Harry, Don't Come.

It strikes us painfully to see an official announcement in some of the State papers that Hon. Harry Skinner, of Greenville, Pitt county, late representative in Congress from this district, would canvass the same in opposition to the proposed Constitutional Amendment to the Constitution of North Carolina, which is to be submitted to the people of the State for approval or rejection at the August election.

Harry Skinner was relegated to private life in the election of '98. Since then he has been slowly recovering from the unnatural position to which his political associations had assigned him, and no one was more gratified than ourself that he was gradually reaching his normal place in the social scale of North Carolina's patriotic sons.

We know his heart was never in his political associations. No man knows better than Harry Skinner that the political condition in North Carolina that existed before the election of '98 could not have continued in eastern North Carolina without utter extinction to it as a civilized community. He saw it, and felt it, and we are sure regretted it, but his political environments and associations controlled him. He was handicapped by new friendships that wanted men whose past political records were clean, and whose associations were with men of character. He turned a listening ear to the whispers of foul politicians who had been unworthy to black his shoes. His contact with them was seen and he became suspected. His old friends gave him up, generally. And in an evil hour he fell into the arms of a foul combination of bad men, and became their leader and head. He advised them, eat with them out of the same spoon, was their chief speaker, held more promises unredeemed than any man among them; laughed at their coarse and vulgar jokes, licked the spittle from their dirty brogans. And then the great white man's struggle came and Harry Skinner fell from his high place among gentlemen, and was consigned to the tomb of the Capulets with bad men, carpet baggers, scalawags, buffaloes and negroes.

But with all his faults and misfortunes, his disappointments and deceptions, he yet has some elements of reform. He has done his old friends great wrong, he has outraged his good name in the past, he has fouled his bright and distinguished lineage that has been handed down to him through the generations.

But there are some traces left yet of his old friendships, and we would conjure him by them to stop in his parricidal course in trying to put back his old friends—the white men of the State—under the heels of ignorance and infamy.

At least, my old friend, don't come back on this side the sound, to help degrade the white people of this community. Or if you will thus disgrace yourself and the home of your nativity, come with averted face, covered with shame, and your furtive glance will meet no friends.—Elizabeth City Economist.

The man who thinks he has got as good a wife as he deserves, hasn't.

COUNTY CONVENTION.

Will Be Held Saturday, Mar. 31

A meeting was held here today of the Democratic Executive Committee of the county. The attendance was quite large, every township being represented, the total number present being about fifty.

Good report was made of the situation in the different precincts and while all agreed that much hard work must be done during the coming campaign, the outlook is that the constitutional amendment will be carried by a good majority. The people want education about the amendment, and when they understand it there is something wrong with the white man who can vote against it.

The time for holding the county convention to select delegates to the State convention was set for Saturday, March 31st, the township primaries to be held on the Saturday previous, 24th.

Now let every Democrat in the county go to work and do his full duty to carry the county and State.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1900.

THE REFLECTOR is indebted to the Washington Post for a copy of its Almanac for 1900. The Post issues such an almanac annually. The present one is splendidly printed, fills 542 pages, and contains a great amount of valuable information.

Let it be borne in mind that Henry Wyatt, killed at Bethel, was neither a native of North Carolina, nor was he the first soldier killed. Wyatt was born in Richmond, Va. The first soldier killed was in a Virginia cavalry company, and it was some days before the skirmish at Bethel. North Carolina asks for no honors that do not belong to her.—Wilmington Messenger.

The Populist State Executive Committee met in Raleigh last week and decided to unite with the Republicans in opposition to the Constitutional amendment. We do not believe the rank and file of the former Populist party will allow themselves to be sold to the negroes by a few leaders. They have seen enough of negro rule in North Carolina.

We see it stated that Maj. H. A. London, editor of the Pittsboro Record, will be a candidate before the State Democratic Convention for the nomination for State Treasurer. There is no man more worthy this honor at the hands of the Democrats than Mr. London, and no one could more acceptably fill the office of State Treasurer than he. We have known Mr. London intimately for many years, and, in the language of the Statesville Landmark, "We are for him for any office he wants." THE REFLECTOR heartily endorses what the Landmark further says about him in the following:

He is one of the oldest as well as one of the foremost, ablest and most popular newspaper men in the State. He is an able lawyer as well as an able editor, a charming orator and personally one of the most lovable of men. He has represented his county—Chatham—in the Legislature and has been prominent in public affairs for years. He wears the white flower of a blameless life, both public and private, and the State would be honored by his election to public position. If the editors of the State are to be recognized by giving one of their number a place on the State ticket, then Henry A. London is the man who should be selected to represent them.

An exchange thinks that this year we may expect to read something like the following in the daily papers: "About 10 o'clock this morning a horseless wagon loaded with cowless milk collided with a brainless rider on a chainless wheel. The luckless wheelman was badly injured, and being homeless and friendless, he was taken in a horseless cab to the the home for the friendless, where his death was painless in an hour or less. It was afterwards learned that he was the inventor of smokeless powder and the public covered his corpse with thornless roses."

According to the idea of leading thinkers the greatest blessing that the world could be vouchsafed during the current year would be universal peace. It is to be feared however, that the hope thus expressed will be as far from realization a hundred years hence as it is now. The world is not ready for peace. The nations have not advanced sufficiently to permit the staying of evolution and the stoppage of improvement. The races have not reached the limit of their enlightenment. Until these things shall have come to pass there will be no peace; for human progress is always over the rough road that leads to the survival of the fittest and the extinction or—what is really the same—assimilation of the unfit. When man shall cease to be a predatory animal it will be time to begin to look for universal peace.—Philadelphia Record.

Desirable Familiarity.

Familiarity doesn't always breed contempt. There is a familiarity between merchants and their customers which breeds confidence and brings profits to the former. This reciprocal feeling is engendered and promoted by careful and continuous advertising. When a merchant's name has become a household word his success in business is assured.—Philadelphia Record.

Pleased With its Work.

President J. Bryan Grimes, of the Tobacco Growers' Association, left this morning for his home at Grimesland. He is greatly pleased at the progress made by the recent meeting of the Association, and has great faith in the successful culmination of the plans adopted.

President Grimes said today that the early future will be devoted to perfecting the organization of the various county and township associations, with a view to having every tobacco grower in the State State as a member of the State Association. Every one of the farmers with whom he has talked, Mr. Grimes says will reduce tobacco acreage this year.—Raleigh Times-Visitor.

MARRIAGE IN HIGH LIFE.

At Least in a High Place.

Not many weeks ago Register of Deeds Moore issued a marriage license for Mr. James W. Sutton to wed Miss Annie Godley, both the parties living in Chicod township. The groom-elect took the license home to have ready for the wedding, but somebody who wanted to stop the marriage stole the document from him before the day arrived, and the marriage could not take place on schedule time.

Not to be outdone in the matter, but still not wishing to run the risk of having another license stolen from him, Mr. Sutton came to Greenville today and brought his bride-elect with him, several friends also accompanying them. They went to the office of the Register and applied in person for the license. This being procured they called on Justice of the Peace H. Harding to make them man and wife.

By this time the number had grown so large that none of the offices in the building would accommodate them, so the crowd repaired to the court room up stairs where the ceremony was duly performed. There were fully a hundred people present to witness the marriage.

Fell to the Floor.

Capt. C. A. White met with an accident a few evenings ago that has confined him to his room. He went to sit down on a chair when it slipped from under him and he was thrown to the floor. We hope to see him out again soon.

NOTICE.

This is to state that the firm of Drs. O'Hagan & Laughinghouse has not been dissolved. The only change made is, that for the better convenience of our patrons we have established a downtown office.

Dr. O'Hagan will occupy the old stand. Dr. Laughinghouse will occupy the new office situated on Fourth street, just behind Frank Wilson's clothing store in the Perkins block of buildings, where the old post office used to be.

A MEAN LOOKING LETTER-HEAD

Has lost many a dollar for business men. If a man is judged by the coat he wears, he is also judged by the letter-head he uses. An artistic, nicely printed letter-head may be looked on as a good investment.

It will be done right. The price for doing it will be right, too.
