ENDORSES MASON.

STOKES, N. C., May 5th 1900.
EDITOR REFLECTOR:
We see in your paper several estimable gentlemen for the office of Sheriff, and now we are of the opinion the right man has been mentioned. He is a farmer and his past life has proved him thoroughly competent to discharge the duties of Sheriff and his integrity no one can doubt. He is a young man and that is what we need. No man of his age has ever been more faithful to his party than he has. We are with the Democrat of Pactolus naming John J. Mason for Sheriff. Let us nominate him for he is the strongest man that has been mentioned.

Richmond Carnival.

Mr. J. J. Dancy, an old Greenville boy who for many years has been making his home in Richmond, was here today advertising the Richmond street fair that takes place next week. He tells us it is going to be the greatest attraction Richmond has ever had, and that is saying much. Joe says he never forgets Greenville, and is glad to see the town making good progress.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina.

Ex-Senator Matt W. Ransom will deliver the Memorial address in Washington on Thursday, 10th.

During a thunder storm last Thursday the house of George Conner, in Craven county, was struck by lightning. His child was killed and his wife knocked senseless.

Mr. F. T. Carr has been appointed postmaster at Willow Green, Greene county, vice Dr. E. H. Hornaday, deceased.

An old colored woman, named Patience Rieves, died near here a few days ago, and a pet sheep that she raised about the house followed her corpse to the grave and stood quietly by the grave until it was filled, and then slowly walked back to the house with the other mourners.—Pittsboro Record.

That is a laudable step the Daughters of the Confederacy are taking to decorate the graves of the soldiers on Memorial Day. They should have the co-operation of all citizens of the community.

MONDAY, MAY 7, 1900.

Trade follows the flag, perhaps, but taxation certainly does. The American Chamber of Commerce at Manila has sent to Congress a protest against the destructive taxation in vogue there, which, they say, is worse than ever enforced by Spain.

Inheritance taxes planned to bear most heavily on large fortunes, are increasing in favor, and if the Supreme Court sustains the tax of this character imposed by the war revenue act, it is probable that a large part of the government's income in the future will be derived from the enormous fortunes of our millionaires. It is undoubtedly proper that huge estates should pay to the government in some proportion to the values that the government protects for them.

H. H. Rodgers of the Standard Oil Company, is said to have announced to the Danish government that 26 United States senators stood ready to vote as the Company desired, and to have offered to lobby through the purchase of the Danish West Indies for ten per cent of the proceeds. This is stated in an official report made to the Danish government by its special agent in the matter. The worst of the whole business is that Mr. Rodgers' alleged statement is probably correct.

In his remarks before the State Republican Convention, Col. James Boyd said the negro simply asks the privilege of casting one vote for the candidate of his choice. If this is true, the Republicans have had very little respect for the wish of the negro, for everybody knows that he has not enjoyed such privilege from the Republican bosses. Sambo's position has always been similar to a hitched-up mule—he has always gone as the white Republican boss pulled the line, and instead of the negro having the individual-privilege of exercising a preference at the ballot, he has been obliged to vote the preference of the boss, and thus the boss has practically voted a hundred thousand or more ballots, while other white men had only one vote, and this is one of the great objections to negro suffrage. After voting thirty years or more the negro is still a slave to the boss and has acquired no independence. So the words of Col. Boyd and the acts of his party do not tally.—Winston Sentinel.

The Strawberry Bud Weevil.

Complaint has reached the North Carolina Department of Agriculture that very serious damage is being done by an insect in the strawberry fields of the trucking section. The insect proves to be very small, reddish, snout beetle of a circulo family. Its scientific name is Anthonomus Signatus. In Maryland and Delaware where this insect has been troublesome for some years, it is commonly called the strawberry bud weevil. The beetle cuts off the buds when these are about  $\frac{1}{2}$  or  $\frac{3}{4}$  grown. The damage varies from 10 per cent to 75 per cent of the crop, being worst where staminate varieties are largely grown. The strawberry bud weevil feeds upon pollen both in the larval and beetle states. When the buds of staminate strawberries are about  $\frac{1}{2}$  grown the parent beetle with her long snout gouges one to five holes into the centre of the bud. Into each hole she thrusts an egg. The eggs hatch in about a week and the young grub begins to feed upon the pollen of the unopened buds. So prevent the buds from opening and scattering their pollen the parent beetle after depositing her eggs, cuts the stem nearly through—but leaves it hanging by a thread of bark which serves for a while to prevent the bud from drying up.

This beetle is a native and originally attacked the wild blackberry. It now attacks the strawberry because that plant blooms first. As soon as the strawberry crop is out of bloom, the insect attacks the black berry which they injure in exactly the same way, and to a considerable amount. The raspberry is rarely or never injured. Besides the wild and cultivated blackberries, this beetle infests the weed known as horsemint—Monarda fistulosa and the yellow flowered "Five-finger," Potentilla canadensis.

Remedies: As this insect feeds chiefly upon pollen, the most practicable plan is to grow only pistillate strawberries for the main crop. Grow only as many staminate plants as are absolutely necessary for pollenizing. Spray the staminate plants when the buds are  $\frac{1}{2}$  grown with following liquid:

Crude creosote or crude carbolic acid  $\frac{1}{2}$  gallon.

Water one barrel or fifty gallons.

Repeat once a week until the buds open.

These chemicals have a very strong disagreeable and persistent odor which may taint the fruit grown on the sprayed plants. This must be determined for each locality by actual trial as the persistency of the odor depends largely upon the local climate. The pistillate plants need not be sprayed and there is no danger of tainting their fruit.

The wild blackberries and the weeds named above should be exterminated from around the strawberry field. The horse-mint might be grown as a trap along the borders and roads of a field. The insects can be easily knocked from these tall growing plants into pans containing some water and kerosene.

The only way to protect the cultivated blackberries from this beetle is to watch for the beetles first appearance on the plants and then jar or knock them off into the pans just mentioned. The danger is over as soon as the plant has set fruit.

Giving Himself Away

Senator Pritchard displays remarkable inconsistency and gives himself away in the reasons he assigns for his opposition to the proposed constitutional amendment. In his speech in the Republican State convention, Wednesday, he reiterated the assertion that the supreme court of the United States would declare the 5th section of the amendment (commonly called the "grandfather" section) unconstitutional. How does Senator Pritchard know what the supreme court will do? This may be his opinion, which we very much doubt but he does not know it. Besides if he did know it, or had any particular reason to believe that the supreme court would so decide, he would desire the adoption of the amendment, which he says would leave the negroes voters and disfranchise white men, which is the very thing that Pritchard and other office-seekers on his side would like to see, for that would cut down the white vote and give them and their negro following just that much the advantage.

But he says the 4th section isn't constitutional either for that discriminates against the colored brother. Now, if he believes the 5th section, which permits the illiterate white man to vote, is unconstitutional, and that the 4th section, which prohibits the ignorant negro from voting, is unconstitutional, the whole thing is unconstitutional, and why in the mischief is Senator Pritchard cavorting around and pawing the air in his frantic efforts to defeat a measure which cannot run the ordeal of the courts without being knocked out?

Pritchard simply advertises his inconsistency, gives himself away and makes himself ridiculous when he opposes the amendment on constitutional grounds and asserts that it will be declared void by the supreme court.—Wilmington Star.

The Great Snow Storm of 1804

Mr. D. D. Rodgers, an old citizen of South Monroe township, asks us to "put on paper," the big snow storm of 1804, an account of which his mother, who was at time ten years old, has left him. Mrs. Rodgers was living in the Providence section, in Mecklenburg county, when the snow fell. The snow storm commenced on the 14th of February and for four days and three nights there was a constant fall of snow. On a level the snow was six feet deep and in many places was drifted to the eaves of one-story houses. Two carpenters from Wadesboro, who were at work in the Providence neighborhood started home the day the snow began to fall and several days afterwards their frozen bodies were found near Richardson's creek, on the old "Three Noten road." Mrs. Rodgers' record says there was great suffering, as the weather was unusually cold and a great many head of cattle and other stock were caught in the storm and froze.

There is a Democratic theory that the nomination of N. C. English for Superintendent of Public Instruction by both the Populists and Republicans, is a basis for fusion between these two parties; that one after another of the nominees on each of the tickets will be taken down and replaced by some from the other, until there will be but one ticket left between these parties. It may be this way but it is of no consequence, for this is a Democratic year in the good State of North Carolina.—Charlotte Observer.

Grandfather Clause.

The opponents of the proposed suffrage amendment have all along been declaring that should the "grandfather" clause be declared unconstitutional, the rest of the amendment will stand, thus placing the illiterate white man on the same plane with the illiterate negro. To remove beyond a shadow of a doubt the mere possibility of such a thing, the legislature at the adjourned session in June will add another clause to the amendment declaring that should any section of the proposed amendment be declared unconstitutional and fall that the whole must fall also.

So that the people when voting for the amendment, after this section is added, will themselves say to the courts that it is their will and intention, in adopting the amendment, that it shall either stand as a whole or fall as a whole. This additional section being adopted thereby becomes a part of the constitution and cannot be disregarded by the supreme court.

The people clearly have a right to say in voting on the amendment whether or not they wish it as a whole or as a part, and the court cannot disregard their wish thus expressed.—Pittsboro Record.

The Boy to be Pitied.

There are boys we are sorry to say, who love to boast of the wrong practices they have been engaged in the past. There are bad men, too, who do the same thing. The boy is to be pitied who has nothing to boast of but his evil deeds, and it is pretty certain that he will become a worthless man unless he reforms and refrains from the practice. The reciting of evil deeds will not help the boy here on earth, up above or down below, for men don't want him, heaven won't have him, and the devil won't appreciate him when he gets him. Bury the past beyond all remembrance if you can not speak good of it.—Mt. Olive Advertiser.

Boston's Registrar of Births and Marriages recently refused to grant a marriage license to an ill assorted couple who had applied to him. The prospective bride was seventy-four years old, and had $50,000 in her own name, while the would-be groom, thirty-two years of age, was practically penniless.

It's a good thing for a lot of people that they can't see themselves as others see them.

"He that is often reproved and stiffeneth his neck shall be suddenly destroyed, and that without remedy," is a passage of Scripture commended for meditation during the revival services now beginning in our midst.

IT WILL PAY YOU TO INVESTIGATE the new policies of the Bankers. The Life, Limited Payment Life and Endowment policies contain all the up-to-date features, many of which are original.

Good Things.

Did you ever look for the "good things" in your life insurance policy? Unless it was in the Bankers Life Insurance Company of the City of New York, you probably found side issues labelled "Grace," "Incontestability," "Loans," and the like, made prominent as "good things." Of course we have these features, too, for the "Bankers" is nothing if not progressive; but—

Did you ever see a policy with which the Company keeps an Individual Account?

Or one in which all earnings are guaranteed to the policy-holder?

Or one which guaranteed both reserve and surplus if surrendered?

Or one which gives all withdrawable-surplus at death, in addition to face of policy?

Or one, in fact, which treats the policy-holder with absolute equity, confiscating no portion of the net premiums, and allowing a policy-holder to control his own money at all times, as far as is consistent with a conservative system which embraces the best points of banking and insurance?

If you have never seen any of these "good things," investigate the new policies of the Bankers Life Insurance Company of the City of New York.

Who are its officers and directors? Among them are many of the best known men in New York financial circles.

The Company's record has been unequalled for economical management, safe investments, equitable dealings with its policy-holders and low cost of Insurance Protection.

As Good as Gold.

Whilst it is true that all that glitters is not gold, it is undeniable that an advertisement that glitters with good points is as good as gold. But there must be more than a mere array of figures and words in a business announcement. It must be spicy, crisp, appeal to the reader's fancy, and make him think. An advertisement so prepared will bring showers of gold to the advertiser.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

There never was a really great woman in the world who was not ugly.

The average woman doesn't act near as humble in her prayers as she expects her husband to act to her.

Lots of men who are supposed to be men with hoes are only digging bait so they can sneak off and go fishing tomorrow.

When a poor girl refuses a man and he afterwards marries a rich one, she will go through life insisting that he did it for spite.

The woman that quarrels with her husband because he sits around the house in his shirt sleeve's is generally the same one that can never feel really comfortable till she has got her corset. off.—New York Press.

This year 2,000 acres are planted in cotton on the State farms, at 33½ per cent. decrease as compared with last year. The acreage in peanuts is doubled, and is now 1,000 and a 75,000 bushel crop is figured on. Peanuts were last season's most profitable crop.

A three-masted schooner from Swansboro with lumber for Long Island, was wrecked near Hatteras Saturday. Capt. J. W. Sabiston was in command of the vessel.

DAUGHTERS OF THE CONFEDERACY

A melancholy spectacle has usually been presented to the visitors at our Cemeteries on May the 10th. Two neglected graves—each containing the bones of seven soldiers, who had come in their youth with "glad and gallant tread"—from the far South (Florida and Georgia) to defend our homes; and who fell in the trenches around Greenville—are to be seen in a neglected spot, sunken, overgrown with weeds; with only a rotting, unmarked board to tell the story of the deathless courage which brought them as volunteers, to face the cannon's mouth in defense of what they believed to be right.

The 10th of May is observed elsewhere, throughout the length and breadth of our South land to render a brief, poor honor to these martyrs of a "Lost Cause" by bearing flowers to place above their silent dust.

I therefore ask the Singletary Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, and any citizens and old soldiers to meet with us on Thursday morning May 10th at 10 o'clock A. M. at the residence of Mrs. A. L. Blow, from whence we will repair to the Cemeteries to place floral offerings upon these neglected graves and those of some of our own gallant soldiers, who survived the hardships of war but who have since rejoined their comrades within their silent tents of "Fames Eternal Camping Ground."

Contributions of flowers are earnestly solicited and we would be glad to have the children of the town bring them and accompany us. MRS. T. J. JARVIS, Pres. MISS WILSON, Secy.

IMPROVING IN A MERRY MOOD.

Good Fortune Smiles

and you ignore rightful advantages if you do not claim the benefits offered in this

Announcement.

Many are the needs that confront you with the advent of Spring. It is concerning these requirements and how they may be secured with satisfaction and economy that we wish to speak. Our new line is now ready. We present the latest and best Spring goods at a scale of uniformly low figures—so low, in fact, that they may be truthfully called—"price concessions." These goods are fully as attractive in style and quality as they are in price, and we are perfectly confident that they will appeal to your best judgment as a careful buyer in every way. This is a conservative statement regarding facts which can be easily substantiated any time you visit our store. Our great desire is to have you call and see our new Spring line. It will speak for itself—the quality and style will be apparent and the price will present its own argument. In extending this invitation we are not urging you to become a buyer on the strength of our statements but to become a visitor. We do not ask you to buy; but bring your experience and best judgment with you and compare our reasonable attractions with your most cherished memories of cheap buying—we'll leave the rest to your own inclination. Our stock is of the practical, popular kind, that shows in a marked degree the evidences of a careful and judicious selection from the best markets. Variety, new novelties, and a thorough up-to-date quality in all things is everywhere apparent. Our Spring goods are marked for quick selling. It is a time for you to decide quickly as to whether you shall select from our full assortment of fresh, desirable styles, or take chances on perfect satisfaction a little later on, when stocks of necessity, must be more or less broken. We should prefer to see you today or tomorrow; later in the season we should be very likely to please you but now we are certain to do so. Remember, such opportunities do not have to wait long for new comers. A look will convince you these are no idle words—will you call and give it? Yours respectfully,

J. B. CHERRY & CO.
