One Thing To Remember.

In considering the proposed suffrage amendment to our State constitution, the white men of North Carolina will bear in mind the manner in which negro suffrage was forced upon our good old State in the dark days of Reconstruction.

Our older readers will remember and will never forget—nor forgive—the outrage then done the oppressed South and our younger readers should be told about it. The younger men of North Carolina should know—as their elders so well know—that negro suffrage was forced upon the South at the point of the bayonet, for the purpose of humiliating and degrading a proud people. Negro suffrage was forced upon the South not for the benefit of the negroes themselves, but for the benefit of a swarm of hungry carpet-baggers and greedy scalawags, who thereby might more easily plunder our poverty-stricken Southland. And a similar motive now prompts certain white men to oppose the ratification of the suffrage amendment.

Yes, the forcing of negro suffrage upon the South was a great outrage and wrong upon both races and has been the source of unnumbered woes to both the whites and the blacks. It should be especially remembered that negro suffrage was forced upon the South, and was not freely and willingly adopted. The question was not left to the votes of the white men of the South—to the men who had been the only legal and qualified voters—but was adopted by a vote of the negroes themselves and a minority of the whites. Our older readers will never forget that at that election every ignorant negro was allowed to vote, but thousands of our best white men were not allowed that right. No man was allowed to vote then who had held any office before the war and had aided or even sympathized in the so-called "Rebellion." This of course debarred and disfranchised thousands of our best men. They were not allowed to vote, but had to stand aside like convicted felons and see their former slaves exercise that great privilege. Oh! how the blood of every true white man should boil at the remembrance of that damnable outrage!—Chatham Record.

Nine Months of Rain.

The wet weather continues. This week rounds out nine months of wet weather. The excessive rains began the first week in July of last year and there has been but two weeks in all this time in which there was no rain-fall. There was one week about the first of November and another the last of December.

March, which is usually dry and windy, has been, perhaps the wettest month of the nine. There is little or no preparation for a crop and it is now corn-planting time. The lands are washed the worst ever known in this section, and the prospect for wheat is exceedingly gloomy. Should the weather resume its normal condition for this section at once, the people will not recover from the backset in five years. But worst of all, the clouds still overhang the horizon and there seems to be little prospect of a change.—Lenoir Topic.

Twenty-five Millions Bid.

Salisbury is soon to be the centre of the greatest mining district in the world. So writes Mr. Walter G. Newman to the editor of The Sun.

Mr. Newman went to New York last Sunday. He wrote from that city on the 3d, and from his letter we copy the following:

"I am here today buying machinery and making arrangements to make Salisbury the centre of the greatest mining district in the world. There is nothing that can be said about the minerals in the vicinity of Salisbury that can be called exaggeration.

"I was bid $25,000,000 in cash today for one-quarter of my holdings in the Union mine alone."—Salisbury Sun.

Knows Who Cries.

Al Daniel tells us a story which will bear repetition. A few days ago a negro man and his little boy, the sole occupants of an ox cart, stopped in front of the door of a tobacco warehouse in town interested lookers on at the sales. "Who cries tobacco, pa?" asked the boy of his father. "I don't know, son, but I know who cries after he sells his tobacco," came the quick reply from the older descendant of Ham, all unconscious that he had perpetrated a joke judging from the innocent look he wore.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

Valuable Cow.

L. J. Pope, the irrepressible as well as the hustling grocer, is the proud and happy owner of a cow that to say the least has a remarkably interesting history. She first began to chew her cud in silent and blissful meditation about fifteen years ago, as the property of Capt. Bell. As a yearling she brought the handsome price of $95. She then began to mildly munch the cowslips for D. D. Suttle at a cost of $50, and he reluctantly disposed of her to Geo. W. Wray for $55. He in turn, with many misgivings transferred her to D. M. Baker for $60, who after a short time sacrificed her to J. B. Wilkerson for $65. About this time a Mr. Forepartner of Mr. Wilkerson, persuaded her owner to accept $75 as an equivalent for her value. Then she took a trip to eastern North Carolina, where she was the joy and admiration of her owner until, sad to relate, she lost an eye. But sighing for the green and fertile valleys of her piedmont home she was resold to Mr. Wilkerson for $25. Popular Josh Roberts, who knows a good thing when he sees it, bought her for $20. But she was not allowed to spend her declining days at his hospitable board, and is now the property of Mr. Pope, who says he will not sell her for less than $40. Figure up the different prices paid for her, and you will find that she represents $465.—Shelby Aurora.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A PLEASANT, SIMPLE, SAFE BUT EFFECTUAL CURE FOR IT.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable.

The usual symptoms are a full or bloated sensation after eating, accompanied some times with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the lungs and heart and difficult breathing; headache, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out and languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue, and if the interior of stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate disease is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily and thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach.

To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do, and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanston the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastrase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids.

These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and, not being a patent medicine, can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 2710 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom, passing back into the throat, reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me three years for catarrh of the stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I can not find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for book, mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing the F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

Since July 1st twelve merchant vessels have been named by their owners after Admiral Dewey, six after Admiral Sampson, two after Admiral Schley, one for Ensign Worth Bagley, one for "Bob" Evans, two for General Joe Wheeler and one for Fitzhugh Lee. War memories are also preserved in the merchant marine thus far this year by one Maine, three Oregons, two Olympias, one Rough Rider, two Iowas and two Manilas.

Wants a Change in Sunday School Literature.

In looking over some of the trashy books sent out to be put in Sunday school libraries recently, we were disgusted with the recitals of how pale-faced, crippled little Johnnie, a good little boy, died before reaching the age of ten years; and how wan, afflicted little Susie, the sweet little Christian girl, died so very, very young, while the "bold, rough, bad boy" and the rude, wanton girl grew up to rugged limbed, robust manhood and womanhood and are still living. If we had a boy, thank our shining stars we have not, but if we had one he should not read such stuff as that, for it is enough to make a boy believe that being good is bad an the constitution and is ruinous to health. Teach your boy that being upright and honest and true and good will not make him a puny, sickly little invalid. Why don't somebody make the Christian boy of the Sunday school story book a "boy that is boy"—a ruddy cheeked, strong, robust boy, one full of life and light of heart, and give us a rest on the untrue picture of the dying little sufferer.—Monroe Enquirer.

A RUNAWAY ICE YACHT.

An Exciting Chase and a Narrow Escape From Death.

Some years ago there was a runaway down at Shelter Island in which a young girl was left in the boat with a gale blowing. She tried to throw the sheet loose, but it was frozen and her fingers were too cold, added to which the sheet had fouled the tiller, and she could not bring the boat up into the wind to stop its way, the sail being so set that the boat continued running right along at a terrific rate of speed. Occupants of the other boats soon realized the position and made chase, gaining slowly, one boat finally being far in the lead of the others by the time the end of the island was left behind. Right in front lay the end of the ice, broken short by the action of the tide water, and there the breakers rolled in, throwing up the anchor ice, dashing it down, and then retreating, sucking it under the floe and packing it up for another break.

For some time it was a question as to whether the chasing boat would catch up with the girl before she was carried over the edge to certain death. But at last the boats came together for one brief second, the girl was snatched by strong arms to the pursuer's yacht, the sheet was eased off in a flash, and, spinning round in its own length, it was set right before the wind instead of reaching into it, just as the runaway dashed over into the anchor ice.

A short, sharp crack gave notice of the parting of the ice beneath the very runners of the now homeward bound savior, and with a long stagger, which only her speed enabled her to withstand, she dashed across the fast opening crack, safe, to be brought up into the wind at a distance, while the late runaway danced, a wreck, among the broken ice. It was one of the close calls of ice yachting which, thank goodness, very seldom occur.—W. P. Pond in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

LETTER ON THE HANDS

For several years I was a sufferer from 'letter on my hands.' It would come in little watery pimples and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took it my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well. MRS. M. E. KING. Burlington, N. C., May 27, 1896.

ENDORSED BY TEACHERS.

Paine's Celery Compound Counteracts the Nervous Strain of the School Room.

"I know of nothing so good as Paine's celery compound," says Miss May Sherwin, for the past 17 years principal of the largest public school in Bloomington, Ill., "to counteract the nervous strain incident to a constant life in the school room.

"I have myself used Paine's celery compound," she continues, "with most satisfactory results. It is a splendid nerve tonic."

The discoverer of Paine's celery compound was himself one of the greatest teachers that ever lived.

Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., held a famous professorship in Dartmouth college, and was a lecturer in other great universities all the while he was engaged in that momentous study which led to the chief accomplishment of the medical research of this century—the development of Paine's celery compound.

The general complaint now among intelligent women is that they are hurried and driven and fretted almost out of their senses by the demands upon their time and strength.

No wonder, then, the average woman has lost the capacity for sound sleep, good digestion and the freedom from aches and pains that follow healthy organic functions.

Many years of suffering might be avoided, weary months of lost time put to good service, and thousands of lives saved if persons who do not sleep well and those with overworked brains and nerves would take Paine's celery compound. In the cure of nervous diseases this remedy has again and again demonstrated its power to combat these tenacious ailments.

It is to general poor health that we are to look for the cause of headaches, rheumatism and neuralgia, and to overcome these troubles it is the general health that must be raised. Sick headaches that recur so periodically with most women and are so grievous an affliction should be treated as due to lowered nervous tone, and a thorough invigoration of the body should be undertaken with Paine's celery compound.

The best test of the wonderful value of Paine's celery compound is to use it. Any woman will soon be convinced that it is the one remedy that can make and keep her well and healthful and strong.

AN HONEST ARTIST.

He Would Not Paint a Lie Even For a Napoleon.

There was no love lost between the Emperor Louis Napoleon and his cousin, Prince Napoleon, whom the Parisians called "Plon Plon." The prince used to make abusive speeches against the emperor, which people were only too ready to repeat to him. "Let him alone," Louis Napoleon would reply. "He is too well known. No one would turn me out to place him on the throne."

The emperor was correct, for no one said a good word about "Plon Plon." He was commonly believed to have shown the white feather in the Crimea and never exposed himself where the lead was falling. An English lady, who in her young days mingled with French society, tells in her "Foreign Courts and Foreign Homes" a story as discreditable to Prince Napoleon as it is honorable to a French artist.

While the artist was painting the historical picture of the battle of the Alma, which the emperor had ordered, Prince Napoleon called at the painter's studio to make known to him the facts. On leaving he said he wished the prominent figure in the battle to be himself mounted on his white charger. He sent the horse to the artist so that he could paint its exact portrait. When the picture was finished and invitations were sent out for a "private view," the white charger was seen, a prominent figure in the battle, but without a rider.

On hearing of this terrible omission the prince sent an aid-de-camp to ask the reason. The honest artist said the horse should remain if the prince wished, but no rider would be on it. "Tell the prince I have never yet painted a lie." The hint was taken. The prince ordered the horse to be rubbed out.

The Business of a Theater.

A prosperous theater in the city of New York may in a favorable season do a business of more than $250,000 and keep in employment 150 persons. There are 37 theaters, including the variety houses, in active operation in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, while the borough of Brooklyn adds a score or more. Everything which affects business in general affects the theater immediately.

A man will reduce his expenditures for tickets to places of amusement long before he thinks of cutting down his supply of cigars, for the cigar belongs to that class of luxuries which subtly become necessities, while the theater habit, as any observant manager will tell you, requires constant cultivation. The management of a theater is therefore an occupation requiring business sagacity in a greater degree than it calls for artistic taste.—W. J. Henderson in Scribner's

President Kilgo is in South Carolina where he went by invitation of the Educational Committee of the South Carolina Conference to deliver a series of addresses in the interest of the Twentieth Century Fund. He will be gone for several days.

Prof. Edwin Mims delivered an address at Wake Forest, Thursday evening, April 6th. He also attended the Epworth League Conference at New Bern, where he spoke Friday evening.

The Archive for April is out. It contains articles of special interest. Since the catalogue went to press in February the Library accessions have been 204 volumes, and 179 pamphlets. Of the former, 154 were purchased, and 50 were donated the past year. Over a thousand volumes and two hundred pamphlets were added to the Library.

Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Oxford, Ga., delivered the second series of the Avera Bible Lectures, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of last week. His subject was the Pauline letters of the Captivity. The lectures and the visit of Bishop Candler were greatly appreciated by the College and the Community.

WINE OF CARDUI
THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Bread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. Their introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. L. ADDISON, M.D., Cary, Miss., says: "I use Wine of Cardui extensively in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."
