Ricks & Wilkinson

This is Greenville's

Fastest Growing Store.

WHY?

BECAUSE no other store Anywhere is so diligent in the interests of the buying public to which it looks for support.

BECAUSE nothing but absolutely reliable merchandise is admitted here at any price--that point is of vital import.

BECAUSE the prices we ask are the lowest known to the merchandise world for goods of the quality we sell.

BECAUSE every sale that we make is backed by an absolute personal guarantee of satisfaction to the smallest detail.

BECAUSE every thing is done to promote your personal comfort while shopping, and to fulfill the most exacting requirements.

And so we might continue to name reason after reason almost without end. No really careful buyer will pass the offers we make without investigating them. Look at this double column full of Economy opportunities for this week:

White India Linen, White Persian Lawns, White Piques. The prices start at 5½c and by an easy rising scale run up as high as 75c.

STILL ENLARGING.

Facilities of the Greenville Market Increasing.

The prospect of the Greenville tobacco market was never brighter than for the coming season. There will be every advantage for handling all the tobacco that can be brought here, regardless of the quantity, while the competition on sales will be such as to insure highest prices for the farmers.

It has already been stated that the Imperial Tobacco Company will buy largely on this market, and work is progressing rapidly on the immense factory they are building here so as to have it ready for the opening of the next season.

And the American Tobacco Company, who already have a mammoth machine here, are greatly increasing the facilities of this plant. Last fall they built a large additional storage room, and now they have taken out their former drying machine and are replacing it with the largest machine in the world. This new factory, which will be in position by the middle of July, will be 163 feet long and 14 feet wide, with a capacity for handling 60,000 pounds of tobacco every ten hours. It is the Proctor automatic stick and belt combination machine and was built to order for their factory here. They will also put in an additional 80 horse power boiler. The A. T. Co., now has more than 2,000 hogsheds of tobacco in their storage rooms here ready for shipment.

Other factories will add improvements and the Star warehouse will be enlarged before the next season opens. Greenville will have the best market in North Carolina.

Is This Mule a Fool?

Out at the Gingham Mills, in this city there is either a very clever or a very foolish mule. She works six days in the week and rests on the Sabbath; and the few daylight hours that this mule has been kept in her stall after Sunday have been a period of great agony for the animal. On the Sabbath she blinks and sleeps and nothing short of force can make her leave her stall, but at the break of day Monday morning if somebody doesn't come and take her out and hitch her up to something she goes stark raving mad. Certainly the mule sets an example that mankind may follow with profit—but is she a fool?—Charlotte Observer.

Of course. Such a question! Any how, when anybody or any thing down this way acts after that fashion it (or he) is at once labeled "danger," and the public warned to steer another way.

THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1902.

The formation of the Beef Trust recently has caused volumes to be written on the perniciousness of any combine for the purpose of raising the prices on articles of food. And the combine of the meat packers has been more severely dealt with by the press and public than any other we know of, and justly so. The supply has not been equal to the demand, yet there was no cause for an increase in prices, as the profits of the packers have been known to be sufficiently large. But the combine saw an opportunity to pluck from a defenceless public a few more shekels under the guise of law, and they unscrupulously took advantage of a condition over which the consumer had no control.

The Trust has been enjoined from further operations; and many remedies have been suggested. But in view of the fact that the Eastern and Southern sections, the greatest sufferers from the exorbitant prices of the combine, give little attention to the raising of cattle, it would appear that the most potent factor for lowering prices would be for the farmers to go into stock growing on a larger scale, and raise enough at least for home consumption. This would do much more good than any legislation could possibly do, and then there would be no laws to evade, but a mere matter of competition one section with another. It would not only have a wholesome effect upon the future conduct of the Trust, but it would also pay the farmer a good profit on his outlay.

It is a deplorable truth that in this whole section few native grown beefs can be bought. It is all of western slaughter, brought by the train load from Chicago and other western points, and stored in cities like Richmond or Greensboro, easily accessible, and convenient for distribution to the surrounding country. Let the farmers look to their interests, and go to raising more home supplies, and they will suffer less from the ravages of such combines as that of the beef packers.

Yesterday and today Greenville has been in quite a stir politically. On the streets could be seen groups discussing candidates for Aldermen in the different wards. The matter will all be settled in the primaries tonight. While the contest promises to be warm in some wards, THE REFLECTOR hopes there will be no dissensions. Let everything be done in harmony and every one abide by the result of the primaries. If Greenville is to prosper the people should be united and keep as much politics as possible out of the management of municipal affairs.

These two items from the Plymouth Beacon are significant:

The series of meetings which have been in progress at the M. E. Church here closed on Wednesday night. These meetings were very successful, there being about 50 conversions, 40 reclamations and so far 34 have joined this branch of the church.

The jail doors of Washington county stand wide open. The last prisoner was bonded out this week.

Mr. H. E. Shaw's little dog made things lively for awhile at the county convention Saturday. During a speech by his master the little dog had a bite—a flea bite—and he began to scratch. His hind leg struck the floor every time he got in a lick at the place where the flea was doing business. The members of the convention heard the tapping and thought some one was applauding the speech, and they took it up and applauded right heartily. Of course it may have been that the dog was really applauding the speech of his master. Who knows?—Kinston Free Press.

France and the United States have great cause for rejoicing when they see such evidences of the universal warmth of friendship existing between the two republics, as was displayed in so marked a degree, when the two nations joined hands in showing honor to the memory of Count Rochambeau, by the unveiling in Washington last Saturday of the handsome bronze statue of the French hero of our American Revolution.

The statue was erected at a cost of $7,500 appropriated by Congress for the purpose, and is a handsome monument, on a marble base, statue and base being 30 feet high.

It showed the fullest measure of gratitude to the French government for the very timely aid given the colonies in the struggle for liberty from England's oppressions. And Count Rochambeau, the French field Marshal who lead the French troops in our aid will forever have the love and admiration of the people of her sister republic—America—and justly so. Our army was in deepest distress, and were almost at the point of collapse, so extreme were their necessities. But the timely arrival of Rochambeau turned the tide and no doubt prevented the Declaration of Independence from becoming a "mere pronouncement" of a band of defeated rebels, instead of a charter of liberties and

The Weather

For North Carolina: Fair to night, Friday partly cloudy.

Anent the unveiling in Washington last Saturday of the bronze statue to Count Rochambeau, who so materially aided the American army in its fight for liberty, and made possible the victory which gave us independence, the following letter from George Washington to the French general will be read with interest:

To Lieutenant General the Count De Rochambeau:

My Dear Count—Having resigned my public trust, and with it all my public cares into the hands of congress, I now address you in the character of an American citizen from the banks of the Potomac, to which I have been retired, fast locked up by frost and snow, ever since Christmas.

The tranquil paths of domestic life are now beginning to unfold themselves and promise rich harvest of pleasing contemplation, in which, dear Count, you will be one of the most pleasing themes, as I shall recollect with pleasure that we have been contemporaries and fellow laborers in the cause of liberty, and have lived together, as brothers should do, in harmonious friendship.

I saw all the British forces embarked and on the point of sailing before I left New York, about the 4th of December. I then repaired to Congress and surrendered all my public appointments, and am just now beginning to look into the deranged situation of my private concerns, which had come in for no share of my attention during the past eight years. To see you then at this seat of retirement from the business of the world and the cares of public life is a pleasure too great to expect, though you must allow me to wish it because I can with much truth assure you that I am, with every sentiment of esteem, regard and friendship, my dear Count, your most obedient and humble servant.
