WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, N. C. Nov. 24.

The A. G. Cox Mfg. Co., are preparing for the coming season the well known and far famed Cox Cotton Planter. The demand for these planters has grown so great that it is necessary to begin work on them far ahead of the season in order to supply the public. The manufacturers of this planter have dealings with many large wholesale houses in this and other States, who buy on a large scale. This early these merchants are making preparation to furnish their custom and are making application far in advance so as to have no trouble. While the sales were much greater last season than ever before, the indications are that the coming season will put the owners to a severe test to meet the demand. They anticipate selling one-half if not twice as many more as last year. This factory is doing a rushing business on a solid basis. No advertising is necessary to sell this planter, for it is an acknowledged fact that it is the best planter in the South and sells of its own accord.

Our friend Harvy T. Smith came down the street Thursday morning with the biggest chew of tobacco in his mouth, to-be-sure, and was smiling all over himself. Upon inquiring what it was that pleased him so well, and why he was spitting and chewing so excitedly, he informed us of the advent of a stranger at his house, and says he, "It is a fine boy and only weighs 11 pounds." We couldn't see any fun in that.

We had the pleasure last Thursday of meeting the Hon. A. A. F. Sewell a very prominent lawyer and Democratic member elect to the next General Assembly from Moore county, who was on a visit to friends here. We found Mr Sewell a very pleasant and intelligent gentlemen, and what we admire as well, a staunch and loyal democrat. We would be pleased to see him again.

William Weathington, son of Mr. Alfred Weathington, died yesterday morning from typhoid fever.

B. F. Tyson and W. H. White of Greenville, spent a short while here Thursday.

A great many of our people went up near Falkland yesterday to attend the inquest over the remains of Mr. D. W. Clark who was shot by Constable Joe. McLawhorn last Tuesday evening. Mr. Clark before his death lived only a short distance from here, and his sudden death is very much deplored by our people.

Hon. Johnson Nichols spent last night here.

A. G. Cox is still paying the highest cash prices for cotton seed.

In 1884 a Syracuse, N. Y., woman told her husband to bring her a sack of flour and to be sure not to come back without it. It took him a long time to get it for he came back only a few days ago, but he brought the flour with him.

You can always tell when a girl is in love, but with a man its different. He may merely be suffering from an attack of indigestion.

regular army. Prominent members of the party are every day declaring opposition to as large an army as Mr. McKinley seeks to have provided by Congress, and the situation in the Philippines makes early action on some sort of an army bill a necessity.

The population of the State of New York as officially announced is 7,268,012, as against 5,997,853 in 1890. This is an increase of 1,270,159 or 21.6 per cent. The population in 1880 was 5,082,871, showing an increase of 914,982, or 18 per cent. from 1880 to 1900.

There isn't much romance left in the world nowadays. A Virginia Judge has decided that a woman may be the head of the house if she foots the bills, and a Chicago judge has held that presents given under the influence of love's young dream must be returned when Cupid haits and Hymen blows out his torch.—Durham Sun.

Noah Raby, originally of Edenton, N. C., but for the past hundred years or more a denizen of New Jersey, forty years or more having been spent in a pen house, has again celebrated his 128th birthday. According to our recollection he has been doing this for several years. Noah says he managed to scuffle along pretty well until he reached the age of ninety years, when he had to retire from business.—Wilmington Star.

Needlessly Horrified.

We expected it and it has come. By "it" we mean a violent attack of hysteria in the north over the discovery of a northern traveling correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce that "that minor colored mill hands in North Carolina are whipped"

A northern contemporary pictures the "lashing of girls and boys alike," and says that this arouses no sentiment in the south, whatever may be thought of it in the north.

Our horrified contemporary, however, does not tell its readers that there is only one mill in North Carolina in which the "lash" is in vogue; that every employe in the mill except the boss weaver and the boss reeler is a negro, and that the superintendent of the mill is a colored "man and brother," who in addition to the filling that position, holds the office of Lord High Scourger.

Moreover, our horrified contemporary fails to state that the functionary told a correspondent of the Journal of Commerce that all his hands were under twenty-one years of age; were bound to him by certificates from parents or guardians as the case might be; were absolutely under his control from 6 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock in the evening, and he was "free from responsibility" as to the course he pursued toward them.

Furthermore, our horrified contemporary neglects to mention that the owners of the mill in which the employes are "severely lashed" are northern men and reside in the State of New Jersey.—Richmond Dispatch.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 23rd.

The project for giving the republican party a mortgage on the government by reducing the representation of the South in Congress and in the electoral college is dead. It was killed by its cool reception by the public and by the knowledge that if it had been attempted the democratic Senators would have blocked all legislation at this session of Congress. Instead of angering the democrats, the republican leaders have adopted a jollying policy toward them, and indulge in lots of talk about making this a business session of Congress, free from partisan bickerings. If they really wish to do that, it can easily be done, as the democrats are disposed to meet them half way in helping along legislation that is not tainted with partisanship, but they need not expect to pull the wool over democratic eyes by labeling notorious jobs, such as the ship subsidy bill, "commercial legislation." Democrats will see that no legislation will go through at this session under false pretenses. They will not attempt to prevent the majority carrying out its will in general legislation, but they will see that the nature of every bill proposed is fully explained to the country before it is allowed to get through. Under the House rules this cannot be done there, but it can be done in the Senate.

Even the Department of Agriculture shares in the general tendency to increase the ordinary expenditures of the government—a tendency which is bound to make much trouble if not checked. The estimates for appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the next fiscal year, now ready for submission to Congress, aggregate $4,659,050, which is an increase of 10 per cent. over the appropriations for the current fiscal year.

Holders of government places who have no strong pull to fall back on, or who spoke, worked, or voted for Bryan in the last campaign are being made to feel somewhat shaky by the knowledge that there is greater pressure for small appointments under the government than ever known before. Some time ago there was a report in Washington that republican workers in some of the doubtful states had been told to pitch in and work with all their might, and that they would be taken care of if McKinley was re-elected, regardless of the civil service law. Not much attention was paid at the time to the report, but the present activity of republican office seekers indicates that such promises were made. Time will show whether they are to be kept.

Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, will be succeeded by a democrat when he retires next March, but from the talk in administration circles it is considered almost certain that he will be rewarded for his support of McKinleyism by a big position in the diplomatic service, probably an ambassadorship.

The democratic members of the House and Ways and Means Committee, which met this week to consider a bill for the reduction of war taxes, will not be allowed to have any say in the matter until the republican members have completed a bill. The republicans of the committee have conferred with Mr. McKinley, Secretary Gage and Commissioner Wilson, of the Internal Revenue Bureau, since they came together. Mr. McKinley told them that some reduction must be made in order to make good his ante-election promises to the country, and Secretary Gage told them that the reductions must not under any circumstances exceed $30,000,000. The wholesale druggists and owners of proprietary articles have a delegation in Washington, anxious to see that they get a share of any reductions that may be made, and other interests are represented by lobbyists. The brewers are credited with leaving their interests in the hands of the big republicans who exchanged promises for their campaign contributions. It will not be surprising if a big scandal comes to the surface before this bill gets on the statute books. Democrats are not inclined to spare the republicans if evidence of crooked bargains can be secured, and there are good reasons for the belief that it exists in quantities.

If things do not change, there may be a regular cat and dog fight among the republicans in Congress over the bill for the increase of the

Retail Advertising.

If you're in business, if you advertise, if your advertising pays you at all—and it certainly will, if well done—then it will pay to see that it is properly done regardless of slight extra expense. See that you have a good location, even if it does cost a little more. Change your ad. every week. Talk frankly, candidly to your readers, not at them. Give interesting descriptions and prices. Look after your printer, and keep him from practicing his hobby of getting into one ad. several type styles. Don't forget little things. Advertise novelties, staples, and additions to your stock. If such a course is closely followed for a few years, and your advertising supported by honesty and modern business methods, you will be a leader in your line.—Earl Roscoe Ryno.

Paper From Cotton Seed Hulls.

Atlanta, Nov. 22.—The Journal this afternoon says that plans have been consummated here for the erection of ten plants for the manufacture of cotton seed hulls into paper of different grades, Robert Thomas of New York, at present in this city says, that the scheme is being backed by the National Saw Company, with $5,000,000 capital, and that work will be begun in putting up the plants in about 30 days.

He says he is also backed by the Standard Oil Company. It is the intention to have the factories well scattered throughout the cotton belt and they will extend from Texas to North Carolina. The plants will run with a capacity of from 125 to 200 tons each month.

People who have a curiosity to know what it is to have the hand of taxation on them ought to move to Greater New York and acquire something taxable. The estimate of the cost of the municipal government for the next year is over $98,000,000—which is so near $100,000,000 that it is not worth while to talk about the difference—and which is equal to about $30 per head of population. When it is remembered that according to the figures given out by the State Treasury a few days ago, the whole amount of tax collected by the State of North Carolina during the last fiscal year for all State purpose was less than $1,200,000 and when these figures are compared with those above, it will be seen that while we think down here that we know something about taxation we really don't.—Charlotte Observer.

WINE OF CARDUI

A SURE MEDICINE.

HANDSON, VA., Dec. 21.
I have been suffering from female weakness for four years, and have taken many medicines, but Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught have done more for me than anything else.
MRS. CAROLINE EVANS.

Wine of Cardui

It is a mistake to take any and every kind of medicine when you are sick. There is danger in it. Most of the so-called cures for "female weakness" do nothing more than deaden the pain temporarily, and when the effect wears away the patient is weaker and sicker than before. It is never wise to take chances. You have only one life, and that is dear and precious. If you have any pain, ache, disorder or weakness in the feminine organs, nothing will help you like Wine of Cardui. It helps do away with morning sickness during the early stages of pregnancy, and modifies the pains of childbirth; recovery is rapid and future health is assured. The Wine is purely vegetable, being made of herbs whose medicinal properties act directly upon the organs of womanhood. It is a long-tried remedy, and has many years of success behind it. It is sure. Why take a chance medicine when you can get a sure medicine?

The Clark Inquest.

Coroner Laughinghouse finished the inquest over the body of "Dock" Clark Friday evening. The verdict of the jury was that "D. W. Clark came to his death from shock caused by a gun shot wound afflicted Tuesday night by Joe McLawhorn, Constable, in the discharge of his duties as Constable."

The evidence introduced at the inquest showed that Constable McLawhorn had a warrant for the arrest of Clark, who had resisted arrest all day. That evening the officer summoned assistance and went to hunt for Clark. They followed him and finally found him at the Southwood farm. Clark was armed, and continuing to resist arrest the officer shot him in the upper part of the thigh. Clark died Thursday evening.
