WINE OF CARDUI

For Mothers!

The discomforts and dangers of child-birth can be almost entirely avoided. Wine of Cardui relieves expectant mothers. It gives tone to the genital organs, and puts them in condition to do their work perfectly. That makes pregnancy less painful, shortens labor and hastens recovery after child-birth. It helps a woman bear strong healthy children.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui has also brought happiness to thousands of homes barren for years. A few doses often brings joy to loving hearts that long for a darling baby. No woman should neglect to try it for this trouble. It cures nine cases out of ten. All druggists sell Wine of Cardui. $1.00 per bottle.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the Ladies' Advisory Department, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. LOUISA HALE, of Jefferson, Ga., says: "When I first took Wine of Cardui we had to be married three years, but could not have any children. Nine months later I had a fine girl baby."

The above figures tell a remarkable story; they represent almost exactly the per centage of cures made by the wonderful new constitutional cure for RHEUMATISM. The other two per cent. were not curable, or failed to take medicine according to directions. Thousands have been cured. In view of the fact that many physicians think that rheumatism is incurable, and that most remedies fail, it must be true that RHEUMACIDE is the greatest medical discovery of the age. Particulars and testimonials of many well known people sent free to all applicants.

RHEUMACIDE

BROKE JAIL.

Prisoner Under Death Sentence Escapes.

Pitt county jail has had another delivery, and Lorenza Brown, colored, who at the last term of Court was convicted of rape and sentenced to be hanged on the 9th day of June, is at large. Sunday Sheriff Mooring and Deputy Mason were both at their homes in the country. It has been their custom on such days when they were both away to turn over the keys to Policeman Kennedy and leave him in charge of the prisoners. Sunday morning Mr. Kennedy went to the jail to see about giving the inmates their breakfast, when the prisoners set up a request to be allowed to spend the day outside of the cells in the corridor. Mr. Kennedy hesitated as to the condemned man, when they misrepresented the case to him and told him that they all, including Brown, had been allowed this privilege. The officer yielded and they were all left in the corridor. About dark that evening when Policeman Kennedy went back to the jail Brown was gone, and a large hole in the north-west corner of the brick wall, about the same place where previous escapes had been made, told the tale. It is believed that the prisoners had planned for the condemned man to escape and that they helped him to cut through the wall and get away. None of the others attempted to get away, as they were all serving only short term sentences. It being so easy for prisoners to cut through the brick wall they should not be allowed the liberty of the corridor any more.

A RUN AWAY.

Three Ladies Meet an Accident.

Sunday afternoon two daughters of Mr. James Pollard and a daughter of a Mr. Warren, who live about six miles above town on the other side of the river, were returning home from a visit below Greenville. As they were driving into town over the hill near Mr. J. A. Lang's a portion of the harness broke. This frightened the horse and the animal put off in a run up Third street. The ladies were unable to manage the horse and their screams attracted quite a number of people. When the horse reached the corner of Greene street he took a short turn and all of the ladies were thrown out of the buggy. Fortunately they were not injured except to receive a few slight bruises. The buggy collided with a well a short distance from the corner and the vehicle was turned over and the horse stopped. Friends procured other teams and carried the young ladies home. They were badly frightened over their exciting experience.

Dissolution Sale.

One member of the firm of Brown & Hooker has decided to retire from business, which will necessitate a dissolution of the firm. To reduce stock preparatory to the dissolution they will dispose of their goods at cost, a special sale for this purpose beginning on Wednesday. They have a large new stock of this season's goods that are to be disposed of in this cost sale. See announcement in this issue.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina.

Herrings sold the past week at Nichol's fishery for 25c per thousand.—Plymouth Beacon.

H. W. Cox, of Blounts Creek, while hauling his seine Wednesday caught an alligator nine feet long and club footed at that. Those who pretend to know say his alligatorship was at least one hundred years old.—Washington Messenger.

By phone we learned last night the planing mill that was removed from Washington to Bell Haven, was burned, together with five cars of the Norfolk and Southern Railway that were standing on the track. The dry kilns were saved.—Washington Messenger.

Thad Walston, of Speights Bridge while fishing with hook and line in Contentnea Creek, caught a small pocket knife. The blades of the knife were all eaten up by rust, showing that it had been lost for quite a number of years. The water in which this knife was caught was about eleven feet deep.—Wilson Times.

Rev. E. C. Glenn, who has been in poor health for some time, will go to Baltimore today for treatment in Johns Hopkins Hospital. His niece, Miss Lena Hartsell, will accompany him. During Mr. Glenn's absence his pulpit in Central Methodist church will be filled by Mr. Harry North, a divinity student of Trinity College.—Raleigh Post.

Strongly Endorsed.

The Fun Makers arrived this morning and will give their opening performance in the opera house tonight. They appeared in Kinston three nights of last week, and in speaking of them the Free Press says:

"Throughout this is a first-class, deserving company, and all who were present expressed the opinion that is it the best that has been here in a long time."

Manager Burch also received a telegram from S. H. Loftin, of Kinston, saying "The Fun Makers are all right, best satisfaction this season."

The opening play tonight will be a four-act Irish comedy "Inshavogue, or the Belle of St. Stephens."

Order Revoked.

The interference by the Internal Revenue Department with the time-honored, innocuous Southern customs of dealers, pinhookers and warehousemen reselling leaf loose on the warehouse floors was happily shortlived. The Commissioner saw the error of his order, and revoked it before any serious hurt was done. We confidently expected such action, but must acknowledge not quite so quickly.

It is well. The storm that was brewing has passed over.

The blame for the whole trouble and the few bad days given to the leaf people is laid at the door of a special agent of the Department. The gentleman, visiting Danville, thought he had discovered a flagrant violation of the law, and the Commissioner says that he was influenced by this special agent's representation of the state of affairs and that it was all a misunderstanding. Further investigations revealed that the Government's interests were in no wise endangered; that the transactions in question were legitimate, and that to put a stop to them would work hardships to a number of towns and a good many people.

So the leaf business on the markets of the South will go on as heretofore. Commissioner Wilson is to be commended and to be thanked for the prompt revocation of his order.—Southern Tobacco Journal.

A Slip Twixt Cup and Lip.

There are lots of things that don't happen. A marriage in Gastonia last Sunday is one of them. The young man got his license all right; yes, he did, and the girl it seemed was willing. But the old people were opposed to allowing this ease of love to run too smoothly. The license was procured, the time set, the magistrate notified, the groom was ready, and a detail of young men sent in the dead hours of Saturday night to steal the girl. But lo and behold! when they approached the back window to receive the waiting, trembling bride, whom should they see but the old man sitting at the window loaded for bear. They didn't get the girl and the marriage is among the things that were scheduled but never happened.—Gastonia Gazette.

Will Destroy Each Other.

Probably out of this very multiplication of the Trusts will come the remedy for the evil they do. The time must soon come when they will tear and rend each other as wolves do when there are more wolves than mutton. The principle of competition is only held temporarily in abeyance. It is not destroyed. It will surely vindicate itself. When prices shall have been advanced so as to earn dividends on overcapitalized enterprises on a more solid basis will inevitably be brought into existence to dispute for the possession of the markets. This result does not need to be foretold. Perhaps the most philosophical view of the industrial evolution now going forward is that taken by ex-Congressman Hewitt, "that when industry has been sufficiently centralized, and the ownership widely diffused through the distribution of shares, the workmen will gradually acquire these shares and control the property they represent." This is a hopeful glance into the future. Mr. Hewitt takes cognizance of the fact that there are two forms of Trusts which dispute the supremacy. The labor unions are also combinations in restraint of trade. They aim to put up the price of labor, whilst the other Trusts seek to raise the prices of commodities. In the end the two sorts of combinations must reach a common understanding.—Philadelphia Record.

How to Make Your Local Paper Newsy.

The following from an exchange is true and to the point:

A well-meaning, communicative citizen is a boon to the newspaper reporter, as it is a noticeable fact that many good items are lost to the newspaper every week by the modesty of the people who hesitate to tell the editor matters concerning themselves. The right thing to do is to stop the newspaper man on the street or any other place you may see him, and tell him you have been on a visit, have been entertaining friends, or anything that is in any way a matter of news. If you have done anything mean keep that to yourself for he already knows that, for there are others who make it their business to tell things of that kind.

The Terms of Senators.

It is a singular fact that the least important of the States, Nevada, has two Senators whose terms exceed in the aggregate those of any two States since the beginning of the government. Senator Stewart was elected for the first time in 1864, and was twice re-elected. After being out of the Senate for twelve years, 1875-87, he has just finished a second service of twelve years. Senator Jones has been elected five times; and in 1903 will attain Benton's record of thirty years. Senator Allison will complete his thirty years in the Senate at the same time. Senator Cockrell will have to remain in the Senate until 1905 to attain the length of service of the great Missourian. Senator Teller would have a record of a quarter of a century had he not resigned in 1882 to enter President Arthur's Cabinet. Morgan, of Alabama, is nearing the quarter of a century mark. The other Senators whose service will reach, and may exceed twenty years are Platt and Hawley, of Connecticut; Hale and Frye, of Maine; Hoar, of Massachusetts; Vest, of Missouri; Aldrich, of Rhode Island, and Daniel of Virginia.

A Big Haul.

Captain David Bell, living near Weeksville, in lower Pasquotank county, hauls a small seine of 600 yards at the mouth of Newbegun Creek, a tributary of Pasquotank River. He made a haul of herrings on Monday morning of last week that is unprecedented in the history of that historic stream. He enclosed a haul of one hundred thousand herrings, and staked out his seine, being unable to land them in a body. He landed them in sections and disposed of them as they were landed. It was a picnic for the neighbors. He sold sixty thousand, by actual count. He distributed among his needy neighbors some ten thousand, and he lifted his net and turned loose about thirty thousand.—Elizabeth City Economist.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A PLEASANT, SIMPLE BUT SAFE AND EFFECTUAL CURE FOR IT.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases causing a pressure on the heart and lungs, and difficult breathing; headaches, feeble appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surface of the stomach. To secure prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanston the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic, Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 2710 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., says: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of the stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book, mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

Thomas Jefferson on Newspapers.

Mr. T. Jefferson, concerning whom there is a good deal of talk these days, was not an editor but he knew a good thing when he saw it. In speaking of newspapers he once said if he had to decide between a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, he would take the newspapers every time. And yet there are some people who never take newspapers.—Wilmington Star.

It's True.

That advertising doesn't pay—unless it's followed up properly.

That an advertisement which costs nothing is usually worth nothing.

That no advertising man ever was successful who didn't learn from his mistakes.

That a little fire may start a big blaze—but if you don't keep on feeding it, it'll go out.

That many a man lays a failure, due to loose business methods, at the door of his advertising department.—Plain Talk, Chicago.

TETTER ON THE HANDS.

For several years I was a sufferer from tetter on my hands. It would come in little watery pimples and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took it my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well. MRS. M. E. KING, Burlington, N. C., May 27, 1896.

HUMOR

Sounded Ominous.

It was Scythe's wedding day, and he was teasing his boy brother-in-law.

"Well, Johnny," he said, "I'm going to take your sister away and have her all to myself, and you won't see her any more."

"No, really—are you?" said the boy curiously.

"Yes, I am. What do you think of it?"

"Nothing. I fancy I can stand it if you can."—Denver Tribune.

A Pleasant Prospect.

Prospective Lodger.—The main thing is that I get a room in quiet house.

Landlady.—Oh, this is a quiet house, sir! In the next room a singer lodges, and if it were not quiet he couldn't practice all day long, as he does now.—Lustige Blatter.

Cheering.

"Don't you have some uneasiness as to the result of this operation, doctor?" anxiously inquired the patient.

"Not a bit," cheerfully answered the surgeon, arranging his instruments so they would be handy when needed. "My dear sir, at least 15 per cent of the operations of this nature are entirely successful."—Chicago Tribune.

One Comfort.

First Actor.—Well, the medical guy says I've got paresis coming on.

Second Actor.—That ain't so bad as it looks. You know, a fellow with that is generally happy, and, besides, you ought to make a good living writing vaudeville sketches.—Indianapolis Journal.

Grounds For Devotion.

"I'm fond of you, Billy, and that's a fact."

"Is that so? We don't see each other often."

"No, but when I dream I'm hard up I always dream that you lend me some money."—Chicago News.

His Outfit.

"I want my snowshoes, my chest protector, my fur overcoat and an oil stove."

"Why, where on earth are you going?"

Still in the Ways of His.

This story was told by a Boston plumber: "Some years ago one of the city missions up home had a job of plumbing done at its meeting house. The work was much more extensive than showed on the surface, and when the bill was presented the minister in charge insisted he was being robbed. He made a frightful kick, and had several red-hot interviews with the boss of the shop. After the last and warmest of these confabs he returned to the mission sizzling with wrath and found a well known local character awaiting him. The fellow had been a notorious professional crook, but growing too old and rheumatic for safe cracking he concluded to mend his ways, and the parson had promised to aid him in getting an honest start.

"Well, James," said the parson sympathetically, "have you decided on what you want to do?"

"Yes, boss," replied the ex-crook. "Seeing as how I'm a pretty good mechanic, I thought I might open a bit of a shop."

"A shop!" replied his benevolent friend. "What kind of a shop?"

"A plumber's shop," said the burglar.

"Oh!" exclaimed the minister, rising suddenly and picking up his hat. "I was under the impression that you wanted to reform."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Saved by Tact.

A down town woman, who is known among her friends as a decidedly stylish person, but who is quite indifferent to her toilet when at home, had an experience a short time ago which gave her quite a shock at the time. She had given a dinner party one day at which a very distinguished Englishman was entertained. The foreigner was quite captivated by the charming hospitality of his hostess, and when on his way to the station to leave the city the next day he stopped at the house to pay his respects. All the servants were out, and the mistress of the house was by no means dressed for company. She was expecting the arrival of a new gown at the time, and thinking that the ring was that of a messenger boy bringing it she went herself, in very slipshod attire, to the door.

To her horror, when she opened the door, she saw the face of the distinguished Englishman. To her joy, however, he asked if her mistress was in. This cue was all that was needed. Quick as a flash she replied, "No, sir; she's out riding." Without recognition the visitor left his card and went away with a decided opinion of the untidy appearance of Philadelphia servants.—Philadelphia Record.

A Waiter's Dilemma.

It was in one of the large down town restaurants that the short little woman and her tall husband went for dinner one night.

"Will you have oysters?" asked the man, glancing over the bill of fare.

"Yes," said the short little woman, as she tried in vain to touch her toes to the floor. "And, John, I want a hassock."

John nodded, and, as he handed his order to the waiter, he said, "Yes, and bring a hassock for the lady."

"One hassock?" asked the waiter, with what John thought more than ordinary interest, as he nodded in the affirmative. Still the waiter did not go, but brushed the tablecloth with a towel and rearranged the articles on it several times, while his face got very red. Then he came around to John's side, and, speaking sotto voce, said: "Say, mister, I haven't been here long, and I'm not on to all these things. Will the lady have the hassock broiled or fried?"—Chicago Chronicle.

Graveyards in China.

The wife of an American naval officer stationed at Tien-tsin writes thus to a friend in Baltimore: "The trip by train from the landing to Tien-tsin takes about an hour and a half. The cars are not palatial, but they are comfortable. When you land, hundreds of coolies besiege you for your baggage. You wonder how it ever reaches its destination in safety. The trip is somewhat interesting, but rather desolate to take alone. You pass through miles of graveyards. There are thousands of mounds without a sign of green grass or green leaf.

"China seems to be one vast graveyard, for they bury their dead anywhere they wish. They bury in large coffins placed on the surface of the ground, covered over with mud and earth. This is blown and washed away, and then the coffins are exposed to view. A few miles from the railroad station on the river you come to trees and vegetation. It reminds you of some of the spots that some of our reporters have gone through."

How Frozen Insects Revive.

Experiments in reviving frozen insects, by Mr. S. F. Aaron, show some surprising results. A large cecropia moth, frozen in the center of a snowball until it was perfectly brittle, revived in 30 seconds when held in a stove. Several newly hatched moths revived in a similar manner after being frozen stiff and then thawed out. Similar experiments with ants, butterflies and house flies gave the same results. But Mr. Aaron noticed that newly hatched insects resist cold better than older ones.

Man Drowned.

Friday afternoon a colored man named Ross Rouse was drowned at Tingle's seine hole, a few miles below Grifton. The body was found Saturday morning and foul play being suspected the Coroner was notified. Coroner Laughinghouse went down to investigate but found no evidence of foul play and the jury returned a verdict that the drowning was accidental. It seems that Rouse with two other parties had gone fishing and the day being warm he concluded to go swimming. He began diving in the water and after making several plunges failed to come up again.

Substantial Improvement.
A man who had not seen Greenville in many months, remarked on a recent visit that he knew of no town making better improvement than this. He said he had seen towns have spasmodic booms through speculative influences and soon fall back into a worse condition than before, but he was glad to notice that Greenville's improvements were being made by home people, with home capital and in the interest of home enterprise, the kind of improvement that is substantial and permanent.
