SMALLPOX IN THIS STATE.

The Disease in Twenty Counties—Inspector Long at Work—Compulsory Vaccination Probable.

Raleigh, N. C., March 15.—Smallpox continues to spread in this State. Up to tonight its appearance has been reported in twenty counties of the State. The latest cases reported are from Guilford, Moore and Warren. The counties in which cases have been reported to the State board of health are: Currituck, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Gates, Bertie, Tyrrell, Edgecombe, Warren, Wayne, Johnston, Wake, Alamance, Guilford, Buncombe, New Hanover, Northampton, Columbus, Halifax, McDowell and Moore.

So rapidly is the disease assuming the proportions of an epidemic that the State board of health has appointed a smallpox inspector. Dr. Henry F. Long, who successfully treated seventy-five cases in Iredell county last summer, was selected. He will visit infected districts, compel quarantine of patients and direct their treatment. He began service this morning, going first to Warrenton. From there he will go to Burlington. The disease is worse at these points than anywhere else. It is especially bad among the mill operatives at Burlington. Compulsory vaccination in the town and county has been resorted to.

At Greensboro, the authorities have given the people three day's notice to be vaccinated and failure to comply with the ordinance will subject the offender to $20 fine.

There is one case in Wilmington and it is rigidly isolated.

The town of Clinton, in Sampson county, has quarantined against Wilmington and Norfolk.

The greatest secrecy prevails in infected districts as to extent and fatality of the disease and this is one of the reasons that induced the board of health to appoint an inspector. Unless the epidemic is speedily checked, compulsory vaccination will be ordered over the entire State.

Floods in Georgia

ATLANTA, GA., March 15.—Heavy rains yesterday and last night did considerable damage to railroads in Georgia and Alabama. Numerous washouts were reported today on both the Southern rail way and the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis road. The first train to get through either way between this city and Chattanooga since last night arrived here tonight on the Southern. The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, which abandoned its train today, expect to get their morning St. Louis-Chicago train through to Chattanooga tomorrow morning, although serious obstacles will be encountered north of there.

Rome, Ga., is being hemmed in by fast rising waters. The two rivers there forming the Coosa, rose seven feet in four hours today, and it is expected the water will inundate the lower section of the city before morning.

Time Extended.

We understand that several more days of grace have been given for vaccination under the compulsory ordinance, the time being extended to April 5th.

TORNADO IN ALABAMA.

Churches and Other Buildings in the Town of Avondale Destroyed—Several Persons Injured.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 15.—The fiercest tornado ever known in this vicinity visited the town of Avondale, on the eastern outskirts of this city, at 5 o'clock this morning. It came directly from the south with rain and lightning. Passing immediately in front of the Avondale cotton mills it blew down the negro Methodist church and utterly demolished it. Three new frame houses and a second negro church a short distance away, were next destroyed.

Mrs. B. C. Foster was ill in bed and her husband was watching at her side. The house was taken from over her head and the bedstead blown a hundred feet away. Strange to say Mrs. Foster was not hurt.

The negro school house and negro Baptist church were torn to pieces.

Mrs. Annie Johnson was buried under her house and had to be dug out. She is badly cut and bruised and is in a critical condition.

Arthur O. Hudgins, a white boy, was also buried in the wreckage of his father's house. His arm was broken and he was seriously injured. At this house the four walls were blown away and a bed containing three children left in the middle of the room. The children were not scratched. The injured boy was in an outer wing and the main building crushed this in.

Almost a Fire.

Mr. E. A. Moye came very near having a fire at his home in West Greenville, Thursday evening. While the family were at supper they detected an odor as of something burning and upon investigating found smoke coming out of the smoke house. Last fall a sack of peas in the hull had been stored in the smoke house and in some mysterious way fire got in this sack of peas. By being discovered so soon the fire was put out before any damage was done.

Real Estate Deals.

There have recently been several transfers of real estate here.

Mr. C. T. Munford has traded Mrs. W. M. King several lots on his property in West Greenville for her Ricks house and lot in South Greenville.

Mr. A. W. Outterbridge has bought one of Mr. W. S. Leggett's houses near Dickinson avenue.

Mr. Joseph Rawls has bought Mr. W. A. Bright's house and lot in South Greenville.

Be on Hand.

Every member of Tar River Lodge, K. of P. should attend the meeting of the Lodge tonight. The final arrangements will be made for attending the District meeting at Goldsboro next Monday night. All who are to attend that meeting should give in their names tonight.

New Undertaker.

Mr. E. G. Flanagan has purchased the undertaking business of both R. Greene & Co. and G. A. McGowan & Co., and has consolidated the business in the building formerly occupied by Mr. B. F. Sugg opposite the post office.

Graphophone Grand.

Mr. C. W. Rivenbark, of Charlotte, gave an entertainment in the opera house Thursday night with his Graphophone Grand. It is a wonderful instrument and could be heard distinctly in any part of the building. He reproduces many of the best selections of the day.

A Moving People.

The Winston Journal says that within the past week or two twenty-five or thirty persons have left Yadkin county for the West. It is the old story. Long before the civil war North Carolina people began moving to Alabama and Mississippi; some few of them to Texas. After the war the movement set in for Texas, Indiana, Illinois and Kansas. Later it has included Oregon, Washington and California. Some years the exodus is heavier than others, but there is never a total subsidence. The subject constitutes a study. We do not understand that the people of other Southern States are so given to migration. Are North Carolinians more adventurous, more restless, than others? It may be that their bad roads and poor public schools tempt them away from home, because, except for these disadvantages there is no reason why they should prefer another State above their own. But the fact remains that we have largely peopled the South, the Southwest, the West and the Northwest—not one of the States of any of these but numbers native North Carolinians among its thrifty and progressive citizens. Had our people remained at home for the period since the war, or ever shown themselves no more migratory than those of other States North Carolina would be easily the foremost State of the South and one of the greatest in all the country. With this constant and heavy drain upon our population it is marvelous that we have made the progress we have.—Charlotte Observer.

Preaches to the Chain Gang Regularly Without Pay.

There is an old colored brother named Brady who has preached regularly every Sunday to the chain gang for two years and missed only the Sunday of the big snow. And for all his efforts he has never got a cent and isn't likely to get anything from his present congregation. Somebody ought to start the hat around on the outside for brother Brady. He deserves it. We forgot to mention he has since "made up" the Sunday he lost.

Here is an extract from one of brudder Brady's sermons to the chain gang: "I hear de niggers am a resolutin', an' a meetin' an' obviatin' powful, an' de preachers am a preachin' 'bout how to break up dis here chain gang. I tell you how to break it up, quit a stealin', quit a stealin'."—Monroe Journal.

Almost a Fatal Accident.

Mr. Wm. M. Ezzell, who resides at 609 Harnett street, and is a machinist employed at the Atlantic Coast Line shops, had a narrow escape from death yesterday. While oiling the overhead line of shafting he was caught by a belt which wound about his body and hurled him with great force to the floor some twenty feet below. It is a miracle that he was not instantly killed. As it was his face was smashed, a bad gash was cut over one of his eyes and he was bruised up generally but no bones were broken.

Dr. D. W. Bulluck, the Atlantic Coast Line surgeon, was called to the sufferer, and the doctor states that while the man's injuries are painful and severe they are not of a dangerous nature. After Mr. Ezzell's wounds were dressed and restoratives applied the patient expressed himself as being comfortable.—Wilmington Messenger.

In a number of the States, and particularly in most of the Southern States, marriages between white persons and colored persons, or those of negro descent, are not only prohibited, but a penalty is prescribed for the violation of the local laws concerning them. This prohibition exists in Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia among Southern States, and also in California, Colorado, Idaho, Indiana, Nebraska, Nevada, Oregon and Utah among those in the West or Northwest. There is no such provision of law in any of the Eastern or Middle States, and in New York, particularly, such matrimonial alliances if not frequent incur no penalty.—Raleigh Post.

The Fusil, a Spanish satirical journal, printed on bright blue paper, has been indulging in a unique inquiry among its readers, who are asked to propound a meet punishment for Senor Sagasta after his mismanagement of the war. Answers have been pouring in week after week. No. 52, premising that there is nothing so terrible as insomnia; suggests that the Premier should be stretched out upon a table flanked by soldiers repatriated from Cuba. These should be armed with bayonets and instructed to prod him when ever he should show a sign of sleeping. If this should not prove sufficient torment, a history of the late war might be read aloud to him meanwhile.

More money will be raised under the revenue bill passed by the late Legislature than under any previous revenue bill in many years, and yet the rate of taxation on polls and property has not been increased one cent. Indeed the rate of taxation on property is three cents less than that attempted to be levied by the last Fusion Legislature. The increased revenue will be collected from railroads and other corporations, which will hereafter pay much more tax than ever before.

And yet this increased tax on railroads and corporations was levied by a Legislature, which was accused of having been elected by and in the interests of railroads!—Pittsboro Record.

New Orleans is so unused to snow that when the heavy storm struck it recently it found itself unable to compel citizens to shovel off their sidewalks, for want of a local ordinance to that effect. The desired ordinance is now expected in short order, although it may not be necessary to enforce it for half a century.

Republican Prejudice Against the Negro.

Mitchell county has a larger white Republican majority than any other county in the State, and yet there is a greater prejudice against the negroes there than anywhere else. Judge Bowman (Senator Pritchard's father-in-law), who lives there, is quoted as saying that there are only sixty-five registered colored voters in that county and in one township a negro is not allowed to live. On one occasion he states that a drummer went to that township, accompanied by a negro driver, to remain over night, and the negro had to be guarded all night for fear of his receiving bodily harm.—Chatham Record.

How Is Your Arm?

In this day when vaccination is general throughout North Carolina the following lines by a Wake Forest school girl scribbled off a few days ago, and quoted by Dr. Taylor in a letter to the Biblical Recorder, is appropriate:

You may talk about evils—mad dogs and taxation
Mud roads, sour bread, and poor legislation,
Crying babies, spring poets and co education;
But of all woes known since the dawn of creation
And utterly without amelioration,
The worst is the fearful thing called vaccination.

It is reported from Honolulu that just before the battleship Oregon sailed from that port for Manila the mascot pig Blanco, which was captured from the Spanish cruiser Christobal Colon during the engagement off Santiago, was tenderly taken ashore in the sailing barge. It seems that Blanco's hoofs were wearing off on the hard deck of the Oregon, and it was thought best to send the Spanish pig to the San Francisco Zoo.

Professor R. H. Chittenden, director of the Yale Scientific School, has received from the Government a consignment of canned roast (boiled) beet, which he is to examine for the Beef Inquiry Board. The Professor says that he will be in "continual retirement" until he shall have finished the examination which will require a couple of weeks.

Among the industrial signs of the times is the announcement of a prominent charitable organization of Boston that "the number of persons applying for work at our office is smaller than usual, the number of employers applying for help is larger, and the number of permanent positions found for laborers is also larger than last year at the corresponding season."

THE OLD WAY.

OF TREATING DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION BY DIETING A DANGEROUS AND USELESS ONE.

We say the old way, but really it is a very common one at present time and many dyspeptics and physicians as well consider the first step to take in attempting to cure indigestion is to diet, either by selecting certain foods and rejecting others or to greatly diminish the quantity usually taken, in other words, the starvation plan is by many supposed to be the first essential.

The almost certain failure of the starvation cure for dyspepsia has been proven time and again, but still the moment dyspepsia makes its appearance a course of dieting is at once advised.

All this is radically wrong. It is foolish and unscientific to recommend dieting or starvation to a man suffering from dyspepsia, because indigestion itself starves every organ and every nerve and fibre in the body.

What the dyspeptic wants is abundant nutrition, which means plenty of good, wholesome, well cooked food and something to assist the weak stomach to digest it. This is exactly the purpose for which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are adapted and this is the method by which they cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, in other words the patient eats plenty of wholesome food and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest it for him. In this way the system is nourished and the overworked stomach rested, because the tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not. One of these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat or eggs.

Your druggist will tell you that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the purest and safest remedy for stomach troubles and every trial makes one more friend for this excellent preparation. Sold at 50cts. for full sized package at all drug stores.

One of Roosevelt's rough riders who was injured on a railroad while going to the front, has sued the company for $27,000, a part of the consideration being the glory of which he was deprived by the accident, says The Boston Transcript. "It will take some pretty close figuring, even by the experts, to determine the market price of glory."

Twenty Lashes For Six Hairs. A singular theft was tried by Mr. Beale, first class magistrate. Superstitions Burmans pull out the hairs of an elephant's tail for talismans making rings out of them and other charms. One Nge Tan Lin went into an elephant's shed at Aibone and pulled six hairs out of a bull elephant's tail, secreting them in his umbrella. The mahout challenged him, and he promptly shook the hairs out of the umbrella. They fell on some straw were picked up and put forward in evidence of theft. The man was convicted and sentenced to receive 20 lashes. Times of Burmah

Musical Opaline. Brahms and Tschakowsky the famous musicians met but twice. On the last occasion Brahms was sufficiently interested in Tschakowsky's Fifth Symphony to travel expressly to Hamburg in order to make its acquaintance. After the performance the distinguished composers dined together, and the connoisseurs Brahms frankly admitted that he did not like the work at all, whereupon the usually meek Russian plucked up sufficient courage to inform his host that the dislike of each other's music was mutual. They parted on excellent terms nevertheless.

Children's Sense of Pity. One of my granddaughters, said the Duke of Westminster, when about 5 or 6 years old, burst into tears on passing a blacksmith's shop, and on her mother inquiring the cause said, "Oh, mummy, they are nailing the donkey's boots on!"

TETTER ON THE HANDS.

For several years I was a sufferer from Tetter on my hands. It would come in little watery pimples and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took it my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well. MRS. M. E. KING. Burlington, N. C., May 27, 1896.

Scared Into Appendicitis.
"I had appendicitis the other day," said a St. Charles street business man; "that is to say, I had it to all intents and purposes. This is the way I contracted it. About a week ago I borrowed a medical work from a friend to look up a point about which I was curious. It was a work on diagnosis, and among other things it gave a minute description of the symptoms of appendicitis. I have always been much afraid of the malady, and that chapter had a hideous fascination for me. I read it and reread it, and as I did so it seemed to me that some of the premonitory signs coincided exactly with certain aches and pains I had felt for several days. I got alarmed at once, and that night was panic-stricken by a severe cramp a little northeast of my right hip bone. That I knew to be the fatal spot, and needless to say, I didn't sleep a wink.

"By morning I had all the symptoms of a typical case and could scarcely get around to see the doctor. I began to tell him my story when he stopped me. 'How do you come to know so much about the disease?' he asked.

"I replied proudly that I had been reading up on it.

"'The dickens you have!' he replied. 'Well, you get right out of this office, confound you, and don't waste any more of my time!'

"Then he explained that every medical student always has all the diseases on record, in regular order, just as he studies em, and I began to feel better. I went home, returned the blasted book, and am now entirely out of danger, thank you. It was the quickest recovery on record." — New Orleans Times-Democrat

The Cricket's Chirp.
The chirping of the cricket is so closely connected with the height of the thermometer that it may be calculated by observing the number of chirps in a minute.

At 50 degrees F. the rate is 80 chirps a minute; at 60 degrees F. 120 per minute; at 70 degrees F. 160 chirps a minute; and at 80 degrees F. 200 chirps a minute.

Below a temperature of 50 degrees F. the cricket is unable to make any sound.

VILLAINS IN NOVELS.

HOW SOME OF THE FAMOUS AUTHORS DISPOSE OF THEM.

Examples of the Growsome Fates That Have Been Devised by the Writers of Fiction For Their Men and Women of Crime.

Dickens is responsible for a most entertaining gallery of rogues. Quilp (the distorted dwarf) and Rogue Riderhood (the raffian) alike terminate their existence in a watery grave. Ralph Nickleby, Gashford and Jonas Chuzzlewit take their own lives while Uriah Heep, Squeers and Littimer leave their country for their country's good in garbs gratuitously provided by government and freely embossed with "broad arrows."

Perhaps the most growsome of Dickens' death scenes is that provided by the face of the ever smiling Carker, into which the irresistible locomotive is impressed, probably for the first time in the history of...

Scott's villains most frequently meet with violent deaths at the hands of others, often their accomplices, or commit suicide on the eve of discovery and disgrace. But the sensation lover has nevertheless been catered for in the death of Anthony Foster, the accomplice of the poisoner Richard Varney. This miserable wretch is depicted as hiding from his pursuers in a secret cell. The entrance to this is fastened by means of a spring lock, of which, however, he omits to retain the key, with the consequence that he eventually perishes miserably of mingled fear and famine.

Lytton's "Night and Morning" gives us the coiner Gawtre, who meets his fate at the hands of the Paris police, from whom he is attempting to escape when a pistol shot drops him over the side of a house to perish miserably. This idea of falling from a height is by no means confined to Lytton. It is utilized by Anthony Hope in "Phroso" and by Stanley Weyman in "Under the Red Robe," where the villain and his victim fall from a lofty bridge into a seething torrent below. In this way, too, Conan Doyle killed the immortal Sherlock Holmes, who, fast locked in a struggle with "the greatest villain of them all," falls over an Alpine precipice.

Wilkie Collins brings his principal villain, the double faced, calculating Count Fosco, to an ignoble end, he disappearing for a time, only to reappear upon the ghastly shelves of the Paris morgue. A still more ghastly fate is that of the she fiend, Gagool, immortalized by Rider Haggard in "King Solomon's Mines." Having conducted Quatermain, Curtis and party into that celebrated monarch's rock hewn treasury, which is guarded by a ponderous rising door of living rock, she touches a secret spring, by means of which the door begins once more to descend with a slow but irresistible motion.

While the Englishmen are sifting up the jewelry she makes off through the rapidly lessening aperture. Her progress is temporarily arrested by the unfortunate girl Fonlata, whom she stabs in order to free herself. Hurriedly scrambling over the threshold, she is caught by the inexorable force which she has herself put in motion, and a realistically dramatic "scrunch" puts an end forever to the machinations of this truly horrible old woman.

Vengali, like Scott's Templar in "Fanhoe," dies from an excessive mental strain acting upon the heart, while, to hark back to the days of the brilliant Doctor of Fleet Street, the gentle, good hearted Goldsmith is contented to reform the rakish Squire Thornhill in order that he may at last become the exemplary spouse of the gentle Olivia, around whom he weaves that entrancingly simple narrative, "The Vicar of Wakefield."

Finally, the palm for "writing lurid" may fairly be accorded Harrison Ainsworth for his thrilling disposal of the two ghoulish wretches who haunt the pages of his celebrated novel, "Old Saint Paul's." The creatures who battened upon the spoils of the dead and dying during the great plague were wont to stow their ill gotten gains in one of the cathedral vaults. The cathedral taking fire, they hasten thither in order to rescue their precious hoard. The greed of gain, however, misleads them into sojourning just a moment too long.

As they turn to leave the now stifling vault they see that a thin silvery stream is making its way down the stairs, by which alone they can gain an exit. Even as they look it thickens perceptibly, and before they can escape the whole stairway is blocked, and the vault about them begins to fill with the silvery liquid. When it is added that the harmless looking fluid is nothing more or less than the molten lead from the roof and windows of the cathedral, it will become apparent that even Mr. Gilbert's "something with boiling oil in it" possesses a dangerous rival in the pages of "Old Saint Paul's." — London Standard

The value of all the gold, silver, copper, iron, coal and lead mined every year in America is exceeded by the products of the forests. Even the combined wheat and cotton crop is less in value than the forest products.

WINE OF CARDUI THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

Fear.

Fear is the deadly foe of success in advertising. It is fear that keeps people moving in the same old rut. It is fear that cuts down advertising appropriations. It is fear that bands newspaper publishers together in queer associations and prevents them from advertising their publications. In short, were it not for fear, greater things would be done than have yet been done, and the world be wiser, better and richer.—Profitable Advertising.
