BLACK JACK ITEMS

BLACK JACK, N. C., Nov. 21st.

Quite a large crowd to preaching here Sunday.

W. H. Wynn went to Greenville Saturday.

Miss Lucy Linton passed through Sunday evening enroute for Blount's Creek where she will teach a public school.

L. H. White, Miss Annie White, Jimmie Smith, Fred Elks, George Cox and Joe Haddock returned home last Thursday from the New Bern fair.

L. H. White Jr., came in Saturday from Dover to visit his parents.

Charlie Wynn came in Saturday evening from Greenville to visit his brother, W. H. Wynn.

Lots of the Grimesland folks were here Sunday, among them were H. H. Proctor accompanied by his best girl. Turfey was also along with his escort.

Josh Mills and Johnnie Laughinghouse were in our midst Sunday.

Little Miss Lucy White is on the sick list again.

John Godley, of Grimesland, came Friday evening to see his best girl and returned Saturday.

Arthur Gariss, accompanied by Miss Mamie Buck, of Ayden, were the guests of Miss Maggie Smith Sunday.

BETHEL ITEMS

BETHEL, N. C., Nov. 21st, 1900. The stores of Staton & Co., J. C. Taylor & Co., and J. E. Carrow & Co., were broken into Tuesday night. Lots of clothing, etc., were taken. Some of the clothes were found at Staton & Gardner's brick yard. Mr. W. C. Hines was phoned for to bring his blood hounds at once. Mr. Hines came on the mail train but couldn't get any trail of the thief. It was thought by Mr. Hines that he was the same one that had been breaking in at the Cross Roads and other places near Greenville. The thief left his old clothes and put on new ones out and out at the brick yard. Mr. Hines identified the old vest that the thief had left as being the one to match the pants and coat that he had found in his trunk heretofore.

F. S. Gardner has returned from Norfolk where he attended the burial of his sister.

Rev. James N. Roe will be the pastor at Bethel the next year for the Baptist church.

Misses Lillian Taylor and Lidie Roberson, of Gold Point, spent Sunday with Miss Pearl Edmondson.

W. W. Thomas spent Tuesday in Tarboro on business.

Misses Lizzie and Blanche Mayo spent Saturday and Sunday with J. D. Taylor's family near Coakley.

The barrel factory began work last Thursday.

People are getting ready for their cabbages.

D. W. Corey is at Bethel to spend the holidays.

Anti-Cigarette Law.

The United States Supreme Court gave a black eye to the American Tobacco Company by a decision in which the Tennessee anti-cigarette law is held to be constitutional.

A year or so ago the Legislature of Tennessee passed an act prohibiting the sale of cigarettes in that State. The Tobacco Trust at once pronounced the law unconstitutional and promptly proceeded to disregard it, whereupon one of its agents was indicted. The case went to the Supreme Court of Tennessee, which held the law constitutional, on the ground that it was a police regulation for the suppression of a nuisance. The Trust appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States, and now that tribunal says the Tennessee court was correct in its construction of the law.

The decision will likely seriously affect the business of the American Tobacco Company in the South. The sale of its goods will not only be stopped in Tennessee, other States will no doubt enact similar legislation.—Raleigh News and Observer.

"Does advertising pay." The best answer to this often asked question is, "Watch the successful merchant." He is the man who advertises and will tell you that advertising pays. Do you want your business to grow? Then try a course of advertising. Keep your business before the people and you will meet with satisfactory results.

GENERAL LEE

And the Hall of Fame.

Contributed.]

The attention of the Greenville Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy has been called to an article written from Greenville to the New York Times and copied in "The Literary Digest" of Nov. 10th. This and other letters from the South, in indignant protest against the article in the New York Sun declaring Lee to be a traitor against the United States government, and therefore unworthy of a niche in the Hall of Fame, have been given a hearty vote of thanks by the Greenville Chapter, and we doubt not by every intelligent and honorable patriot in the land.

Had it been possible to arraign Lee for treason, after he had sent in his resignation to Gen. Scott as an officer in the U. S. A., the word is well assured that at the close of the war the North did not love him one whit too well to have tried the experiment and awarded him the fate of a traitor. Instead of this, when the cause for which he fought "nobly sustained, finally failed," his unstained sword surrendered to Grant, the conquering beligerant—himself entitled to all the privileges of a capitulating chief of an equally acknowledged beligerant power—Lee returned, loved and honored save by a few hostile fanatics, to the land he loved so well to be an example to coming generations as the head of her highest educational institution.

That Lee has a world wide fame even the New York Sun does not deny. His greatness is the possession of all civilized nations. He could make illustrious sundry individuals who are to be there by causing the seeker for general information as he gazed at the familiar statue of Lee to ask what several of the figures about him whose names they had never heard before could have done to deserve such illustrious companionship, the New York Tribune to the contrary notwithstanding with its statement that "every school boy above the primary grade should off hand identify each and tell its title to fame."

For the Daughters of the Confederacy we would thank "Southerner" whom we identify as a gallant "Major" in the C. S. A., for his just, patriotic and able article, J.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina

The Western North Carolina Conference is in session at Greensboro.

Bryan's majority over McKinley in this State, at the recent election, was 24,739. Four years ago his majority was 19,266.

The Governor has appointed R. D. Douglas, of Greensboro, as Attorney General to fill the unexpired term of Z. V. Walser, resigned.

Some of the smaller South Carolina and eastern North Carolina leaf markets have already closed the season. This is a little earlier than usual and indicates a small 1900 crop.—Western Tobacco Journal.

The Well Dressed Man

Attracts your attention wherever you meet him. He is numerous in Greenville this fall, and we take considerable of the credit for this condition of affairs. Ask the man if we are not entitled to this honor. Never before in the history of this establishment have we carried such a complete assortment of

"The Real Thing." Late

as we have this fall. Our customers tell us this, and they are certainly competent to judge. We have everything that is the rage in New York, and a visit to our establishment will give you a complete knowledge of all that is new and "Chic" in the fashionable world. In regard to our prices: We know that you will not utter a word of complaint. Drop in when you have a little time, we want to see you.

We have taken great care in growing the most improved bright tobacco seed—the White Stem Orinoco, the Broad Leaf Orinoco are the most reliable tobacco ever grown in any section. Every man in the east, who cultivated this kind will average from 2 to 5 per cent more than any other kind. Mr. Sam Mumford, at Ayden, says that his Orinoco will bring fifty dollars more per acre than any other kind grown on same land. Martin county people are growing Orinoco and coining money. You will find these seed for sale at Dr. Wooten's and Dr. Bryan's Drug stores and at some store in each section of the county at 25 cents per package.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1900.

It is a dull day now when the papers do not tell of some bank cashier skipping with a big pile of the banks funds.

Attorney General Griggs has made the formal statement that on the 4th of March he will retire from the President's Cabinet. His action in respect is purely for business reasons. So all of McKinley's official family will not remain with him during his second term, despite the fact that he has requested them all to do so.

Mr. J. F. Jordan, father of the Jordan Plan, is quoted as saying that the North Carolina Tobacco Growers' Association, although not making much fuss, is moving along very satisfactorily, and will one of these days accomplish something definite for the benefit of the farmers. The executive committee will shortly call another meeting, which will probably be held either in Greensboro or Danville.—Western Tobacco Journal, Election Figures.

The canvass of the vote of the State as to two of the candidates for elector-at-large, Messrs. Overman and Price, was completed yesterday, and it was ascertained that at the recent election Mr. Bryan, as represented by Mr. Overman, received 157,789 votes, and Mr. McKinley, as represented by Mr. Price, 122,997—Bryan's majority 24,730. In 1896 Mr. Bryan received in North Carolina 174,488 votes, and McKinley 155,222 Bryan's majority 19,266. Mr. Bryan has this year a majority of 5,473 in excess of that of four years ago. His vote this year is 16,752 less than it was in 1896, and McKinley's 22,225 less than it was four years ago. Bryan received this year 2,514 more votes than McKinley received in 1896, and 28,614 less than Aycock received in August, while McKinley received this year more votes by 9,701 than Adams received at the August election.

The vote in the senatorial primary, with two counties—Cherokee and Madison—missing, is reported: Simmons 102,355, Carr 47,382—Simmons' majority 55,073. The aggregate of votes for candidates for the Senate, is 149,637, which is 8,099 less than Mr. Bryan's vote, if these figures are correct, which we assume they are not, since it has been generally understood that the aggregate vote for Senator exceeded that for the Democratic presidential tickets.—Charlotte Observer.

The Man With Grievances and the Tired Man.

There are two classes of people we want to get away from and one of them is the man with a grievance. Oh, how everlastingly weary the man with the grievance can make the person to whom he insists in telling his grievance. The fellow with the grievance wants you to neglect your own business, lay everything aside and attend to this little trouble. The man with the grievance certainly is a pest and, like the poor he is always with us. The tired man is another fellow who has more ways to communicate his tiredness than you can enumerate. If the tired man is a minister he goes around among his flock with a sigh that would make a pair of bellows turn green with envy and tells the "brethering" and especially the "sistering" how he is spending himself out, how he is spending sleepless nights and toilsome days literally giving up his life to his work. If the tired man is a physician he makes his patients nervous by telling them how long it has been since he had a whole night's sleep. If the tired man works in an office he blows about he is tied to his desk and works without rest from day's end to day's end, but no matter what business or profession the tired man is in he never gets so completely fagged out that he does not have breath enough left to make his hearers weary with his little tale of woe. Don't have a grievance and if you get tired keep your mouth shut and rest.—Monroe Journal.

Hints on Eating.

Rapid eating is slow suicide. Plenty of time should be taken. Dinner should be of lighter nature in summer than in winter. Mere gratification of the appetite is very likely to shorten life. It is not good to dine when in a state of mental or physical weakness. Two pounds of potatoes contain as much nutriment as thirteen pounds of turnips. Light soups, light desserts, and light meats should have the preference in warm weather. Fish and oysters are easily digested. An hour or two of rest should be taken after the meal. Abuse of the stomach at dinner will be paid sooner or later by that punishment which comes to the glutton. Vegetables and fruit are to be used most generally at that season of the year in which they naturally mature.—Selected.

Why They Advertise.

The most extensive retail advertiser in Central Iowa is E. L. Tiede, who has been interviewed at length for Printers' Ink. As the result of long experience that merchant says: Advertising is an investment; and it rests with the advertisers whether it shall pay. I have tried about all ways of advertising and find the newspaper to be far the best and the cheapest when the returns are considered. The big merchants in the cities are everlastingly advertising not from love of the newspaper publishers, but because it brings trade. To succeed, a merchant in this day is bound to advertise in the newspapers unceasingly. There is no alternative.—Philadelphia Record.

The warehouses are having heavy tobacco sales this week.

The Universities of this State and Virginia will play a game of football in Norfolk Saturday.

The Factory as an Element in Social Life.

Under the above head, The Literary Digest recently reproduced some portions of a paper read by Hon. Carroll D. Wright, chief the government bureau of statistics, before the New England Cotton Manufacturers' association.

Mr. Wright protests vigorously against the idea current in places, that "the factory creates ignorance, vice and low tendencies." He argues indeed that "immoral lives are less frequent among the factory population than among any other class in the community," as shown by many and searching investigations.

The factory, according to this authority, has always been a civilizing influence.

The following quotation from his paper regarding the factory in the south is interesting. He says:

"The establishment of the textile factory in the south led to the employment of a body of native people, those born and bred in the south, popularly known as the poor whites, who, up to the time of the erection of cotton factories had lived a precarious existence. Today these people are furnishing the textile factories with a class of operatives not surpassed in any part of the country. The poor whites are now able to educate their children, to bring them up in a way that was never possible to them before and thus are gradually, and with more or less rapidity, becoming a valuable element in southern population.

"The experience in the south is simply that of other localities. The factory means education, enlightenment and an intellectually development utterly impossible without it.—Winston Journal.

Dead by Whose Hand ?

Durham, N. C., Nov. 19.—Sunday morning the dead body of Silas Turner, a white man, was found on the farm of Maj. G. P. Collins, adjoining Oconeechee farm near Hillsboro. James Turner, only brother of the deceased was the finder.

Mr. Turner went off hunting last Wednesday morning. He did not return that night and it was thought that he had gone to his brother's home several miles in the country. No uneasiness was felt until his brother was communicated with Friday and it was found that he had not been to his home. A search was instituted at once which was renewed yesterday morning. About 9 o'clock the brother found the body in a piece of woods, near the old Ike Strayhorn mill site.

His head was nearly shot off. A load of shot had entered the front part of his neck, coming out at the back of his neck. A large hole was made by the shot and the head was hanging by the flesh on either side—the bone in his neck having been carried away by the shot.

There is a mystery about how he was killed, some thinking that it was accidental and others that he committed suicide. The position of the gun and body seems to indicate that he killed himself.

The deceased was a son of the late Henry Turner and a brother of Mrs. Newman, wife of William Newman, merchant, Hillsboro. He also left another sister who lives in the country, and one brother, James Turner, who found the body yesterday. The deceased lived with Mr. and Mrs. Newman.

If he committed suicide no motive can be assigned for the deed.

They were talking of game. "What is your favorite bird?" asked Wigwag. "A swallow" replied Guzzler, dryly.

Needed Wheels On It.
A tremendous crate of turkeys weighing 400 pounds was expressed from here this morning. When it was being loaded at the depot Capt. Hawks jocularly remarked that if the crate just had wheels to it he would couple it right on to the train. It was the largest crate ever sent from here.

Birds at $60 Each.
A calculation has been made by some of the bird men which shows that, taking into account the hotel bills, livery bills and other expenses, every bird killed in this county by the Field Trial Club costs $60. This will give an idea of the amount of money left in the county by visiting sportsmen.—Newton Enterprise.

Moore-Abrams.
At 7 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. Thomas Abrams, in South Greenville, his daughter, Miss Nannie, and Mr. W. E. Moore were married by Rev. N. M. Watson.

The attendants were B. T. Evans with Miss Rosa Abrams, Ade Dudley with Miss Annie Gardner, Ed Jolley with Miss Pearl Evans, Charlie Baker with Miss Martha Dudley.

After the ceremony the bridal party went to the home of the groom, corner Pitt and First streets, where a reception was held.

A gentleman from Franklin county says some of the leading merchants there have recently made careful inquiries of farmers as to whether they have during the past five years, made more money out of cotton or tobacco, and that the farmers said cotton had proved the more profitable crop. Some of them say they think the time is coming when tobacco as a crop will be practically laid aside.—The Raleigh correspondent Charlotte Observer.

HIGGS & TAFT

YOU

Can't afford to buy shoes that hurt you, for you spend two-thirds of your life in them. No shoes, no matter at what price, can fit more comfortably, more naturally, more gracefully, more perfectly than the

Queen Quality

shoe for women. The natural woman's foot is the "QUEEN QUALITY" LAST. That is the reason these shoes NEED NO "BREAKING IN".
They feel as comfortable as a stocking from the moment
your feet enters them.
