

FACTORY DAMAGED.

Three Floors Collapse Under Immense Weight.

Late Saturday afternoon the two hundred hands employed in the leaf tobacco factory of Roberts & Ficklen were alarmed by the creaking of timbers and the giving away of floors beneath them. Some jumped out of windows and others rushed for the doors, and when all were clear of the building there was much relief to find that not one of them had been injured.

An investigation showed that three floors of the building had given way simultaneously. The building is five stories high, and every floor was crowded full of tobacco, so large had been the purchases of the firm. Such immense weight was more than the building could stand, and from about midway the house to the front the first, second and third floors fell in. The first floor had only about two feet clear from the ground, and the inside studs kept the other floors from coming down more than about the same distance. But for this it is probable the entire building would have collapsed.

Most of the pillars under the building are careened out of position and the whole structure is more or less twisted out of shape, and it looks like it will have to be torn down and rebuilt before being safe again.

This is the third disaster with which the same building has met. When it was first being built and the frame work had been raised to the fifth story, a hard wind came one day and leveled the whole thing to the ground. Several workmen were slightly injured in that collapse but no one seriously. A year or two later in a storm one night it was partially blown off its foundation and one side of the building badly damaged.

It is truly remarkable, as well as a cause of gratitude on the part of those in the building, that all these accidents have been free from loss of life or even serious injury. The building is the property of Hooker & Bernard, and they as well as Roberts & Ficklen are losers financially. The latter will continue their business right on in such temporary quarters as they can secure until the factory is made ready again.

Marriage Licenses.

For the first two weeks of October Register of Deeds Moore issued nine marriage license, as follows:

WHITE.

W. H. Johnson and Benlah Wingate.
John R. Williams, Lula Braxton.
Edarwd Harris and Rosa Manning.
J. E. Owens and Lena Cobb.

COLORED.

Colonel Dunn, and Sallie James.
Willie Tucker, and Lillie Price.
Billy Page, and Florence Daniel
Joe Wilks, and Emma Allen.
Sherman Newton, and Laura Bell.

The other candidates are all of the opinion that Governor Jarvis acted nobly in withdrawing.—Raleigh Times.

ALBEMARLE PRESBYTERY.

Will Convene Tuesday Night.

The Presbytery of Albemarle will convene at eight o'clock Tuesday night in the Presbyterian church of this place.

The opening sermon will be preached by Rev. A. R. Shaw, pastor of the Henderson church.

The territory embraced within this Presbytery is nearly one third of the State but not more than one sixteenth of the Presbyterians.

There are twelve ministers in the Presbytery and twenty seven churches.

The fall meetings of Presbytery are never so largely attended by the Elders as are the spring meetings, and as a number of the churches at this time are vacant, there will be a small attendance upon the approaching meeting.

There will be some interesting discussions upon certain explanations which have been put as a foot note in the "Confession of Faith" and which by some are thought to be unnecessary.

Gov. Jarvis Withdraws

Ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis has withdrawn from the senatorial contest. The letter of withdrawal, which is written in excellent taste, was received by The Raleigh Post Friday and is given herewith:

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 12.

Editor Post:

When I announced my candidacy for a seat in the United States Senate, I thought it likely that a majority of the Democratic voters might desire me to be their candidate to represent the people of North Carolina in that great body. I have since learned that many friends throughout the State who might, under other circumstances, have supported me, have committed themselves to other gentlemen. It is now apparent to me that a large number of the Democratic voters are looking elsewhere for their candidate. I have no disposition to question the wisdom of their course or contend against it.

Under existing conditions it would not be reasonable in me to ask further support from friends to whom I am already so largely indebted for their past kind services. I, therefore, beg to use your columns to announce to the public that I am no longer a candidate. This leaves me absolutely free to work for party success in November.

In thus eliminating my personal interest I wish it distinctly understood that I do not abate one jot or tittle of my deep interest in the success of the Democratic party. The Democracy of North Carolina ought to give Bryan and Stevenson a rousing majority and elect a solid Democratic delegation to the House of Representatives. It can be done if every Democrat will do his duty. I shall go forward to do mine, and I appeal to every Democrat to be at his post of duty until the closing of the polls. The election of a Democratic senator is already assured. Now let us send nine Democrats to the House to co-operate with him.

THOS. J. JARVIS.

Et God give de whole worl ter one man, de devil would have a mortgage on it befo' you could tu'n roun'.

What hopes the Populists can have in trying to continue a party organization we are unable to see. As a party they can never expect to amount to anything more. Their getting out electoral candidates in this State looks like a few of them are just allowing themselves to be used to make votes for McKinley.

Seed Too High For Oil Mill Men.

Four or more of the largest cotton seed oil mills have closed. At the beginning of the season the market price for seed was $12 per ton. Later the quotations ranged about the $17 mark. This latter price was set by the Atlantic Cotton Oil Company, which operated four of the largest mills in the State. Since then the price has bounded past the $20 quotation, and there is a chance that it will even go higher.

Years ago the farmers emptied cotton seed in the gullies, and now the seed bring 30 cents a bushel. The manufacturers claim that when the seed is bought for $10 a ton anywhere from $2 to $3 is lost in the transaction.

There is no expected advance in the price of crude or refined oil, and all mills buying seed at $20 are engaged in speculation. According to some of the mill men refined oil can be bought in New York $2 cheaper than it can be manufactured by the mills paying $20 a ton for the seed.

"The situation is a serious one" said a manufacturer to The Commercial correspondent to-day. "The policy which some of the mills are pursuing of paying $20 a ton for seed is destructive. The cause of the advance is two-fold. First, there is the late season and the opening of ten or more mills in the State. The new mills are anxious to get business, and most of them are buying at $20 or thereabouts.

"The demand and price of the product of the seed—viz: hulls, meal, oil and linters are not of a nature to warrant the safe buying of seed at $20. The mills are cutting each other's throat, and it seems impossible to reach any agreement whereby the price can be regulated."

A. C. Phelps, secretary and treasurer of the Atlantic Cotton Oil Company, when in Charleston the other day, said his company, which owned and controlled four of the finest mills in the State, was not able to run them on account of the high price of seed. Two ran for a time, and then were closed, and it is not known when they will be reopened. The company instructed its agents not to buy until the price dropped to $17, as it was not clear how the mills could be operated to pay with the seed so high in price.

The oil men say it is business suicide to try and manufacture oil with the price of seed at $20. They are waiting for a decline, although at present there is not much indication that the farmers will be willing to sell for a lower figure.—Charleston, S. C., Special 10th, to New York Commercial.

Statement That a Mississippi Man Still Holds Slaves.

For more than forty years Wade Crowder, colored, his wife Matilda and his daughter Sallie have been held slaves in this glorious land of free. Crowder's story, as told by himself and corroborated by his wife, is as follows:

"I was born on Marse Crowder's plantation in Mississippi, on the Pearl river, about 50 miles south of Grenada. I did not know I was free until a week ago, and neither did any of us. We always worked picking cotton on the plantation and nobody ever came there to tell us that we were free. Marse Crowder had about 75 colored people working for him. If we tried to get past the patrollers they would catch us and take us back to the master and we would get a whipping. One day last week my wife didn't pick her share of cotton because she wasn't feeling very well, and the negro driver gave her a terrible beating. He whipped her till the clothes struck to her back. That made us mad and we planned to run away. Twelve of us were in the party."

Crowder and his wife's daughter arrived here at 1 o'clock yesterday. Steve McCorkie, one of the leading colored citizens of Joliet, took them in charge and to his home. A long telegram was sent by McCorkie to President McKinley, stating the facts as related by Crowder. The colored people will also refrain at-torneys to begin action in the United States Courts to secure, if possible, what is due these colored people in the shape of wages.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Lincoln's Prophecy in 1865.

"I see in the future a crisis approaching that unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. As a result of the war, corporations have been enthroned, and an era of corruption in high places will follow, and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people, until the wealth is aggregated in a few hands and the Republic is destroyed. I feel at this moment more anxious for the safety of the country than ever before, even in the midst of war."
