WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., May 15.
Aunt Tama Tyson who for thirteen consecutive years has been the cook in the family of A. G. Cox, died very suddenly of apoplexy on last Friday night. That evening she prepared supper and after cleaning up everything as was her custom, she left for home only a short distance away. After arriving home and conversing for a short while with her aged husband and children she became suddenly ill and died in half an hour. Mr. Cox tells us she was of a most excellent Christian character and had always been faithful in the discharge of every duty. Particularly was her attachment for the children of his household most sincere, always trying to keep them from doing wrong and gently reprimanding them when they did so. Often has she as washerwoman of the family, upon finding anything in the pockets of clothing, promptly returned it to its owner. Only a few months ago Mr. Cox gave Uncle Ben an old coat he had cast aside and when Aunt Tama searched the pockets she found a small account book with a twenty dollar bill in it which she immediately returned. Mr. Cox spent the money in part defraying the expenses of her burial. Too much cannot be said of Aunt Tama, honest and upright, faithful and true. Though a colored woman she had the esteem of all both white and black. Everyone of us sympathize with and feel for her aged husband in his irreparable loss.

David Hines, one of our old land marks, is as happy as a young man of 21. The stranger at his house makes him all smiles.

In our items last written the announcement that the Hunsucker Carriage Co. had an order from another State for one car load of buggies should have read three instead of one car load.

E. H. Shelburn and W. H. Long, Esq., of your city, were here yesterday and made us a very pleasant call.

Ad. Waters and family, of Bowden, who have been visiting relatives in the neighborhood, returned to their homes yesterday.

Mrs. G. W. Parker and "Grover Cleveland" spent Monday in Greenville. Master Grover wants it understood he was named when the original was a democrat.

Jerry Nichols returned from Roanoke Rapids Monday.

A. G. Cox wishes to buy two or three milch cows and about one dozen yearlings.

Conductor Felix Wright, who runs into Fulton, Ky., recently collected on his train a ticket from Cincinnati to Fulton which had been sold on December 21, 1892. The old man who presented it for passage said that just after he bought it he had heard of a wreck on the road, and was afraid to get on the train. He never summoned up courage enough to use the ticket until last week.

THE STORM IN GREENE.

Ruined Crops and Did Much Damage.

The hail storm in the Ayden section Tuesday morning was bad enough, but the report from Greene county shows that it was even worse over there. Messrs. T. E. and T. M. Hooker spent the day in Greene and on the way home had to pass through the section that the storm struck, and the former came in to tell THE REFLECTOR about it.

Mr. Hooker says he never before saw such a terrific storm. There was a hard wind and it hailed steadily for half an hour, the stones covering the ground considerable depth. Crops were swept so clean that it could not be told where anything had been planted in fields and in many places young trees had been stripped of limbs and bark. The track of the storm was about four miles wide, extending from Mussle run to near Saints Delight church. A new house that Mr. H. L. Coward had just had built on his place was blown down.

Mr. Hooker says as he was coming along the road about six hours after the storm there were places where the hail came up to the axle of his buggy. Along where the storm went all crops will have to be planted over.

The Southern Baptist Convention which held its annual session in New Orleans last week, decided to hold its session next year at Asheville.

Courage is a hardy thing; it thrives on heaps of sand.

Sweet Sabbath.

It is hard to tell how much the Sabbath has sweetened human life. Day after day thunders on Each one is laden with care, and thought and worry and business. It comes beating in on us like a mighty wave. We may be able to stand up against one of them, two of them, but by the time the sixth wave has thundered in upon us, we begin to stagger. But then the seventh comes with waves of healing. It is the Sabbath. It is the day of rest. And thus in our lives there are six layers of care and conflict, and one layer of Heaven. Six times the snuffers leap across the loom of our lives carrying a silver thread. And so the weaving goes on, from year to year, until the loom stops and God cuts off the threads which have been going into it.—Orange Observer.

An Expert Advertiser.

At the recent meeting in New York of the business men who form the Sphinx Club, "Advertising" was the subject that was discussed. One of the speakers, Mr. R. C. Ogden, stated that advertising is as essential as a place of business. To beginners he said: "You must contrive in the shortest possible time to let the greatest possible number of citizens know of your existence. This is general advertising. Then call attention to particular goods, which is special advertising. Teach people to believe your announcements."—Philadelphia Record.

It's all right to have faith in humanity, but it's better for humanity to have faith in you.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 15, 1901.

Ayden is moving to vote for bonds to induce the Great Eastern railroad to go to that town. Win-ferville is also working to get it. If the road does the best thing for itself it will come to Greenville.

There is nothing like being famous or keeping abreast with the times. Southern Industry, of New Orleans, ornamented the front page of a recent issue with a photograph of the Governor of North Carolina and printed under it, "Gov. Chas. B. Aycock, of Florida." He is fully capable of being Governor of the flower State, but North Carolina is not ready to give him up.

Rural Free Delivery.

Mr. A. W. Mache, superintendent of the system for the rural free delivery of the mails takes an enthusiastic view of the outlook for service. In an interview in the Washington Star he says that the free delivery system has so far resulted in nearly doubling the postal receipts in the territory covered, in a great improvement in the public highways, and in an immediate and earnest demand from adjacent territory for an extension of the service.

As to the cost of the system and the feasibility of its extension, he says that of the 2,840 counties in the United States, one-half are within the field of feasible free delivery. The cost, per county, is estimated from experience with the system already in operation, at $19,000 for the hill country and at $15,800 where the country is comparatively level. At the maximum cost per county the total cost for half the counties in the United States should be but $27,018,000 per year—not a very formidable figure for a billion and a half dollar country, particularly when the cost of star routes and the increase of revenue are deducted. The Postmaster-General estimates, in fact that the net annual increase over the star route system will be but $13,700,000.

There is, apparently, no reason to doubt that rural free delivery of the mails is to become the fixed policy of the government. The policy is not only sound, the benefits numerous and far-reaching, and the cost comparatively small, but it is a policy that should be popular with Congressmen and Senators, who will certainly not lose anything with their constituents, by procuring rural free delivery of the mails. Inasmuch as rural free delivery is coming, therefore the Senators and Representatives in Congress from Virginia should insist upon the extension of the system in this State co-ordinately with its extension elsewhere.

And when the Ship Subsidy bill comes up in Congress this winter, a bill providing for the immediate extension of the rural free delivery system would not be a bad measure with which to combat it. The minimum estimate if the Ship Subsidy bill is $9,000,000 a year. The Postmaster-General's estimate of the cost of rural free delivery is $13,700,000. The difference is only $4,700,000. If the Subsidy bill is pushed, the majority should be compelled to choose between it and rural free delivery in half the counties of the United States."

People Eat Too Much.

A man who travels a good bit and is a philosopher of no common order, had the following to say to an Observer reporter last night:

"Everybody rails at and sermonizes the man who drinks too much yet the troubles of this world which come from over-eating, we are told by the scientists, are double those which come from over drinking. Why condemn one excess always and in such severe terms and give immunity to all humanity for another that is twice as great? There are women's Christian temperance unions, total abstinence benevolent societies and other forms of organizations which fight even temperate drinking but not a society of any kind against gluttony.

"Just enough food is a great thing to have just at the right time. Enough is as good as a feast. But too much is a fault. It is a fault that is growing more and more as we prosper and can afford to pay for more than is really needed.

"Men who travel easily fall into the habit of over-eating. There is no exercise in riding on trains. The restraint and weariness of travel rather makes than curtails appetites. The drummer eats for a change. His life means change of air, change of food change of surroundings almost every day. When all medicine fails these are the doctor's prescriptions for regaining health and getting fat.

The drummer is usually in good health and he usually gets fat if he stays on the road. He is a personal example of the correctness of the doctor's final prescription of change. He is sometimes a kicker about the fare he gets and about the horrible way hotels are run, but he keeps his health and gets fat.

"The danger of the poor man may be drinking but may not the danger of the prosperous man be more in the way of over-eating than over-drinking?"—Charlotte Observer.

This April 26, 1901.

A New York plumber was the victim of a startling error the other day. Having been injured in the left side, he applied to a charity hospital and was told that an operation was imperative. He was placed under the influence of an anesthetic, and his side was opened and sewed up again. When the bandages were removed he found that the right (or rather the wrong) side had been opened instead of the left. The surgeons were dismayed, and offered to cut into him on the left side; but he declined. The plumber brought suit against the hospital authorities for $25,000, but the Court has decided that a claim on account of negligence or inefficiency cannot hold against a charity hospital. This ruling might prove to be a great hardship to the poor who are compelled to go to such institutions for surgical treatment. If the plumber did not pay for the treatment he is not entitled to sympathy, since he confessed to an income of $5000 a year. The abuse of the free dispensaries and clinics of New York by well-to-do persons has become a scandal, even a multi-millionaire having been accused of getting medical treatment free.

Woman's Horror

Modest women dread to consult a doctor about diseases peculiar to their sex. They have a horror of private examinations and surgical operations. For this reason treatment of dangerous derangements is neglected. But the Wine of Cardui treatment, which can be adopted at home without the knowledge of any one but the patient herself, is now coming into general use. Women who take Wine of Cardui do not have to submit to a physician's local examination nor to a surgical operation. Wine of Cardui cures in the privacy of the home. No publicity, no cutting and torturing of the body, no physician or examination, while Wine of Cardui is quietly building up and strengthening the female organs. Menstruation is regulated, the drains of leucorrhoea stopped and the fallen womb restored to its place. The terrible pains which rack the body are but results of the ailments, which yield so readily to the soothing properties of Wine of Cardui. The medicine that cured Miss Garlen will certainly help you.

Wine of Cardui

Rockford, Tenn., Aug. 16, 1899.
"I have suffered from womb trouble for five years. Last spring a year ago I was bedfast for six months. I paid $25 to one doctor, and he said he had done all he could for me. I had about given up, but called another doctor, who said I would have to have surgical treatment. I decided I might as well die a natural death as that. I happened to get hold of a Ladies' Birthday Almanac, and decided to try your treatment. In nine days after I commenced taking Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught I could walk across my room, and in three weeks I made myself a dress. This was after my neighbors, and even my brothers and sisters, said I would never be any better. I am now in good health."
Miss S. E. GARLEN.

to wait until times get better means the missing of many dollars that would come to you now for the asking.

Gone!!!

will be your opportunities if you neglect this important matter and let your more enterprising competitor get ahead of you and stay ahead. Don't wait.
