FACTOLUS ITEMS.

FACTOLUS, N. C., April 14, 1901.

R. R. Fleming went up the road Monday on business.

Walter Webb, of Elm City, after spending a few days on his farm returned home Monday.

Capt. Alf. Styron, of Washington, was here Monday.

N. C. Cordon, of Washington, was here Tuesday on business.

Roy Rollins returned home Wednesday from Washington, where he has been under treatment of Dr. Dave Taylor, much improved to the delight of his many friends.

J. J. Satterthwait and wife spent Wednesday in Greenville.

Dr. W. H. Bagwell, of Greenville, was here Friday.

Mrs. H. J. Morris and little daughter, Rubie, left Saturday morning for Wilson to spend a week with her parents. Mr. Morris went as far as Parmale with them and returned on noon train.

Mrs. Fannie Fleming, of Washington, came Saturday to spend a few days at her old home about three miles in the country.

The Yankee Hall ferry has been impassible for about three weeks on account of high water.

Jasper Langley is on the sick list.

"The eggs of a scavenger hen are not fit to be eaten," says Dr. J. H. Kellogg, writing in Modern Medicine. "Eggs," he says, "do partake of the nature of the food which has been eaten." This is in line with the declaration of the late S. J. Pemberton, of Stanly county, this State, recently adverted to in these columns, that the chickens of Stanly are far superior to those of Richmond, an adjoining county, for the reason that Stanly being a wheat county its chickens live largely on wheat grains, while Richmond being a cotton county its chickens have to catch as catch can, living on worms, or whatever they may happen to pick up.—Charlotte Observer.

LONG CASE ENDED.

Court in Session Nearly All Night.

It is out of the ordinary that a session of court is held nearly all night, but that is what we have just had in order that the term might close and the Judge and Solicitor be enabled to get to their next court.

The case against the assailants of Frank Hines, the colored man who in February was beaten nearly to death and dragged out in a railroad cut, was started last Thursday morning. Each of the six defendants employed different counsel, so the case was a hard fought one and dragged along very slowly. Up to Saturday night when the term of court should have ended, the taking of testimony looked far from completion. The case lapped over to Monday, and after giving another day on it was still unfinished. Judge Coble decided to hold court last night to end the case so he could leave on the train this morning, and it took until nearly 3 o'clock for the lawyers to make their speeches and the Judge to make his charge and give the case to the jury. Court then took a recess until 7:30 A. M. this being sufficient time for the deliberation of the jury.

There were a number of spectators who stood by—at least many of them slept—the court through the night session. The bell rang at 7:30 this morning and it was a sleepy looking crowd that assembled, court, jury, officers, lawyers and defendants all showing signs of fatigue. After a wait for the Solicitor, another wait for one of the counsel and another wait for one of the defendants, the verdict of the jury was taken a little after 8 o'clock. It was not guilty as to all the defendants.

The Solicitor threw some consternation among the lawyers for the defense by announcing that he had another charge against the defendants and wanted them all recognized with bond for appearance at September term of court. All the lawyers wanted to raise objection to this but Judge Coble seeing a likelihood of missing the train shut off argument by making the order as requested by the Solicitor.

BROKE JAIL.

Would not Wait for the Sheriff.

This morning Sheriff Harrington had one of the prisoners, Charles Cutler, taken out of the cell and dressed up, preparatory to leaving for the penitentiary on the morning train. The negro was left in the corridor of the jail to await everything being in readiness for going to the depot. In the meantime the Sheriff had to be about the early session of the court this morning, and the court held so near up to train time that he could not find the chance to arrange all his other matters. He drove the Judge out to the depot and then came back to the jail to look after the prisoner. But Cutler had decided that he would not wait for the Sheriff. Finding that he had the freedom of the corridor he began to saunter around to see how he felt dressed up. He spied an old piece of shovel used around the stove, and armed with this implement he went to the spot in the northeast corner of the jail where the wall had been cut through several times before by escaping prisoners, and in just eight minutes he had told his fellow prisoners goodbye and was on the outside shaking the dust off his feet. He did not even stop to thank the Sheriff for dressing him up.

"The End of the Century Club."

On Tuesday, 9th of April, after an exhilarating drive through the beautiful woods which were bursting into spring, the members of the Book Club reached Cottdale and were given a hearty welcome by their charming hostess, Mrs. Cotten.

The morning was spent in pleasant conversation, and after a sumptuous dinner the Club was called to order by the President, and the usual routine of business transacted.

The Vice-President, Mrs. C. O'H. Laughinghouse, took the chair while the President, Mrs. Harry Skinner, read an interesting and improving paper on the "Famous Women of France." Mrs. Cotten then provided her guests with papers containing an interesting guessing contest. The prize for this was awarded to Mrs. Ficklen.

The Club then adjourned to meet with Mrs. Laughinghouse on April 23rd.

We were fortunate enough to have quite a number of visitors from a distance with us, among the number were Mrs. Connor, of Wilson, Mrs. McGhee, of Goldsboro, Miss Martha Harding, of Pitt county and Misses Bessie Henderson and Jane Boyden, of Salisbury.

As Sol's occidental rays were sinking behind the distant horizon the guests bade farewell to their most gracious hostess and turned their faces homeward, where for many a day they will cherish pleasant recollections of the delightful Club meeting at Cottdale.

TUESDAY, APRIL 16, 1901.

Pitt is a great big county, and if the delinquent tax lists now being published all over the State indicate any thing it means that our people are about the best off of any county in the State. If this claim cannot be admitted then it must be said that the people of Pitt are the most prompt in paying their taxes. At any rate, taking the size of the county into consideration, the list of lands advertised for sale for taxes due in this county is the smallest of any we have noticed published.

It is amusing, and often ridiculous, to notice to what extremes lawyers will sometimes go to try to make an impression on the jury for their side of a case. It is a common thing for witnesses on the "other side" to be denounced and vilified and held up before the jury as unworthy of belief, and now and then, in the absence of somebody else to jump on, the lawyers will go for each other. There was an instance of this kind in the court Monday night. The town had employed a lawyer to assist the Solicitor in the prosecution of an outrageous case that had been committed in town. When one of the lawyers for the defense went to make his speech to the jury he went for his brother Blackstone as though it was a high crime to be employed by the town. Uncalled for as it was and irrelevant, he consumed the midnight hours of the court in telling the jury how the lawyer on the other side "had his arms up to his elbows in the public crib," how he had held this office, and that office; and had lived years and years on "official pap."

But it is a long lane that has no turning, and by and by this other lawyer had his inning. It came his time to go to the jury, and by way of reply to what the lawyer for the defense had said about him he told the jury that he took pride in saying that he had been honored by his fellow citizens, that "he had filled the office of Register of Deeds for so many years, that he had served as Superior Court Clerk for so many years, as well as held other positions of trust, which may have led his jealous friend on the other side to say he had his arms in the public crib," when turning and pointing his finger at the other sarcastically he cried out "But gentlemen of the jury, Pitt county has never thought enough of that man to let him get even his little finger in the pie."

At this the spectators actually broke into applause in the court room, and the Judge had to stop proceedings until quiet could be restored. It was just an incident in court, but it helped to amuse the spectators and keep them awake.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 15. Gov. Candler, of Georgia, is in Washington for the purpose of settling accounts between Georgia and the Federal Government for the equipment of troops for the war with Spain. Of those accounts he said: "The law provided that vouchers in certain form should be made out for every expenditure. In some cases the Military authorities did not issue any vouchers at all and that has caused some delay in the final payments, but the State will lose but little. The Governor denied that his trip East was to borrow money to pay the school teachers of the State, but admitted that if the Treasurer of the State refused, on account of his construction of the law, to pay warrants issued for that purpose out of funds, which are being held to pay bonds that will not mature for fifteen years, he would eventually have to borrow money to pay the teachers."

According to evidence given before U. S. Industrial Commission, the paper trust has added more than $4,800,000 a year to the cost of news print paper in this country. One witness said that he knew of two newspapers which were each paying an increase of $150,000 a year in the price of paper used by them. The same witness said that all the promises made by the trust had been violated and that instead of reducing the cost of manufacture, it had been increased, and was now greater than under individual ownership of the paper mills.

Although the War Department has tried to poohpooh the reports of extensive frauds in the Commissary Department at Manila, the official action of Secretary Root in largely increasing the force of officers in the Inspector General's department in the Philippines, is an acknowledgment of the truth of the published stories. It is stated at the War Department that the system of inspection in the Philippines has been very lax because a sufficient number of officers had not been detailed for that purpose, and that in consequence there has been a number of cases of petty frauds in both the Commissary and Quartermaster's departments. It is known that these frauds have been so numerous for some time, that it has been found necessary to establish a sort of secret service to watch for them. There has been only one officer—Col. Jarlington,—on strictly inspection duty in the Philippines and he has only recently returned to duty from a two month's sick leave. Nothing shows plainer that the government has been robbed extensively in the Philippines than the fact that the average annual cost of maintaining a soldier over there has increased in the year more than $100. As there in round numbers 75,000 soldiers over there, this is no small matter.

Adjutant Gen. Corbin, who is about the slickest politician that ever held a commission in the army, and who by means of his political manipulation, was practically in command of the army during the war with Spain, has again slugged Gen. Miles below the belt, and the latter's fighting

F. C. TOEPLERMAN,

blood is, consequently, pretty near boiling. As usual, it was done through Corbin's political pull. He not only succeeded in getting the recommendations of Gen. Miles,—either Col. Rodgers of the Fifth, or Col. Guenther, of the Fourth Artillery—for appointment as Chief of Artillery, a position created by the new army law, turned down, and Col. W. F. Randolph appointed, although he was ranked by both the other men, but in greeting the Chief of Artillery made a subordinate of the Adjutant General, although the law creating the position says the holder shall be on the staff of the Lieutenant General commanding. Gen. Miles has made a vigorous protest to the Secretary of War against this violation of law, but no notice has yet been taken of it.

Republican gossip says there will soon be a new public printer, Mr. Palmer, who now holds the position, held it under Harrison, and was appointed by Mr. McKinley at the personal request of Ex-President Harrison. It is said that Representative Heatwole, Minnesota, can have the place if he wants it, and if he doesn't Boss Platt will get it for one of his constituents, a man named Bass. But it is regarded as a very juicy plum, and unless it is filled before the news get around there is sure to be a big fight for it among the Republican bosses.

It is said that F. G. Simmons, of Jones county, father of Senator F. M. Simmons, is the only man that ever lived in this State to see his son in the United States senate. Mr. Simmons' old age and the fact of Senator Simmons being elected to the senate at a much younger age than any senator heretofore accounts for it. Senator Simmons is now only 47 years old. Shooting at Grimesland.

Mr. Josh Mills, of this town, was at Grimesland Monday. While there he and a negro got to arguing about something and the negro called Mr. Mills a liar, prefixing it with a big oath. A clinch followed and they both hit the ground. Mr. Mills being in the bottom of the scuffle got out his pistol and commenced using it. The negro was hit with several balls and another white man who went up to pull the negro off caught one of the glancing balls in the flesh of his arm.

A West Virginia girl has inaugurated a new feature in the breach of promise business. She sued the fellow who jilted her and the girl he is to marry, claiming damages from the fellow for jilting her and from the girl for alienating his affections. That's business pure and simple.—Wilmington Star.

There was a heavy frost Friday morning and the strawberry crop between this city and Wilmington suffered considerably. The Weather Bureau however, was responsible for a great part of the damage. The report sent out Thursday morning predicting cloudiness and rain caused a great many people to leave their berries uncovered and the frost had free access to the blooms. At several places along the line the farm hands were aroused from their beds at 11 o'clock at night, when it was seen that the frost would come, and worked from then until daylight covering up berries with pine straw.—Goldsboro Argus.

House Robbery.

A negro who lives about two miles from town came in this afternoon and said some body had just broken into his house and took all his clothes. The robber had ripped the weather boarding off the end of the house. The negro wanted to get Mr. Hines' blood hounds to run the thief, but did not want to pay bad enough to get up a hunt. It was believed that the negro who broke jail this morning went by and helped himself to some more clothes.

New Jersey's Income from Trusts.

The charter fee paid to New Jersey by the United States Steel Corporation amounted to over $220,000. It is estimated that the Treasury of the State will this year receive $2,100,000 from the trusts domiciled there alone, including fees paid on filing certificates of trust incorporations. And the present cost of the State government is less than $3,000,000 yearly. In other words, New Jersey is meeting over two thirds of the expense of its State government from the trusts it has let loose to operate in other States.—Springfield Republican.

Daring Attempt To Rob An Express Car.

Washington, April 13.—A daring attempt to rob the express car of the second section of a north-bound passenger train on the Pennsylvania railroad, at the Virginia Midland crossing, four miles southwest of Alexandria last night was frustrated by prompt action of the express messenger. As the train approached the crossing shortly before 11 o'clock the messenger in one of the two express cars, discovered several men crouching between the two coaches, trying to force open the door of one of the cars. He quietly gave the signal for the train to stop and as the train slowed down the men jumped off and escaped across the fields. The police who are investigating the case believe there were three men in the gang.
