MONDAY, AUGUST 21, 1899.

Aguinaldo should now place a lawyer at the head of his War Department and proceed with the fight.

It was wrong to demand absolute and unconditional surrender of the insurgent Filipinos. What we should have done was to offer them independence under our protection. War would have thus been averted.

Railroads.

One who has given the matter a moment's serious and fair consideration will hardly undertake to maintain that land and houses in North Carolina have been assessed so nearly at their true money value as railroad property. This being true if one holds that all property should be assessed equitably, he will not encourage an increase of assessment of one class of property without a similar increase for all others. But if he holds that railroad property is peculiarly liable to extra taxation or assessment, he should say so. That will at least relieve him of the necessity of upholding an inconsistent contention.

There are not a few people in North Carolina who seek to impose burdens upon the railroads because they think it is popular. There are a few who have a grudge against the railroads and fight them in spite. They urge ownership now, and that failing they cry for reduced rates, and that failing they demand increase of taxation. If they get nothing else, they can count upon getting applause from that class of people which is ever ready to hail any opponent of anything as a deliverer. An honest man will seek to avoid being used by such men.

There is another class who perceive that by their nature railroads have great influence, and they seek to restrain them. There is no doubt that human beings can not be entrusted with too much power, whether they be organized as farmers, or Christians or capitalists. While anyone is rather to be praised for being ready to restrain any set of men from dangerous power, no one should be made a tool of by designing politicians or by envious agitators.

Railroads are essential to the material progress of the State; they are of great use in promoting civilization; newspapers and schools and enlightenment follow their tracks as well as commerce, stores, buyers and sellers. Moreover, they serve a purpose in religious advancement. Our Conventions are not a little dependent upon them. They contributed materially to the union of our North Carolina

Conventions. This being true their interest is every man's interest, and aside from the demands of justice, reason bids us be fair and considerate of them. Nothing is more foolish and unpatriotic than an unreasoning prejudice against them; nothing more senseless than an attitude of readiness to believe all evil that is reported of them; nothing more unpatriotic than to fight them for political capital; nothing more base than to harass them in spite. One should neither make war upon them nor be afraid to say what he honestly thinks about them; that is, one should be a man and treat them just as he treats anything else. That is all either the railroads or any one else may expect. In North Carolina public affairs partizan leaders carry their followers to extremes. We need a reign of calmness and of sanity and of common sense.—Biblical Recorder.

The cost of constructing good roads is the usual obstacle to road improvement, but the people of this country are beginning to learn that bad roads cost a great deal more than good ones. About $30,000,000 a year is spent in the United States in repairing roads, but most of it is wasted. It is applied to temporary patching up of roads or is thrown away on slipshod and worthless work which is soon lost and the roads as bad as ever. It is gratifying to observe a growing appreciation of the value of good roads and an increasing determination to have them.—Salisbury Sun.

Rev. Dr. Broughton, of Alanta, who recently created some local disturbance over the views he expressed from his pulpit about the lynching of negroes, is now preaching in Northern churches on the race question. He tells the Northern people that the negro's right to vote must be taken away from him and not restored until he is qualified from an educational and moral standpoint to exercise the franchise. This line of argument is something new for northern ears, but Rev. Broughton is evidently making an impression. He follows it up by the declaration that South Carolina is the state where the colored people are the happiest and most prosperous. There are no lynchings there and there is a constant influx of negroes into South Carolina from the other States. This, he explains, is because the negroes in South Carolina are not allowed to vote except within certain limitations. He believes that the whole country should redouble its exertions to educate the colored people and fit them for the ballot. This is exactly what it is proposed to do in North Carolina and a constitutional amendment has been drafted to that end.—Charlotte Observer.

Diversified Calamities in Our New Possessions.

Each of our new possessions seems to be the home of some destructive force or terrible malady that will call frequently for help from the parent country. In Porto Rico it is hurricanes, in Cuba it is yellow fever, in Hawaii it is volcanoes, in Guam it is leprosy, in Luzon in is endless floods, fevers and typhoons. The remaining one or two thousand islands of the Philippines will no doubt each develop a special calamity peculiarly its own. And for all these curses we are spending millions of money and thousands of lives of as brave men as ever kept back an invading army. The American people can never endorse such thing as this when in cold blood they have looked on them closely.—Asheville Citizen.

A Thrifty Government Clerk Drew a Big Salary and a Pension.

The Postoffice Department is confronted with a curious case. A few weeks ago the name of a clerk was brought to the attention of First Assistant Postmaster General Heath as an applicant for an increase of salary. Mr. Heath investigated the case and found that the man was drawing a salary of $1,600 per annum, but the chief of his division warmly endorsed his application for an increase, stating that the man was one of the hardest workers in his office, always at his desk, never missing a day for sickness or other cause, and that, in addition to his own work, he frequently helped out other clerks who were behind in their daily task. General Heath was about to order a substantial increase of salary. One day he was informed that the industrious clerk who never missed a day was carried on the pension roll as a totally disabled soldier, and was drawing a pension at the rate of $72 per month. This is the highest pension paid under the law, and the pensioners who draw this sum make an affidavit that they are totally disabled and so helpless that they require the constant attendance of a nurse or other attendant to feed them, give them their medicine and in other ways minister to their every physical want. Accordingly, that clerk who on the pension rolls was a physical wreck, drawing $72 per month and on the postoffice rolls was one of the best men in the service, drawing $1,600 per year, received no promotion.—Washington Dispatch.

Trade For Our Boys.

Our boys know a great deal, remarks an exchange, but the majority grow to manhood without learning to do anything well enough to earn their own living. Skilled labor, whether of the hands or head is always in demand. Too many boys, with no aptitude or training, drift into places which God never ment them to occupy, and dissatisfaction to themselves and their employers is an inevitable result. Peter the Great left the throne that he might learn how to build a ship and he learned thoroughly from stem to stern, from hull to mast. The Jews, wise in their day and generation, gave to every boy, of whatever station or wealth a trade. Many a college-bred boy needs to leave the throne of his ideal position and learn the things with which every day must deal. Or, rather it would be better with us if each boy learned a trade before he went to college. How many college boys can tell what kind of timber will bear the greatest strain or will last the longest under water. How many know how steel is made or even pig iron? Do all know lime-stone from sand-stone, or manganese from iron? Somebody says a surveyor's mark never gets higher from the ground on a tree. Can your college brothers tell you why so, quickly?—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Twenty-two cotton mills were built in Georgia last year. This beat the record of every other State except North Carolina, who showed up with 26 new mills for 1898.

During the latter part of last week there were several tobacco barns burned, and we have heard more reported in this county than in all the season previous.
Mr. C. M. Tucker, about two miles south of town, lost one Thursday night.
Mr. Allen Grimsley tenant on Mr. E. A. Moye's place, in Farmville township, lost a barn Friday.
Mr. H. A. Kittrell, of Farmville township, lost one Friday.
Mr. Richard Pippin, a tenant on Mr. R. L. Davis' place, lost one Friday.
Mr. Lewis Johnson, near the line of Pitt and Greene, lost one Friday.
Mr. Whitmell Hardee, just over in Greene, lost a barn Friday.
Mr. S. B. Hardee who lives a mile south-east of town, lost a tobacco barn by fire early Saturday night. The flames could be plainly seen from town.
There may have been some others burned during the stormy weather of which we did not hear. It seems to have been a bad week for fires.

The Board of Aldermen will have a special meeting tonight.

J. S. Norman began moving today into one of the new Rawls stores.

The weather is as hot as ever. Today was a particular warm one.

There's quite a difference between having to say something and having something to say.

WE MEAN THIS.—All who are indebted to us are requested to settle at once. Yours truly,

Thy Charge for Storage.

The North Carolina Car Service Association, to which most of the railroads in the State belong, have issued notices to persons receiving freight that all packages not removed within 48 hours after arrival will thereafter be subject to a charge for storage, the rate being 1 cent per 100 pounds per day, the minimum being 5 cents for any package. This charge is going to cause lots of kicking against the railroads.

KINSTON STEAM LAUNDRY.—Hot weather, keep clean, shipment made Wednesday evening.
V. J. LEE, Agent.

Doing the State an Injury.

The United States Court of Appeals at Richmond last week gave out two decisions in cases appealed from district courts in North Carolina. One reverses the decision of the lower court in the Stanly county bond case and sustains the contention of the Stanly county commissioners that they cannot be forced to pay either principal or interest on these bonds on account of a technical violation of the State constitution when the vote in the Legislature were taken on the bill authorizing the election. The vote should have been on three separate days. But the records show that two votes were taken on the same day. This act of repudiation will doubtless be sustained by the Supreme Court. But the avoidance of the payment of the debt through such a technicality is anything but creditable to the people of Stanly county. The other counties which are following in Stanly's footsteps to get out of the payment of honest debts are doing themselves and the State and injury.—Newton Enterprise.

Advertising Then and Now.

It is a deserved tribute to the sagacity of early European authors to say that they perceived more promptly even than the merchants of their times the value of advertising. In a work published in Paris as early as 1509 the writer subjoined the information that he did not lock away his "wares" like a miser, but that "anybody can carry them away for a very little money." There was a good deal of cleverness in that announcement. In a quaint and pleasant manner it suggested to the public that not only might the volume be bought, but that it might be purchased cheaply. In like manner the enterprising merchant of these times finds that the same suggestive advertising on a larger scale and in a first class newspaper will interest the public in his wares.—Philadelphia Record.

Mayor's Court.

Mayor Moye had a lighter court today than usual for Monday morning. His dealing with the violators has been such as to convince them that he means for order to be kept in town, and they are finding out that the best plan is to keep out of his court.

Silas Donaldson, for disorderly conduct and using profane and vulgar language, was fined $5 and costs, total $7.75.

Charlie Johnson, George Taylor and Albert Telfair, disorderly and using profane language. Johnson not guilty, others both guilty and fined $1 and costs each, a total of $3.35 each. The boys failing to have the money to pay were put at work on the streets.
