LITTLE-THOMAS.

From the Nashville, Tenn., Banner, of Nov. 23rd, we get the following account of a marriage in which all Greenville people feel especially interested:

The nuptials of Miss Mary Thomas of this city and Mr. James Lafayette Little, of Greenville, N. C., was a beautiful event of yesterday, celebrated at half after 6 o'clock at West End Methodist church. The sacred edifice was thronged with the relatives and many friends of the bride, who assembled to see this charming girl plight her troth, and the one note of regret about the scene was that by her marriage the bride leaves Nashville and goes to another state to live.

The wedding was marked by an air of elegant simplicity and beauty, for it is not often that so pretty a picture is seen here as that of yesterday evening, when Miss Thomas, surrounded by her five charming maids, spoke the marriage vows. The bride represents a very fine old Tennessee family and then by reason of her charm of manner and fairness has drawn about her a host of friends, and so the nuptials were of widespread interest.

As the church was being filled with the guests a delightful little musical programme was given. Mr. Frank Briggs, organist, gave several selections, and Miss Frances Lou Woolwine, in her rich contralto voice, sang "O, Promise Me" and "Because I Love You So." The church was effectively decorated with palms and ferns, the altar being banked with the stately palms and vines, forming a mass of glistening green, before which the bridal party stood, clearly outlined against this ever artistic arrangement.

The notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march heralded the coming of the bridal procession. First came the ushers, Messrs. J. B. Morgan, Jordan Stokes, W. K. Phillips and Charles Harmon, followed by the rest of the bridal party. The groomsmen, Messrs. John Owen, of Clarksville, N. M. Watson, of Greenville, J. T. Norris, of Cartersville, Ga., and Litton Hickman of this city, came in two and two, the couples alternating with the bridesmaids. The maids were Misses Ada Morrow, Martha Woolwine, Susie Hunter and Fannie Mai Howell. Two dainty little flower maids, Misses Virginia Morgan and Anne Richardson, preceded the bride, who entered with her maid of honor, her sister, Miss Jesse Thomas. The groom came down the opposite aisle, attended by his brother, Mr. William O. Little of Newport News Va. Rev Mr Chappell awaited their coming at the altar and spoke the impressive words that made them one. The bridal train, led by the bride and groom, left the church to the bridal chorus from "Loheugrin."

The bride was never so sweet and fair than on this her wedding night. Her gown was an exquisite, though girlish one, fashioned of white organdie over a Princess slip of white taffeta, and was as dainty as the cluster of pure white roses she held in her hands. A full veil of white tulle, caught to her hair by a spray of lilies of the valley, fell gracefully in the hem of her gown. She is the second daughter of the late James Washington Thomas, a distinguished citizen of this state, and in her personality combines all the grace and dignity and fairness of face belonging to a daughter of the South. Her manner is very charming, and she has always been the centre of an ever-widening circle of friends and admirers.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore pretty gowns of white organdie over silk, daintily fashioned, and carried La France roses. The two flower maids wore charming gowns of pink, and their costumes, with the maids' bouquets, gave the desired and effective touch of pink to the picture.

From the church the bridal party and immediate relatives drove to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Richardson, on Belmont avenue, where an informal reception was held. The reception-rooms and halls were decorated with palms and flowers, and was a pretty setting for the bridal party. The dining-room was especially pretty in its floral arrangement. There refreshments were served during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Little left last evening from Greenville, N. C., where Mr. Little is a prominent banker, holding the position of Cashier in the Bank of Greenville. In business and social relations he is popular. He takes his fair bride to a charming home prepared for her coming. It contains many handsome gifts from friends there, while the gifts received here were numerous and handsome.

Married.

This morning Mr. D. D. Gardner, accompanied by Rev. N. M. Watson, left for Hamilton, where at 3 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Gardner and Mrs. Willie Whitehurst were married. They will return to Greenville on the evening train.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER, 23, 1899.

They have got his wives clothes, his mother, his boy, and actually say they have got his hat, but Aguinardo himself is still dodging the American forces in the Philippines.

It can no longer be denied, even by the most pronounced British sympathizers the world over, that President Krudger, of the Transvaal, is a great man. He lives in a house that was given to him by the people and has never deeded it to his wife or any one of their 16 children.—Charlotte Observer.

And the dispatches say now that the game is almost up with Aguinardo, that he has been driven to the last ditch, so to speak, has been deserted by all save a handful of his men, and his capture is regarded only a question of a short while. It would be a bit refreshing for a Thanksgiving dispatch to come saying all was over. But Aguinardo is a slippery fellow and may be sharp enough to keep out of reach.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

The friends of Admiral Schley, who have watched with amazement his continued humiliation by the Navy Department clique, have resolved to turn to Congress for redress, and as soon as the coming session has been fairly opened, the matter will be aired in both the House and Senate.

A bill will be introduced to revive the grade of Vice Admiral, and Schley's friends say that they have votes enough in both houses to pass it without delay and containing a proviso that Schley shall be appointed to this grade. The navy department undoubtedly will resist this measure, as it has persistently fought every effort to do justice to the hero of Santiago; and unless Schley is specifically named the bureau chiefs will try to get Sampson promoted to Vice Admiral. The recent order forbidding Schley to go to South Africa, which is a part of his new command, is looked upon as a deliberate attempt to humiliate him, implying as it does, a doubt of the administration that the Admiral would conduct himself appropriately during the war between the Boers and British. In other words, the Admiral is cautioned that he is not to be trusted with the customary authority but to venture only to such portions as an unskilled diplomat naval official could visit without embarrassing his country. These instructions are regarded by naval men as most remarkable. In the case of a flag officer in good standing he is permitted to proceed to any point he desires within the limits of his command. Rear Admiral Watson is not restricted in any degree in his field; and Rear Admiral Farquhar is at full liberty to go as he pleases in his command so that the limitation imposed upon Schley is a discrimination of a palpable character. The publication of the order serves to call general attention to the slight put upon the Admiral, and it is the final act of a long series of department persecutions which have decided the Admiral's friends to make an open fight for him in Congress. The language of the department's order to "proceed with the flagship by the shortest practicable route to the waters of your command" to South American ports, is understood to be a part of the plan to get the Admiral far from Washington before the meeting of Congress in order that his presence at the capital may not provoke greater friendship for him among the law-makers. There is nothing in South American conditions requiring our men of war to hasten there. It is difficult to fathom the animus of the navy cliques in their hounding of Schley. The only plausible cause that has been assigned is that the great naval fighter is a democrat, and the administration has abetted the relentless efforts to detract from his fame, hoping to monopolize naval achievements for political use in the campaign to come. But can this be done? The vote in Maryland, Schley's state, in the recent election would prove the negative.

The Advantage in Gambling.

"In all gambling games," said an old time sport, "there is a percentage in favor of the 'house.' Anybody, except a born fool, knows that a man couldn't afford to equip an establishment, hire help, pay rent and defray all the hundred and one incidental expenses unless he derived a profit that was based on some fixed principle and not dependent on mere luck or chance. Just where the profit comes in, however, is something that very few people understand. Most of them imagine it is derived from some slight advantage in the arrangement of the game, such as the 'zero' numbers in roulette or the 'splits' in faro, but they are very much mistaken. It really depends on a principle that applies to all games alike and might be termed the 'percentage of capital.'"

"Strange as it may seem, I could take a capital of $1,000 and begin pitching nickels, in which the chances are perfectly even, letting the players guess either way they wanted to, and I would make a steady profit day in and day out. The secret is this: The average player has only a limited amount of money, and a slight run of bad luck wipes him out. He is obliged to quit, and somebody else takes his place, while the house keeps right on through good luck and bad, continually swelling its reserve with the cash of the broken players. That principle of the percentage of capital is at the bottom of the profits of every gaming house in the world from Monaco to Long Branch."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

He Scored on Lincoln.

In 1858 Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas had a joint debate on the college grounds of Knox college, Galesburg. It was a great meeting, and I shall never forget the tremendous enthusiasm that was manifested by the respective partisans of each of these great men. Mr. Douglas had the opening and conclusion, and he got in one shot on Mr. Lincoln that was so pat that even the adherents of that gentleman had to join in the laughter.

Mr. Lincoln, in the course of his remarks, twitted his opponent with making only one speech—a set oration which he delivered to each new audience, the suggestion being that he was incapable of changing his stock address.

In reply Mr. Douglas said that he admitted the charge, and conceded that his rival knew in advance what he was going to say. He wished that he could foretell with the same exactness what Mr. Lincoln was going to say, but alas that was impossible, since he changed his argument to suit his audiences, making a fierce abolition talk in communities where that sentiment was strongly entertained, as at Galesburg, but in southern Illinois ignoring abolition and standing up squarely as an old time Whig.

Gold For Old Iron.

To own a good big pile of scrap iron nowadays is almost like owning a gold mine, and those who are the fortunate possessors of a few hundred tons of rusty, old broken stoves, wagon tires, horse shoes, pots and kettles, gas, water or steam pipe, etc., can readily convert it into a bag of Uncle Sam's yellow gold, if he desires to do so. A year ago scrap iron was a drug on the market at from $6 to $8 per ton, but now it is worth from $15 to $16 and hard to get at that price.

In Newbern, Messrs. Willis and McIntosh, the foundrymen, are buyers of old iron, and feel glad when they see their scrap pile grow in size.

In all the Northern cities the same demand exists for old iron and the smelters gobble it up as quickly as it arrives and run it into pig iron again.

Even far-distant Scotland and Germany have been ransacked for scrap iron and the British steamship Indrants, now in Baltimore, from Glasgow, has among her cargo 494 tons of pig iron and 1,077 pieces of old rails.

The German steamship Bosnia, from Hamburg, also in that port, brought 180 bars of iron among her cargo. Other lots are following.

The value of iron may be estimated when it is known that a steamship was recently chartered to bring iron ore to an American port from Benisaf, Africa, for which nearly $5 a ton freight money is said to be paid. A large percentage of iron ore is refused after it has been smelted, and when the original cost of the ore, duties, port dues, etc., has been considered, together with the stevedore charges for putting it aboard and taking it from the vessel, it will be readily seen the demand for it must be great. Steamships are now bringing iron ore from Cuba, Turkey, Africa, France, Greece, Spain and Central America to Baltimore.—Newbern Journal.

The Southern Farm Magazine, which is of great value and interest to town and country people alike, covering as it does every phase and feature of general Southern interests, makes the remarkable offer that during December it will receive subscriptions at 25 cents a year, the regular price being $1. The Magazine covers a field not touched by any other Southern publication. It is not a regular farm paper, telling about the crops and prices of farm products, but a general magazine, dealing with the best features of agricultural life, crop diversification and Southern capabilities. The merchant, the banker, the professional man as well as the intelligent reading farmer and his family, all alike find the Southern Farm Magazine of value and interest. In view of this unprecedented offer of 25 cents for a year's subscription, we feel sure that every subscriber at this price will find it a most profitable investment. You can send currency or postage stamps to the extent of 25 cents to Southern Farm Magazine, Baltimore, Md.
