Mr Hauser stated that about three o'clock yesterday afternoon two negroes visited the field in which Nathan Rominger, an eighteen-year-old adopted son of Mr. Hauser, was plowing. The negroes demanded the boy to give them his money. Rominger told them he had none, but this did not satisfy them and they rushed Rominger off by force to a pond near by and threw him in, head foremost. When the negroes approached the young man they told him he had $75 and he must give it up or be killed. They asked him which he preferred -- to be drowned or shot. He replied that he was not ready to die, and proved to the negroes he had nothing but a pocket knife. The men were intoxicated and each took a drink before committing their dastardly act. They went off with the mule and Rominger managed to get out of the pond and went to the house and told what had happened.

Philadelphia, May 31.—During the ceremonies incident to the decoration of the graves of the union and confederate dead in the national cemetery at Germantown, a su burb, yesterday, it developed that in certain Grand Army circles, opposition has appeared to the erection of a monument to the confederate dead in that cemetery by the Daughters of the Confederacy. Colonel Thomas G. Sample, Pitisburg, a past commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, in his oration under the auspices of Ellis post No 6 said: "We have buried all of our sectional feeling. We forgot all sectionalism at the close of the war. While I have no objection to our brothers in the south raising monuments to their generals, as of right to do, yet I raise my voice in protest against their erecting any monument and laid the matter before against the flag, in any national cemetery in the country."

Ellis post had adopted resolu tions protesting against the erection of the monument and laid the matter before the Grand Army As sociation, composed of posts in this city and vicinity which also adopt ed resolutions against the proposed memorial.

The plan to raise a monument to confederate dead took shape more than a year ago. Colonel W. H. Knauss, of Ohio, a member of the An Indiana man is suing anoth- Grand Army of the Republic, brought to the attention of the this city the General Dabney H. to have the monument ready to be rice, $4,000,000; spirits, $3,000,unveiled yesterday.

Mrs. Halsey has senta report on the subject to Mrs. Norman V. Randolph, of Richmond, who is the chairman for the general work. #### Rich Feast in Castle and Banquet Hall.

Tuesday night was the occasion us, Garments all made in our of the celebration by Tar River own work room under person- Lodge No. 93, Knights of Pythias, of the third anniversity of the lodge in Greenville. For four weeks it had been talked and planned, and a glimpse had been given of what might be expected, but when the hour arrived and the curtain was lifted, those so fortunate as to be around the board were forced to exclaim "Behold, the half had not been told."

The celebration was in two parts. In Castle Hall Chancellor Commander R. M. Moye was masver of ceremonies and the following program was given:

Prayer, by Rev. N. M. Watson. Violin Solo, by Miss Bessye Pat-

Address of welcome, by F. C. Harding.

Vocal Solo, by Miss Clara Bruce Forbes. Response to address of welcome, by G. B. Hood, of Goldsboro. Vocal solo, by H. W Holcombe. Response to address of welcome, by Dr. John Rodman of Washington.

Vocal solo, by Mrs. Travis E.

Hooker. Vocal solo, by Mrs. Walter H.

Grimes. Accompanist, Mrs. James. L.

Lleming. Mrs. Hooker and Mrs. Grimes both responded to encores.

One has but to look at the names above to know that this part of the feast was a treat indeed.

The scene then changed to the opera house where the banquet was spread. This was prepared by Mrs. W. T. Hunter, and the menu would have done credit to a city caterer, as the following will attest:
