ORIGINAL OBSERVATIONS

Made by the Orange Va. Observer.

The presidential bee will make things hum this year.

Upon the sands of death's dark grave the sea of trouble casts no wave.

How can we expect to be good while living in this year of naughty-naught?

It is strange that a campaign of mud is intended to throw dust in the eyes of the people.

There would be no complaint about silver if we could get in on a arpity with brass.

tinues front gates will soon be strong enough to bear arms again. The man who estimates his own importance at above par is generally valued at naught by the world.

There are some people who wouldn't stay a minute in heaven if they saw any of their neighbors there.

Makes no difference what century this is we still have the dark ages-those of women who have passed their twentieth year.

Many people are ever boasting that they can do things so much better than you can-but we never see them do those things.

The learned doctors tell us that kissing spreads disease. Heart troubles, mostly, we suppose. We are always willing to risk catching disease in such a sweet cause.

A Big Catch.

Chief of Police W. B. James on Sunday captured a negro that fills the discription of the escaped Portsmouth murderer, and is now in correspondence with officials of that city relative to identification of the prisoner. If the prisoner proves to be the right man it will be a good catch for the Chief, as there was a liberal reward offered for his capture.

They Go By Boat.

The Pythians here were unable to get a special train to take them to Rocky Mount Tuesday evening to attend the district meeting, but tuey have made arrangements to go anyway. They will leave here on steamer Shiloh about noon tomorrow, reaching Tarboro in time to take the 6 o'clock train for Rocky Mount, returning to Greenville by steamer Wednesday morning.

Any that are not Pythians wishing a cheap trip can go by applying to Ollen E. Warren.

In North Carolina, Too.

If there is any one set of men whom the people like better than any other class of reputable and responsible citizens it is the railway conductor. Given such an official, who has been able to succeed in the business, and you have a man of many accomplishments, a real good feliow at heart, one who is ready to do for others, who is accommodating, unselfish, of a genial turn of mind, one who can laugh at the same joke a dozen times a day for 365 days in the year. He must be tender hearted, sympathizing with the sick and suffering, and at the same time happy over the joys of those who do rejoice. The executive committee of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly have decided that the place of meeting this year shall be Morehead City, and the time June 12th.

There will be one Superior Court judge elected this year—to fill the place made vacant in Tenth district! by the death of Judge Green. No other election of judges will be held.

Mrs. Julia L. Burgess and Mrs. Harriet Sweeney have entered suit against the city of Asheville for the killing of their husbands by a dynamite explosion at the city's quarry last January.

Mrs. Mark Denton and her 5. year-old son, and a man named John Manning were walking across a railroad bridge on the Norfolk & Carolina road, near Tarboro, on Friday. A work train backed on them, killing Mrs. Denton, seriously injuring the boy and slightly hurting the man.

The residence of Mr. R. B. Dunn about 10 miles north of Trenton, was burned last night. The fire was caused by a spark from the chimney falling on the house. The building was a 2-story one, valued at from $1,500 to $2,000. It is not thought that there was any iusurance on it .- Kinston Free Press.

Monument in the Clouds.

Early Saturday night a strange phenomenon was witnessed in the clouds. In a direction south-east from town could be seen a perpendicular light streak, having the appearance of a tall monument resting on a broad base. Many people saw the phenomenon but no one was able to explain it.

The report of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction shows that there are 623,400 children of school age in the State and that the total school revenue for public schools is $824,228, or about one dollar and thirty-three and a third cents for each child of school age. I must be evident to every thoughtful citizen that North Carolina cannot do her duty in the matter of educating her children until the per capita amount for that purpose is increased in some way or other-by direct or special taxation.-Winston Sentinel.

mestion in this year's campaign in the Constitutional Amendment. mendment was brought about by a class of men who favored negro supremacy in order that they might hold office themselves. to go into the Legislative halls on equal terms with the brother in fend himseif.-Blackwood. Mack, are the very fellows who made a constitutional amendment all necessary. It is no wonder ey fight it. Senator Pritchard well knows that he stands not the shost of a showing in a contest beare whife people alone. Senator Hutler sees and feels that his camer is rapidly approaching a terminus unless he can get one hundred and twenty thousand colored men to rally blindly to his assis. tance. And it is just the same with every other white man who opposes this amendment. They simply want to use the negro to ride into office. The only hope of defeating the amendment that these politicians can possibly have is found in their plans to fool the people. To do this they resort to all manner of trickery and deception. They circulate all manner of cock and bull stories, too ridiculous to fool any man of common intelligence.—Lexington Dispatch.

"Strawberries from Florida'came into the market with such a rush at the end of last week as to glut the market," says the New York Times. > James Pyle, who made a large number of honest dollars by the sale of a cleansing compound, died in New York last Saturday, at the age of 76. The Charlotte Observer says: 'A story of his life is going the rounds of the papers to the effect that Horace Greeley induced him to run a card in The New York Tribune which led to his preparation being advertised in newspapers everywhere—and his fortune was made. The moral is that if Pyle had not advertised nobody would have known of his stuff and he would have died poor. As a matter of news it would be much more interesting to find a business man who made a fortune without advertising."

The seat in the Senate which Mr. Vest will permanently vacate at the expiration of his present term, in 1903, has come to be regarded as "Missouri's unlucky ssat." Of the fifteen men who have occupied it since it was first filled by David Barton, in 1820, only four-Barton, Dr. Lewis F. Linn, David R. Atchison and the present incumbenthave held it for a full term, From the time of Barton, who drank himself to death, nearly all the incumbents met with some kind of misfortune during their terms of service or after their retirement to private life.

The Jigger in Uganda. Several sepoys were suffering from shaving mug labeled "Theodore that African pest, the "jigger," whose scientific name of Pulex penetrans describes him and his habits concisely and well. He is an exact reproduction matter of fact the Governor does in miniature of the common flea (Pulez irritans), but instead of merely inflicting a comparatively innocuous bite he burrows under the skin, close to the toe nails for preference, and then proceeds to propagate the species.

His Time to Fight. "When General Grant was presi dent," sald a Washington man, "a certain friend of his came out of the west to see him. One day, just after leaving the White House, this friend fell in with a fellow westerner in the White House grounds, and a heated encounter took place, which suddenly terminated by the general's friend knocking the other man down and out.

"The matter was hushed up, but the general, naturally indignant, called his friend to account, saying: 'John, you've treated me and the office I hold with much discourtesy. Why did you do such a thing? "Well, it was this way, general, replied the now thoroughly penitent one. You know there was bad blood between us, and he had set all sorts of stories going about me. Just after leaving you i ran into bim, and be at once accessed me of doing a certain thing. As it was a lie I only laughed at him. Then he accused me of something else, and that being also a lie i Jeered at him again, but his third accesation was true, and, by gad, sir, i couldn't stand that, so I knocked him down."-New York Tribune.

I notled his pleasing eyes and booked nose and perhaps as much as these a magalicent breach of rubies and dismonds that blassed in the conter of his shirt frill, which he were in the faction of 1880. The stones fineb all and glittered with every one of his quick little bows to right and left, and the rubice connect themselves with a tale of his great predecessor in Paris, the mighty Gluck.

After the first triumphant performunce of one of Gluck's operas the queen sent for him to come to her box to receive her congratulations. Half dazed with emotion, excitement and fatigue, the old musician, rising from his obelsance, clapped his hands to his eyes, crying with horror, "Blood, blood round the queen's neck!"

"It is only this, Gluck," said Marie Antoinette, hastily snawhing off her necklace of rubles and holding the rippling gems toward him, and Gluck looked again and saw the fair, white throat rising unharmed and stainless. He died in 1787.-Cornhill.

"The Sea! The Sea!"

We all went one day, says W. J. Stillman in The Atlantic, to Coney Island, on the southern shore of Long Island, since a popular bathing place for New York, but then a solitary stretch of seashore, with a few bathing boxes and a temporary structure where bathers might get refreshments.

We drove out in my brother's buggy, and as at a turn in the road I caught a glimpse of the distant sea horizon I rose in the buggy, shouting, "The sea, the sea!" and in an uncontrollable freny caught the whip from my brother's hand and slashed the horse in wild delirium, unconscious of what I was doing. The emotion remains ineffaceable after more than threescore years, one of the most vivid of my life.

And how ecstatic was the sensation of the plunge into the breakers, holding fast to my brother's hand, and then the race up the beach before the next comber, trembling lest it should catch me, as if it were a living thing ready to devour me. They never come back, these first emotions of childhood, and though I have loved the sea all my life I have never again felt the sight of it

A Story About Wilberforce.

Before he became a bishop he had been archdeacon of Surrey, and his old archdeaconry became a part of his lator bishopric of Winchester. At a meeting of the clergy at Clapham his chaplain told him that an old Dr. . had been many years in the diocese, was vexed at having been forgotten.

"Yes," said the bishop; "I have not the smallest recollection of him, but I will make it all right and will go out and speak to him. Which is he?" He was pointed out, and the bishop made his way to him:

"My dear Dr. -, I have not had a moment for a real conversation with you. I need not ask how you are after all these years. Do you still ride your gray mare?"

"Yes, my lord. How good of you to remember ber," etc.

Died.

After intense suffering for several weeks, Mrs. Lizina Whienard, of Edgecombe county died January 7 15th 1900, aged 84 years. She was the widow of the late Mr. Staton Whichard and leaves fivechildren, fourteen grand-children and six great-grand-children. The ceased was a strong believer in the Primitive Baptist faith. Her funeral was preached by Elder Samuel Moore to a large audience of her friends and relations.

A Smile in Each.

The fellow who hates to get up in the morning will never get up in the world.

When a man takes a woman for better or worse he should be fully prepared for either.

No, Maude dear, we wouldn't advise you to go to a dentist for extract. Try a drug store.

Some people think it's hard to be poor, when, as a matter of fact, it's the easiest thing in the world.

Whites and Negroes Fight.

Birmingham - Ala., Jan. 25 .-News has just reached this city of a riot between negroes and white miners at Coalburg, a small station 12 miles out. A negro was found dead in one of the mines yesterday. The negroes believe he was shot by a white man, and are arming themselves for vengeance. The white miners have been hunting for them all night. The operator at the station left his office, fearing that he would be killed.

Women Should Get Insured.

"Life insurance as managed today, on the endowment plan, for instance, is at once an assurance and insurance," writes Edward Bok in February Ladies' Home Journal. "It is the best means of saving, because it is compulsory. Men have found this to be the case, and women should. At thirty, for instance, she can, for less than fifty dollars a year, take a twenty year endowment policy of one thousand dollars, which guarantees her that amount when she reaches the age of fifty. She will not feel burdened by the annual premium of fifty dollars. But she will feel the comfort of a thousand dollars when she is fifty. A woman's insurance for the education of her children is another factor of life insurance worthy of her thought, especially if she be a widow, In this way a mother may provide for the education of her children in case of her death. If the custom of mothers insuring their lives for their children at the time of the children's birth could become more general it would be one of the blessings of mankind. For women to insure their lives for the benefit of their husbands may well be an open question so far as the wisdom of such a course is concerned. But when the matter of life insurance for women is placed on a basis of self-protection in old age, for the benefit of children, or as one of the best means of saving money, or even as a wise system of investment, there cannot be the least question of its wisdom.
