THE NEWSPAPER.

While every newspaper should cultivate the beautiful spirit of modesty, it must be permitted to speak candidly about itself, as on other subjects.

For instance, we think the Houston Post should be pardoned for the remarks it has recently put forward on the virtues and influence of the newspaper when it is true to itself.

The Post makes bold to say:

"The newspaper today is the greatest factor in civilization. Take away the newspaper and you would take away the greatest preacher, teacher, assistant to justice, deterrer of criminals, reformer of public and private life, patriot, statesman, that it has been possible for the wit of man to devise. No other institution is, in anything like the same measure, such a dispenser of sweetness and light and upholder of the hands of justice. No other institution is, in anything like the same degree, such a help to good men, such a hindrance to bad men. For the former the newspaper smooths their way and makes their road level before them: to the latter the newspaper is a lion in the path. The people of America appreciate this to the full; there is no need of telling them any further what they know already."

Opera House Tonight.

The Goodwin Young Stock Co. will appear in the opera house tonight in the 4 act comedy drama "A Hero in Rags." The Wash-Gazette-Messenger, of Dec. 10th says:

"The Goodwin-Young Stock Co., in their presentation of 'A Hero in Rags' at the opera house last evening delighted their audience. The play was most admirably presented and the whole company are artists of high order. The specialties by Messrs Rice and Adams, the comedy acrobats, are alone worth the price of admission. The company is a strong one, and their excellent performance on last night has been highly complimented and justly so. On this evening they present the dramatic sensation of this century, 'Quo Vadis.' An intensely thrilling story of the dawn of Christianity and the collapse of Paganism. We feel confident all who attend will be highly entertained."

Admission 15c, 25c, 35c. "Quo Vadis" Friday night.

A Fearful Death.

While trying to throw a belt from a wheel, Charles Simmons, an employe of the Charlotte Oil and Fertilizer Works, suffered injuries yesterday morning at 8 o'clock which resulted in his death. A stick as thick as a man's wrist, which Simmons was using in trying to fix the belt in place, was caught in the revolving wheel, made one revolution, and as it came round struck Simmons across the breast, breaking the breast bone and cutting through the liver.

The injured man, conscious and suffering, lived until 1 o'clock. He was 24 years old. He leaves a wife and two children.—Charlotte Observer.

Food for reflection is not a substantial diet for a hungry man.

Our $15.00 Suits are so good that we say to you, buy one and you will get the $15.00 back if you don't like the suit.

If we make any sort of mistake, bring the suit back and let us make it right.

Call it our generosity, call it your generosity, call it fairness, call it anything you like.

But do it.

By the way, $15.00 is the place where we can put the most value into our suits. Why?—that's a long story.

The suits tell it.

We do what we say we do.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1901.

At Wadesboro a woman obtained a divorce from her husband and in less than an hour was married to another man. This may be considered legal, so far as civil authority goes, but it shows the possibilities under our too lax divorce laws. In many instances marriage vows are regarded to lightly.

A Western editor writing to the Press and Printer, of Boston, of the difference between newspaper men and those of other professions in conducting their business, says:

"We have in Nebraska what is known as the 'indigent prisoner act,' and I presume the same is true of Iowa. Under that act a prisoner who has no means with which to employ counsel is provided with one at public expense. The attorney's bill or claim is passed upon and allowed by the court, and save in cases of homicide must not exceed $100. In cases of homicide the defending lawyer may put in a bill for any amount he sees fit. I have never heard of a claim for less than the $100 allowed. And if it be a case of homicide the claim is generally well up in the hundreds. And no matter how big the claim, every lawyer at the bar is ready to make affidavit that it is a just and reasonable claim and declare that he would not have handled the case for a cent less and would have demanded more. Occasionally the the court calls a few lawyers to stand and asks them what they think about the justice of the claim, and invariably the lawyers, thus questioned declare it to be just and reasonable.

But what happens among publishers? The successful bidder for the county printing and supplies is denounced as a "tax eater," a "public robber," a "member of the rotten court house gang," a "treasury looter," and every other publisher in the country is willing to take the stand and declare that the price paid was excessive and that he would have been glad to do it for half the money. And in the same issue wherein we charge the successful bidder with being a "public robber" we sometimes have a column editorial on the dignity of our noble profession. Still we often wonder why lawyers get rich so easily while we newspaper men have to scratch for a living."

A millionaire at Newburgh, New York, gave instructions that when he should be dead, or seem to be dead, his physician should open a blood-vessel to make assurance doubly sure that there would be no revival in the narrow confines of the tomb. His directions were carried out on Wednesday last. There is a widespread fear of burial alive, and an exaggeration in the popular mind of the number of cases of such burial. Under the system of embalming which is now common there could be no possibility of life in the body.

In other cases, where the bodies of the buried have changed their positions in the coffin, there is little reason to think that there has been consciousness. It sometimes happens that spasmodic muscular contractions will take place after death, and it is conceivable that they might cause a slight change in the position of the arms, which would be grossly exaggerated in the report. Still, burial alive is a possibility, as we know from the recovery of persons from trances which have been pronounced death. It does not follow that there would be consciousness on the part of the victim in any case after confinement in so narrow a space, with such a limited supply of air. Usually the physician may be trusted to decide whether the patient is beyond the possibility of restoration, but the person who fears might well follow the millionaire's example.—Philadelphia Record.

The Observer heard not long ago of the case of a young man, living in a small but growing Southern town, who applied to a prominent business man of another city for work. Inquiring about the applicant, the business man was told that he was the type of youth who was content to work at about a $40 per month salary, or less, perhaps always anxious to get away from his work at the earliest moment in order to spend his evenings with the young ladies, being something of a social high flyer. In the country town where this young man lived there was not a competent carpenter, brick-mason or mechanic and when one was needed he had to be imported and paid at least $2 50 a day for his services. But the young man would have considered learning a trade like any one of these as beneath his dignity and position, so he kept on at what he was already doing—clerking in the country store.—Charlotte Observer.

Down at Goldsboro the other day a citizen who owned a $7,000 mortgage undertook to foreclose it. Attorneys for the party who had given the mortgage looked into the matter and found that the mortgagee had failed to list it for taxation. Thereupon the proceedings came to a sudden termination, for under the law the collection of solvent credits cannot be enforced unless they have been listed for taxation, so the mortgagee will have to wait until another tax-listing and list his mortgage for taxation if he desires to collect it. This law is a good one. It is not intended to and really does not encourage people in the non payment of their just debts (many of them don't need any encouragement in that line), but it is intended to force men to return their property for taxation and to thus bear their just proportion of the public burdens along with their neighbors. A man rich enough to own a $7,000 mortgage and mean enough to try to sneak out of paying taxes on it, deserves to lose about half of it.—Statesville Landmark.

The editor of one of the most widely circulated ten-cent magazines said the other day that he had only enough short stories to last for two months, and that he found this the hardest kind of material to get. Every mail brings him bundles of short stories, but few of them are worth printing. "I have had to beg some of the capable writers to send me short stories," he said, "and yet the impression prevails that the magazines are all loaded up with stuff enough to last them two years or more. This is not true of any of them, and it is particularly untrue of their supply of short stories."

ARE YOU DEAF?

ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement, accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain

Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free.

An Honest Thief.

Mr. E. B. Miller, of Moretz, was in town Tuesday and related to us an incident that goes to prove conclusively that every man is not a rogue at heart who is forced, under strained circumstances and under certain conditions, to appropriate to his own use the means of another.

He said early in last May he went into his mill one morning, and found that some one had taken therefrom a turn of corn. Upon examination he found this note in the toll dish:

"Mr. Miller:—I have taken a turn of corn, a little over a bushel. I will pay it back next fall; my children are starving."

Mr. Miller thought that some rogue had done the work, and as he had no idea who it was the matter was almost forgotten by him but not by the man who took the corn. A few mornings since Mr. Miller, upon entering the mill, found that he had an excess of corn and it was accompanied by this note:

"Mr Miller:—Here's your corn, and some more than I got."

Ed. says he hasn't the least idea who the honest rogue is, but he says for his own gratification he will give a bushel of corn to find out. He wants to look into the face of one truly honest man.

Too Much Privilege.

There was an incident in court here Wednesday that gives further testimony to the fact that lawyers have too much privilege with witnesses. A Weeding Out Needed.

The Democratic party in this State needs a good weeding out when it comes to selecting officeholders. The Populistic in it has brought the last and a preceding Legislature into ill repute and more or less profound disgust, which should not be repeated. Weed out the small man and put forth broad minded, well educated conservative men—men who do not want the office for office sake but who would take it for the good they can do the party and State. Such men the office must seek. But we need them.—Albemarle Enterprise.

Having your own way is very often the devil's particular way. The man who has too much religion to be healthy is not a success.
