NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., March 27.
A SUGGESTION TO FARMERS.
Owing to the extreme scarcity of labor we would advise all farmers to arrange their tobacco rows so every eighth row will be five feet wide, and by so doing you can use a tobacco truck and thus house your tobacco with much less labor and cost. There were some trucks used in certain sections last season for housing tobacco, and we find in every section where the truck was used there will be a great demand for them this season, and orders for several hundred trucks have already been placed and many more will doubtless come in yet. If you will lay out your rows as stated above it will take no extra manure and but little more land, and if you do not use the truck you can tote your tobacco along the wide row much better, and if you are scarce of help you can use a truck. We are going to be headquarters for tobacco trucks of best style. A. G. Cox Mfg Co.

For the first time in a long while our streets have a deserted appearance. "The farmers are busy preparing for the harvest and cannot come to the old town now."
A true remedy deserves encouragement, furthermore it will win. Such is "Balm of Figs" for suffering women, for sale by Mrs. F. O. Cox, Winterville, N. C., or her agents at different points. Write for 50 cent box free.

Mrs. Mary Smith is on a visit to friends and relatives in Choocowinity.

Miss Harper, of near Grimesland is visiting her brother, J. W. Harper.

Miss Pearl Evans is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. C. T. Kittrell.

Our old friend, the irresistible and irrepressible R. D. (Bo.) Cherry, of Greenville, was here a short while yesterday. The only objection we had to his coming was he made his visit too short.

Josh Manning, who has been attending school here, left for home Monday evening.

J. E. Green and Hon. Johnson Nichols spent Sunday in Ayden, a courting.

The demand for the Cox Cotton Planter is greater than ever before in its history. Already the orders are far ahead of any whole season heretofore.

Miss Lexie Daughtrey, of Greenville, is visiting Miss Minnie Clinard, at the home of Dr. B. T. Cox.

Claud Chapman, of Vanceboro, spent Friday night here and left Saturday morning. Before leaving however, he purchased and took away with him one of those fine buggies put up by the Hunsucker Carriage Co.

Mrs. John Galloway and Miss Daisy Tucker, of Grimesland, spent Friday night here visiting at the boarding house.

Dr. C. A. Blount and Miss Nannie Nichols, of near Renston, were here a short while Saturday.

A missionary meeting will begin in the Methodist church tonight and continue for three nights. The program is published in another column.

American Tobacco Co. Sells Cigarettes at Less Than Cost to Control Trade.

We have a circular letter from The American Tobacco Co., reading as follows:

TO OUR CUSTOMERS:
On and after this date the price of American Beauty Cigarettes will be $1.50 per M. This will enable the retailer to sell this brand in packages of 20 for 5 cents.

Soliciting your order for these Cigarettes, we remain,
Very respectfully,

THE AMERICAN TOB. CO.

This is the latest war of the tobacco trust on the Wells-Whitehead Tobacco Co. They thus offer cigarettes at less than absolute cost to destroy competition, the amount charged by them for their cigarettes being exactly the cost of the internal revenue stamps on the package, the cigarette including cost of manufacture thrown in.

Will this have the desired effect in crippling the independent factory. We think not. With the popular sentiment against these combinations to destroy legitimate competition we believe the great demand for Carolina Brights, the brand manufactured by The Wells Whitehead Tobacco Co. will continue. The public realize that if the independent goods are driven off the market the price of the trust goods will be advanced, and therefore looking at the matter from a selfish standpoint alone it will be to their interest to buy Carolina Brights even at a higher price. But their strong sentiment and sympathy with the independent goods will alone suffice to lead them to continue to buy them.—Wilson News.

Daughters of Confederacy.

The Singletary Chapter of the Daughters of Confederacy will meet on Thursday, March 28, at 3 o'clock p. m., with Mrs. F. C. Harding.

An Old Mule.

Mr. Charles Case was in town today driving perhaps the oldest mule in the county. He says he bought this mule thirty years ago, when the animal was just three years old, and has cultivated and harvested thirty crops with him. The mule is yet doing good service.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 27, 1901.

The people of Ayden are taking a stand against whiskey and say it must go out of that town. They are right, and we wish them success in their efforts to get rid of the great evil.

Dealers tell us fertilizer sales are larger this season than in years. We can't say that altogether gives a good prospect. It means large bills to pay next fall with probably low prices. The farmer better be sure that he has plenty of home supplies.

State Auditor Dixon gives the following figures as the cost of the recent Legislature: Senators, $13,530, employes $8,772. Representatives $32,550, employes $11,155; total $66,007. The cost of the impeachment trial is placed at $15,000.

The bond question seems to be a quiet one. We hope this is no indication of indifference to the matter. Those favoring the issuing of the bonds should be at work in favor of the measure. If the bonds are defeated at the election it will be a blow to Greenville's progress that will take years to overcome. Work and vote for the bonds.

Sunday morning two policemen of Charlotte made a raid on a room and arrested seven young men for gambling. They were caught full handed in the very act, so there was no use of putting up any denial whatever. They were required to give bond for appearance before the Mayor on Monday and each of them put up $50 as security. Monday when the time for the hearing before the Mayor arrived, one of the young men forfeited his $50 by failing to put in an appearance. A prominent lawyer of Charlotte appeared in behalf of the gamblers. This lawyer in his speech to the court actually condoned gambling. In part he said:

"There has been much said recently in regard to gambling in this town, and I speak in behalf of these defendants that your honor may not require an exorbitant bond. Playing cards for something of value is not such a heinous offense as some would make believe. Gaming is a characteristic of the English people. It is no offense at common law to gamble. Before the time of Richard the Third our forefathers encouraged their boys to gamble with the idea that this practice would make men of them. The vice of gaming was prohibited by King Richard because it had a tendency to detract from the military duty of his subjects. Gaming was not at first prohibited in England on account of any moral turpitude incident thereto. I therefore ask your honor not to make the bond of these gentlemen more than fifty dollars. Twenty-five dollars is the usual bond for the negro crap shooter, and I think double this amount is sufficient for a white card player."

This strikes us as a strange position for any man who has regard for morality and observance of the law to take. He might as well go back to the dark ages when almost any kind of crime was rife and render it as an excuse for the commission of crime today, as to try to justify those gamblers in the manner he did. The law is as pronounced against gambling as it is against any other crime, and the lawmaking powers in adopting stringent measures to prevent it recognized its evil effects. To say the least, this Charlotte lawyer took a dangerous stand against morality in the address he made to the court.

The Family Doctor Versus The Specialist.

Much of the specialist's operative work of today is worthy of the highest praise; on the other hand, a large percentage of operative work is ill-advised, superfluous and harmful, and as soon as the more intelligent people of the community realize that such is the case, they will again turn for advice to the intelligent family practitioner; they will admit him again to the inner family council and trust to him to shield them from the meddlesome treatment of our times, and to deliver them into conservative and safe hands. And if the future family practitioner is to regain lost ground, again, aspire to reach that plane in the practice of general medicine which is properly his, and again to enjoy the full confidence of his clientele, it must be through his own individual efforts—by educating himself to become a diagnostician. In view of the complex character which is a feature of some of the special examinations, this may seem a herculean task; but I am convinced that all medical men who are fitted by nature and proper education for their work will in reasonable time become competent diagnosticians, and will be capable of formulating precise indications for treatment, provided ample opportunity for laboratory and bedside instruction be offered and sought, and provided that no time be wasted experimenting with thousands of old and new and useless drugs in the endeavor to adapt a complex, cumbersome, and largely superfluous materia medica to the various symptoms of acute and chronic illness.—From "The Relation of the Family Doctor to Recent Progress in Medical Science," by Augustus Caille, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for April.

Women Who Work

Nine out of ten women are afflicted with some of the common ailments known as female diseases. Among women whose employment requires them to stand on their feet or sit in the same position all day, not one in twenty-five escape these troubles. The average feminine constitution cannot, unaided, withstand the strain to which steady, trying work subjects them. The organs of womanhood are so delicate and finely adjusted that the inevitable result of constant standing, lifting, stooping or straining is displacement of vital parts. The disorder is usually slight at first, but soon develops into irregular or painful menstruation, leucorrhoea or falling of the womb. Wine of Cardui is the right remedy for female weakness. As such it is offered to you. Wine of Cardui will not perform miracles, but it will, if taken as directed, insure painless and regular operation of the menstrual function. It will drive out every trace of leucorrhoea, and will so strengthen the ligaments that falling of the womb will be an impossibility. Don't you think it would pay you to try a medicine with such a record as that? You can get a $1 bottle of Wine of Cardui at any drug store and use it in the privacy of your home.

WINE OF CARDUI

Townsend, Ga., May 18, 1899.

I have been in bad health with falling of the womb, weak back, nervousness and heart palpitation. At monthly periods I would be in bed suffering great pain. Lately I have been taking Wine of Cardui and Theodor's Black-Draught, and they have brought me wonderful relief. I have no pain, and do not stop work at the monthly period.

Marvin McCullen Dead.

A telegram received here this morning from Norfolk announces the death of Marvin McCullen, son of Mr. Lafayette McCullen. The family moved from Greenville to Norfolk the first of the year, and their many friends here sympathize with the parents in their bereavement. The remains will pass through Greenville this evening enroute to Kinston where the burial takes place.

Up Against O-u-g-h.

A Frenchman thirsting for linguistic superiority recently began a course of English lessons with a teacher of languages. After toiling conscientiously through a good many exercises, the following dialogue between the pupil and his master was overheard:

"I find the English very difficult," complained the Frenchman: "How do you pronounce t-o-u-g-h?"

"It is pronounced 'tuff.'"

"Eh! bien, 'tuff'; 'snuff,' then, is spelt s-n-o-u-g-h, is it not?"

"Oh, no; 'snuff' is spelt s-n-u-f. As a matter of fact, words ending in o-u-g-h are somewhat irregular."

"I see; a superb language! T-o-u-g-h is 'tuff' and c-o-u-g-h is 'cuff.' I have a very bad cuff."

"No; it is 'coff,' not cuff."

"Very well; cuff, tuff and coff. And d-o-u-g-h is 'duff,' eh?"

"No not 'duff.'"

"'Doff,' then?"

"No; doh."

"Well, then, what about h-o-u-g-h?"

"That is pronounced 'hock.'"

"Hock! Then I suppose the thing the farmer uses, the p-l-o-u-g-h is 'pluff,' or is it 'plock,' or 'plo' Fine language—'plo.'"

"No, no; it is pronounced 'plow.'"

"I shall soon master English, I am sure. Here we go. 'Plow,' 'coff,' 'cuff,' 'hock,' and now is another—r-o-u-g-h; that is 'row,' I suppose?"

"Oh, no, my friend; that's 'ruff' again."

"And b-o-u-g-h is 'buff.'"

"No; that happens to be 'bow.'"

"Yes, wonderful language. And I have just e-n-o-u-g-h of it; that's 'enou,' is not?"

"No; 'enuff.'"—Sheffield Weekly News.
