GALVESTON'S DEAD.

Houston, Texas, Sept. 10.—Richard Spillane, a well known Galveston newspaper man, and day correspondent of the Associated Press in that city, reached Houston today, after a terrible experience. He gives the following account of the disaster at Galveston:

"One of the most awful tragedies of modern times has visited Galveston. The city is in ruins and the dead will number 3,000. I am just from the city, having been commissioned by the mayor and citizens' committee to get in touch with the outside world and appeal for help. Houston was the nearest point at which working telegraph instruments could be found, the wires as well as nearly all the buildings between here and the Gulf of Mexico being wrecked. When I left Galveston shortly before noon yesterday, the people were organizing for the prompt burial of the dead, distribution of food and all necessary work after a period of diaster. The wreck of Galveston was brought about by a tempest so terrible that no words can adequately describe its intensity, and by a flood which turned the city into a raging sea. The weather bureau records show that the wind attained a velocity of 84 miles an hour, when the measuring instrument blew away, so it is impossible to tell what was the maximum.

The storm began at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. Previous to that a great storm had been raging in the gulf and the tide was very high. The wind at first came from the north, and was in direct opposition to that from the gulf. While the storm in the gulf piled the water upon the beach side of the city the north wind piled the water from the bay into the bay part of the city. About noon it became evident that the city was going to be visited with disaster. Hundreds of residences along the beach front were hurriedly abandoned, the families fleeing to dwellings in higher portions of the city. Every home was opened to the refugees, black or white. The winds were rising constantly and it rained in torrents. The wind was so fierce that the rain cut like a knife.

"By 3 o'clock the waters of the gulf and bay met, and by dark the entire city was submerged. The flooding of the electric plant and gas plants left the city in darkness. To go upon the streets was to court death. The wind was then at cyclonic velocity, roofs, cisterns, portions of buildings, telegraph poles and walls were falling, and the noise of the wind and the crashing of the buildings were terrifying in the extreme. The wind and water rose steadily from dark until 1:45 o'clock, Sunday morning. During all this time the people of Galveston were like rats in traps. The highest portion of the city was four to five feet under water, while in the great majority of cases the streets were submerged to a depth of ten feet. To leave a house was to drown. To remain was to court death in the wreckage.

"Such a night of agony has seldom been equalled. Without apparent reason the waters suddenly began to subside at 1:45 a. m. Within 20 minutes they had gone down two feet and before daylight the streets were practically free of the flood waters. In the meantime the wind had veered to the south-east."

It is really appalling to read in the papers of the last few days accounts of the terrible disaster at Galveston, Texas. A storm visited the city Saturday afternoon and before its fury had been spent the city was in ruins, and three thousand people had lost their lives. Appeals for help were sent out, and contributions of money and provisions are being sent from all parts of the country to relieve the distress of the sufferers.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 12 1900.

After making public his letter of acceptance, Mr. McKinley started for Canton again, via Somerset, Pa., where his niece will this week be married, for an indefinite stay. This either indicates that he understands what the powers are going to do in China, or that he is extremely negligent of American interests, as there is now no one in Washington to receive news from China, higher than an assistant secretary.

Mr. McKinley's letter of acceptance is a most carefully prepared document, especially that portion of it which seeks to lull the public fears of imperialism. It misses none of the usual arguments in favor of expansion, and either omits entirely or glosses over the acts of imperialism of which the administration has been guilty. That portion of it dealing with the country's prosperity is not so carefully put together and will be sure to arouse smiles of incredulity among the well-informed, who know that it is Providence, and not the republican administration, which has given the country bountiful crops and that wars and not the republican administration, have largely increased the volume of money in circulation and thus helped along prosperity at this time, at the expense of future tax payers.

Charges of the most serious nature against the Quartermaster-General's office, made by Mr. J. O. Cole, who voluntarily left a position there in and whose standing and responsibility are vouched for by Senator Mason, have been pigeon-holed for months, by the War Department, and not even a pretense of an investigation made, although the charges were specific as to time, nature, and by whose orders the wrong-doing was perpetrated. Following is a quotation from a statement just made by the man who preferred the charges: "The water transportation business, as conducted in the Quartermaster General's office contains the record of the most shameful waste and misuse of public funds during the Spanish war. It shows how the government has been robbed in different ways of sums of money, as compared with which the amount involved in the Cuban postal frauds are a mere bagatelle, and brands with deplorable incompetency the army officers directly connected with them. An investigation will also show rascality somewhere." When asked why these charges had been so completely ignored, an official of the War Department said that no attention had been paid to them because they were regarded as merely the spite work of a disgruntled ex-employee, seeking to get even with somebody for some personal grievance. However, that will hardly be the view that Congress will take of the charges, which Mr. Cole says will be brought up early in the coming session.

Those who are well-informed, politically, know that Mr. McKinley owes his election to the gold democrats. That is why the accumulating evidence that the bulk of the gold democratic vote is going to be cast for Bryan and Stevenson this year is so disturbing to the McKinley managers. They know that the gold democrats have it in their power to elect the democratic ticket. Until within the past week, the republicans have denied that Col. Bryan would get the support of the gold democrats of prominence, but since the publication of letters over their own signature of two members of the Cleveland Cabinet—Olney and Wilson—declaring in favor of the election of Bryan and Stevenson as a necessity to head off the imperialistic plans of the McKinleyites, they are dodging discussion on the subject! The close relations known to exist between Messrs. Olney and Wilson and Mr. Cleveland, makes it regarded as probable that Mr. Cleveland will also declare for Bryan and Stevenson, before the campaign gets much older.

The Warrenton Record truly says: "We see no earthly use in discussing the question whether or not the Democrats in North Carolina shall use against the Republican party the fact that McKinley appoints negro officeholders. He does do it. In Warren county four of our most important postoffices are held by negroes and yet some would have us say nothing of this in the present campaign, because the amendment was adopted to take effect two years hence. This question is sure to take its place in this campaign, just so sure as there are people who believe that a negro national officer is just as objectionable as a negro state officer. We have eliminated the race question from State politics, now lets eliminate it from national politics by electing a president who will not give us negro officers over the white people of the south."

A Child Dies for Want of Medical Attention.

New Bern, N. C., Sept. 8.—Henry Parsons, a boy eleven years old died at his mother's home here yesterday of malaria fever. He had been sick two weeks and has had no medical treatment whatever being under the care of the Christian Scientists with Miss Hatchie Harrison in charge. Upon affidavit of the facts Coroner Rhem today called a jury composed of prominent citizens of the city. The jury called numerous witnesses and had the Christian Scientist called to testify. Upon the evidence the jury found as follows: "The child was suffering from malaria fever and did not receive medical treatment because he was under the care of Miss Hatchie Harrison, a Christian Scientist. We find from the evidence that his death was the result of improper treatment and neglect. We further find from the evidence that the child in all probability would have recovered if he had had proper medical treatment."

The matter will be brought before the next session of the grand jury. Indignation is very deep and widespread.

Prosperity Wage Cutting.

It strikes us that Uncle Hanna would do well to send a postal card or two to the managers of the New England cotton mills, begging them to postpone their purpose to reduce the wages of their operatives, if not until after the election, at least until after he can count up the contents of his barrel and see whether he will be justified in offering the a small honorarium to continue the present rate at least to the middle of October.

It will be very embarrassing to the blatant Republican spellbinders, who are going about the country shouting "prosperity," and demanding that the working-men shall have "four years more of the full dinner pail," to have a dyspeptic looking man in the audience ask about the reduction of wages in the New England cotton mills. And yet it seems certain that the Democrats are to have this gilded opportunity.—Atlanta Constitution.

This is a free country and a man has a perfect right to join the republican party if he wants to. But in our opinion, the man who does so thinking that the adoption of the constitutional amendment has made that party respectable is most woefully mistaken. It should not be forgotten that the republicans did everything in their power to defeat the amendment, and that they are now threatening to retaliate by curtailing our representation in congress and the electoral college. At no time in its history has the national republican party been more of a negro party than it is now, and if it had the power it would tomorrow turn over every state government in the south to them.—Wadesboro Messenger.

England exports manufactured stuffs to the yearly value of nearly or quite $1,000,000,000. The United States exported in the last fiscal year $432,284,366. England has practical free trade, whilst the United States boast of their protective policy, especially intended to foster manufacturing interests by excluding foreign competitors from the home market. Considering the preponderance of English exports an argument favoring protection can hardly be justified by comparison of the opposing policies; but the Protectionist organs insist that the trade which has grown up in spite of tariff restriction has really grown because of it.—Philadelphia Record.

Compulsory School Attendance.

The Greensboro Telegram, with a view to stimulate thought and action along the line of carrying out the promise of the Democratic party to furnish an opportunity to every child in North Carolina to obtain an education, has interviewed a number of leading men of the State in different professions on the question:

"Is the time now ripe for a mild compulsory educational law in North Carolina, or for even a step in that direction?"

The answers are varied, but almost unanimously in favor of some plan for compulsory attendance. The presidents of all the colleges of the State, leading lawyers, manufacturers, teachers and business men give their opinions, all of which make very interesting reading matter on this burning question. The first letters were published by The Telegram September 1st, and will be continued in its Saturday edition for a week or two. When all have been published, a synopsis of the views will be made and printed in brief pamphlet form for distribution. Every one desiring a copy of this can obtain same as soon as issued by merely making a request for same to Mr. R. F. Beasley, The Telegram, Greensboro, N. C. This is the most important contribution that has for some time occurred on the subject of education in North Carolina. Get a copy and read both sides.

The girl who turns up her nose at sight of a broom is always glad enough to sweep down the aisle when she's married.

The average North Carolina editor does more for his community for less money than any man in it.—Durham Herald.

Great fires are now raging in the pine timber on the Carolina Central, between Hamlet and Wilmington, and also on the Atlantic Coast Line near the South Carolina border.

More persons were killed and injured in factories in the State of New York last year than fell in Uncle Sam's army and navy during the Spanish-American war. The figures were as follows: Killed in factories, 910; injured, 40,000. Killed in Spanish-American war, 208; wounded, 1557.

Fire in Washington.

News came by wire a little past 2 o'clock this afternoon that a terrible fire was raging in Washington and the people and fire department were unable to check it. Mayor Studdert telegraphed here to Mayor Moye for our fire engine to go to their assistance, and telegrams for help were also sent to other towns in reach. Our steamer went at once to the depot to wait for a special train to take it to Washington.

The fire started some where about the canning factory on Water street and burned all the buildings in that section including the market house and Willis' store. Then the fire turned up market street and burned to Maine street and was burning fiercely up Main street the last news we could get before going to press. The messages say the town is doomed.

WILLIS K. WHICHARD.

Died at his home in Pitt county N. C. on the night of the 10th of September, 1900, Willis R. Whichard. He was born at the same place March 16th, 1833. He lived and died at the same homestead. He was first married to Miss Martha Congleton by whom he had two children, only one of which is now living, Mrs. Soloman Jones. He was after united in marriage to Miss Amanda Gurganus and were born unto them seven children, one of them died and six now survive him.

He was an industrious and skillful farmer all his life, and by his energy provided well for his family and accumulated a good estate.

He united with the Primitive Baptist church at Briery Swamp in June 1890, and was a faithful and consistent member of that church to the time of his death. He was badly afflicted with rheumatism for about 23 years and for the last ten years of his life was unable to get about but little, but would attend to his business and go to his meetings even when he had to be carried, and wonderfully retained his strength of mind and bore all his sufferings with such Christian patience that he never murmured. He has left us an example of honesty, integrity and Christian perseverance worthy of emulation. He is gone from all his sufferings and will be missed by his devoted family, the church and all the community. To the bereaved family we tender our heartfelt sympathies. M. T. LAWRENCE.

Died.

Mrs. Margaret Raspberry, aged 74 years, died at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mr. R. L. Smith in South Greenville. The burial took place this afternoon near her old home in Greene county. She had been an invalid for several years and her death was not unexpected.

Mrs. Raspberry was an aunt of Mrs. Smith and of Mr. W. J. Turmage. She also had a number of relatives in both Pitt and Greene counties.

BLACK JACK ITEMS.
