Our Raleigh Letter

Notes from the State Capital

Special Correspondent of Reflector.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 29.

The close of the first week of the joint campaign between Senator Pritchard and Hon. Locke Craig was witnessed by the meeting of these candidates for the Senatorship in Raleigh Saturday night in the hall of the House at the Capitol. The crowd was a limited one.

While the discussion has, on the whole, been on a high plane, dignified and characterized by fairness, there have been several rather warm little "incidents" attached. But the crowds that have turned out to hear the discussion which of course deals chiefly with national affairs and national politics in the Eastern counties so far canvassed have not been as large was expected.

Advices received here from New York are to the effect that the cotton seed and oil trust (the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., in other words) has, by the sale of seven million dollars of bonds, put itself in possession of ample funds to so increase its operations and business as to absolutely dominate the market in cotton seed oil, and that new or independent mills stand a worse show now than ever and will be forced out of business.

October 25 has been set as the date for holding the Appalachian Park Convention at Asheville.

Wednesday, November 26, has been set by Superintendent of Education Joyner as North Carolina Day in the public schools of the State.

A CARD.

To the citizens of Greenville:

No doubt most everybody in Greenville has heard of the "jewelry auction," that is being conducted at W. B. Brown's dry goods store. While there are some that are prejudiced against traveling people conducting auction sales, we wish to inform the public in general that all "auction sales are not fakes." The firm of J. B. Bennett & Co., of Norfolk, Va., for whom this sale is being conducted, is a large and reliable firm of good standing and their reputation is second to none. Any article that has been or will be sold if it is not as represented can be returned to the house and they will gladly make same good. The firm will uphold any guarantee or assertion that I may make. Thanking the many that have patronized this sale, I remain very truly,

DAVE RAUH, auctioneer.

of the firm of J. B. Bennett & Co. 158 Church St., Norfolk, Va.

Last sale, Friday, October 3rd.

Died.

Sunday, September 28th, at Stokes, Mrs. Sophia Fleming, widow of Rufus Fleming, died of typhoid fever. Two children survive her: Mrs. W. E. Warren and Miss Debbie Fleming.

Burial this afternoon at the family burial ground.

Mrs. M. A. Leggett, of Farmville, died Sunday morning, Sept. 28th, of typhoid fever. The burial will be held in the cemetery at Farmville this afternoon.

Mrs. Leggett was, formerly of Greenville. She leaves a husband, Mr. W. S. Leggett, and five children, one of whom is the wife of Mr. W. H. McGowan, of the Greenville police. Mrs. Leggett was a member of the Methodist church, and a woman of many admirable qualities.

North State News

J. C. Watson has been appointed receiver for the Hucomuga Mills of Greensboro. The minority stock holders claim that the assets are $35,000 and the liabilities $48,000.

The Governor appointed the Board of Directors of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad Company for the coming year, beginning September 24. They are Messrs. C. M. Busbee, Raleigh; W. H. Smith, Goldsboro; M. J. Harvey, Kinston; Jas. A. Bryan, New Bern; J. C. Parker, Olivers; T. W. Dewey, New Bern; R. W. Taylor, Morehead City; Daniel B. Hooker, Bayboro; J. W. Grainger, Kinston, States proxy.

The Glendon Mining Co., of Glendon, Moore county, has been incorporated with a capitalization of $350,000.

Wilmington is to have a Pythian Carnival Merchants festival during the first week in November.

The Primitive Baptists are in Raleigh in large numbers. Nearly all the churches are in the rural districts and a number of those attending the association are making their first visit to Raleigh. Elder P. D. Gold the editor of the organ of this church, Zion's Landmark, is attending the association.

The report of the State Superintendent of public instruction could show a gratifying increase in the number of new public school houses built this year as compared with 1901. Two hundred and ninety eight have been built this year against 108 last year.

The stocks of the Atlantic Coast Line which have been on the rise, continue to soar upwards. Messrs. Hugh MacRae & Co., brokers and bankers, on yesterday reported sales of common stock at $180, which is the high water mark for this stock. A bid of $365 was made for Atlantic Coast Line of Connecticut, but none was offered at that price.—Wilmington Messenger.

The liquor question will come up in Cumberland county at the general election in November, but Cumberland county will continue a dry county. The McNeill and Hale faction, representing the liquor element has already been badly defeated. Hon. J. H. Myrover, of Fayetteville a leading citizen and democrat, declares that it will be many years before a liquor saloon will be seen in Cumberland county again. The women of the county have organized, too, for the fight, and Cumberland will continue for prohibition.—Duplin Journal.

Looks like a vertible Klondike had been found near Greensboro, but it is to be hoped there will be no undue excitement, just yet, anyway. A well digger yesterday found a suspicious looking chunk of metal on the farm of Mrs. Harrison Fields, three miles north of Greensboro, and bringing it to the city, had a chemist to examine it, who pronounced it a nugget of pure gold, eighteen karats fine. The lump is about the size of one's thumb and the gold runs entirely through it. The man who found it will not tell exactly at what place on the farm he found it. He seems to think he has a good thing and wants to share in it.

It is a very nice story so far.—Greensboro Record.

While in this city Wednesday, Senator Pritchard stated that Mark Hanna had agreed to make a speech in Fayetteville during the month of October. The Republicans evidently will make a desperate effort to capture this District.—Fayetteville Observer.

Can I Get Fitted?

THAT is about the only doubt that keeps most men from buying ready-made suits.

If we can't fit you we won't sell you. If fit doesn't stay fitted, the sale doesn't stop—bring back the suit.

If you do your part by coming in, you can be anything else but fitted and suited here.

Not a correct style missing from our lines. Fall and Winter styles all in.

Stenography.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, a teacher of short hand and type writing, desires to get a class in Greenville. Any one wishing to take lessons please leave their names at REFLECTOR office. Terms will be moderate. This is an opportunity to learn a useful occupation that young men and young ladies should take advantage of.

Fire Alarm.

The fire alarm Saturday night was caused by the burning of the caboose near the depot, of the log train. The origin of the fire is conjectural, as none of the crew are supposed to have been on the car at the time. Some quick bucket work put out the blaze before the fire company could reach the point.

Many supposed that one of the tobacco buildings was on fire, and Dickinson avenue was pretty lively for awhile. Several citizens made good time for a quarter mile dash.

A man's wealth isn't known by the taxes he pays.

The Meeting.

There was a very large attendance of both services in the Baptist church Sunday and Rev. Mr. Edmundson preached strong sermons that made a deep impression upon his hearers. There were confessions at both services.

There is such interest that the meeting will go on this week, services being held each night at 8 o'clock preceded by the prayer meetings at 7:30.

The subject of Mr. Edmundson's sermon tonight will be "Fire."

Anti-Saloon League.

Each meeting of the Anti Saloon League, organized two weeks ago, is marked by a somewhat increased attendance, showing that interest in it is growing. At the meeting in the Methodist church, Sunday afternoon the league was addressed by Rev. J. T. Edmundson. He said three things were necessary if the league is to accomplish anything—agitation, legislation, enforcement. He said it is evident that the majority sentiment in Greenville is with the saloons, and it would require earnest work and plenty of agitation to change it, but it could be changed.

The league will meet in the Christian church next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

GOING FORWARD.

Today THE DAILY REFLECTOR goes a step higher in its ambition and greets its readers in larger size and greatly improved appearance. It has always been the purpose of this paper to go forward as fast as its patronage would justify, and this step today is because of the splendid patronage the paper is receiving. At no time in its history has it been better, and we try to show our appreciation of the confidence the people have in THE REFLECTOR.

As said many times before, the paper is not all we desire for it, possibly never will be, but we hope to continue climbing higher and keep it in advance of the progress of town. We do not say this boastfully, but yet it can be referred to with some degree of pride that not every town no larger than Greenville supports such a paper as THE DAILY REFLECTOR.

There are other improvements we have long desired for the paper. One of those is the taking of press dispatches. We tried that once and lost money because the patronage at the time did not justify such an expenditure. Nor is the patronage yet sufficient for such additional expense, (it would be if every one who reads the paper was a paying subscriber) but as soon as it does reach that point we promise that you shall have the press dispatches too. So the more patronage is given THE REFLECTOR the better and more useful you help your town paper to be. THE REFLECTOR believes in Greenville, and Greenville believes in THE REFLECTOR.

The first annual report of Brigadier-General Funston as Commander of the department of Colorado, states that the percentage of desertions from the army since the canteen system was abolished has increased from 3.20 to 11. The army is the gainer by being rid of soldiers who will desert for whiskey.

The New York Herald is discussing child slavery in the South, though it had to look over its spectacles to keep from seeing the sweat-shops of the East Side.

The New Bern Journal is leading a fight for better sanitation in New Bern. We doubt if it is needed anywhere more than in Greenville.

Pinky Panky Poo, a brindle pup member of New York's canine 400, is dying. How it ever lived at all with such a name is a mystery.

The Alamance Tobacco Warehouse company has been incorporated with an authorized capital of $10,000 to do business at Burlington. The opening sale will take place Oct 1st.—Alamance Gleaner.

Some "independentism" has cropped out in other counties and tickets have been partially named but the tickets in Alamance are straight nominated by regular Democratic and Republican conventions.—Alamance Gleaner.

It is said that some Yankees have secured the privilege and are boring for oil not far from London, and some of the Britons are bored thereat because they didn't see it that way and go to boring themselves.—Wilson News.

It is reported that the Armour Packing Company of Chicago, who have a large branch here, will consolidate with Swift and Company, extensive pork packers of the West. Local representatives of the Armour Company expect no changes as a result of the merger.—Charlotte Observer.

By virtue of chapter 164, acts of 1901, October 12th is made "North Carolina Day" in the public schools of the State, when the same shall be appropriately observed. This year October 12 falls on Sunday, being the 2nd Sunday in October. The law above cited empowers the State Supt. of Public Instruction in such case to designate another day, which he has done, naming Oct. 13.—Winston-Salem Journal.

The movement for a tobacco warehouse in Wilmington and the development of contiguous territory into a tobacco growing section received still further consideration at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon.

Letters were received Thursday from two experienced tobaccoists of Kingston, N. C., who desired to locate here in case the movement materializes.—Wilmington Star.

The Story of a Burglary at the McSwats.

Mr. Billiger McSwat awoke the other morning to the knowledge that his home had been entered in the night by some unauthorized person and a portion of his portable wealth removed.

The burglar had effected an entrance through the bedroom window and escaped through a rear window.

In one of the pockets of Mr. McSwat's trousers there was the sum of $4, more or less, in silver.

This the burglar had taken. In another pocket there were a few one cent pieces.

These in a spirit of humor rare among operators in his line of business he had ranged in a row along the sill of the window through which he had made his exit and left them there.

The trousers he had dropped on the stairway.

Having ascertained the extent of his loss, Mr. McSwat went upstairs again and aroused his wife.

"Lobelia," he said, "the house was robbed by a burglar last night." "What did he take?" she breathlessly inquired, sitting up in bed.

"Nothing, so far as I can see, except a little money I left in my trousers. He took all of that but 5 pennies."

"It's a wonder you don't accuse me of doing it," retorted Mrs. McSwat, lying down again.

"No, Lobelia," he said, "I know it wasn't you. You would have taken the pennies too."—Chicago Tribune.

Take Care of the Stomach.

The man or woman whose digestion is perfect and whose stomach performs its every function is never sick. Kodol cleanses, purifies and sweetens the stomach and cures positively and permanently all stomach troubles, indigestion and dyspepsia. It is the wonderful reconstructive tonic that is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by conveying to their bodies all of the nourishment in the food they eat. Rev. J. H. Holladay, of Holladay, Miss., writes: Kodol has cured me. I consider it the best remedy I ever used for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was given up by physicians, Kodol saved my life. Take it after meals. Jno. L. Wooten.

It's a great work of art to make art pay.

Not Over-Wise.

There is an old allegorical picture of a girl scared at a grass-hopper, but in the act of heedlessly treading on a snake. This is paralleled by the man who spends a large sum of money building a cyclone cellar, but neglects to provide his family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against bowel complaints, whose victims outnumber those of the cyclone a hundred to one. This remedy is everywhere recognized as the most prompt and reliable medicine in use for these diseases. For Sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville, N. C.

A good memory sometimes comes in handy to forget with.

Dysentery Cured Without the Aid of a Doctor.

"I am just up from a hard spell of the flux" (dysentery) says Mr. T. A. Pinner, a well known merchant of Drummond, Tenn. "I used one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I consider it the best cholera medicine in the world." There is no need of employing a doctor when this remedy is used, for no doctor can prescribe a better medicine for bowel complaint in any form either for children or adults. It never fails and is pleasant to take. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Lots of women do foolish things so they can snub those who don't.

Boy Cured of colic After Physician's Treatment Had Failed.

My boy when four years old was taken with colic and cramps in his stomach. I sent for the doctor and he injected morphine, but the child kept getting worse. I then gave him half a teaspoonful of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and in half an hour he was sleeping and soon recovered.—F. L. Wilkins, Shell Lake, Wis. Mr. Wilkins is bookkeeper for the Shell Lake Lumber Co. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Worry knocks the life out of lots of men long before they are dead.

Beware of the Knife.

No profession has advanced more rapidly of late than surgery, but it should not be used except where absolutely necessary. In cases of piles for example, it is seldom needed. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures quickly and permanently. Unequaled for cuts, burns, bruises, wounds, skin diseases. Accept no counterfeits. "I was so troubled with bleeding piles that I lost much blood and strength," says J. C. Phillips, Paris, Ill. "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me in a short time." Soothes and heals. Jno. L. Wooten.

Boston is nearly 300 years old. No wonder she wears spectacles.

Lingering Summer Colds.

Don't let a cold run at this season. Summer colds are the hardest kind to cure and if neglected may linger along for months. A long sledge like this will pull down the strongest constitution. One Minute Cough Cure will break up the attack at once. Safe sure acts at once. Cures coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. The children like it. John L. Wooten.

A Sad Disappointment.

Ineffective liver medicine is a disappointment, but you don't want to purge, strain and break the glands of the stomach and bowels. DeWitt's Little Early Risers never disappoint. They cleanse the system of all poison and putrid matter and do so gently that one enjoys the pleasant effects. They are a tonic to the liver. Cure biliousness, torpid liver and prevent fever. John L. Wooten.

A woman never really knows a man until she knows she doesn't.

The singing of Miss Madge Richardson, of Reidsville, in the Baptist church Sunday night, was a delight indeed to the large congregation. Greenville people have never had the pleasure of hearing a sweeter voice than hers.

Rev. W. E. Cox arrived today to locate here, and will take charge of the parish of St. Paul's Episcopal church. He will hold monthly services in the church until his ordination, which will take place in November, after which he will serve the church here two Sundays in each month, giving the other Sundays to churches at Gatesville and in Bertie. Mr. Cox is one of our very best young men, and recently graduated at Sewanee.

A WARTIME ADVENTURE

(Original.)

Theodore Pearson, escaped prisoner of war, had been hiding all day in the woods beside the James river, but now that the dusk of evening was coming on he left his hole under a log and made his way along the bank in a southeasterly direction. He had left Libby prison by means of a tunnel, in company with a number of others, a few days before and was aiming to reach the Union fleet in Hampton Roads. Coming to a fence inclosing a plantation, he made a careful survey of the premises and was about to proceed by the river margin when a young girl left the house, hurried down to a boat, untethered it and, seizing a pair of oars, rowed away from the shore. The current being very strong, she pulled diagonally against it. She had not given a dozen strokes before her boat was carried against a sunken log, and the full force of the water, striking it sidewise, turned it bottom upward. The girl was whirled rapidly away.

Although Lieutenant Pearson was a good swimmer, having been on prison diet for months he would not have had the strength even to attempt a rescue had he not received in the last few days a good supply of salt pork and corn pone from some negroes. However this may be, he ran swiftly down to a point below the girl where he would have but a short distance to swim to reach her as she floated by and plunged in. She had gone under on leaving the boat and had come up just as Pearson left the point. Before he reached her she sank again. Pearson dived, made a fortunate clutch, for he could not easily see through the yellow clay mingled with the water, and caught her skirt. Then he struck out for shore, which he reached safely. He had scarcely done so before he heard the sound of oars, and in a few minutes a boat came from out the gloaming. Its single occupant, seeing Pearson standing over the unconscious girl, pulled toward him. When the Union officer saw that he was in Confederate uniform, he made up his mind to a return to Libby.

A few snatches of words explained the situation to the Confederate and to Pearson that the others were to have met in the middle of the river. The girl being late, the man had come on. He begged Pearson to go to the house for assistance. Pearson started and for a moment was tempted to take to the woods, but was incapable of gaining his freedom by deserting a girl whose life was still in jeopardy. In a few minutes the household was aroused, and the girl was revived, carried to her home and soon recovered.

When the excitement had subsided, the Confederate looked about him for the stranger. He had disappeared. Every negro on the place was started to search for him and to say that Captain Pemberton desired to thank him for saving Miss Blair, his betrothed, and to entertain him for the night. An hour later all the negroes had returned and reported that the man could not be found.

Captain Pemberton remained at the plantation. During the evening he heard the barking of a bloodhound. "Some poor devil is in hard luck," he said. "That dog has caught the scent."

About 10 o'clock, Miss Blair having entirely recovered, her lover started on his return to his command. The girl insisted on saying adieu at the door and came downstairs with him into the hall. At the same moment the front door was thrown open, and at the entrance, surrounded by a guard of Confederates, stood the man who had saved Miss Blair's life.

"May we keep this man here over night?" asked the leader. "He is an escaped Libby prisoner."

Miss Blair was about to enter a protest when her lover stopped her. "Certainly," he said, then to Pearson, "I assure you, sir, after what we owe you, this is a very painful meeting."

Pearson was taken to one of the out-houses, and the plantation gradually quieted down.

At midnight Pearson heard a voice say to his guard: "Take your blanket to that gallery and go to sleep. I'll stand watch for you awhile." A few minutes later Captain Pemberton through a window beckoned to the prisoner to follow him. Taking Pearson by a circuitous route, in order to avoid the guard, he led him to the margin of the river.

"There is my boat," he said. "In it you will find provisions for a week. Here is my uniform coat. With these you ought to be able to make your way to the Federal fleet below. If you are taken, send for me at once. I prefer to be shot for this rather than that you should go back to Libby."

Pearson tried to speak, but could only mutter incoherent thanks.

"And here is a note of thanks from the dear girl whom you saved for me," added Pemberton.

Pearson took the note, thrust it into his pocket, the captain tossing his coat into the boat as the other pushed off. All night the fugitive pulled down the river and in the morning tied up for rest and a good breakfast, which he found in his hilder. After reading the thanks of the lady he had saved he put on Captain Pemberton's coat and continued his journey. He was stopped several times, but the uniform saved him. When near Newport News, he was picked up by a United States gunboat.

Years afterward Lieutenant (then Colonel) Pearson met in Washington the man who assisted him to escape. Pearson was one of the principal Federal judges, while Pemberton represented his state in congress.

They Are All Right.

The new fire company that was organized Friday night responded to their first alarm Saturday night with an alacrity that showed the men ready for work. Before the engine had gone four blocks the steam gage registered 90 pounds. After the boys had got their apparatus back in the engine house they went out and gave the colored firemen a lift in getting their hand engine back to its quarters
