FRIDAY, AUGUST 25, 1899.

The esteemed Wilson News need not worry so much because the Greenville REFLECTOR and Durham Sun have an "underground" wire and are in speaking distance of each other. By the time the News man has been in business as long as "we two" he may learn something along that line. At any rate he should be glad THE REFLECTOR and Sun furnished him a topic to edify his own readers on. No doubt they enjoyed it in about the same proportion our readers do this.

People Not Represented in The Matter.

There is a lesson for somebody in the tragic death of Mrs. W. M. Matthews, of Providence township this county, Monday night. She has been insane and dangerous to herself and others for several months, and application was made for her admission to the State Hospital at Morganton. This had to be postponed because there was no room for her, and now she dies a shocking death by her own act. Whose fault is it? Certainly not that of her family; certainly not that of the hospital authorities, for they cannot in good conscience or in conformity to good public policy discharge one meritorious case to make room for another. It looks as if it were the fault of the legislators of North Carolina, who decline to provide the means for the care of the insane of the state.—Charlotte Observer.

"Helava."

The next dictionary published will contain many new words, among them the word "helava." When a man knocks around town until 3 o'clock in the morning and then gets up with a headache like a molasses barrel and a breath like a slaughter house, he always says he had a "helava" time. The word is a good one and should have a place in the dictionary.—Arkansas Thomaf Cat.

There was rather a strange arrest made in Raleigh Monday. A man by the name of John Campbell came to the jail to see his brother who was arrested about a week ago. After the man was inside the officers recognized him as a man for whom they had a capias. The doors were quietly locked, and the visitor became a prisoner.

THE ROUNDLAP BALE PRESS

Benefits to Farmers and Ginners Demonstrated in Operation.

Mr. T. W. Pratt, of Huntsville, Ala., is president of the West Huntsville Cotton Mill, and operates at the same place one of the largest ginning plants in the country. He has been using the roundlap bale for two years, and expects to put up 8,000 to 10,000 bales of 500 pounds each during the coming season. Mr. Pratt has also organized companies for building two very large roundlap bale plants at Tuscaloosa and Demopolis, Ala., and estimates that he will handle at these two points this year 30,000 to 40,000 bales of 250 pounds each or the equal of 15,000 to 20,000 square bales. In a letter to the Manufacturers' Record, giving his experience with his Huntsville plant, he says:

"We are ginners and cotton manufacturers, and operate ten 70-saw gins and four presses. For two years we have operated roundlap bale presses of the American Cotton Co. The first year we handled 2,200 500-pound bales, and the second year 5,100 500-pound bales. This year with a good crop in this vicinity, we expect to put up 8,000 or 10,000 bales. Our experience has been most satisfactory, both from a ginner's and a manufacturer's standpoint, and the fact that we have so largely increased our business is ample evidence that the planters are well satisfied. The universal opinion expressed by all customers is that they are more than satisfied. And why should they be otherwise? We gin and compress for $1 and pay the planters one-eighth cent premium on their crop, or if we buy in the seed as is now the rule here, we pay them on this basis, and they sell their load and get spot cash for it, thus saving much labor formerly necessary. Under the old process they paid $3 for ginning, made a trip to the gin with their load generally had to leave it and wait several days for ginning; and then made a second trip for the cotton and seed and another trip to market. In the spring we furnish them seed at the same price we paid when ginning was done, and they are then sure of getting good seed for planting, and only what they want. Hence there is no waste. Any planter who has dealt with us will certify to the fact that he can better afford to haul cotton twenty to thirty miles to our gin rather than gin near home, with the extravagant old-fashioned method. He can not only save time, but make money by so doing, and gets paid for all the cotton he brings, whether he sells at once or holds his crop. He also appreciates the saving in having the bale sampled once instead of many times, and he further understands that he gets a better grade than he does on the old country gins, owing to the superior machinery used for cleaning, etc. So much for the planter.

"Now let us see how the ginner stands. First, he can gin, cover and compress 500 pounds of lint in eight minutes, using a good outfit of five 70-saw gins to the press, and can do better with a larger battery. This can be done at a cost not exceeding forty cents all told, while the old process costs him not less than $1.25, including bagging and ties. In case the ginner wants to buy and sell cotton on his own account, most of the railroads of the South will allow him compress fees of eight and one-half cents per hundredweight, or forty-two and one-half cents per bale. If he wants to sell his cotton to the American Cotton Co., it allows him a premium of $2.25 per bale over the value of the same cotton in square bales at his locality, thus giving him $1.25 net after paying royalty of twenty cents per hundred weight for the use of the press maintenance of the same and regular inspections. The gin plant can be run with less labor and less cost of insurance than the old system, and if cotton is stored, four times as much can be placed in the same room.

"There is no chance of mixing bales of samples, owing to the perfect system in use, and no chance of losing cotton by country damage, as water will not permeate the bale, owing to all air being excluded in baling. The street buyer, sampler and cotton thief owing to complete covering, have no chance to get their 'anger in,' to use a common expression, as there is no necessity for cutting the covering under the American Cotton Co.'s sampling system.

"From a manufacturer's standpoint, the advantages of the system are too numerous to mention, but the best evidence of the advantages derived by the mills is that cotton finds a ready sale at a good premium over the square bale, and new mills are now being erected which will do away with bale breakers, opening lappers, etc. There is no necessity for middlemen, as the mills can buy direct from ginners or from the American Cotton Co., and be sure of getting what is ordered.

"The warehouseman who has handled the roundlap bale is loud in his praises. He has no 'turtle backs' to handle, no lost ties to replace, no damaged bales to pick and inspect, and he knows that the weight stamped plainly on the bur-lap covering is the actual weight of the bale, and will not vary. He can handle to the mills, load in cars or on wagons with half the help formerly required, and his warehouse is not littered up with cotton and dirt, as under the old system. The howl of the middlemen, 'town-croppers' handlers, compress stockholders and operators is but natural and expected, as they are hurt, and badly hurt. But who can blame them for trying to get up combines, compress trusts, regulation sized press boxes, laws to prevent the operation of the round bale system, and for telling all kinds of stories about hard cores (which do not exist), etc.? If they did not see the hard writing on the wall they would not be so vigorous in their efforts. But to the producers, ginners, carriers and consumers, the only four parties who are interested, the situation is entirely different, and especially to the producer, who, by reason of the low price of cotton, is compelled to adopt new and cheaper methods or give up the fight. The new system has come at a time when the planter most needed it, and those who have taken advantage of the system are free to state that but for this improved method and its economizing advantages it would be impossible for the cotton planter to continue on the farm."

Advertisements are Read and Studied.

The public are sure to find leisure every day of the week to read the advertisements in a favorite newspaper. As they must buy, they must know where to buy. Thus it comes about that good newspaper advertising furnishes the most available means of disseminating the information desired. The advertiser, therefore, need not be under the apprehension that his business announcements are not carefully perused when published in a reliable and widely circulated newspaper. In fact, they are more than read; they are studied.—Philadelphia Record.

Negroes Take a Town.

Burnswick, Ga., Aug. 23.—A thousand or more armed negroes captured the seaport town of Darien today and prevented the sheriff from removing Henry Donegal, a negro politician, from Darien to the train for Savannah, where he was to be carried for safe-keeping. Donegal had been in jail in Darien for a week, charged with assaulting a white woman, and the negroes of the surrounding country, believing he was to be lynched, massed and confronted the sheriff this morning as he was carrying Donegal to the train.

Governor Candler was wired for assistance, and he dispatched three military companies from Savannah for the place. They arrived in Darien tonight, ninety strong. A quick march was made to the jail and the mob of several hundred negroes was dispersed. Donegal was taken out of jail between rows of fixed bayonets and escorted doublequick to the railroad station, where a train was waiting. Forty-five of the soldiers were placed on board and the train pulled out for Savannah with them and the prisoner. The remainder, strengthened by the McIntosh Light Dragoons and armed citizens of Darien and surrounding country, then began to patrol the town.

The coming of the soldiers has temporarily restored quiet, but more trouble is feared, and the militia of Brunswick and Savannah are holding themselves in readiness to go to Darien.

There is so much clatter of hatchets and nail pullers opening new goods along main street that it sounds like a host of carpenters at work.

LOST.—A Southern Railway mileage book between Farmers Warehouse and Parham's factory. Finder will please leave same with B. E. Parham. L. W. STARKE.

Mr. S. M. Schultz says his mullet local in THE REFLECTOR sold his stock out in a hurry. There is no doubt about people reading what goes in this paper.

FOR SALE.—On Saturday, 26th, I will sell all my household and kitchen furniture at auction. Sale will take place at my residence, corner of Second and Greene streets, beginning at 1 o'clock P. M.
MRS. L. B. HARDING.

TO OUR FRIENDS.—We are now in our new store and want you all to make us a call. To our full stock of choice groceries we have added a nice line of dry goods and shoes, and we can now serve your needs for both the inner and outer man. Our new store is just opposite the Bank of Greenville and we will be glad to see and serve you.
J. L. STARKEY & BRO.

A Close Call.

During the latter part of that remarkable thunder storm last night, Policeman James Cunningham and an Observer reporter were standing at the Central Hotel corner of Independence Square. It was raining, though the moon was shining and each had an umbrella raised. Cunningham was giving the reporter a little bit of news of a confidential nature, when there came a flash and a crash, and the policeman found himself holding on the wreck of an umbrella. All the top part was torn away and the ribs protruded in a bent and twisted mass. The policeman felt no shock at all. Officer Garrison, standing on an opposite corner, says he saw the lightning strike the trolley wires, flash across the square overhead in four different directions.—Charlotte Observer.

Texas Has a Short Cotton Crop.

Dallas, Texas, August 23.—On account of the hot winds the cotton crop will not average more than a quarter of a bale to the acre, or two million bales for the entire State.
