SMASHED A WINDOW.

Thought Robbers Were After Him.

About 9:30 o'clock Saturday night Mr. A. J. Griffin was counting his cash preparatory to closing up. Recent events caused thoughts of robbers to rush through his mind, when a sudden crashing of his front window was enough to make him think the "professionals" were giving him a call. Arming himself with a stout hammer he rushed to the sidewalk in front fully prepared and determined to block any intruder that might be trying to come in. Seeing a man just getting off he collared him and gave him such a jerk that the two went down together on the pavement. When things got right about Mr. Griffin discovered that instead of being a robber it was a man who had filled up on mean whiskey and not being able to navigate steady had fallen against the window and smashed it. By paying for the damage done the man was let go.

How to Start a Business.

When the wise merchant has stocked his store he does not take it for granted that thereafter he will have nothing to do but sell and restock. On the contrary, he knows he must secure customers; for these will not come to him unless moved to do so by compelling inducements. Therefore he advertises what he has for sale—what the people want to purchase. Then and not till then, does profitable selling begin. Philadelphia Record.

Lapses.

I think that business men generally do not pay enough attention to holding the customers that they have already secured. Their energies are devoted to getting new people into the store all the time, and when that is accomplished they consider their advertising effort well ended. It is just as necessary to advertise to a customer as it is to a prospective customer. As it is in life insurance, so it is in business generally. "Lapses" are a great drain on a business.—Hardware Reporter.

Former Congressman Isaac Stephenson will give Marionette, Wis. a $5000 library building.

Scared Boys.

The other day two boys run away from Washington, taking the steamer for Greenville. The father of one of the boys telephoned Chief of Police James to look out for them. The officer met the boat at the wharf and took him in hand. They were a badly frightened pair and agreed to return home with the steamer if allowed to do so. And back they went.

Church Burned in Kinston.

St. Mary's Episcopal church building, in Kinston, was destroyed by fire Sunday morning. The fire caught from the stove flue through the ceiling while the morning service was in progress. Most of the furniture was saved but the building, a frame structure, was burned to the ground. There was some insurance, but nothing to compare with the loss.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

As your readers well know the above mentioned companies were raised in Pitt county, N. C., in the early part of the late unpleasantness between the States; Company H. by Capt. Geo. B. Singletary and Company E. by Capt. Wm. Morrill.

Those times have passed and now a history of the N. C. Regiments in that conflict is to be published—the State paying only for the paper, printing and binding—the writing and other work to be done by those "tar heels" interested therein.

Having been selected, I wrote the history of the 27th N. C. Regiment.

Now, it is proposed that the historian select the officers and men, whose photographs are to accompany this history. This I cannot do, but would be glad to have each company select those who can represent them. It is not intended to have photographs of officers only, but the "men who were behind the guns" as well.

I would be glad to hear from any member of Company E. or H. who can furnish a photograph of himself or any dead member of said companies. The cost of the wood cut of each photograph will be from $2.50 up to $3.25 according to the distinctness of the photograph.

I shall be glad to hear from any of my old comrades of E. or H. and to learn whether photographs of any of said companies can be furnished to accompany the history of the regiment.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1900.

Our congratulations to the bright and sparkling Observer, of Orange, Va., upon just closing its nineteenth year. It says: "In all this sun-kissed Southland there is no healthier or happier journalistic youngster, now nearing manhood, than the Observer." And we believe it.

Perhaps there are no more people in Iredell county wanting office than there are in other counties, but they have a different way up there of making their wants known than is in vogue elsewhere. In the Landmark are quite a number of cards from men announcing themselves as candidates for nomination. This is not a bad plan.

The Raleigh papers say that ex Senator Ransom has 1,000 bales of his last cotton crop still on hand and the advance in price last week made him $5,000. He sold his 1898 crop in December, and made 2 1/2 cents a pound by holding it.

The Republican and Populist Leaders, who are endeavoring to line their party members up against the Constitutional amendment are running up against snags at every turn and at some very unexpected places. The list of the recalcitrants is headed by Governor D. L. Russell. Then come Superintendent of Public Instruction C. H. Mebane, Rev. Baylus Cade, private secretary to Governor Russell, Geo. E. Boggs, of Haywood, ex-candidate for Congress, A. C. Green of Wake, member of the Populist State executive committee, J. J. Marshall of Forsyth, J. Z. Green, editor of "Our Home," a leading populist paper. And it is even hinted that the Progressive Farmer is about to come out in favor of it. If this thing keeps up, it will soon amount to a general stampede.—Newton Enterprise.

Two New Officers to Be Elected.

There are two new offices to be filled by the people this year. The last Legislature enacted a law providing for the election of Commissioner of Agriculture and railroad commissioners. They will be nominated by the State convention, and elected in August. The office of the Commissioner of Agriculture has a salary of $1,800 a year. The commissioner has a secretary who gets $1,500 a year, and a stenographer at a salary of $600. This is one of our most desirable positions on the State ticket, and there will no doubt be plenty of aspirants at the Democratic State convention.—Roxboro Courier.

A DARING ROBBERY.

Burglars Entered the A. C. L. City Ticket Office Early Last Night.

The Atlantic Coast Line ticket office at the Front street depot was entered by burglars last night shortly before 11 o'clock and that a good round sum of money was not taken is no fault of the house breakers, who gave every evidence that they were experts in the profession, having made two well directed efforts to get into the office before having been successful in the third attempt.

Fortunately an amount of money probably less than $100 was stolen from the cash drawer in silver though Ticket Agent J. D. Edwards who went to the office a short while after the robbery, was unable last night to minutely check up his ticket sales and determine upon the exact amount stolen. The cash drawer at the window, in which is kept an amount of change for the usual day's business was pried open and torn to pieces after having been depleted of the amount contained therein, which, as stated cannot yet be accurately arrived at. A number of articles of value in the room were apparently undisturbed and the depredators were evidently out for "specie only." The iron safe, in which was also locked a larger amount of money, was left intact to all outward appearances.

The robbery was first discovered about 11 o'clock by night watchman Jesse McCumber, who found the door of the hallway leading to the waiting rooms at the rear of the ticket office unlocked and slightly ajar. He went into the hallway, the left wall of which is in common with the north wall of the ticket office, and found that at a short distance from the door an aperture had been made in the wall probably two and a half feet square by boring with a three quarter inch augur around the sides of the square in such a distance apart as would readily admit of his removing pieces of ceiling noiselessly with his hands. Through this opening it was an easy task for the robber to crawl into the ticket office and, as there is no light, he carried on his work undisturbed. In making his exit from the place thirty cents in silver was dropped in the hallway on the outside.

An investigation by Mr. Edwards and a number of other railroad men and Captain of Police Furlong, after the robbery, led to the discovery that prior to this attempt, two others had been made, which were unsuccessful. A window in the west side of the office, opening into the waiting room at the rear of the place and therefore easily accessible from the hall way had been bored into several times but having discovered that the same had been nailed up with cross bars, he soon gave up the task and tried another place further toward the hallway, but in this he was checked by a ticket stand, which was placed close against the wall from the inside.

There is no clue to the identity of the robber or robbers.—Wilmington Star, 18th.

There never was a time when the strength of newspapers as advertising mediums was so apparent as it is at the present day. Advertisers are using them to a greater extent than ever before. Within the last few months business that once appeared exclusively in the magazine has begun to appear in the press also, while the trend of events seems to be toward including the latter in every advertising campaign of any pretensions whatever.—Indianapolis (Ind.) Sentinel.

Pay as You Go.

If you want to scatter sunshine around your path, adopt the simple rule of paying your debts cheerfully and promptly. It lubricates the wheels of trade, breaks up party ice, gives tone to the social system and liberates good-will. Pay as you go. Especially pay the people who work by the day and toil with their hands. A dollar means much to the man who spades your garden—never humiliate the man by making him ask for his dollar. Give it to him immediately the work is done, and if he did well tell him so.

When the woman who crouches over a sewing machine for you all day long brings the garment home pay her all you owe, and do not add to her troubles by exercising the prerogative of the one who is paying over money to flaunt out either insulting remarks or insulting manners. If you don't like her work you needn't employ her again, but treat her civilly, and do not add to the bitterness of her failure by rudeness.

The gentleman shows his true nature in his treatment of social inferiors; and of all the damning sins the withholding of money due a working man is the worst. Let us pay as we go. And the cheerfulness and good-will we give out with our money will in turn be given out by those we pay it to. Pay as you go.—Exchange.

Damage Suits.

Suits for damages are instituted these days for all sorts of grievances, real and imaginary. Suits against railroads and other corporations, where big damages are awarded without any reason except the ingrained prejudice against corporations, are so common as hardly to excite comment. But the damage suit mania has grown until everything under the sun can be twisted by shrewd lawyers into a cause for an action for damages has been brought into play, so that new and heretofore unheard of causes for actions for damages are constantly brought forward.

We noted recently that a fellow sued the Durham water works company for damages for diverting the water of a river to the use of the company so that, as he alleged, not enough water was left to run his mill—and he got damages. In Guilford Superior Court last week a suit for damages against the Greensboro water works company was tried. The suit was brought by a Mrs. Gorrell, who alleged that the water company failed to keep on hand a sufficient amount of water to produce a certain amount of pressure, so that when her property took fire the pressure was not sufficient to throw a sufficient stream of water to extinguish the fire.

Thereupon Mrs. Gorrell claimed damages from the company for negligence or failure to comply with their contract with the city, and the jury awarded her $5,000 the full amount asked.

We are not passing on the merits of these cases. There are instances in which corporations should be punished for negligence. But every common sense and unbiased citizen who has observed these matters know that many of these damage suits against corporations are simply an attempt to take advantage of the prejudices of the people to extort money from the corporations. There is no justice in them.—Statesville Landmark.

William Larrabee, twice Governor of Iowa, and for two years past chairman of the State Board of Control has resigned and retired from politics.

BABY STUART.

A Popular Misconception of Vandyke's Clever Painting.

If the number of houses in which there hang reproductions of a certain drawing of a little child's head after Vandyke could be enumerated, it would cause astonishment. There is nothing surprising in the popularity of the head. But whatever genius named it "Baby Stuart" is responsible for many ludicrous misapprehensions. There are women who believe that this head was painted by Gilbert Stuart. There are women who have asked if it was the infant of A. T. Stewart. Again, there are women who know that it depicts one of the children of Charles I, but who do not know which one of his children it is, whether it is a boy or a girl, or who painted the original. The head is that of the second son of Charles I, and the name of the child was James. Vandyke painted him time and time again. One of the family groups of Charles' children by Vandyke hangs in Turin. From the head of little James in that group a copy was made by Raffaello Canevari, a drawing, and that copy hangs in the Academy of St. Luke at Rome. From Canevari's drawing the countless army of photographs, engravings, lithographs and prints which have spread to the uttermost parts of the earth proceeded.

Let us change the title, for we think "Baby Stuart" has done duty long enough. Why not call him "Little James?" Then, at least, all his worshippers would know his sex. He became King James II of England in 1686, and, according to eminent authority, he gave evidence of possessing all the virtues of his race without any of its vices. His reign was short and infamous. He was in exile at St. Germain when he died in 1701. Such was the chubby and guileless looking royal baby in the cap.—Boston Transcript.

REMOVING A RING.

A Jeweler Tells How to Take Off One That Has Grown Tight.

Most girls who have had baby rings have had trouble in removing them from their fingers. "There is really no necessity for all this ado about removing a tight ring," said a jeweler. "In fact, as in everything else, the secret of success lies in knowing how to do it. Here is a recipe that I have found un-failing for removing a tight ring, and there is no painful surgical operation involved either: Thread a needle flat in the eye, using thread that is strong, but not too coarse, then pass the head of the needle under the ring. Care, of course, must be used in this, and it would be best to soap the needle before beginning. The needle having been passed through, pull the thread through a few inches toward the hand—so."

By this time the jeweler had passed the needle and thread under the ring on his own finger and was prepared to illustrate the little lecture. "Wrap the long end of the thread around the finger toward the nail in this manner, then take hold of the short end and unwind it—so. The thread, thus pressing against the ring, will gradually remove it, however tight or swollen the finger."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Timely Warning

Not wanting any reader of this paper to share the fate of this poor fellow mentioned below the following admonition to the delinquent subscriber which is going the rounds of our exchanges, is printed.

He stood before St. Peter, and meekly applied for admission to the better land. "Cannot admit you sir." "Can't admit me!" exclaimed the dismayed aspirant. "Have not I lived a christian life?" "Yes in the main. Haven't I obeyed the laws of the land?" "Oh yes." "What then be my offense?" "You wanted to stop your newspaper and instead of dropping a line to the publisher and paying arrearages, you had the postmaster send a message to the effect that the paper was refused. A man so contemptible would find no company in Heaven; so please move on to the land where they don't shovel snow."

The Other Town

We are surging ahead in the line of industrial progress. A knitting factory, with a capacity of 500 dozen pairs of hose per day, and to give employment to over 200 persons is under contract to be completed by the first of July. It is thought it will be the largest knitting factory in the South.—Elizabeth City Economist.

FEBRUARY FOLKS.

Come Few and Ear Between

R. J. Cobb left this morning for the North.

Mrs. Thos. McGee, of Goldsboro, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Marshall.

Miss Margie Langley is visiting her sister, Mrs. Clark, is Washington.

Mrs. Alice Harper is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. F. Sutton, at LaGrange.

Ex-Gov. T. J. Jarvis and J. L. Fleming left this morning for Raleigh to attend Supreme Court.

C. G. Joyner, of Baltimore, has been spending a few days here visiting his sister, Mrs. J. A. Lang, and looking after his wholesale trade.

ORIGINAL OBSERVATIONS

Made by the Orange Va. Observer.

The best way to make glassware is not to use it.

The drunken carpenter never carries his spirit level.

Good resolutions are the banana peels on the walk of life.

If every frown could be coined into cash every body would be rich.

The pawn broker is a good temperance man—when he takes a pledge he usually keeps it.

It is said that Congressman Clark is writing a novel in which there will be no women. This indeed will be a novelty.

It is said that the number of women embraced by the new census will largely exceed the number of men. What a grand thing to be a census—so many pretty girls to embrace! Oh! that we were a census.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina

E. P. Young, of Cary, was killed by a train near Durham. He was walking on the railroad.

Durham was recently quarantining against other towns. Now West Durham has a case of smallpox.

The postmaster at Hillsboro is reported to have smallpox.

The State charters the Carolina & Virginia Telephone Company, capital $10,000, headquarters at Henderson, N. P. Strause, F. C. Toepelman and J. B. Bridgers stockholders.

Mrs. Bynum, wife of Judge John Gray Bynum, of Greensboro, died Friday. The Judge has many friends in Pitt who sympathize with him in his bereavement.

Not a Case.

The town shows a great improvement in deportment the past week the perpetrators of devilment seeming for the time being to have moved beyond the corporate limits. Mayor Moye had no court at all this morning, and never had a case to report for the previous week.

A Smile in Each.

Some people have a mercenary motive in being good, while other people are good for nothing.

The fellow who is always spoiling for a fight evidently believes that to the victor belongs the spoils.

Anybody can afford to be generous when it comes to giving advice.

A safer way of calling a man a liar is to say that he is suffering from palpitation of the imagination.

"My darling, do you love me?" she sighed. "My life!" he exclaimed. Then he literally took his life in his own hands. Board retired.
