Presbyterian Service.

Rev. J. B. Morton preached two splendid sermons in the Presbyterian church Sunday to large congregations. The morning disloaded with both whiskey and a course was on the blessings that are pistol. Jim started out the door | to him that overcometh, and the evening subject was unity of the churches. The latter sermon was one he had preached here before and it was repeated by request. There was good music at the services. Miss Robeson sang a solo with chorus in the morning and Charlie is seriously wounded and Mr. Hill C. Linthicum sang a solo at night.

Is now taking in the situation around Peter Harris, firing pistol and Manila. Now let Uncle Samrelieve Otis and give the Old Buttermilk Ranger a half chance and you'll very soon hear the insurgents calling for the calf rope. The name Buttermilk Ranger was given to our cavalry during the '60s. An army to be victorious must have confidence in their leader. Take the record of General Jackson. Why the soldiers under him knew no such thing as defeat, and to just say that Jackson's in the rear was enough to throw consternation in the camp of the enemy. Confidence is just as important in the commercial world, and the mere mention of the name creates a panic in the mercantile arena. We cannot understand how we can always get in the rear of their prices, but this is easily explained. For we have a leader that knows every hog path that leads to the different manufacturing plants of this country, and keeps posted. In this way you see we only buy from first hands, thereby saving the middle man's profit. Our buyer will soon arrived in Greenville and then-

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1899.

The question of tax valuations has recently had mad more discussion than it usually gets, and it may result in some reformation in listing when another assessment time comes. The railroads of the State thought they were assessed drinks alike, and none is ever certain too high this year, and that their valuation for taxation was not in proportion to the valuation of other | Tosspot, who drinks every drop. "That property over the State, so they took the matter before Judge Simonton on an injunction. The case came on for a hearing last week in Asheville and many of the State's best lawyers were there representing esch side. Hundreds den disinclination to drink further, of affidavits were introduced, some setting forth that other propyert was not assessed at full cash value but only at about two-thirds or the fourths value, and others affirming that property was assessed at its full value. At this writing a decision has not been given out, so it is not known yet how the matter will end. THE REFLECTOR does not take sides with the railroads in wanting the values assessed against them reduced, for we do locomotive. At first it filled me with not yet believe they are valued at near what they would bring in to be an old story with me. cash. On the other hand we believe, that to take the State over, other property in nine cases out of what was making all the rumble along ten is not assessed at near its actual cash value. According to our way of thinking all property should be the engine and then shoot across in assessed at its true value and then the tax rate should be made correspondingly lower. And such valuation should be made to bear on all alike in proportion to what they possessed.

One of the first words that a baby says is mamma, or mother, and it is not strange, therefore, to find it one of the first and simplest words in every language. There is no word easier for a child to say than "ma," unless it be "pa." In Hebrew and Arabic mother is "em" and "am;" it is "mam" in Welsh and "moder" in Anglo-Saxon. In other languages it is slightly different, but near enough like our own word "mother" to make it an almost universal word, so that a child crying in any language could be understood in almost any other language. Here are a few of the names: Madr in Persian; Matr in Sonscrit; Meter in Greek; Mater in Latin; Madre in Spanish; Mere in French; Moder in Swedish; Moder in Danish; Moder in Dutch; Mut-Mathair in Celtic .- Lewiston Jour- ment made Wednesday evening. nal.

She Upheld Her Dignity.

Some of the colored folks are bound to maintain their dignity. One of these ladies was employed by a wealthy Louisvillian who swore by the whole sale. Economy was no object to him when it came to cass words, and he scattered these pearls of speech over all subjects. The cook was a past grand mistress of her art. She knew what she knew and could turn out dreams from the skillet and oven, but she had ideas of her own dignity.

"One mawnin," said she, "I done cook a elegant brekfuss. Dere wuz chickin an 'taters an beat biskit an coffey an musi'ns, an dat man he come .25 down stairs, an he do talk scand'lous. .10 I lissen an I lissen. He cuss dis an he cass dat, an he mumb'l' to hisself, an I jes' couldn' stan' hit. I marches out, an I says, 'Sah, ef you don't lik' dis hyar cookin, say so, an I goes, but I

"'Hyar, gal,' says he. 'I likes dis cookin. Wot you mean bossin me when I cusses to my own wife?

"'Dat's all ri't.' I says mi'ty brash. 'but you don't cuss me er I goes.' "An sence den," declared the colored upholder of her rights and dignity, "ole marse jes' stuck on my cookin, an I'se de only pussen on de lot he neber cuss-

The old man is right. When you get a good cook, grapple her to you with hooks of steel, even if you have to leave off swearing.-Louisville Times.

Smelling the Glass.

Bartenders who pride themselves on their mixed drinks have a habit of smelling of the empty glass as soon as the customer has drained it. In this way they can tell to a dot whether they "hit it right" or not. I have not seen the bartender who can make two that he has guessed rightly the proportions of liquor and its disguises until after the olfactory test. "Fred, this isn't quite up to the mark," says so?" smelling of the glass. "You're right. Not enough curacoa. Let me make you another."

The worst telltale is the beer glass. Not one-tenth of the beer sold over the bar or in cases is fit for a dog to drink. If you are fond of a glass and it does not lie easily on the stomach, if there is an unpleasant after effect, a° disagreeable taste in the mouth or a sudsmell of the emptied glass, and the chances are that you will conclude you have been putting part of a cow lot inside of you. You will resolve never to touch that beer again, wherein you will be wise.

The same test may be applied to whiskies, wines and liqueurs, gins, rums, brandies and cordials. Many a man would save his breath and his stomach by employing his function of smell after the first drink. It is the surest prohibition I know.-New York Cross In Front of Engines.

"One of the oddest traits in animal nature," said an old time Illinois Central engineer, "is the desire of every living thing to cross in front of the wonder, and I used to lie awake nights trying to explain it. Now it's grown

"What goes in front of the engine? Why, everything. Let me see! I've seen snakes-and I'm a sober man, mind you-stick up their heads to see the right of way and then deliberately start to crawl across the rails. I've seen many a quail spring up along the right of way, fly along just ahead of front. Several times when I've been running a mile a minute the engine has struck these birds and killed them. In the old days I used to jump a deer now and then, and the chances were he'd cross the track every time. Cattle invariably do it until they have learned better; so do pigs and all domestic animals. Even chickens will run fluttering across.

"It seems to me I've killed enough animals to stock a farm and a menagerie."-Chicago Inter Ocean.

Coleridge's Cloudiness. There is in Mr. Ellis Yarnoll's interesting volume of reminiscences, "Wordsworth and the Coleridges," a very amusing story of Samuel Taylor Coleridge, whose thoughts were sometimes too profound even for poets to follow.

Wordsworth and Samuel Rogers had spent the evening with Coleridge, and as the two poets walked away together Rogers remarked cautiously: "I did not altogether understand the latter part of what Coleridge said." "I didn't understand any of it,"

Wordsworth hastily replied. "No more did I!" exclaimed Rogers, with a sigh of relief.

Hope is a flatterer, but the most upright of all parasites, for the frequents he poor man's but as well as the paler of his superiors.-Shenstone.

An Exhition of Haitian Patienc That Was A mazing

As far as I was able to judge, the Haitian is entirely devoid of nerves or feeling of any kind. Upon one occasion I saw one undertake to split a stick. He stood it on end, placed his machete on top, reached out for another stick, which he used as a mallet, and while doing so the piece of wood fell over. Twenty-three times he repeated the operation before he accomplished his object. He never uttered a swear word, looked annoyed or hurried his action, and he was not working by the day, either-it was piecework, on contract, for my host.—Anonymous.

Built on Peanut Trade

Boykin, Va., is a flourishing town of five hundred people, a Raleigh Post correspondent writes. And Mr. W. H. Beadles says it would, be impossible to find, throughout the Old Dominion, five hundred more honest, enterprising and law-abiding citizens than those over whom he officiates as mayor. The town was incorporated in 1884. By association this is properly a North Carolina town, being only a large part of its citizens are Tar-Heels, giving rise to a large North Carolina trade.

The largest trade here is in the peanut market. More than twentyfive thousand bags were sold hee last season. It is the money maklargest peanut market in the world, Services every Sun-offers larger prices for peanuts raised in this section than for those of any other section. Peanuts are where they are cleaned, rebagged and branded "Boykin Hand Picked," which brand is now famous the world over.

Under careful cultivation an acre of land here can be made to produce from twelve to eighteen thousand pounds of peanuts, which sell on the market at an average of three cents per pound.

There is a movement on foot to secure the erection of an establishment for the cleaning of peanuts. The people are in earnest concernby another season the large quantity of peanuts handled here year-I.O.O.F.—Covenant Lodge, No. | ly will also be cleaned here.

The cultivation of cotton has almost been abandoned for that of

Not five hundred bales of cotton were handled here last season. Only a few years ago every farm, of any size in this section had its one gin within a radius of ten miles of Boykins.

A Universal Motor,

Capital in the mercantile world has been called "the universal motor," because it is the power which which keeps the tradesman's business moving. But there are various day night. sorts of capital, and the kind to the above definition may be directly applid is advertising. Each advertisement published in a newspaper which is read extensively is so much capital well invested, and as a motor-pushing along the merchant's business—it is universal and potential. It keeps his trade going and growing, and enlarges theother capital which he may have in banks or in property .-Philadephia Record.

Pulled a Crowd.

After midnight Saturday night Policemen James and Symonds and Deputy Sheriff Mason made a raid on a house down in the railroad ravine and scooped in a crowd playing cards and having a rowdy time. The crowd was locked up. Mayor Moye gave the crowd a hearing this morning.

After Wilmington, no city suffered more from Marion Butler's negro domination in the east than Newbern, and after New Hanover no county suffered more than Craven. The county commissioners of this county have just accepted the resignation of Sheriff Hahn, the fusionist officer who had a number of negro deputies under him. Sheriff Hahn agreed to resign upon condition of being allowed to continue as county tax collector-a subordinate office where he will have no power to offend by appointing ignorant negroes to office. Being thrown this sop, he is satisfied, and the county avoids the annovance of a suit. Joseph Kinsey was then elected sheriff. And thus, through the great victory won for white supremacy last year, and the overthrow of the horrors of fusion and Butlerism, the eastern counties are gradually coming out Whereat the western counties of are handling both the State do rejoice.-Charlotte Observer.
