QUESTION ON ELECTION LAW.

PARMELE, N. C., April 20, 1899.
EDITOR REFLECTOR:

Suppose a voter had been living in a county long enough to have entitled him the legal right to register and vote under the election law preceding the present, and living in said county at and prior to the time the present election law was enacted, but not as long as the present law provides and requires; does the present election law disqualify said voter in May, next, municipal elections?

Please reply through the columns of your paper, as many will appreciate a correct answer.

Yours for the right,
VOX.

[With no more information than is to be had at present on this subject we could not undertake to give an answer to the above question. It is well known that the last General Assembly enacted a general election law. They also enacted a law governing the elections in cities and towns. The two were separate and distinct acts, but just how they relate to or affect each other we could not say without having copies of the law to examine. Owing to the suit between Barnes Brothers and Edwards & Broughton over the State printing, the printing of the election law has been delayed and not yet sent out.—ED. REFLECTOR.]

Big Prices for Animals.

The biggest price ever given for a horse was $150,000, when Ormonde, once the property of the Duke of Westminster, was bought for that sum by a California millionaire. The famous winner of the Derby, St. Leger and the Two Thousand Guineas, in one year was recently sold for $105,000—Galtee More. The most valuable Collie dog known is owned by Mr. Megson, of Manchester, who gave $6,500 for him. He is the finest dog of his kind that has ever been reared, and has taken forty-eight prizes at various shows. Perhaps the most expensive fowl ever heard of is a game-cock named Peter Jackson, belonging to a gentleman in Plymouth. This bird has been known to fight under a bet of $200,000 to a pinch of snuff. Needless to say he won it. His owner has refused $2,500 for him.

A Former Pastor Sick.

The Dispatch is sorry to learn of the serious illness of Rev. J. H. Lambeth, pastor of the Baptist church at this place, who is now at Roxboro. We did not learn the nature of his illness, but understand he has been sick several days. We trust Mr. Lambeth will be restored to health in a short while.—Lexington Dispatch.

Correspondents Wanted.

THE REFLECTOR wants active correspondents at Bethel, Pactolus, Grimesland, Centreville, Grifton, Ayden, Falkland and Farmville, and would like for some one at each of these points, who will serve the paper regularly, to communicate with us or call at the office, the latter preferred, as better arrangement can be made in person. To the right person we will make it well worth the time taken to furnish us the news.

Row in the Ravine.

This morning Nora Vines, colored, who lives in the railroad ravine, went before Justice H. Harding and swore out a warrant against Jim Thomas, also colored, for beating her. Nora's face looked considerably disfigured from the conflict, one eye being in mourning and her lips weeping drops of blood. The woman stated that Thomas was shooting a pistol at her house last night, and she came up town this morning and informed Chief of Police Christman about it. When she went back home and Thomas learned where she had been he fell to and beat her. The warrant was placed in the hands of an officer but at this writing the man had not been found.

Somebody Head Us.

You have read of the old fellow who yoked himself up with the calf, when the calf ran away and the old man yelled out—"Here we come, d— our fool souls, somebody head us."

People who were near the county Court House at 12 today when the fire alarm was given saw something very much like this. The steamer hose wagon came out into North Elm a-biling, when the old black horse ran out of his collar and harness, leaving only one horse to the wagon. Then the driver got down, took the place of the horse and came along up street. He said never a word but looked just like one imagines the old fellow did when yoked up with the calf.—Greensboro Record.

Have Had None.

It is worthy of note that while nearly every neighboring town around us has had a touch of smallpox, Greenville has so far kept entirely free of the malady. Newbern, Kinston, Goldsboro, Wilson, Rocky Mount, Tarboro and Washington have all had more or less of the disease, but there has not been even a suspected case in Greenville nor anywhere in Pitt county.

Will Cross the Waters.

It is learned here that J. Nick Gorman, formerly of this city, but now of Richmond, Va., will leave for Europe in the near future on a business trip. Mr. Gorman is a prominent and well known tobaccoist and will cross the waters in the interest of the weed.—Durham Herald.

One More Mozart Piano

The public, Ladies especially, are invited to call and see the elegant mahogany upright Piano, in building next to Tucker Furniture Store. Only $1.85 factory price, for a $300 Music House Piano.

R. B. SHAW,
King House.

The old law students of the late Hon. John Manning propose to testify their appreciation of him by presenting to the University a marble bust of him. For this purpose an appeal is made by a committee of his former students for contributions of from one to five dollars, to be sent to Prof. J. Crawford Biggs at Chapel Hill.

You can't build up home enterprise if you don't keep all the money home possible. If you need goods buy them from your home merchants, and if the merchants need stationery, which they all need, give it to your home paper.

OVER THE COUNTRY.

While exercising in a gymnasium at Denver, Col., Retired Army Surgeon James G. Field broke both arms.

Nitro-glycerine was used by burglars to wreck the vault in the Haydenville (Mass.) Savings Bank, but they got nothing.

Two-thousand persons feasted and danced in the vault containing the body of William Hayes, at Petersburg, Ind., in accordance with his will.

The Teacher's Explanation.

"De head scholar er de school will now recite de piece 'bout de boy on de burnin' deck, whose name wuz Cast-by-yo-anchor," said the colored principal, to the patrons of the cross-roads school. "Dis boy, he gwine tell you 'bout, was de fambly connection er a sea-cap'n en whilst his daddy was a-drinkin' er his dram, en playin' poker in de cabin, de ship koteded fire f'um a cigaroot which somebody lef' on de deck. En soon ez de boy seen it he turn in de fire 'larm; but hit wuz too late. Dar he wuz, in de middle er de ocean, de flames goin, sky-high, en his daddy too full ter hear 'im holler! He grabbed a fire hose en done his bes' ter put de fire out; but hit wuz no go. 'Hit looked lak, burn he would, 'spite er all he could do; en burn he did; but not 'twell atter his daddy had hearn 'im holler: 'Come up out er dar, you ol' drunken loafer, en save yo' chile!' But his daddy wuz dead—dead drunk—en him, en de ship, en de whole business, wuz burnt up alive!"—Atlanta Constitution.

The Profits of Advertising.

The profits of advertising are not direct, as are the returns from a sale. Nevertheless, when the proper medium for bringing an advertisement before the public is selected the profits are usually immediate, although, of course, they come in a roundabout manner. If at times they seem delayed it is because the merchant's announcement either has not reached the people whose patronage he seeks or because there is no pressing demand for the special line of wares which he may have for sale. In either case the profit is sure to come eventually; for the purpose of advertising is to awaken interest in the tradesman's goods, and once having aroused that interest the wary merchant will perceive the necessity of sustaining it—a result sure to be attained by a persistent use of a great newspaper's advertising columns.—Philadelphia Record.

Greenville (Miss.) society was in a flutter last week over a notable wedding, which is reported in The Delta Light House as follows: "Miss Jennie Yerger, the beautiful daughter of the Hon. Wm. G. Yerger, married Wednesday night last. We had the pleasure of viewing the presents presented to this distinguished daughter. We can say, without contradiction, that there were enough, if it were turned into cash money, to build a mile of railroad track. Miss Yerger received more valuable presents than any other bride has ever received in Greenville. So the scripture in this case has been fulfilled. "Those that have can get more in abundance."

Some Good Council.

"There is not much use, in this world of woe, to sweat and worry, and stew and fuss about what people say concerning you. In the first place you should ask yourself the question: "Is my bill of health clean?" If you are all right and your conscience tells you so—go on the way you are going. If you can by the reason God gave you, justify your actions and your deeds, care not what any one says concerning you.

In all homes and in society there are skeletons in some closet, and their bones will rattle at some times. The man never yet lived, who was of earth, who had not some fault—viewed thro' some other man's glasses. Do the best you can; try to be decent; be of good cheer—put your faith in God and in yourself and you'll be winner every time. If you falter, if you sit down to view the troops of jealousy and envy and hatred which may pass before you—you are wasting time—you are allowing the devil to tempt you.—Farrago.

It is strange that those who give it out very clearly that they are Christians should be so blind to the fact that an ill temper mars and kills their power for good service. The world at once doubts the Christianity of a man when it sees him belching out red hot fires of ill temper. More than that the least flash of ill temper is hurtful to any professing Christian's standing and influence among men. Every spark of it that the world sees awakens the inference that there is a seething and lurid cauldron of it in the heart. From this cauldron at an unguarded point this one spark has flashed and escaped to light. The overthrow and subjection and utter displacement of an ill temper is what above all things the world expects to see as an effect of Christianity in men. And the world has a right to expect it. We repeat that it is strange that so many professing Christians are rendered powerless for service in the church on account of an uncontrolled temper without apparent knowledge of the cause. It is sad but true that many parents even have shorn themselves of influence over their own children on account of it. Mr. Drummond, we believe it was, wrote that the evil effects of ill temper in retarding the growth of the kingdom of Christ was greater far than the saloons of the world. This is a strong statement but we are unprepared to call its correctness into question.—Cor. Lamber-ton Robesonian.

A little English girl died the other day from a peculiar circumstance. Having fallen and hurt her knee she applied a piece of postage stamp paper to the wound, which induced blood poison, in turn resulting in pneumonia, which caused her death.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A PLEASANT, SIMPLE, SAFE BUT EFFECTUAL CURE FOR IT.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable.

The usual symptoms are a full or bloated sensation after eating, accompanied some times with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the lungs and heart and difficult breathing; headache, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out and languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue, and if the interior of stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate disease is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily and thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach.

To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do, and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids.

These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and, not being a patent medicine, can be used with perfect safety and assurance; that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 2710 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom, passing back into the throat, reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me three years for catarrh of the stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I can not find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for book, mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing the F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

It is estimated that England's stock of coal will last 200 years longer, and North America's 600 years. It is not likely, however, that these supplies will ever be needed, as it is probable that before many decades have passed power will be gained in other ways.

The High Point Citizen says that a subscriber informed that paper a few days ago, that Jacob Cox, a citizen of Randolph county, some time ago married his third wife within six weeks after the death of his first, and does not seem to think matrimony a failure. This beats the Georgian who, one day last week, married his third wife within ten months.—Lexington Dispatch.

It Was Ordered.

In the biography of Prince Bismarck it is said that when he was minister at St. Petersburg he was walking one morning in the summer garden and met the czar, who invited him to join him.

Presently Bismarck noticed a sentry stationed in the middle of a large grass plot and asked the aid-de-camp, who in turn inquired of the sentry.

"It is ordered," was his reply.

Every official gave the same answer, "It is ordered," but nobody knew by whom. A sentry had always stood guard in the middle of that innocent grass plot. The archives were searched, but in vain. At last an aged official was found, who had been told by his father that the Empress Catherine had once seen a snowdrop ready to bloom in the spot, and had ordered a sentry to stand guard and allow no one to pluck it. For more than a century the watch had been maintained because "it was ordered," and no one had ever thought of disobeying or of questioning the reason of the order.

Red Hair the Best Wearer.

Why are redheaded people less subject to baldness than those with fair or brown hair? An English physician has answered this conundrum.

The hair of the redheaded is relatively thick, one red hair being as thick as five blond or three brown hairs. With 80,000 red hairs the scalp is well thatched. With the same number of blond hairs one is almost bald. It takes 160,000 blond and 105,000 brown hairs to cover adequately an ordinary head.

TETTER ON THE HANDS.

For several years I was a sufferer from tetter on my hands. It would come in little watery pimples and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took it my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well. MRS. M. E. KING. Burlington, N. C., May 27, 1896.

BE CURED OF GRIP!

The Wonderful Results Obtained in the Case of Supt. Davidson.

Now, what is the grip?
Can it be avoided or prevented?
And can it be cured?

Grip is characterized by a continued fever, by a tendency to inflammation of the membranes of the digestive and often the respiratory tracts, by pain in the muscles, and by debility.

The grip in individual cases varies from a slight indisposition to severe forms with grave symptoms—these variations depending wholly upon the health, age, temperament or nervous condition of the person. Those predisposed to rheumatism suffer great pain in the muscles; persons of nervous temperament become low spirited, often have hysteria, and, if not closely watched, have been known to commit suicide. Several cases of this sort have been reported this month in the newspapers. Headache is a constant symptom. The bowels are generally constipated. Whatever form the disease takes there is invariably extreme prostration. The danger to persons in previous healthful condition is slight.

It has been absolutely proven that there is one certain preventive of serious cases of grip; and that there is one remedy for persons suffering with it, or beginning to be convalescent from its attack.

The unexampled public demand for Paine's celery compound during the last two months—and the proprietors of this remedy have never known so great a call for it—has been due to its use by thousands of people for whom it has been prescribed by intelligent physicians, to restore the patient's vitality, to purify the blood of the enervating poison, to restore the nervous system to healthy action and to strengthen the vital organs.

A person will continue to suffer from the evil effects of grip for many months unless he attacks the disease by getting rid of the unnatural unhealthy poisons in the system supplying the body with new blood, arousing the healthful action of the kidneys, liver and digestive organs, and nourishing and upbuilding the over-exerted and debilitated nervous system. All this and just this Paine's celery compound will do. In the multitude of cases where it has been used, it has never failed.

A case well known in Chicago is cited. Mr. Frank E. Davidson, who is one of the most brilliant and best known engineers in the world, had just finished the plans for the great intercepting sewer system of Chicago, which is to divert the entire sewerage of the city from Lake Michigan, through the famous Chicago drainage canal, and down the Mississippi. Superintendent Davidson had worked for months on this scheme. He was well exhausted and took to his bed with an attack of the grip. After a while the disease not having left him, he was advised to try Paine's celery compound. He was soon back at his office in the department of public works, a well man, and forthwith wrote a letter to the proprietors of the remedy, in which he says:

"I had been told by friends of the wonderful results obtained by them from the use of Paine's celery compound. After my severe attack of the grip I determined to try it. I have already found that my friends' reports were not at all exaggerated, and I wish to join most cheerfully with them in recommending the remedy to others."

Hundreds of grateful letters have been written to the proprietors of Paine's celery compound since the appearance of grip this year, telling of the perfect recoveries it has effected. The letters come from men and women of many conditions. Few persons are so poor they cannot afford to have this great remedy constantly in the house, and none are so prosperous that for their health's sake they can afford to be without it.

When so many men and women whose words carry the utmost weight in the communities in which they live testify as they do to the great benefit they have received from Paine's celery compound, there can be no hesitancy in trying it. A single trial is the test which is confidently invited.

The Cincinnati Post states that James P. Williams, a Milldale electrician, has lately secured a patent for a device which he claims will prevent collisions on railroads. It consists of an electric dynamo, which is placed under the trucks of all engines and operated on the principle of the generation of electricity by induction. Williams claims that the two trains will become cognizant of the presence of each other on the same track at three miles distance by an arc light in the cab of each engine. The Post says Mr. Williams has been offered $25,000 for the invention, but refused.

The above figures tell a remarkable story; they represent almost exactly the per centage of cures made by the wonderful new constitutional cure for RHEUMATISM. The other two per cent. were not curable, or failed to take medicine according to directions. Thousands have been cured. In view of the fact that many physicians think that rheumatism is incurable, and that most remedies fail, it must be true that RHEUMACIDE is the greatest medical discovery of the age. Particulars and testimonials of many well known people sent free to all applicants.
