HANDSOME OFFICES.

Dr. Moye in His New Quarters.

The new office building of Dr. E. A. Moye is finished and we dropped in this morning to see how things looked and we were very forcibly struck with the arrangements of every department. It consists of three rooms. The first is his reception room, handsomely furnished with all the necessary paraphernalia. The second room is for consultation or operating. This too is furnished with all needed fixtures and appliances. The third is the drug room and it certainly makes a pretty appearance as well as being supplied with everything required in filling his prescriptions. The office is very conveniently arranged, is centrally located and the workmanship on it has been brought out with good effect. Dr. Moye can well feel a just pride in his convenient and handsome apartments, and his friends congratulate him not only on this but also on the large and constantly growing practice which he enjoys.

One of Daniel's Heroes.

That Napoleonic hero negro, Lieutenant "Sink" Holmes, late of Retribution Russell's Rantankorous Rangers, was in Raleigh Friday, and is probably there now. He is certainly not in Wilmington. He made haste, of course, to call on his ex-hell-ency, to whom he is indebted for the distinguished military title he bore, to say nothing of pay and perquisites. The rumor that "Sink" went to Raleigh to get "de Gubner" to accompany him to Wilmington as a body-guard is not generally credited here.—Wilmington Star.

She Fell in Love at the Altar.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 19.—The marriage of Charles A. Dwyer, the horseman, to Miss Mary Webber on her arrival here yesterday was quite romantic. Dwyer met Miss Webber at a wedding party in San Francisco, where she was the bride-to-be. It was a case of love at first sight. Miss Webber at the altar declined to proceed with the wedding. Dwyer left for the East a week ago. When he reached Ogden he telegraphed his fiancée that he had left a ticket for her at the Union Pacific office, and asked her to join him here.

Fighting at Manila.

Manila, Monday, Feb. 20, 10 a. m.—This morning the insurgents, encouraged by the withdrawal of the California and Idaho troops after the skirmish at Guadalupe, followed the Americans at a safe distance and kept up a desultory and annoying fight. During last night several shots penetrated General King's headquarters. An unusual number of the enemy were seen to the northward and is cause for a suspicion that they are planning to attack MacArthur's division.

All Volunteers Ordered Mustered Out.

Washington, Feb. 20th.—An order was issued today mustering out all volunteer regiments remaining in the United States. They are located in southern camps.

Odd Things That Happen.

The meanest thief on record has turned up—or rather hasn't turned up—in Battle Creek, Mich. He broke into the house of a colored man who had died during the day and stole the suit of clothes he was to be buried in.

The weather was so cold in Kansas last week that a prisoner who broke out of jail over night came back to keep from freezing.

Mrs. Lottie Bunker, a Chicago wheel lady, has a record of 19,000 miles for last year and 45,000 miles for the past three years. She became Mrs. Bunker before she took to wheeling.

A Ballville, O., schoolteacher has been asked to resign because he punished the scholars by making them hold their noses in a small ring which he had drawn on the blackboard.

An interesting young man of Lima, O., last week shot his sweet heart, his rival and himself in the order named. His act would have been more commendable if he had begun at the other end of the list of fatalities.

A Perpetual School.

The dailies, weeklies and monthlies of our country wield a wider influence than the pulpit, and perhaps even than the schools; for the press is a school we all attend every day in the week from the time we learn to read to the end of our lives.—Outlook.

Exchange Pulpits.

Rev. A. W. Setzer, pastor of the Baptist church, will exchange pulpits next Sunday with Rev. J. N. Booth, of Washington, the former preaching that day in Washington and the latter in Greenville.

Tenth Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Tyson entertained a few friends at their home, Monday evening, in celebration of the tenth anniversary of their marriage.

Do About.

The Chamber of Commerce ought to thaw out and get to doing something. Don't let another year go by without getting some manufacturing enterprise for Greenville.

"I can sell goods without advertising," say one class of business men—so-called. So they can get from Washington to Baltimore by riding a horse or going afoot; but the man who takes the cars can get there a great deal quicker and much more easily. Advertising is to any kind of business exactly what the railway is in transportation.—Agricultural Advertising, Chicago, Ill.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina.

Fayetteville is having a new census taken.

Judge Norwood saved himself from being impeached by sending in his resignation.

Raleigh held a mass meeting Sunday afternoon to take steps for a dispensary in that city.

The bill to pass a dispensary for Charlotte and Mecklenburg county passed the House unanimously.

Lester Heavner went rabbit hunting Tuesday and found a covey of quail. He fired both barrels of his gun at the covey and killed every bird in it—10 in all.—Lincolnton Journal.

Mr. Rob Reitzel, from near the Long old mill says that he sold in nine months, lacking two days, 481 pounds of butter and furnished a family of six in all they used, from one cow. We know the cow to be of good milking and butter stock. Such are worth fooling with.—Liberty Register.

They Judge The Papers.

It does not take an experienced advertiser many minutes to form an opinion regarding the value of a newspaper as an advertising medium, and this opinion is very seldom far astray. His methods are simple but effective. He secures a copy of the paper and notes its general appearance, together with the quantity and quality of its news. These characteristics indicate to him whether or not it is the sort of journal that he would care to read himself if he resided in its locality. Next, if he is satisfied on this point, he glances at its advertising columns, which tell him accurately how it is regarded by the local advertisers, and then observes its age, after which he is either ready to send for advertising rates or to discard the paper altogether as a worthless proposition. If a daily paper has intrinsic merit combined with age, the advertiser is likely to conclude that it has a good circulation, for without this it could scarcely be sustained.—Profitable Advertising.

A recent newspaper paragraph comments upon the female commercial traveler as a latter day social phenomenon. It seems that she is becoming more and more numerous, and that she is an ambassador not only for the makers of toilet articles, perfumeries, and feminine adornments, but for hardware houses, shoe manufacturers, and wholesale grocers. Women are also advancing in the journalistic field.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1899.

The Legislature has deferred action on the "Jim Crow Car" law until the people all over the State have become impatient. There is no excuse for the indifference this law has met with in the General Assembly. The white people of the State are practically a unit favoring separate cars for the two races. Our Legislators are inexcusable for their indifference to this measure. The white people all over the State are asking for such a law, and the members of the present General Assembly were sent to Raleigh as the representatives of the white people of the State. Come, gentlemen of the General Assembly, give us a "Jim Crow Car" law before you adjourn.

Representative Barnhill, of Pitt county, was one of the very few Democrats in the Legislature who voted against the suffrage amendment to the Constitution. By way of explaining his vote Mr. Barnhill said he was asked the question during the campaign and made the promise not to vote to disfranchise anybody. Mr. Barnhill ought to have considered that to vote for this matter in the Legislature was not disfranchising anybody but was simply giving the people an opportunity of voting on the amendment and deciding it for themselves. When a man goes to the Legislature it is to represent the people who sent him there, and those who elected Mr. Barnhill want the opportunity of voting on the suffrage amendment.

Their Eyes Are Opened.

The Washington Bee, a negro newspaper, says: "We have come to the conclusion that the salvation of the negro in this country is the division of his vote. It will be to the interest of the negro to be manly and act like other men in the American body politic."

And the Star of Zion, the Charlotte colored church organ says: "You have reached a sensible conclusion. Nearly all the negroes will come to this conclusion before very long."

It has taken them a long time to see a fact that has been obvious to the careful observer. The Republican party has used the negro as a tool, ever since he has been given the ballot. He has been used as a beast of burden to carry the loads of the white Republican bosses, many of whom were disreputable and utterly unworthy. The negro is beginning to open his eyes.—Charlotte News.

Yes, it has taken them a long time to find this out, and it is only the prospect of being deprived of the right of suffrage that brings them to their senses now. The negro has never had a thought as to his best interest, but has so blindly followed corrupt Republican leaders as to become a menace to politics and to good government. And there is no hope of a change in them so long as the ignorant among them are allowed to cast a ballot, for a negro will be a negro still and will continue to be a tool in the hands of corrupt leaders. It is to amend this evil and remove the danger to good government that the present Legislature has passed an amendment to the Constitution to be submitted to a vote of the people. This amendment should be ratified at the polls.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20, '99
According to a statement made by a member of the Court of Inquiry, which this week begins the taking of testimony on the embalmed beef charges, the Court regards itself as sitting as a Court-Martial to try General Miles on the charge of lying, although without authority to pass sentence should it find him guilty. No other construction can be placed upon this language, used by the member of the Court referred to: "We look to Gen. Miles to prove his allegations. We have no concern as to the witnesses as to that side of the inquiry, and it is incumbent upon Gen. Miles to secure and produce before us those whom he expects to establish his case." In other words, the Court believes Gen. Miles guilty, but will give him a chance to prove otherwise. Gen. Miles will produce sixty-odd officers who reported from the field against the beef issued, including Gov. "Teddy" of New York, and the proof will be made so hot that it is likely to scorch Secretary Alger and other officials as well as the beef contractors.

There is some talk of a compromise on the Army bill, which is now before the Senate, but it is not coming from democrats. Senator Cockrell, who reported the democratic bill to the Senate, says that measure will give the administration temporarily, all the troops it can possibly have any need for, and that further than that he and his democratic colleagues are not inclined to go. It is believed by many that the semi-repudiation of imperialism made by Mr. McKinley in his Boston speech was intended to help the Hull Army bill in the Senate. This may or may not be true. Democrats in Congress were glad, of course, that Mr. McKinley should have disclaimed imperial intentions, but, believing the saying that acts count for more than words, and having their wits about them, they fail to see the point of the disclaimer, while he insists upon having at his command a large standing army, and refuses to accept the democratic offer of a temporary force large enough for his admitted intentions. The Hull bill provides a large number of juicy plumbs in the shape of commissions for civilians in the regular Army, and the attempt is being made to get democratic and populist support for the bill by offering big chunks of this patronage to Senators. This week is likely to determine whether the bill can be passed or not.

The scheme to make this government pay a private company a subsidy of $100,000 a year for 20 years for the use of a Pacific cable, was thought to have been knocked out some time ago, but it is on deck again as an amendment to the Sundry Civil bill, proposed by Senator Frye. It cannot be knocked out in the Senate on a point of order as the Nicaragua Canal bill was in the House, nor can the same tactics be followed in the House when the bill goes back with Senate amendments. That is why the Senators who are trying to get the Nicaragua Canal bill through have had what is practically the Hepburn bill added to the River and Harbor bill, as an amendment. They have not undertaken an easy job as it is understood that Czar Reed has declared his intention to prevent Canal legislation, no matter what has to be held up to do so, but the Senators are confident of getting the best of the Czar, who is said to oppose the Canal only because he is unwilling that work should be begun upon it under the McKinley administration.
There are few democrats in Congress who are opposed to our paying the $20,000,000 to Spain which the treaty of peace calls for, as most of them recognize it as a treaty obligation which must be paid. After the ruling out on a point of order of the Nicaragua Canal bill, as an amendment to the sundry Civil bill, it was only a question of waiting for the same point to be raised against the amendment providing for this appropriation, for it to receive the same treatment. Two separate bills have already been introduced making this appropriation one by Mr. Cannon and one by Mr. Gillette. The latter's bill also contains the McEnery resolution, which the Senate adopted last week. When a vote is taken on this appropriation, there will not be half a dozen democrats recorded against it, although the democrats are all practically opposed to the permanent retention of the Philippines. The prompt payment of this money is a question of national honor, not of policy.

Experience is a Good Teacher.

Salisbury, N. C., Dec. 4, '98
From my own experience I have found Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy the best medicine known for building up the health in general. The greatest remedy in the world for dyspepsia, eczema, aches and pains and breaking up colds. Nine years ago I suffered with a chronic cold, which resulted in a bronchial affection and repeated serious troubles of the throat which were alarming. I was affected with something like croup and again laryngitis. I tried Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy, and am free of all those troubles and have been ever since and feel confident the Remedy has made the cure. I have kept it in my family for years and have always found it invaluable for old and young. The extraordinary effect of this grand remedy is sure to be realized by all who give it a fair test.
Sincerely,
MRS. M. E. RAMSAY.

History of the Spanish War

By Dr. ALBERT SHAW,

Editor of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS,

AND A LONG LIST OF NOTABLE CONTRIBUTORS.

Over 1,200 Pages and 500 Valuable Illustrations.

Three Beautiful Volumes in Half Morocco.

See special offer at bottom of this advertisement.

This Magnificent Edition for only ONE DOLLAR DOWN.

To the readers of this paper we make the following proposition to become members of the Review of Reviews History Club, and obtain the three volumes of

Our War in Two Hemispheres,

By ALBERT SHAW,

Editor of the "American Monthly Review of Reviews" and author of "Municipal Government in Great Britain," etc., and a number of prominent contributors.

EVERY American teacher possessing a library, and many that do not possess one, will be interested in the announcement of the history of the late war with Spain, now published by the REVIEW OF REVIEWS COMPANY. Much of the narrative was written by Dr. Albert Shaw during the actual fighting of the summer. This has been revised and amplified by him in the light of the official reports and documents, which have only become available after hostilities ceased. A free quotation from the critical Congressional debates and other public utterances at crucial periods aids in making this work what it is, the standard reference history of this decisive and successful struggle. But it is much more than a lively and comprehensive narrative. It goes back to the years of struggle in Cuba which prepared the way for the war; it discusses energetically all problems which confronted the United States after the war as to the Philippines, Cuba, and Porto Rico; and as a whole it forms a broadly conceived picture of the year which has seen America brought face to face with new world duties.

The important special and technical matters of the war period, generally dismissed by the historian with only slight and often insufficient discussion, are fully and authentically dealt with in contributed chapters, written by men who had unusual opportunities for studying their subjects. Thus, the lessons which the war has for us as to the relative efficiency of rifles and machine guns are in a carefully written chapter by Lieut. John H. Parker, of the United States Army; the military movements of the Santiago and Porto Rican campaigns are analyzed by the editor of the Army and Navy Journal; the battle with Cervera is described by the novelist, Winston Churchill, who is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy; the actual condition of Cuba before the war and the facts which caused the war are described by eye-witnesses, Murat Halstead and Stephen Bonsal.

The illustration of the book is especially valuable in the hundreds of portraits, pictures of the navies, photographed scenes of the war, and the entertaining cartoons reproduced from the Spanish, French, German, and English papers, as well as from the American.

A TRAPPED BURGLAR

THE NICELY PREPARED BAIT WAS EAGERLY TAKEN.

It Cost the Ingenious Man Who Devised the Scheme $100 or $500, and It Cost the Burglar Four Years' Time.

"Of course," said the retired burglar, "a man in my business is always on the lookout for traps and most of 'em he can circumvent without much trouble. But men go to a lot of trouble and expense to lay traps, and sometimes they get up something that is new and effective. I suppose that any man going into a dwelling house would be sure to look over the bureaus and dressing tables in the sleeping rooms. It was this well known professional habit no doubt that had suggested the idea of a trap I came across once, which a man had had built with a view to catching anybody that might stand in front of the bureau in his room.

"I imagine that this man must have been visited before and been very much irritated by it, because he never could have gone to all the trouble and expense he did just for mere protection—there was clearly some feeling in it. It was a handsome room, promising looking from its richness, and when I turned my light on the bureau, where I went, naturally enough, to begin, I was not disappointed. There was a glitter of glass and silver in the bullseye, and as I swept the light along it struck a pocketbook that didn't glitter much, but that looked fat and comfortable, and a watch that did shine, and, take it altogether, it made me think that here was the home of a man that didn't have to work nights to make both ends meet. And so I set my lamp down on one end of the bureau—it made me laugh, actually, to think that there was so much good stuff there that I had to shove something one side to make room for it—and put my bag down on a chair that was there and began cleaning the things off.

"I'd just put the silver hairbrushes in the bag and had turned around to the bureau again to pick up the pocketbook and the watch when I heard, or it seemed as though I felt, a little click, and just the faintest touch of a jarring or yielding under my feet, and the next instant, a long time before I could jump or do anything whatever, a piece of the floor under my feet about three feet square dropped out from under me, and down I went.

"But I didn't give up, by a long shot. I was an able-bodied man, and my hands were free—my lamp being then on the corner of the bureau and my bag on the chair—and I wasn't going to give it up yet, if I was going down a trap. The trapdoor was hung on hinges on the side farthest from the bureau, and I laughed to myself as I put up my hands and thought how easy it was to grab on to the edge of the solid floor running along just in front of the bureau and haul myself up. Truly it seemed like a waste of money, all the expense this man had been to to put in the trap without guarding against the chance of escape from it by just this means, and I already imagined myself climbing out as I threw up my hands, which I did before I'd dropped much more'n half of my length below the level of the floor, gripping that firm edge very tightly. I was going to make sure of that.

"And I got it all right, but in about a millionth part of a second I became conscious of the fact that it wasn't stopping me at all; I was carrying it down with me. It was the front edge of another trap cut in the floor under the bureau, hinged at the back and held up in place by a spring just strong enough to keep it in position. I held or as hard as I could, but if I had had iron fingers and steel muscles I couldn't have held on after the trap had swung down straight. I went down like a ton of lead, and the next minute I found myself sliding through a smooth board tunnel not much bigger'n enough to let me slide comfortably, and the next minute I'd been shot into a box or room about seven feet square through another trap in the top of it that closed flush after I came through.

"Now, there was a situation for you. Me in a square box of hard pine, apparently in the cellar of the house, no opening in it anywhere and my bag with all my tools in it up there on the chair by the bureau and me down there with nothing, not a blessed thing, to work with. But while there's life there's hope, and I never should have thought of such a thing as giving up if I could have had a chance. But I didn't. I hadn't been in the box two minutes before there was a slide pushed back up near the top on one side, and a man looked in. It was the boss of the shanty. And in five minutes the police were there, and then I found they had a door in this box big enough to get a man out of.

"I have seen other traps as elaborate, but none more costly. He had to cut his carpet, to begin with, around the traps in this room. Of course that didn't cost anything much, but it spoiled his carpet, and then the cost of the traps and the time contrived, whatever it was, that was attached to the main trap that let me stand on it for a minute or two before it dropped, and then the shoot and the box and the whole business couldn't have cost a cent less than $400 or $500. It cost the four years' time."—New York Sun.
