DR. J. P. BROWN

One of Our Oldest Citizens Dead

Dr. Jesse P. Brown died at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at his residence on Pitt street. The interment took place this morning in the Methodist cemetery, services being conducted by Rev. N. M. Watson. The pall bearers were Messrs. L. C. Arthur, James Brown, J. B. Jarvis, G. E. Hrrris, Wiley Brown and N. H. Whitfield.

The deceased was born in Belvoir township, this county, Dec. 2nd, 1834, making him in his 65th year at the time of his death. He first began studying medicine in Greenville under Dr. W. M. B. Brown and afterwards attended Richmond College from which he graduated in 1862. He also took a diploma in the University of New York in 1866. He was the first commissioned surgeon in the Army of Virginia.

After the war Dr. Brown returned to his native county and located in the neighborhood of his old home, and some years later moved to Greenville where he spent the remainder of his life. He united with the Methodist church here in 1894. He leaves a widow to survive him, his only child, Mrs. J. D. Bullock, of Oxford, having died a few weeks ago.

THEIR ONLY CHILD.

Death of Little Hebert White.

Herbert Augustus, aged 14 months, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. White, died at their home on Fourth street at 11 o'clock, Saturday night, May 27th, after an illness of several days. The interment took place in Cherry Hill Cemetery at 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the burial service being conducted by Rev. A. W. Setzer. The pall bearers were Messrs B. E. Parham, Frank Wilson, D. J. Whichard, H. P. Strause, W. L. Brown J. L. Fleming, H. W. Whedbee and R. D. Cherry.

Mr. and Mrs. White have the deepest sympathy of the entire community in this great sorrow that has come into their home by the taking away of their only child. Human consolation cannot heal their bleeding hearts, but may Hewhalone is the Great Comforter, and who said "Suffer the little children to come unto Me," give them His sustaining presence in this dark hour.

Made by The Orange Va. Observer.

A sight on wheels is the man learning to ride a bicycle.

Some men in aiming to tell the truth-always aim too low.

If a young man would stick to business he must use the glue of industry.

The best way for a boy to learn a bee sees is by putting his finger into the hive.

Joshua was the first man to stop a newspaper. He stopped the daily sun. It was because the war news didn't suit him.

"Would that I might end this existence," sighs a poet. This is not the first time a poet has been in entire accord with his readers.

The Mother Hubbard wrapper has one advantage. When a woman is tired of wearing it on dress parade, she can give it to her husband for a night shirt.

The girl who is always saying she wouldn't marry the best man living is pretty sure sooner or later to make the biggest kind of a fool of herself on account of some fellow not worth his salt, and for whom nobody else would give ten cents.

Part Overlooked

In printing the program of the closing exercises of Miss Richardson's school, in Saturday's paper, four of the numbers were overlooked. This was caused by the program being written on both sides of a sheet of paper, and this being contrary to printing office rules the printer very naturally did not look on the back side of his copy sheet. The following are the pieces omitted:

Duet—"Rondo No. 3," Helen Forbes and Helen Galloway.

Recitation—"Johnson's Opinion of Grandmother's," Zeno Brown.

Duet—"Charge of the Uhlans," Nina James and Bertha Patrick.

Chorus—"Good night."

Third Ward—in the Court room of Court House.

Corporations And Politics.

It is true that big railroad companies and other powerful corporations wield an influence in politics, and especially in legislative bodies, that is not generally recognized at its true value, and what is worse, this influence seems to be growing. It is not, of course, for a political principle that these corporations take such an interest in politics, but solely to secure legislation favorable to them or to prevent measures that might prove unfavorable. But they are only exercising the right of every man in looking after his own interest, and sometimes we think that they have in part been forced into politics. Every calamity howler that can manage to secure an election to the legislature or Congress thinks it his only duty to throw rocks at the corporations and men with money, and it is but natural that they should strive to counteract this influence. The government is not for only a part of the people, and even the rich should be made to feel that their property rights will be respected by all parties.—Durham Herald.

Years ago the whipping post as a punishment for crime was abolished in this country as a relic of barbarism. Now it is coming into favor again. In Delaware and one or two other States certain offences are punished at the whipping post, and in New York its establishment for wifebeaters is being agitated. The Landmark believes that the whipping post is a good and useful institution. It is certainly the medicine that habitual wife-beaters need and ought to have, and we believe that it would prove effective in the case of many other offences, where the jail, the chain gang and the State prison have failed as a deterrent. The whipping post is at least an inexpensive form of punishment and it might be just as well to give it a trial and let the latter day criminals become acquainted with the medicine administered to their kind a generation or so ago.—Statesville Landmark.

A Chicago Judge has decided that no damages can be collected by abutting property owners on account of elevated railroad construction, since sound public policy demands that the interests of the few should give way to the rights of the many. If this judicial view shall be confirmed by the tribunals of final resort in Illinois a new and startling standard of equity will have been established in that up-to-date Commonwealth.

Sampson Unhonored.

Nothing would better illustrate the estimate put on Admiral Sampson than the decorations here during the peace jubilee. While likenesses of the President, Wheeler, Lee and Dewey are in abundance, that of Admiral Schley is over every other building on Pennsylvania avenue. It is a noticeable fact, and one commented on in the papers here, that the face of Sampson is not seen throughout the full length of Pennsylvania avenue. His name is on none of the banners, while those of Hobson, Wheeler, Dewey, Otis and Schley are everywhere, and cheered lustily everywhere.

This omission is especially significant, when it is remembered that most of Sampson's life has been spent in Washington, and that he calls it home.—Washington Dispatch.

Editor men sometimes receive obituary notices containing five or six verses of home made poetry. These verses are most always disjointed, disconnected, and often without meter and rhyme. People feel saddened over the death of a friend and, as an act of kindness, often attempt to write poetry. This is a very grave fault and should not be attempted. If you wish to remember a departed friend say what you wish, in a few plain words and don't write a long obituary. Long obituarie likes long funeral discourses, are always in decidedly bad taste. When you talk long you almost unavoidably say something that you could better have left unsaid.—Orange Va. Observer.

Nine years ago the late Virginius Land, of upper Edgecombe, planted two hundred and thirty-five acres in pecan trees. More than seven-eighths of these trees are alive and flourishing and beginning to bear. Many of them are of the mammoth variety and bring readily from four to six dollars per bushel. As these trees are persistent bearers the harvest from now on will yield a small fortune each year. Twenty years ago a northern man went to Alabama and planted an orchard of three hundred acres. He is now a retired capitalist with an annual income of thousands of clear dollars from his pecans. The only reason our farmers here have not made money this way must be the lack of patience to await developments. This is all so.—Rocky Mount Motor.

With the "Fire-Baptized Baptist" condemning their members for smoking and chewing tobacco, and calling on them to be clean shaven; and the German Baptist deciding that instrumental music should not be taught among the brotherhood, and that neckties should only be worn for purposes of comfort, and not of appearance, and excluding raisers of tobacco from representation in the district or annual conferences, it looks as if the era of blue laws was swinging around again, with its hide-bound restrictions. But this is the age of new fads and notions along this line, and the "good old-time religion" is losing much of its sweetness in the electric current of sensationalism and the prescribed forms of the platter.—DurhamSun

John W. Leazar, a farmer of Sandy Ridge, was in town with a bale of cotton Monday. Mr. Leazar is eighty-one years and five months old, and the proud father of several small children, the youngest of them being nine months old.—Salisbury Sun.

Notwithstanding the extent of and the certainty of beneficial returns from advertising, there are many business men who do not seem to appreciate the advantages of this method of communicating with the public. The chief reason for their failure to recognize the value of a good advertisement is their belief that the returns do not justify the financial outlay. But the fallacy of this contention is daily made apparent by the success of those merchants who have made advertising an essential part of their business systems. The pushing and ambitious tradesmen have thoroughly proved the money value of judicious advertising, and they would as soon think of going out of business altogether as to discontinue the regular use of the advertising columns of a newspaper which commands public confidence and possesses a leading clientele.—Philadelphia Record.

In Vienna the typhoid rate of 12.5 deaths per 10,000 inhabitants fell to 1.1 after a pure water supply was obtained. In Danzig the mortality fell from 10 per 10,000 to 1.5. In Munich after the introduction of a good water supply and proper sewerage the rate fell from 21 per 10,000 to 6.3, and in Boston from 17.4 to 5.6.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that potatoes are imported into this country in large quantities from Scotland and Germany; but such is the case. For the past five years, however, the Scotch yield has been so small as to preclude the exportation of any part of it; but this season the crop was large, and one ship alone brought 150,000 sacks.

Two Lewiston (Me.) young men who recently met a violent death were bound together about as closely as is possible without being of blood relation. They were almost twins; for they were born on the same day, baptized on the same day, took their first communion on the same day, were confirmed on the same day, married on the same day and died on the same day in the same way.

A scientist of some standing asserts that chemically pure water is poison to the human stomach. He upsets some hitherto good theories regarding distilled water by the argument that in distillation the water loses sundry salts which it greedily abstracts from the animal tissues when it is swallowed, thus constituting a protoplasmic poison.

Strange Things in Carolina.

The Citizen, of Pittsboro, says: A gentleman in this town has a cat that will drink camphor and if he smells it will mew for it. If a drawer is opened in which has been a camphor bottle, the cat will jump into the drawer and tear up things in a hurry hunting for the camphor bottle.

Now comes the Greensboro Record and jumps in the ring with a snake story. It tells of two boys, that a day or two ago while in the woods they saw a robin making a great flutter and noise around a tree and one of the boys went up to investigate, when he found a nest with three black snakes in it devouring the eggs. The boy investigated no further, but came down the tree much faster than he went up.

The Winston Journal learns of a remarkable goose in Davie county. It was owned by the late Mrs. T. Spray, of Advance, who died a few weeks ago. The goose has reached the age of 27 years, all this time in the possession of Mrs. Spray. From this goose the owner has made four large feather beds. This can be vouched for by Mr. Bailey on whose land she resides. The goose is still alive.

WINE OF CARDUI
For Mothers!
The discomforts and dangers of child-birth can be almost entirely avoided. Wine of Cardui relieves expectant mothers. It gives tone to the genital organs, and puts them in condition to do their work perfectly. That makes pregnancy less painful, shortens labor and hastens recovery after child-birth. It helps a woman bear strong healthy children.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui has also brought happiness to thousands of homes barren for years. A few doses often brings joy to loving hearts that long for a darling baby. No woman should neglect to try it for this trouble. It cures nine cases out of ten. All druggists sell Wine of Cardui. $1.00 per bottle.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. LOUISA HALE of Jefferson, Ga., says: "When I first took Wine of Cardui we had been married three years, but could not have any children. Nine months later I had a fine girl baby."

WINE OF CARDUI

This is The Right Talk.
While the South stands solidly for Bryan, if by any chance some one else is nominated, the South will still remain solid. While, of course, the South has preferences in matters political, she ever remains loyal to the party.—Durham Herald.

Of all the lingering vestiges of the South as it was before the war, none is held as dear by true Southerners as the old negro mummies, and the passing away of the dear old creatures is as much regretted as the passing of the South's war heroes. When the black mummies are all gone, then, indeed, will the ante-bellum South be a memory. When they go they go forever. The class becomes extinct, and not all the wealth and the art and the craft of this world can replace them or the conditions that made them.—Orange Va., Observer.

Careful attention given to all business entrusted to us.

A Material Element Generally Much Appreciated.

Of the great value of drugs and chemicals which occupy an important part in the commerce of the world little is known by the general public. The importation into the United States of balsams, herbs, beans, flowers, gums, herbs and leaves gathered from every part of the globe, amounts in value annually to nearly $10,000,000, while the exports of similar products from this country have now reached a total of about $19,000,000. But of the hundreds of different names on the list with which the importer and wholesale drug dealer are familiar there are scores which are almost perfect strangers to the lay mind. Along with alcohol, borax, opium, quinine and other well known drugs will be found cantharides, eccellus indicus, crystalline, lycopodium, meligan, catch, bacha, chicle and others of equally enigmatical character.

In this latter class might almost be mentioned sugar of milk, which occupies one of the most important positions in the drug transactions of the present day. The title of the drug would imply common knowledge, though, as a matter of fact, few understand its important uses. Time was when every ounce of this drug was imported from Europe. Today, thanks to American enterprise, it is manufactured in the United States on such an extensive scale that not only is the enormous domestic demand supplied by the homemade product, but large quantities are annually exported. When it was imported, the wholesale price was 30 cents a pound. Now it has declined to 8 cents.

History says that sugar of milk was first prepared in 1610, although not introduced into medicine until 1698. It is used almost entirely by pill manufacturers on account of its neutral, filling properties. It is absolutely neutral, inodorous and with a slightly sweet taste. As a vehicle for all manner of pulverized medicines it is perfect. Acids and drugs of all kinds with which it may be mixed do not have any effect upon it nor it upon them, and in the human stomach it is most easily disposed of.

It is manufactured from the whey of cow's milk, and is really a byproduct of milk. The process is one of evaporation and recrystallization. Switzerland once had a monopoly of its manufacture. Now Illinois leads the world, while a large factory has been started in New York state, which gives promise of producing as much as its western predecessor. Such has been the success of the American industry that the product is shipped even to Switzerland, where it is able to compete satisfactorily with the European makers.

In crystalline form it resembles rock candy, being white in color. The growing demand for it has been caused by the development of patent medicines by pill and tablet makers, where it is desired. It is not to be exported in the form of powder, owing to the reason that the freight cost of the powder is too high. The cost of ocean transportation has been largely increased.—New York Tribune

The oldest medical recipe is said by a French medical journal to be that of a man made for an Egyptian queen. It is dated 400 B. C. and directs that dogs' paws and asses' hoofs be boiled with dates in oil.

WIN A STOVE!

There is on exhibition at our store a full nickel plated

BUCK'S JUNIOR RANGE

Every little girl wants it, and one little girl shall have it. On the 15th of July we will present it to the little girl under fourteen years of age, who cuts out the greatest number of Buck's Trade Marks in the advertisement below and brings them to our store. They must be done up in neat packages and the number and name written plainly on each package. Now girls get your friends to help you, save every Trade Mark and see who can win the prize.

The purpose of this contest is to make this Trade Mark known in every household so that it may never be forgotten. It will be printed in all our advertisements. It is prominently displayed upon every one of Buck's Stoves and Ranges and carries with it the broadest guarantee of excellence. No stove can possibly be made which is better than any one of The Great White Enamel Line. We sell them in preference to all others, and carry a full line of all kinds and sizes. Ask to see Buck's Stoves and Ranges.

Respectfully,
 HIGGS & TAFT.
