

TALK WITH FARMERS.

They Should Not Crowd The Market.

Sometime ago THE REFLECTOR printed a squib that the farmers would receive better prices for their tobacco if they would not crowd the market, but would hold it back and keep the buyers anxious for it. The Kinston Free Press copied the squib and said that for making a similar remark once that paper had been censured by the buyers on the Kinston market. Possibly the buyers thought the paper should have more interest in them than in the farmers.

Again, THE REFLECTOR recently published a statement from the Secretary of the Tobacco Board of Trade showing how much tobacco Greenville had sold during the months of August and September, and the average price paid. The Free Press published that item also and said that Kinston had sold a few thousand pounds more than Greenville during the same months, but the comparison of average price between the two was not given.

But that is not what we started out to say, and it is only referred to by way of introduction to what is to follow. THE REFLECTOR does not feel much concerned about some other town selling a little more tobacco within a given time than Greenville, for we do not hesitate to say that Greenville is selling too much, for the good of the men who sell it, and no doubt every other eastern market in the state is doing the same thing. By this we mean too much is sold in a given time, that is, it is crowded too fast on the markets.

Early in this season Mr. O. L. Joyner, who shows more interest in the tobacco growers than any one connected with this or any other market, so far as our knowledge extends, wrote an article for the tobacco department of THE REFLECTOR advising the farmers along this very line. He told them that if they would divide their tobacco and just sell one-eighth of it in each of the eight months that the market is open they would get much higher prices for it. And only a few days ago we heard another man connected with a warehouse express the belief that the present crop would have put at least $10,000 more into the pockets of the farmers of Pitt county if they would not sell it so fast.

One of the strangest things about it to us is that so many of the farmers seem to want to come on the days when there is the largest crowds and the largest breaks and just block the market, when by a little forethought they could scatter out more and get so much better prices.

These crowded and blocked sales are just picnics for the buyers, as they can get tobacco at their own price and the warehousemen are powerless to prevent it. The warehousemen want the farmers to get high prices, but they cannot shoulder and carry it all themselves, so the buyers have to take it.

There has been so much tobacco sold in Greenville in the last three weeks that every factory is full and the buyers are a week or more behind in their work. They are just glutted, and therefore will not pay as much for tobacco as they would if they could not get enough to keep their factory and hands busy. If Kinston or any other town is selling more than Greenville, it only shows a worse condition there than here, for Greenville is as well prepared to take care of it and to pay for it as any other town, and we have not seen the average prices of any other market come up to this market.

The thing for the farmer to do is to stop crowding the market. Do not carry your tobacco off anywhere but keep it at home, selling it in small quantities when you can get good prices for it. As we said once before, keep the buyers anxious for it and you will see better prices. Take the advice Mr. Joyner gave you and divide your sales equally through the months of the season and always bring it to your home market. Greenville is already the best of any of the eastern markets, but you can make it still better if you will sell this way.

We have written this in the interest of the tobacco grower, for we want to see him get the best prices possible for his crop. There may be some people who will find objection to the way we have written of this matter, but every one who has any interest in the welfare of the farmer will say THE REFLECTOR has advised them right.

SEEN AND HEARD IN WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, N. C., Oct. 15th

We are glad to say Miss Allie, sister of Mr. J. D. Waters, is better, and her friends hope for her recovery. Mr. Waters is continuing the meetings, and on the night of the 11th there were five confessions and one re-united. Audiences are large.

Much changing around among our people, R. E. Harrel has moved to in front of the Academy, N. S. Fulford has purchased the Dim Mock residence on Main street and Ewell Roper, the Bell house on Second street.

Spencer Bros. are busily engaged in cleaning up their old site, preparatory to rebuilding. C. M. Little has his store pretty well under way, the Peterson Co. are cleaning up and getting lumber on the ground.

The bridge is now up for repairs and crossing will be by ferry. The bridge will be out of use about ten (1) days, and the ferry will be run from 7:00 o'clock A. M. to 8:00 o'clock P. M. Travellers may take due notice thereof, and govern themselves accordingly.

J. R. Satterthwaite, of Pauleys, was found dead in his room on the 6th inst., no suspicion of foul play that I hear.

Mrs. Olivia Oden, of Long Acre, died of consumption on Wednesday morning, 10th inst.

Another factory for making charcoal, &c., is going up here, so 'tis said.

A. Latham, pastor of the Christian church here, baptised seven on Sunday at 9:30 A. M., persons who confessed during the meetings being conducted by Rev. J. D. Waters, and the meetings still continue, and large audiences are in attendance at each service.

Just Three Things.

"I once met a thoughtful scholar," says Bishop Whipple, "who told me that for years he had read every book he could which assailed the religion of Jesus Christ, and he should have become an infidel but for three things:

"First, I am a man. I am going somewhere. Tonight I am a day nearer the grave than I was last night. I have read all such books can tell me. They shed not one solitary ray upon the darkness. They shall not take away the only guide and leave me stone blind.

"Second, I had a mother. I saw her go down into the dark valley where I am going, and she leaned upon an unseen arm as calmly as a child goes to sleep on the breast of its mother. I know that was not a dream.

"Third, I have three motherless daughters"—and he said it with tears in his eyes—"they have no protector but myself I would rather kill them than leave them in this sinful world if you blot out from it all the teachings of the gospel."

Warning Voices From the Past.

"Why quit our own to stand upon foreign ground?"—George Washington.

If there can be one principle more deeply written in the mind of every American, it is that we should have nothing to do with conquest."—Thomas Jefferson.

"The declaration of independence is the fundamental law of the land."—James Monroe.

"Under our constitution there can be no dependencies,"—Daniel Webster.

"Of all the dangers and misfortunes which could befall this nation I should regard that of its becoming a warlike and conquering power the most direful and fatal."—Henry Clay.

"No man is good enough to govern another man without that other's consent."—Abraham Lincoln.

OUR RALEIGH LETTER

Interest in the Senatorial Contest Increases.

Special Correspondent of Reflector.

RALEIGH N. C., Oct. 15, 1900. Three weeks more, and then the presidential election and senatorial primary! Or shall I say the senatorial primary and the presidential election.

If the senatorship is not regarded as of more importance by North Carolinians they certainly exhibit more interest in it, and it is the subject of discussion wherever you see two or three men collected—and it is not limited to Democrats. Republicans and Populists, particularly "leaders" of those parties (or perhaps it would be more correct to say that party, for the fusion has been so complete and of such long standing as to practically wield them all into one "Republican" organization), are manifesting not only interest but zeal and activity in our little political family contest, and I hear that many of them intend to try to vote for a certain senatorial candidate if allowed by the pollholders and Democratic managers to do so.

THINK IT SHOULD BE UNANIMOUS.

The withdrawal of ex-Governor Jarvis from the senatorial race was generally commended by all, and it is a matter of common report here, as these lines are being written, that Major Waddell will retire soon. As a good party man remarked today: "It would not be any more surprising than it would be strictly just to see the senatorship eventually tendered to Mr. Simmons in the same manner in which the gubernatorial nomination was so handsomely delivered to Mr. Aycock. I'd love to see it done that entirely proper way!" headed. So would the great majority of true Democrats of North Carolina, if the talk one hears in the hotel lobbies here nowadays is indicative of the sentiment obtaining in the various sections and counties represented by the talkers—most of whom are talking very earnestly about the matter, too, it should be added.

The "country newspapers"—those never failing reflectors of public sentiment in their respective communities—have never been more pronounced and earnest in their expressive English, within my recollection (embracing a period of a quarter of a century, to say no more, and constant reading of and contact with them), than during the last week, in "speaking their mind" on any subject.

To the glory and credit and everlasting honor of the North Carolina "country newspapers" be it said today, as it could be said ever since the present stamp of men have been editing them: They are free and untrammelled; they own their own little penny cedar pencils and the Washington hand-presses and "cylinders"; and their consciences are in no man's keeping.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 15th.

The entire administration, from the President down, is playing partisan politics for all it knows how, and the public business is getting on in any way it can. The White House has been turned into a political headquarters with the President filing the duties of Lieutenant to Boss Hanna. Anything to keep the republicans in power is the basis of all the White House consultations and conferences. That even single votes are not being overlooked was shown by the official order sent from Washington for the immediate dismissal of a woman clerk in Indianapolis p. o. who got married the other day, and the appointment of a voter in her place. Besides the political work that members of the administration are doing in Washington, the following prominent officials, and this is only a partial list, are on the stump for McKinley, with their salaries being paid by the tax payers while their official work is being neglected: Postmaster General Smith, Secretary Gage, Secretary Wilson Attorney General Griggs, Solicitor General Richards, Third Assistant Postmaster General Madden, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn, Commissioner of Pensions, Evans, and Director of the Mint, Roberts. In addition to these there is an army of smaller officials in the field speaking or pulling wires to influence voters, and the people are footing all the bills.

More government clerks will go home to vote this year, than have done so since the days when Zach Chandler bossed the Republican machine and made them do as he pleased. Clerks will register and vote who have not done so for twenty years or more. Every government clerk residing in the States considered anyway close have received a circular letter from the republican bosses of his state, telling him that if he fails to register and vote, his name will be handed to the republican State committee, which is merely another way of telling him that if he fails to vote he will lose his job. The heads of the government department are doing their part to help along the exodus of voters, at the expense of the tax payers of the country, by allowing it to be known that the clerks will be paid for the time lost in going home to register and vote. And will not have the time deducted from their annual leave. Late advices from Illinois put that State in the sure Democratic column. A poll of the state com-

Mrs. Thos. McGhee, of Goldsboro, came in this morning to see her kinsman, J. J. Dancy, who is quite sick.

H. P. Hoover, of Washington City, and Lennie Twisdale, of Middleburg, arrived Monday evening to visit their cousins, Ed. and Al. Taft and John Horne.

Working Right Along.

Mr. E. B. Ficklen tells us that the business of his factory will not be interrupted by the floors of the building breaking on Saturday. He will go right on buying, and steam is up and the hands at work as usual. The only loss his firm will sustain will be having to move out a lot of tobacco to make room for the necessary repairs to be made to the building.

Public Speaking.

Hon. C. L. Abernethy, Democratic candidate for Presidential Elector will discuss the political questions of the day, at the Court House, in Greenville on Friday night October 19th.

Speaking will commence at 7:30 o'clock.

He will also speak at Ayden on Monday, 29th.

This is a Rich One.

James E. Boyd is judge of the United States Court for the Western District of N. C. Another James E. Boyd is ex-Gov. of Nebraska and is a Democrat who has declared for McKinley. The St. Louis Globe Democrat uses a picture of our Judge Boyd in referring to the Nebraska man's flop. Judge Boyd has no objection to a man flopping either way, but he does object to having his picture paraded as the Nebraskan, who is about sixty years old.—Greensboro Record.

The Republicans of the First district, noting the distressful condition of young Mr. Meekins after the few bouts with Hon. John Small, have considerably called in Dr. Alexander to patch up the case. Dr. A. no doubt is a good doctor, but we advise him to be more careful than another M. D. who was called to see the wife of an Irishman and contracted to cure or kill her. She died. When he presented his bill the grief-stricken husband asked: "Did you cure my wife, Doctor?" Of course he replied "No." "Then you kill her!" he again inquired.

The bill remained unsettled a last accounts.—Raleigh Post.
