical sounds we have no further concern with them at present. Besides, the voice can be trained for speech, elecution and oratory without a knowledge of the physiology of the larynx.

We have the power of adjusting the larynx; of varying the tension of its cords, cushions or ligaments, as they have been variously called. We can do these things without scientific technical knowledge of how they are done, without any knowledge at all of vocal physiology, and it is the work of the trainer of the voice to teach his pupils -or her pupils we may be allowed to say-how to do them. - Chambers'

Sydney Smith's Prescription.

The late Henry Reeve, C. B., D. C. L., for many years leader writer of the London Times and until his death editor of the Edinburgh Review, has narrated much amusing gossip of the celebrities of his acquaintance in his "Memoirs and Correspondence." book contains one great rarity—a new story of Sydney Smith. Mr. Reeve was dining one night at a house where the other distinguished guests included Macaulay and Sydney Smith. Macaulay was at that time laying society waste with his waterspouts of talk. People in his company were always bursting for want of an opportunity of dropping a word, and this was not an exceptional occasion.

At length, dinner being over, Sydney Smith, Reeve and a few others went away by themselves, and immediately got on the overpowering subject of Macaulay.

"He confounds soliloguy and colloquy," said Reeve.

"He is a book in breeches," Smith declared.

"The very worst feature in Macaulay's character is his appalling memory," said Reeve.

"Aye, indeed," said Sydney Smith. 'Why, he could repeat the whole 'History of the Virtuous Bluecoat Boy,' in three volumes, post 8vo, without a

But his medicine seemed powerless to control the bowel trouble, which had be come chronic dysentery. She also sufferd from some aggravated blood trouble, which caused large sores and risings to break out on her pody. Oft time there would be as many as 20 or 25. We had several doctors to treat her at different times, but nothing reached her case. They would lance these risings, but as soon as one was cured another broke out, and the doctors gave me no hope of her cure. Af. ter she had led a life of agony and suffering for six months, I was inspired to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. There was a change for the better in twenty-four hours, it seemed to check the bowels at once, and after using a few bottles my child was entirely cured, and has never since had any sign of trouble and is now in perfect health. A few years after this I had two sores to break out on my ankle, and strange to say I did not think of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. I was under the treatment of doctors for three years, but the sores continued to get worse until they had eaten to the bone. I then thought of trying Mrs. Joe Person's Wash and did so, and it is almost useless to say it soon made a cure.

I wish I could speak so that every man, woman and child, in North Carolina could hear, that I might tell them what Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and Wash did for friends who had been a terrible sore mouth. She used the Remedy and Wash, and it soon made a

Our War in Two Hemispheres, By ALBERT SHAW,

Editor of the "American Monthly Review of Reviews" and author of "Municipal Government in Great Britain," etc., and a number of prominent contributors.

WERY American teacher possessing a library, and many that do not possess one, will be interested in the announcement of the history of the late war with Spain, now published by the REVIEW OF KEVIEWS COMPANY. Much of the narrative was written by Dr. Albert Shaw during the actual fighting of the summer. This has been revised and amplified by hire in the light of the official reports and documents, which have only become available after hostilities ceased. A free quotation from the critical Congressional debates and other public utterances at crucial periods aids in making this work what it is, the standard reference history of this decisive and successful struggle. But it is much more than a lively and comprehensive narrative. It goes back to the years of struggle in Cuba which prepared the way for the war; it discusses energetically all problems which confronted the United States after the war as it of the Philippines, Cuba, and Porto Rico; and as a whole it forms a broadly conceived picture of the year which has seen America brought face to face with new world duties.

The important special and technical matters of the war period, generally dismissed by the historian with only slight and often insufficient discussion, are fully and authentically dealt with in contributed chapters, written by men who had unusual opportunities for studying their subjects. Thus, the lessons which the war has for us as to the relative efficiency of rifies and machine guns are in a carefully written chapter by Lieut, John H. Parker, of the United States army: the military movements of the Santiago and Porto Rican campaigns are analyzed by the editor, of the Army and Navy Journal; the battle with Cervera is described by the novelist, Winston Churchill, who is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy; the actual condition of Cuba before the war and the facts which caused the war are described by eye-witnesses, Murat Halstead and Stephen Bonsal.

The illustration of the book is especially valuable in the hundreds of portraits, pic of Cuba before the war and the facts which caused the building Murat Halstead and Stephen Bonsal.

The illustration of the book is especially valuable in the hundreds of portraits, pictures of the navies, photographed scenes of the war, and the entertaining cartoons reproduced from the Spanish, French, German, and English papers, as well as from the American.

How to obtain the handsome edition by a payment of only ONE DOLLAR DOWN.

The three beautifully bound large octavo volumes and a year's subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS can be obtained by any of the readers of this paper by joining the Review of Reviews Club and paying one dollar. The volumes will be sent as soon as ready to those who remit the sum, and the purchase will be completed by the payment of one dollar per cloud for twolve months. Cheap Living.

Government experts say that a man can be well fed for 35 cents a day. This, however, means feeding men in mass. There is a man in Philadelphia. however, who laughs at this lavish expenditure, inasmuch as his bill of fare for the entire week only costs that amount. Twenty years ago he made up his mind that Americans ate too much. His staple meal is in the middle of the day, and it always consists of soupgood, rich soup-and a baked potato. Some days instead of the baked potato he has what southerners call cowpeas, which are extremely cheap and whole some. They cost 5 cents a pound and swell very much in cooking. He cooks them with a bit of salt pork. Rice is also one of his staple foods and occasionally a little milk. He buys two loaves of stale bread a week, which cost 21/2 cents a loaf. These are always Cabbage is another article of diet, cheap and of great value. He has an arrangement with his grocer by which he buys the scraps of cheese left over from the large cuttings at 2 cents for a day's scraps. Le is in sound health and has not had indigestion for 20 years.-New York World.

Linked Eyebrows.

It is popularly believed that if one's evebrows meet it indicates deceit. Charles Kingsley indorses this belief, but Tennyson has other ideas and poetically speaks of "married brows."

In Turkey meeting eyebrows are greatly admired, and the women use artificial means to bring the brows to this condition, and if art cannot induce thin eyebrows to grow they make up by drawing a black line with paste.

It would appear that the Greeks admired brows which almost met; and the fashionable inhabitants of Rome not only approved of them, but resorted to pigments to make up the lack which sometimes existed.

Some proverbs state that the person whose eyebrows meet will always have good luck, while others state exactly the reverse. The Chinese say that "people whose eyebrows meet can never hope to attain to the dignity of a minister of state." and in Greece of today the man whose brows meet is said to be a vampire, while in Denmark and Germany it is said he is a werewolf.

The English of 1453.

The English population consisted of churchmen, nobles and craftsmen, as well as common people. It was a novel and significant division. Traders and manufacturers took their places somewhat noisily beside their fellow politicians of older standing, filling the whole land till it seems for a moment as if nothing counted any more in English life save its middle class-a busy, hard, prosperous, pugnacious middle class, slowly emerging from its early obscurity. In this century it had arrived at power definitely, ostentatiously, carrying a proud look and a high stomach, intent on its own affairs, heedless of the court, regardless of ministers save when it had to bribe them, irreverent to the noble, the "proud penniless with his painted sleeve," tolerant of ecclesiastics only so long as they could be kept rigidly within their allotted religious functions. - Denton's "England in the Fifteenth Century."

His Last Question.

The counsel for the opposition had been bullying the witness for an hour or more, when he finally asked: "Is it true that there are traces of instality in your family?"

"it would be folly to deny it," replical the witness. "My great-grandfather who was studying for the ministry ave it up to become a lawyer."-

A Remarkable Vane.

On the roof of a brewery at Maidstone. Kent, is to be seen one of the most remarkable vanes in England. It represents an old brown jug and glass. The jug, which is made of copper, stands 3 feet 6 inches in height and is 3 feet in diameter and capable of holding 108 gallons.

Wanamaker's Profits

A business man of Philadelphia told me the other day that Mr. Wanamaker's profits from his Philadelphia store last year were over $1,750,000 and that those from his New York establishment, Saturday before Christmas the re ceipts in New York were even greater than those in Philadelphia and exceeded $500,000. The New York store has paid a profit from the very day it was opened, although two firms which occupied the establishment since A. T. Stewart's death have failed. The reason of Mr. Wanamaker's great success, both in New York and Philadelphia, is his skillful and extensive advertising. It has been his rule to confine his advertising R. A. Tyson, Vice-President. to newspapers and magazines, on which he has spent annually more than $300,000 in Philadelphia. The advertising bills of his New York establishment exceeded even telegram to the Chicago Record.
