CYCLONE AT BETHEL.

Church Demolished and Much Other Damage Done.

Tuesday night the town of Bethel was visited by a terrific cyclone that played havoc with buildings in its wake. The Baptist church building was leveled flat to the ground and completely demolished. The roof of Blount Bros' hotel and also of J. C. Taylor & Co's. store was blown off, a house occupied by a colored man was torn all to pieces, and Blount's livery stables blown down. The colored Baptist church and colored Odd Fellows hall were also devastated, and many other buildings more or less damaged. It was a fearful storm and filled the people of the town with terror, but no persons were injured, though one house was blown down over a colored woman and children.

Mr. F. B. Knight came to Greenville this afternoon to get Mr. L. H. Pender to go over and put the roof of the hotel and store back on.

OVER THE COUNTRY.

W. H. (Coin) Harvey has resigned as general manager of the ways and means committee of the Democratic National Committee and S. B. Cook, of Missouri, has been appointed in his place.

Dr. James O. Murrey, Dean of the University at Princeton, died Monday.

A man at Stroudsburg Pa., the other day gave a boy a cent for returning his lost pocket-book containing $300.

The Missouri Methodist Conference pledged $72,000 for educational purposes as a twentieth-century thank offering.

Ralph Hoyt, of North Fairfield, O., gets $500 reward for capturing three armed burglars, whom he tracked and caught single-handed.

It's a peculiar fact that as soon as spring arrives the trees prepare to leave.

Quit Granting.

A number of persons are suffering from vaccination, the arm in some instances being much swollen and very painful.

In such cases a towel thoroughly soaked in cool, clear water and applied to the arm will relieve the pain at once, while the swelling will subside in a few hours. It takes the fever out of it and this is what causes the pain.

This is the receipt of the physicians and is a fine thing for those who have tried it say it works like a charm.

Brandy is also good, but it is not recommended for all persons. A man the other day, instead of soaking the cloth in it, bound the cloth around his arm and drank the brandy, since which time he has been worse. Don't try it.—Greensboro Record.

Wanted to Wire a Supposed Dead Man.

An old darkey visited the telegraph office and wanted to telegraph to another man asking if he was dead. When asked how was the man going to get the message and answer if he was dead, said he hadn't thought of that, so the inquiry was made through a third party.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina.

The First North Carolina Regiment has reached Savannah from Havana, and will be mustered out there next week.

Lightning struck a Salisbury young lady and tore off one of her toes.

The buggy and wagon factory of D. L. Saylor, at Wadesboro, was destroyed by fire Monday morning. Loss $8,000 about half covered by insurance.

The gin house and fixtures, together with seventeen bales of cotton and 2,000 bushels of cotton seed, belonging to R. A. Brown, near Concord, were burned Saturday night. Insurance on the building had expired about a month ago.

The Charlotte section of the State was visited by a regular cyclone Sunday night.

Col. John Robinson, 64 years old, ex-Commissioner of Agriculture, is reported as dying of heart trouble.

Fort Barnwell Tragedy.

A correspondent of the Kinston Free Press gives that paper the following statement about the occurrence:

We have received a request from Mr. W. R. Sauls, of Ft. Barnhill, father of the young girl who was killed there last Friday, to correct an erroneous statement that the young man had been forbidden to visit his home. Mr. Sauls says that he had never forbidden nor objected to his going to his house, but that some unpleasant or ugly rumors having been in circulation about the conduct of the two, he had once slightly punished his daughter, and warned her that she must be more careful with herself to avoid any foundation for such rumors. It seems, as we understand it, to be a prevalent opinion that this young man tried to induce the girl to criminal relations, failing in which he killed her and himself. We write this statement as we understand it to be the request of the distressed father, delivered to us tonight.

Saturday Evening Post.

In a day or two quite a number of people here will receive a copy of The Saturday Evening Post with prospectus. These are sent by the publishers at the request of D. J. Whichard, who is the special agent for both the Post and the Ladies' Home Journal. We hope those receiving a copy of the Post will examine it carefully. The regular price of it is $2.50 a year, but for a short time we will take subscriptions to it at $1 a year. Those wanting to take advantage of this low price should not delay.

Col. Carr on The Jury.

We sometimes hear the assertion made that millionaires get excused from serving on the jury in the courts. This is certainly not the case so far as one of Durham's millionaires is concerned. Col. J. S. Carr is serving upon the jury in our Superior Court this week. He did not ask to be excused, but is doing his duty by serving just as any other citizen would do.—Durham Sun.

WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, Mar. 29th, '99.

Mrs. J. D. Cox is visiting friends out in the country this week.

Mr. Jesse Sugg and Master Bruce Sugg, of Greenville, were in town Monday.

Work has begun on the brick yard and they will have some brick made soon.

Mr. Jenkins, from Bethel, has come back and taken a permanent job grinding for A. G. Cox Mfg. Co.

Do you like hot biscuits? Well most everybody does if made of good flour. Try a barrel of the ear-load just received by B. F. Manning & Co. and see if it does not fill the bill.

It was a bad wind last night for Mr. Parker as it blew down nearly all of his shelter where he makes wire fence.

ATTENTION FARMERS:

Your attention is called to J. W. Daly's ad. of his tobacco truck. Find out the particulars and prepare your land accordingly, as you are certainly going to want a set of his trucks when you get to housing your tobacco.

For fear the smallpox might get in this city quite a number of the students here from down the country who rented a house and boarded themselves, left Sunday for home.

Why is the A. G. Cox Mfg. Co. like a merry-go-round? Because it has a seat for everybody; that is they manufacture so many different articles that if one does not suit a body another will. They certainly can suit everybody this season in prices on tobacco flues.

Note These Dates.

Dr. J. Henry Odom, the eye specialist who was in Greenville for more than two months and gave everybody satisfaction, will be in Robersonville on Friday, 31st inst, at Flynn's hotel; Saturday, April 1st, at Parmele, at Johnson's boarding house; Monday and Tuesday, April 3rd and 4th, at Bethel at Blount Bro's hotel. His preliminary examinations are free. He will explain any defect of the eye and adjust glasses for old or young people. If you suffer from headache, or your eyes burn and itch, or you do not see as well as you would like, you should call on the doctor at one of the three places mentioned. He will leave Bethel Tuesday night for Washington and remain there several weeks.

Hardware and Jewelry.

The following is a true story, the place Charlotte, the time about a week ago:

A young lady, entering one of leading hardware stores of the Queen City, enquired of a polite and up-to-date clerk:

"Have you any ice-picks?"

"No, miss, you will find them at the jewelry store."

"What, ice-picks at a jewelry store?"

"Oh, ice-picks! I thought you said eye-specks!"—Charlotte Observer.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 29, 1899

President McKinley, who has been spending a vacation at the Southern home of Senator Hanna, near Thomasville, Ga., has returned to Washington.

This fighting going on in the Philippines makes anything but pleasant reading. The Filipinos, being on their own soil and acquainted with the country, have the advantage of the American forces in that respect and will do some stubborn fighting. It is only a question of time when they will be conquered, but the possession of the whole group of islands over there cannot begin to compensate for the American lives sacrificed.

Uncle Sam must have got a lot of brutes and villains in his service when he was mustering in volunteers last year. The beastly conduct of the negro regiments as they passed through the country from the camps after being mustered out is familiar to all readers, and during the last few days mustered-out white volunteers from West Virginia and New York, who were returning to their homes, showed that they were equally as low and depraved as the negroes. There are better men in the penitentiary than some of those men are. Many of them were thieves and thugs. We venture the assertion that when the First North Carolina Regiment is mustered out and starts home, the country will see that there are some soldiers who know how to be gentlemen.

The Housewife's Daily Burden

It is a common remark with hundreds of men that they wonder "what woman find to do all day." Sometimes curiosity gets the better of a man and he asks his wife what she has done all day. "Oh, a hundred and one little things," she says. Then he thinks of some momentous scheme over which he has been working all day, and makes a mental comparison, in which his wife's work takes second place. He overlooks the fact, however, that a woman's life in the home is made up of "little things" are not only necessary, but that they are absolutely vital to the even adjustment of the domestic machinery of his home. They are "little" only in a woman's eye; they would instantly assume proportions of magnitude if the man's hands were to try to do them.—Edward Bok in the April Ladies' Home Journal.

Why Professional Endorsement of Proprietary Remedies is Granted or Withheld.

It may be—we believe that it sometimes is—asked, why the medical hygienic and sanitary press is, as a rule, so opposed to the granting of its endorsement to anything in the nature of a proprietary remedy? The explanation is very simple. Endorsements, when granted by reputable and responsible journals whose word carries weight, are based upon rigid investigation of the facts in the case, and upon unanswerable demonstration of genuine merit only. Now, there are but few among the millions of proprietary remedies (so-called) which are able to satisfy the exacting requirements of journals like this, or whose record of practical achievements as curatives of the diseases they are supposed to combat will bear the merciless searchlight of our investigation. This being so, it follows that we grant wonderfully few endorsements in proportion to the vast number of proprietary medicines and remedies which yearly make their appearance on the market.

The American Journal of Health would rejoice to find itself in a position where it could conscientiously endorse every remedy which comes under its notice. But this cannot be; it is only when merit is as clearly shown as in the case specially referred to in this article that any praise can be by us editorially bestowed. Indeed, the present instance is but one of the exceptions which prove the rule. We have no hesitation in cordially recommending Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy, offered by Mrs. Joe Person, of Kittrell, North Carolina, as a specific for rheumatism, scrofula, psoriasis, erythema, sores, and all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood. We undertook to examine very exhaustively into the claims of this remedy, submitting the matter to the joint judgment of several competent physicians, whose verdict was such that we were obliged to admit the justice of the claims of the proprietor. Contemporaneously with the professional examination set on foot by us we instituted a systematic inquiry into the record of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. Here, again, we established that its claims to be an extraordinarily successful cure are founded upon truth. It has effected a very remarkable number of recoveries in cases where the best known, ordinarily recognized specifics had been baffled, even when applied under the advice of eminent professional men.

In any instance where a proprietary remedy can honestly demonstrate its power to cure as clearly as Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy has done, we frankly, and in the public interest alone, publish the fact gratuitously. Assurances from persons who had experienced the benefits of this remedy we found to be readily obtainable during the course of our inquiry, and we fully satisfied ourselves of the trustworthiness of the deponents. This remedy has unquestionable cured where the hopes of a cure had begun to fail because of the peculiarly obstinate nature of the attack. We recommend Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy from purely disinterested motives, because it is one of the rare specifics among proprietary remedies which physician and patient are alike ready to endorse from practical experience.—American Journal of Health.

Rheumacide is not recommended for the cure of every ill; it does not cure everything. But it is a certain cure for rheumatism, and is a fine blood purifier and laxative; try it;

Flirtation is Cruel.

"To the credit of the sex be it said that there is only a small proportion of male flirts, when we accept the word flirt in its general and accepted meaning," writes Frances Evans, in her "About Men" article, in the April Ladies' Home Journal. "The pleasant nothings of social life cannot, correctly speaking, be placed in the same category as flirtation. No more can the salutation of Mike to Katie when he says, 'The top o' the mornin' to yez, me angelt darlin'; ye're the cream o' the milkin', the top note o' the lark', simply because these expressions contradict themselves by their openness. Plainly, there is nothing behind them. Flirtation is carried on more by manner than by speech, manner being non-committal—something one cannot place one's finger on. There is nothing so flattering as an unspoken preference for one's society shown in various ways. This art of flattery is the natural weapon of the flirt, who rarely expresses himself openly; therefore his methods are most insidious and almost impossible to resist, because intangible. Flirtation is cruel, whether the flirt be man or woman. The flirt is unkind, selfish and frequently dishonorable. The consequences of flirtation are almost without exception disastrous; therefore, in considering the moral phases of the flirtatious inclination it would seem best to nip it in the bud according to the suggestions of the Golden Rule."

In Georgia if one person calls another a liar he must prove it or take the chances of a one thousand dollars fine and a year in the penitentiary or both. This has a tendency to restrain the public expression of the opinion that one Georgian may have of another Georgian.

A Minnesota veteran, having given a public testimonial to a patent medicine firm that its medicine had restored him to perfect health, is now trying to square himself with the Pension Office which proposes to take him at his word and cut him off the pension rolls.

One night last week a member of the First Methodist church of Evanston, Ill., called on the pastor, and hearing peculiar noises as he reached the door, he peeped in the window and saw the pastor's hopeful son with a number of his student companions playing poker for money. The pastor was not at home.

THEY RIDICULE IT.

MANY PEOPLE RIDICULE THE IDEA OF AN ABSOLUTE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA AND STOMACH TROUBLES.

Ridicule, However, is not Argument, and Facts are stubborn Things.

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases, so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such pride themselves on their acuteness in never being humbugged, especially in medicines.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far, in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made of a preparation so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary proprietary medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, no secret is made of their ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin, the digestive acids, Golden Seal, bismuth, hydrastis and nux. They are not cathartic, neither do they act powerfully on any organ, but they cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles because they act entirely on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested is poison as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh and appetite and many other troubles which are often called by some other name. They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. Address F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall Mich., for little book on stomach diseases, sent free.

Mrs. Watkins' Club Inheritance.

"I don't see said Mr. Mulberry. "Why you women have that Mrs. Watkins in your literary club. The rest of you are bright enough, but she's as dull as dull can be."

"It's this way," answered Mrs. Mulberry. "Mrs. Watkins' great-grandmother's half sister's second cousin by marriage could trace her descent from Chaucer. So you see, after all with such literary claims, we couldn't very well leave Mrs. Watkins out."—Harper's Bazar

TETTER ON THE HANDS.

For several years I was a sufferer from Tetter on my hands. It would come in little watery pimples and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took it my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well. MRS. M. E. KING. Burlington, N. C., May 27, 1896.

How Balloons Are Made.

Balloons are manufactured of gold beater's skin, which though small toy ones had been made of it, could not be produced in sufficient quantities for the large balloons until Colonel Templar invented and perfected the process, which is briefly as follows:

The gold beater's skin is made up of quantities of a certain thin animal membrane (30,000 of these are required for a balloon of 10,000 cubic feet capacity), which is first freed from all fatty substances and then soaked in a solution of glycerin and water. They are then applied to boards cut in the form and to the size of the gore of the balloon required. Others are then superposed, until a thickness of four layers has been reached, great care being taken that no air bubbles remain between the skins. After this fourth layer a method of strengthening is resorted to in the shape of a net manufactured of skin. After this net two or three more layers of membranes are applied.

The whole is then allowed to dry, and a solution of boiled linseed oil is used as a varnish. The fabric is then quite indissoluble, and the membranes cannot by any possible means be separated from one another, but sometimes, to render this homogeneity the more perfect, a solution of bichromate of potash is sponged over the fabric. —Pall Mall Magazine.

Beautiful Viennese Women.

Vienna, the capital of Austria, is chiefly noted for producing three things—coffee, music and women. The word "jolly" describes the temper of the Viennese woman most aptly. She lives only for today and lets the morrow take care of itself. She is as good a housekeeper as her German sister, but not quite so particular. She is quite as economical, but dresses herself more artistically. She is just as good a mother, but a more loving wife. She is somewhat nervous, and the quarrel with her husband is as regular as the amen in her prayer. The truest and prettiest type of the beautiful Viennese woman is that which comes from the south. In common with the majority of her European sisters, the Viennese makes marriage her goal, but retains her girlish ways, her jolly spirit and much of her beauty, and even to guess at her age is not only a crime, but an absurdity. —Edward A. Steiner in Woman's Home Companion.

Blankets of Bark.

In Ecuador, one of the South American republics, the bark of a tree which grows on the slopes of the Andes is utilized for the making of blankets. The blanket is over six feet long and over five feet wide and is as soft and pliable as though it were made of flannel. It is about the thickness of a good flannel blanket and can be rolled up and put in a strap without hurting or injuring it.

This tree or bark blanket is merely a strip of bark cut from a section of the trunk of the blanket or demajagua tree. The Indians make a cutting around the trunk to get it, and they prepare it by soaking it in water until it is soft. It is then pounded so that the rough outside can be stripped off and the inside alone left. The inside is of fine fibers so joined together by nature that it makes a beautiful blanket, warm enough to be used as a cover and soft enough for a mattress.

Poison Hemlock.

Water hemlock is a deadly plant common in most country neighborhoods. Its roots are eaten often in spring by mistake for some edible root, and death frequently results. Cattle are often poisoned by drinking water in marshes where it grows.

The poison hemlock from which the Greeks made poisons is a near relative to the water hemlock. It stands from two to seven feet high and has clusters of small white flowers and large, parsleylike leaves. The stalk, being hollow, is often made into whistles by country boys, and many children are poisoned in this fashion.

Mixed Berries.

A young tailor named Berry, lately succeeded to his father's business, once sent in his account to Charles Matthews somewhat ahead of time, whereupon Matthews, with virtuous rage, wrote him the following note:

"You must be a goose—Berry to send me your bill—Berry, before it is due—Berry. Your father, the elder—Berry, would have had more sense. You may look very black—Berry, and feel very blue—Berry, but I don't care a straw—Berry for you and your bill—Berry." —"Cyclopedia of Anecdotes."

Salt For Small Change.

Besides the Magin Thera 1780 dollar the people of Abyssinia for small change use a bar of hard crystallized salt, about 10 inches long and 2 1/4 inches broad and thick, slightly tapering toward the end, five of which go to the dollar at the capital. It is a token of affection among the natives when friends meet to give to each other a lick of their respective bars, and in this way the material value of the salt is also decreased.

Didn't Stammer All the Time.

An electrical engineer who stutters once endeavored to be cured of the habit, and for that purpose went to an institution near Boston. The manager, questioning him, asked:

"Do you stammer all the time?"
"Nun-nun-nun-no, sir; o-o-o-only wuu-whu-whu-when I t-t-t-talk, sir."
—Electrical Review.

Her Opinion in Full.

The car turned sharply around a curve and the tall man who was holding on to a strap somewhat loosely was suddenly thrown from his upright position with a force that landed him in the lap of a dignified dowager sitting near him, while his high silk hat flew from his head and rolled down the aisle of the car.

"Sir," she said as he rose to his feet again with profuse apologies. "I am compelled to say that in my judgment you were lacking in that complete grasp of the strap which was essential to the highest efficiency in maintaining an upright attitude when turning a curve."

That was all. But it crushed him. —Chicago Tribune

As He Understands It.

"As I understand it," remarked the intelligent foreigner, "you Americans regard George Washington's hatchet as the emblem of truth."

"Yes, sir, that's right," replied the American proudly.

"Then, when statesmen or other individuals who have quarreled, bury the hatchet, I suppose they cease to speak the truth?" —Detroit Free Press.

Inspiring Hope.

The Doctor—Bear up, I must tell you the worst—you can't possibly recover.

The Client—That's a pity, for if I'd lived a bit longer I should have come into a fortune, as it is, I haven't a penny to pay you with, doctor.

The Doctor—Well, now, don't give up hope. We'll try to mend you. We'll try. —Illustrated Bits proved that the animal was capable of smelling by the use of certain pungent odors placed near the nasal organs—and all this because the brain cells were yet living.

Raising Ducks Without Water.

Ducks don't need water to thrive. There are many duck raising plants in this country where thousands of the fowls are bred each year for market and where there is not even a pond for them to flourish in. One of these farms is credited with an output of 20,000 ducks a year.

WINE OF CARDUI

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. I. ADDISON, M.D., Cary, Miss., says: "I use Wine of Cardui extensively in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."
