In his weekly Washington letter, published in yesterday's issue of The Observer. Hon. Amos J. Cummings told of the great benefits reaped by the action of certain States in keeping one set of men in Washington as their representatives. Maine, he says, leads in respect of seniority of her members, and her people have been directly benefitted by many Federal appropriations for public work in the State, and also have gotten about everything they ever asked of Congress. It is really surprising, when one comes to dwell on the subject, why a good man should ever lose his seat in Congress except for a political revolution at home. The idea that a seat in the national capitol is a reward for political service is certainly one which should be abandoned by all parties. A Congressman should be the servant of the people he represents, and if he is the right kind of man it would appear to be the part of wisdom to let him die in harness if he attends to business as he should. Private affairs are carried on in this manner and why should not the people at large be allowed the same privilege? Rotation in public office, such as that of Congressman, certainly results in injury to the people who remote the system.—Charlotte Observer.

Christmas

Neckwear.

Our Furnishing Department

Is fairly abloom with bright, handsome Christmas Neckwear the prettiest creations that the combined efforts of the weaver and silk worm ever produced. Every shape, too, that fashion allows. There is scarcely a man, young or old, who will not receive a Christmas Tie from his wife, sister, or best girl, and we believe that if every lady who buys a Christmas Tie would look here first, that we would sell every Christmas Tie sold in Greenville.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1901.

We do not remember to have read of the occurrence of so many horrible accidents in the same length of time as have been reported in the papers the last few days. Some of them seemed to be a chapter of horrors. The year closes with a record along this line.

THE REFLECTOR wishes to close the year by thanking every one who has given us patronage in 1901. It has been a good year for the paper and we feel gratified at the result of the year's work. It will be our endeavor and hope during the new year to merit and receive even a larger patronage than in the past, and to this end the co-operation of all is solicited.

We stand this evening at the threshold of a new year, and it is an opportune time for reflecting upon the past and looking to the future. There is not one of us but who can recall through the year so many blessings for which we should feel exceedingly grateful to the Divine Ruler. It is fitting to meditate upon these, and to render to Him the praise that is due. Nor is there one who with proper examination can fail to see many short comings and neglected opportunities for doing good. Let these be humbly acknowledged and repented of, and turn to the new year with the resolutions that it shall, by Divine help, show a better record in our lives. If there have been disappointments in the past year let us profit by these, forgetting them if possible, and look with hope to the new year determined to perform our duty faithfully, leaving the result to Him who says "Fear thou not for I am with thee; be not dismayed, for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness." Let every one look with joy and hope to the new year, and may it bring a full measure of happiness to all.

Miss Minnie Evans, a young woman about 25 years of age, committed suicide in Kinston, Monday morning, by taking carbolic acid. She was originally from Grifton, we learn from the Free Press, and with the exception of one sister has no near relatives living. She was housekeeper for the family of Mayor G. B. Webb, in Kinston.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 30.

There are still a good many people in Washington who believe that Congress will take up the Schley matter in the form of an inquiry into the affairs of the Navy Department and it is said that the only reason that Secretary Long remains in the Cabinet is because the President believes it only fair to permit him to stay where, in the event of such an inquiry, he will be in a position to defend himself and his official acts. The temper of the people in Washington was shown Friday evening when Admiral Schley attended a performance at one of the Washington theaters. He was cheered to the echo, the large and fashionable audience rising to their feet and remaining standing until the Admiral had come to the front of the box and bowed his acknowledgements. General Miles has resumed his duties in the War Department and has concluded to ignore the reprimand he received. He well knows that he has no friends in the administration and that both Corbin and Root will rejoice in his humiliation. His statement in support of Admiral Dewey, however, has received the approval of the people and of the press all over the country.

There is now little doubt but that the Senate will be compelled to materially revise the Philippine tariff bill which was passed by the House. The measure, as it stands, is receiving one condemnation of a large number of republicans some of whom characterize it as "protection run wild." The most ardent expansionists are not in favor of governing colonies along Spanish lines and a policy of oppression will not be tolerated even if it is dictated by the protected interests. It is believed that Judge Taft will make representation at the White House as soon as he arrives in Washington which will insure the President's support of tariff concessions to the Philippines and which will offer an excuse for the Senate to reverse the work of the lower House.

General Leonard Wood, before his departure for Havana, did some effective work for the cause of reciprocity with Cuba. He said "Cuba must have a reduction of the tariff on sugar exported to the United States or the island will have to face poverty and consequent disorder. She would then become a menace to our health and the United States would have no business relations with her worth speaking about."

While the friends of the administration deny that politics were at the bottom of the selection of Governor Shaw to succeed Secretary Gage, it cannot be denied that the move was a very shrewd one from a political standpoint. By it Mr. Roosevelt attached to himself a man who was an important factor in the Western situation and who, in case Mr. Roosevelt should by any act alienate Western republicans, would have stood an excellent chance for the presidential nomination. Governor Shaw is a man of much ability and he has the happy faculty of making friends easily. The president already realizes that his impulsiveness and his action in the Miles censure and the determination to uphold Secretary Long at all cost has forfeited him many of his western admirers and it would seem that he was casting an anchor to windward when he selected a popular and ambitious Iowan to preside over the Treasury.

PRECEDENT AND PRECEDENT

The press of the country has taken knowledge of the fact that of late a precedent long ago established in the location of cabinet appointments has been very much violated. Until within the past year it has been the rule that no two cabinet officers should come from the same State, but President McKinley chose Postmaster General Smith and afterwards Attorney General Knox from Pennsylvania, and now President Roosevelt has selected his new Secretary of the Treasury from the same State from which Secretary of Agriculture Wilson hails. And why not? Cabinet officers, as other public officials, should be chosen with reference to fitness—not with regard to where they live. In North Carolina has grown up the bad custom of selecting the United States Senators the one from the east and the other from the west, and yet the State was never more creditably represented in the upper house of Congress than when both the Senators were from the same county—Orange. It is not always a bad idea to violate precedent.—Charlotte Observer.

Too Fond of Beef.

Talk about quick trips to jail, a negro made one Saturday night. He stole a large piece of beef—nearly a quarter—from a restaurant on Fifth street. The theft was quickly detected and the negro was followed to his cart where the beef was found. Justice C. D. Rountree was called on for a warrant, the negro was taken before him at once for a hearing, and was passed right on to jail. The whole transaction consumed only a few minutes.

OUR RALEIGH LETTER.

Special Correspondent of Reflector.

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 31.

The old year lies a-dying—the old year, with its joys and sorrows, its realizations and its disappointments; this is its funeral day.

As we are brought to face this stern reality, and cast a retrospective glance through the last twelve months of our lives—where is he who will cast the first stone at the balance of his too fallible brethren and lay claim to the attitude of the Pharisee?

How many are there among us who will dare—in the presence of his God this day—to say that he has been all that he should have been, or all that he could have been, to himself, his brethren, his Master and the world about him, even for the one brief year now sinking into the grave of Time?

Oh! the lost opportunities to do good; the failures to perform well-known duties—the neglected privilege, the too little appreciated blessings that were lavished upon many of us!

We refused or failed to properly estimate their importance, and neglected to take advantage of them, as they were passing, and now that they have passed us by and are gone—irrevocably gone—how poignant the grief, how sharp and painful are the lashes of Conscience.

In a few brief hours, over yonder eastern hills the first rays of the sun will dawn upon a new year. Then let us, gathering wisdom for the future, be up and doing, actively doing, whatever of good may come our way, that may lie in our power, during the year of our Lord 1902; and may God give us all strength throughout and enable us one year from this day to say we have lived the year to some good purpose; that we have not prostituted the powers of body and mind, with which Providence has so richly endowed some of us, to selfish and base purposes, nor squandered the wealth with which He has filled the coffers of others of us, without having alleviated a single case of want and suffering; nor wasted the strength so many of us possess without having raised up some one, if only one—at last realizing that "it is not all of life to live." May you, my friend, not fail to realize and respect this truth—and may your deep sleep be tranquil, and your hours of waking be sojiced with the reflection and conviction that you have at least faithfully and conscientiously endeavored to not live in vain.
