Town Finances.

Elsewhere in this paper is printed a statement of the finance of Greenville for the year ending June 30th, 1900. This statement shows every claim audited and allowed by the Board of Aldermen, to whom paid, for what purpose and the amount. This is a matter in which every citizen of the town is interested. THE REFLECTOR has previously spoken of the good management of the Board of aldermen for the past year, and now the people have an opportunity of seeing just what went with the taxes paid unto the town treasury, and can also see that the administration of a town the size and importance of Greenville cannot be conducted without money.

Wager on Election.

New Orleans, La., July 16 —A bet of $10,000 to $4,500 was made here today that McKinley would be elected president at the next election. The betters were Archibold P. Hennessy, of California, who took the McKinley end of the bet, and Joseph Green, a corporation lawyer, of New York.

Green is on his way to Mexico as counsel for H. L. Sprague, the big copper mine owner of Michigan, who is on his way down there to prevent a foreclosure of a claim to some mines. Sprague and Hennessy were schoolmates. Politics was discussed and the result was the bet. Sprague, who is stakeholder, himself offered to take the Bryan end at odds of three to four. Mr. Hennessy excused himself on the ground that $10,000 was all that he cared to put up just now. —Greensboro Record.

THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1900.

Tuesday night the people of Forsyth county held an indignation meeting at Winston and adopted strong resolutions condemning Holton and all others instrumental with him in causing the arrest of registrars and taking them before a U. S. Commissioner because they would not register illegal negro voters. Ex-Senator Ransom made a great speech to the immense crowd and there was intense enthusiasm. The Republican leaders by their action thought to intimidate the white people by Federal interference, and in their desperation were ready to resort to any means to defeat the Amendment, but their outrage at Winston reacted upon themselves and will bring the white people more solidly together and make many votes for the Amendment.

Along the same line Chairman Simmons has written an open letter to President McKinley calling attention to the fact that his appointees to Federal offices in North Carolina are going beyond their authority and using their positions illegally to try to influence an election where only State officers and local issues are to be voted upon. Chairman Simmons puts the matter plainly, and if President McKinley has proper respect for the dignity of his position, and is not himself an abettor of Holton and his gang, he will call them off from interfering with a State election where they have no authority.

The great distress that persons of a snipersensitive disposition endure is of sufficient frequency to have a place in a column of "passing events." Such persons are to be pitied many times when they are condemned.

It is true that some one has well said that people have no business spreading their feelings so far around them that others will walk on them unawares; but the person of the very sensitive disposition does not every time know how far his feelings have gone and sometimes perhaps we are not careful enough ourselves to keep off the feelings of other people that lie so broad around.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

The Democratic and Republican platforms denounce Trusts with equal vehemence; but the Democrats propose feasible means of lessening Trust extortion, while the Republicans deal in vague generalities.—Philadelphia Record.

Facing Both Ways.

The Fusion spell-binders have been going about the State telling the people who are unable to pay tuition for their children that if the amendment is passed no effort will be made to improve the public schools, their children will grow up without an education, and after 1908 children coming of age will be disfranchised. In a recent speech Decayed Baylus "expatiated" to a considerable extent along this line, winding up by telling the people that the folks with property would not consent to be taxed for better public schools, and declaring that they were opposed to public education anyhow, and that he knew the Baptists were opposed to public schools. That was a slander upon the people of the whole State as well as upon the Baptist church, whose leaders promptly repudiated the utterance. But this plan of deception goes on and Fusionists tell the voters that the Democrats do not intend to improve the schools.

To show what liars they are, these same Fusionists have issued a circular letter to bankers, capitalists and manufacturers, seeking to secure their opposition to the amendment upon the ground that if the amendment is ratified it will result in an increase of their taxes to maintain the better public schools promised. They think they can get the votes of the rich by a plea to their cupidity. It may be that they can get a dozen or so, but as a rule the rich men in North Carolina have been willing to be taxed for better public schools and they are in hearty accord with the Democratic demand for a longer school term and better facilities and will stand by the party in carrying out its pledges to put the advantage of an education within the reach of every child in the State.—Charlotte Observer.

An Analysis of McKinley's Speech.

A correspondent of The New York World has been at the trouble to make a quantitative examination of President McKinley's speech to the committee notifying him of his nomination, with the following result:

- 7074 words were devoted to money and silver.
- 313 words to Imperialism and the Philippines.
- 242 words to praise of Republican record.
- 126 words to Protection.
- 82 words to China.
- 75 words to Hague conference.
- 66 words to Hawaii.
- 57 words to Spanish war.
- 23 words to Cuba and Porto Rico.
- 0 words to Trusts.

According to this method of determination it is very clear that the Silver question is the paramount issue in the President's opinion. But the method is faulty. Very often the most mischievous or momentous determinations take the very briefest form of expression, like the lover's "yes" or "no." But The World writer has cleverly shown what Mr. McKinley thinks it best to talk about and best to say nothing about.—Philadelphia Record.

The best newspapers are the best mediums for advertisers. This is an established fact. It is important, therefore, both to advertiser and publisher, that the best newspaper should be known and recognized as such. Any failure on the part of a publisher to sustain a just claim to pre-eminence in value is reprehensible.—Press & Printer.

Let Men of all Parties Join.

Two years ago when the fate of North Carolina was trembling in the balance, the Democrats appealed to the Populists and decent Republicans for help assuring them that their votes for good government then would commit them to nothing as to the future; that there would be no attempt to put the Democratic uniform upon them and that they could after the election return to their former parties without Democratic reproaches. This promise has been faithfully observed. It has been said to the Populists and Republicans in the present campaign that the amendment is not a political question; the Democrats have striven to keep it off party lines, and the Populist State convention declared that each member of that party should determine his attitude toward it as an individual. It is not a political question, but an educational one, and one of government by the intelligent. Any man of any party can vote for it without waiving any part of his party integrity, and no man will do so without feeling the better for it afterwards. And it would be worth something to the reputation of the State for intelligence and broad patriotism for one to be able to say after the election that this great and beneficent measure has been carried not by a party but all parties.—Charlotte Observer.

China's Awful Awakening.

Where is it all to end? The frantic millions of northern China are filled with the desire to drive all foreigners out of their country. On the other hand, we shall have a unanimous purpose on the part of the nations of christendon to avenge the murders in Peking. A conflict which must result in a vast sacrifice of human life seems inevitable. If the people of southern China shall unite with their northern brethren in resistance to the foreign troops now on their way to the shores of the Yellow Sea, the last half of the last year of the century will be as bloody as those which convulsed Europe at its beginning. China appears to be awake at last, but what an awful awakening!—Hartford Times.

Child Overboard

A little daughter of Mr. E. S. Reid, while out sailing with her father and friends at Wilmington fell overboard when a long distance from shore. She was sitting in the boat with her feet hanging over the side. A friend of Mr. Reid's sitting near her, took the precaution to hold on to her dress in case of accident. Fortunately when she fell in the water he had hold of her dress, pulling her back into the boat by it, and thus saving her life.—Charlotte News

The Navy Department has made shrewd disposal of the six submarine boats to be built on the Holland plan for Government account. They are to be stationed at the leading ports of the coast line, from Boston to Puget Sound, and their commanders will stick close to the docks, and never go to sea. Thus a few snug berths will be provided for favorite officers, while a million or so of the Treasury surplus will be distributed at large through the agency of the Holland Company.—Philadelphia Record.

A man of 69 years of age who lost his hearing when a boy of 10 years, had it restored a few days ago by falling from the roof of a house. We would not recommend this remedy in every case, for it has not been sufficiently tested yet.—Wilmington Star.

Bound Him Over.

The case of the second registrar was called at Winston this morning.

Only one witness was introduced and the defendant was held for Federal Court in a bond of $2,000, which he gave readily.

Evidently the Commissioner had made up his mind before even one witness was examined.

However, all such stuff is making Democratic votes.—Greenboro Record.

Blockader in Trouble.

U. S. Commissioner D. G. Maxwell yesterday issued a warrant for the arrest of Ed Cagle, the Richmond county blockader, who was jailed in this city a few days ago for carrying a pistol and was afterwards taken to Rockingham, county for trial on a charge of blockading, shooting at revenue officers and the like. The warrant issued by Commissioner Maxwell charges that Cagle lifted a $1 silver certificate to a $10 certificate and passed the same on one H. H. Bennett, of Grassy Island, on the 27th of last June. Evidence in the case has been procured by Charles E. Wright, a secret service agent, who is now in this city. This case against Cagle will be heard in Rockingham county also.—Charlotte Observer.

COMPLIMENTARY PARTY

Happy Gathering of the Little Folks

Little Misses Hennie and Essie Whichard were "at home" from 8:30 to 11 o'clock Wednesday evening, complimentary to their cousin, little Miss Susie Perry, of Kinston, who is visiting them. About half a hundred little folks were present to lend pleasure to the evening, and they spent the hours swinging, romping, cake-walking, shouting, and such games as only merry, lighthearted children can enjoy themselves in. Some of the older ones who were looking on at the children's pleasure were carried back to their own "candy stew" day, but even those happy days paled beside the joys of the children of today.

Mesdames Whichard, Ragsdale and Sutton, and Misses Lina Shepard, Bruce Sutton and Hennie Ragsdale had charge of the dining room arrangements and served the little folks bounteously with refreshments, while the little hostesses presented each guest with a souvenir bouquet.

All went merry as merry could be, and though some little eyes were getting heavy, the time for saying good night seemed to come all too quick for most of them.

A Final Adjournment

A letter from Judge Henry G. Conner, of Wilson, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, states that the Legislature will meet on the 25th of this month and adjourn, sine die. Only a few members are expected to be present—just enough to grace the formality of adjournment. The principal clerk of the House, will be in attendance, but the presence of the others is not necessary.—Charlotte Observer.
