SEASONABLE BARGAINS.

YOU know our policy concerning the cleaning up of seasonable merchandise in its season. To make thorough work of a clearance sale every item must suffer the severest cuts. Not an item in this store that has not suffered with the "price knife." If you will take the time to make a careful investigation the economy of buying now will impress itself upon you.

Ladies Dress Goods & Silks

SENATORSHIP GOES TO OVERMAN.

Nominated on the 61st Ballot Last Night.

MAJORITY IS OVER WATSON.

The Long Deadlock Broken at Last and it is Now Senator Overman.

Special to Reflector.]

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 30—The senatorial deadlock ended last night amid great enthusiasm in the nomination of Hon. Lee S. Overman, of Salisbury, for United States senator.

The sixty-first and last ballot resulted as follows: Overman 73, Watson 58, Craig 11.

The announcement of the vote was greeted with cheers and prolonged applause from everybody. Members stood in their seats yelling and waving handkerchiefs, while the galleries were wild with applause. Good feeling prevailed throughout the caucus and there is general satisfaction over result.

The applause and enthusiasm was continued in the senate and house today when both bodies voted and elected Lee S. Overman U. S. senator in accordance with the decision of last night's caucus.

THE LEGISLATURE.

WEDNESDAY.

Both the senate and house were deluged with petitions for temperance legislation at Wednesday's session, the petitions coming from all sections of the state.

While not many new bills were introduced, it was a busy day on matters already up for consideration.

In the senate a bill was introduced by Senator White to regulate the procuring and distribution of dead bodies for the promotion of medical science

Senator Woodard introduced a bill supplemental to the local option act, to establish local dispensaries wherever desired by a majority of the qualified voters.

Among the bills introduced in the house was one to enable boards of education to form school districts of territory lying contiguous in different counties.

There were also bills to prevent bribery at elections; to legalize the senatorial primary; and requiring teachers to furnish certificates of good moral character.

It is announced that John Bull has invited bids for the construction of an 18,000 ton battleship "that will eclipse anything in the world," presumably in size. The thing for Uncle Sam to do now is to build one so large that when she heaves to in the Atlantic there will not be room enough left on the bosom of the pond to accommodate a fifteen foot skiff. But there's no cause for alarm. We've got a torpedo boat that will sink Johnnie's big vessel in two minutes.—Charlotte News.

Telephone Discrimination.

AYDEN, N. C., Jan. 29th 1903. EDITOR REFLECTOR.

I really believe it the duty of our County Commissioners not to allow another telephone pole to be put up on the public roads. Why? In the first place, such poles are dangerous.

Second, it is a syndicate that is trying to run out all independent business, and we are helping them to do so.

Third, they are discriminating against small towns, and since the enterprise has got in the hands of the trust I do not think a central office has been established in the county, and our connections have been cut to much shorter limits.

For example, here is Ayden, the second largest town in Pitt county, whose people have been asking for a central office ever since the line was brought here, without any notice. So it looks like it is time for the county to call a halt on just such combines, and I believe it will.

J. A. HARRINGTON.

Distinguished Speaker.

Rev. Ada C. Bowles, whose summer home is Gloucester, Mass., and winter residence Boston, while a stranger among our Southern people, is well known in the North from the Atlantic to the Pacific as an ordained minister, a writer and lecturer. For 15 years she was the secretary of the Woman's Ministerial Conference, of which Mrs. Julia Ward Howe was the president. Mrs. Bowles has preached and lectured in many of our largest cities, and held pastorates in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and California. Her deceased husband was a prominent clergyman.

Mrs. Bowles will preach in Greenville next Sunday and the public are cordially invited to hear her.

She will preach in the court house at 11 and 7 p. m.

The Dunbar Company.

This splendid attraction will appear in the opera house Thursday night, Feb. 5th, for the benefit of the Methodist church lot. Here is what the Daily Republican, of Trenton, Mo., says of the company:

The hand bell ringing of the Dunbar Company was a revelation, while their male quartette is composed of good voices well blended. Many encores demonstrated the enthusiasm with which the various numbers of the concert were received.

Twelve Million Tobacco Company

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 27.—Mexican Tobacco and Cigarette Corporation, incorporated two weeks ago, with an authorized capital of $100,000, today filed papers increasing its capital to $12,000,000, of which $6,000,000 is to be preferred, with non-cumulative dividends of 7 per cent. The company is formed to grow and manufacture tobacco, cigars, and cigarette, and also to make pipes and other smokers' appliances.

They Won't Go Soon

An 8 o'clock audience in the opera house is no go in Greenville. At that hour, the time advertised for the curtain to rise Thursday night, not half a dozen people had arrived. It seems fashionable to go late.

Change of Superintendent.

Mr. John A. Perry, of Henderson, arrived Thursday evening to take charge February 1st as local superintendent of the Greenville telephone exchange, succeeding Mr. H. P. Hill, resigned.

Mr. Perry has been with the Carolina Virginia Telephone Co. for some time and is an experienced electrician.

Opportunity is Knocking

SOON it will be time to say farewell to old Winter and welcome the incoming Spring. Modern retailing knows no better time to close out stock than these between season days. We have cut our prices to move out the stock on hand and here's your opportunity. The prudent buyer will read this ad and call at once. The profit to us is in disposing of goods that, while new now, would be "last season's" next season. Your profit is in the money saved—and where else would you look for such splendid styles as we offer, at such small prices? Reductions touch all Clothing, Hats and Haberdashery—Boys' and Men's.

Don't let this opportunity get away from you.

The King Clothier.

RENTON ITEMS.

RENTON N. C., Jan. 30, 1903.

Our farmers are busy preparing for another crop.

W. E. Dail went to Greenville Tuesday.

Mr. Brooks, of the western part of the state, is in the neighborhood selling Bibles.

Charles McGlohon spent Tuesday in Greenville.

Miss Allie Dail returned Sunday from Ssandard.

Mrs. C. H. Langston and Mrs. Louisa Langston attended the Mothers' Meeting in Winterville Wednesday afternoon.

Exum Dail went to Greenville Tuesday.

J. A. Jarrel went to Winterville Sunday.

A large number of our people expect to attend services at Reedy Branch Sunday.

Your itemizer will have to do like Mcawber, "wait for something to turn up," before writing again.

"Under the Southern Cross."

A large, intelligent and appreciative audience greeted the home talent at the opera house Thursday night, to witness the rendition of the thrilling drama, under the management of the Daughters of the Confederacy. Mrs. T. J. Jarvis and her coterie of excellent assistants are enjoying the congratulations of their many friends and all who were present, and many who were not present are expressing regrets at not being there.

From start to finish it was a grand success, giving delight and pleasure to all, everyone eager to catch the last word spoken, even to the last refrain.

To attempt to personize would be to take in every one who had part. Every one did his part well, and only those who saw can say how "splendidly 'twas done." But there is special talent in Greenville for the stage which, if cultivated by experience, would shed lustre wherever offered. The play may be repeated, as it is talked on the streets that the request will be urged.

The legislature appears to be in a humor to act upon temperance legislation if the people can decide just what they want.—Durham Herald.

PERSONAL NOTES

Brief Mention of People Met With in the Social World

C. J. Rivenbark, representative of the Raleigh News and Observer, spent today here.

Miss Sue Clark, of Tarboro, arrived Thursday evening to visit Miss Pattie Skinner.

Miss Lora Ferrel, of Winston, arrived Thursday evening to visit Miss Carrie Andrews.

Dr. L. C. Skinner came down from Parmele Thursday evening and returned this morning.

K. O. Barrett, route agent of the Southern Express Co., spent last night and this morning here.

Miss Ada Hardy, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. L. T. Smallwood, left Thursday for Robersonville.

F. C. Toepelman, of Henderson, general superintendent of the Carolina-Virginia Telephone Co., came in Thursday evening.

Two Children Dead.

Two children of Mrs. J. H. Vandertord, of Beaver Dam township—one a boy 6 years old and the other a girl of 3 years—died Wednesday in a few hours of each other, and both were buried in the same grave Thursday. The children were well when they went to bed Saturday night, but both were taken sick during the night and continued to grow worse until they died. Physicians think the death of the children was due to ptomaine poison, perhaps caused by something they had eaten.

We've got it now—Royal Glue to mend broken crockery and glassware. Reflector Book Store.

SENATOR OVERMAN

In the election of Hon. Lee S. Overman to the United States senate North Carolina has honored herself as much as she has honored her distinguished son. Mr. Overman is a clean and able man, well worthy to represent this state in the council of the nation. A true gentleman, a true democrat, and a true North Carolinian, we extend congratulations to him and the state.

The most interesting phase of the present legislature was the joint meeting of the committee on propositions and grievances, on Wednesday, at which temperance legislation was the subject of discussion. Representative men from all sections of the state were present to urge the enactment of such a law as will suppress the whiskey traffic, and petitions after petitions, representing the wishes of the people, were presented. This meeting showed the preponderance of sentiment throughout the state in favor of abolishing the whiskey traffic, and if the committee does the right thing it will make a favorable report on the London bill without changing a single clause.

If the Monroe doctrine is what it is cracked up to be, how does it happen that England and Germany are allowed to shoot the hill tops off Venezuela just for the fun of the thing? Some how we have the suspicion under our bonnet that the power of the Monroe doctrine depends upon the man in Washington. We remember that one Cleveland did a few acts with it which threw huge alarm into Great Britain.

S. Otho Wilson now appears on the scene as chairman of the executive committee of the whiskey ring, and is engineering the campaign for the whiskey distillers and saloon keepers. Alas, how the mighty have fallen! Wonder what some of his former political consorts now think of Sotho?

The one lawyer who had the nerve to show that he had sold himself to the whiskey ring and appeared before the meeting in Raleigh, Thursday, to fight temperance legislation must have felt awfully lonesome. The poor fellow sold himself for a mess of pottage.

A Greenville minister who has been circulating a petition endorsing the London bill, said that one man's reason for not signing the petition was that the saloon men would not have time to dispose of all their goods. The bill ought to pass for this reason, if for no other.

Of course we are ready to throw up our hat and shout for good roads, but if some of the streets of Greenville were as good as some of the roads of Pitt county, we could certainly put a deal more enthusiasm in to our shouting.

The only rival of the White House explanation bureau is the Morning Post's department explaining how the Southern railway doesn't do it.

Charlotte's postmastership seems to be going begging. Wonder if the president knows there's such a place as Charlotte on the map, anyway?

Mr. President, please do some other freaky thing right away. The poor paragraph man is waiting for the latest.

A dispatch from Venezuela states that peace is in sight. If it comes near enough Germany will knock it to smithereens.

Condolences are extended the Winston-Salem Journal.

Enlarge Their Plant.

T. B. Scott, vice-president of the Wells-Whitehead Company, of Wilson, N. C., returned to the city this morning from the annual meeting of the corporation. The stockholders decided to increase the size of the plant to two and a half times its present size, and in future the concern will manufacture granulated smoking tobacco as well as cigarettes.—Richmond News-Leader.

Temporary Aberration, Anyway.

A bill has been introduced in legislature prohibiting the sale of intoxicants to idiots and lunatics. Now if the prohibitionists can prove that a man who will fill up on the stuff is either an idiot or a lunatic the problem is solved.—Durham Herald.

LAND SALE.

By virtue of a decree of the Superior Court of Pitt county in the special proceeding entitled T. H. Williams, administrator of W. S. Smith vs. Sarah A. Smith, S. C. Williams and others, the undersigned administrator will sell for cash, on Monday, February 2nd, 1903, before the court house door in Greenville, an undivided one-half interest in the following described piece or parcel of land: That parcel of land in Bethel township adjoining the lands of B. W. James, Sidney A. Briley, Shade Briley, Riley Jenkins and N. A. Britton, and being the land upon which W. S. Smith lived at the time of his death. Containing 97 acres, more or less, said land will be sold subject to the widows dower.

This Dec. 29, 1902,
 T. H. WILLIAMS,
 Administrator.
 F. G. JAMES, attorney.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Letters of administration upon the estate of Jane Haddock, deceased, having been issued to me by the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt county, on the 17th day of December, 1902, notice is hereby given to all persons holding claims against said estate to present them to me for payment on or before the 22nd day of December, 1903, duly itemized and authenticated, or this notice will be plead in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate will make payment to me, This the 20th day of December, 1902.
 JESSE CANNON,
 Public administrator administering the estate of Jane Haddock, dec'd.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

The Clerk of Superior Court of Pitt county having issued letters testamentary to me, the undersigned, on the 27th day of December, 1902, on the estate of Mary Nobles, deceased, notice is hereby given to all persons indebted to the estate to make immediate payment to the undersigned and to all creditors of said estate to present their claims properly authenticated to the undersigned within 12 months after the date of this notice, or this notice will be plead in bar of their recovery.
 This the 27th day of December, 1902
 W. H. TRIPP,
 Extr. on the estate of Mary Nobles.

STRAY TAKEN UP.

About October 1st a sow took up with my stock, and owner cannot same by proving property and paying expenses. The sow is ground squirrel color, and marked with swallow fork in right ear and smooth crop on left. Jan. 12th, 1903.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucous and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. Jno. L. Wooten.

Cheap men are dear swindles in business.

Don't Worry.

This is easier said than done, yet it may be of some help to consider the matter. If the cause is something over which you have no control it is obvious that worrying will not help the matter in the least. On the other hand, if within your control you have only to act. When you have a cold and fear an attack of pneumonia, buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and use it judiciously and all cause for worry as to the outcome will quickly disappear. There is no danger of pneumonia when it is used. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

One Hundred Dollars A Box.

Is the value H. A. Tizdale, Summerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases, Jno. L. Wooten.

To the ugliest woman on earth the lookingglass tell pretty lies.

Croup.

The peculiar cough which indicates croup, is usually well known to the mothers of croupy children. No time should be lost in the treatment of it, and for this purpose no medicine has received more universal approval than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Do not waste valuable time in experimenting with untried remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended, but give this medicine as directed and all symptoms of croup will quickly disappear. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

A man hates what is above him; a woman what is beneath her.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relieves the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. Jno. L. Wooten.

Nothing makes a woman so happy as to be unhappy for some one she loves.

The crowned heads of every nation. The rich men, poor men and misers

All join in paying tribute to DeWitt's Little Early Risers. H. Williams, San Antonio, Tex., writes: Little Early Riser Pills are the best ever used in my family. I unhesitatingly recommend them to everybody. They cure Constipation, Billiousness, Sick Headache, Torpid Liver, Jaundice, Malaria and all other liver troubles. Jno. L. Wooten.

A girl has as much fun getting engaged as a man has going to a horse race.

"The nicest and pleasantest medicine I have used for indigestion constipation is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets," says Melard F. Craig, of Middlegrove, N. Y. "They work like a charm and do not gripe or have any unpleasant effect." For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville

A SINGULAR COURTSHIP

[Original.]

I stood at the telegraph window with my message. At a table inside a girl with chestnut hair and brown eyes sat working a key. Seeing me, she came to the window, punched each word of my message with a pencil and said in a businesslike tone:

"Twenty-nine cents."
 "I figure it 28 cents."
 "One cent for a stamp."

Now, I knew perfectly well that at that time, a year after the close of the Spanish war, all telegrams must bear a government stamp, but I wanted an excuse to hear the musical voice and look at the pretty face and brown eyes of the telegraph girl, so I continued:

"What's the stamp for?"
 "Government."

"Don't you think that's an imposition on the part of the government?"
 She had been waiting with the end of her pencil between her teeth, but now she left the window and, going to the table, resumed her clikety clik, clik, clik, as imperturbably as if she had not been interrupted.

"Here's the money," I said, handing out a five dollar bill, though I had the exact amount. I hoped she would not be able to change the bill and I would have an opportunity to talk about it, but she pulled out a drawer, counted $4.61 and returned to her table without looking at me.

The next day I found it necessary to send another telegram—that is, I made it necessary—and, handing it in at the window, I again saw the words punched and heard the melodious voice say:

"Fifty-one cents, please."
 "I make it 50 cents. What's the extra cent for?"
 "Stamp."

"What stamp?"
 "Government."
 "Are we living under an autocracy or are we a free people?"

She started for my table, but I threw down 51 cents, and she returned and took the message with her invariable imperturbability. I had a look of admiration ready for her in case her eyes met mine, but she gathered up the money, went to her table, and again came the clikety clik.

I arranged with my sister to send her peculiar messages, to which she was to pay no attention. Then I went to the telegraph office and handed in the following. (It would be useless for any one to tell me that I should have been given a good thrashing for my impudence, because I knew it at the time):

Chestnut hair and brown eyes. Will explain when I see you.

I watched the little telegraph girl carefully as she counted the words, but there was not the slightest twitching of a single muscle. When she had finished, she looked at a quarter I had laid down with the message and said:

"Twenty-six cents, please."
 "The extra cent?"
 "Stamp."

"Ah! Thank you. Here it is."

For the next twenty-four hours I expected that the girl's big brother, if she had one, might at any time appear and give me the thrashing I merited, but I was prepared for that, being ready to compromise by marrying his sister instantly. However, he did not appear, and I wrote another message to my dummy:

I am sad and lonely. Can't you fix it so that I can call on you this evening?

"Forty-seven cents."
 "Forty-six for the message and one for the government, I suppose?"

No answer. I put down a bill and received my change. Then, handing her a dozen large American Beauty roses, I asked if I could leave them with her for a few hours.

"Certainly, at your own risk," she said. "There's nothing to put them in."
 "Never mind that. They'll spoil in time anyway. Everything must wither." And I took my departure as if in a great hurry.

Three days later I returned and called for my flowers. I saw them on the telegraph table in a very dainty vase, but of course faded. I took courage.

"My flowers, please. I am sorry to have troubled you with them so long." She handed them out with the same unemphatic face and the words:

"Ten cents, please."
 "Ten cents? What for?"
 "Storage."

I threw down 10 cents and handed in another dozen roses, which she took in her usual businesslike manner. Her composure was upsetting me. Seizing a pen, I wrote a telegram to my sister:

I am wildly in love with a girl with chestnut hair and brown eyes who treats me with supreme indifference.

I looked for at least a slight blush in the cheek or a halting as the pencil jabbed the words. There was not a sign of either.

"Fifty-one cents."
 I pulled a half dollar and a cent from my pocket and threw them down impatiently. The girl took up the silver coin, looked at it critically, scratched it, threw it down to hear it ring, then said:

"Counterfeit."
 "Counterfeit? That coin counterfeit? You're mistaken. It's genuine."
 "Not the coin—the telegram."

Her face broke into as merry and happy a smile as I ever saw on the face of a woman. I thrust my hand under the bars where I had pushed so many telegrams and managed to get it on hers. She did not withdraw it, and, although the position was cramped, I felt a thrill running up my arm, through my elbow, my shoulder and into my heart.

JOHN MARTIN BANCROFT.

Kissed to Death.

Betty, the infant Roscius, when at the zenith of his juvenile fame was on one occasion walking with some ladies when another bevy of female admirers bore down upon him and, pulling him away from his companions, commenced to lavish upon him endearments and kisses. The others promptly rushed to their idol's rescue, who between the contending parties, each determined to possess the boy actor, was thrown to the ground and so much bruised and injured as to be unable to appear for a couple of nights.

Insignificant, however, was this mischance to the fate that befell M. de Langy, a courtier of the time of Louis XV., whose supreme conceit so irritated certain ladies of the court that they resolved to inflict upon him a novel punishment. Feigning one day to be overcome by the beauty of his face and person, they fell upon him en masse, hugging and kissing the wretched dandy till he cried for mercy. Deaf to his entreaties, the ladies continued their merciless caresses until the object of their mock love, who indeed was but a sorry wrenling, in endeavoring to break away from their clutches broke a blood vessel and died a few days later.

Rabbits as Acrobats.

The rat is, as no one will doubt, a very fair climber. He can scamper about anywhere on the roof of a barn or can ascend the ivy that grows on the house wall and make the lives of the pigeons in their cots anything but happy ones. The rabbit, on the other hand, is not usually accounted a climbing animal. As writer in Field describes the astonishment of his sisters at seeing a rabbit jump from the bough of a tree and, picking himself up, "scamper off rather dazed to his warren." Wherever a rabbit is found in a tree except when he is carried there by flood or left there by a receding snowdrift, it will be found that a sloping bank or other easy method of approach has been made use of. He is, however, very expert at climbing stone walls that bound his fields and even the wire netting that the farmer vainly imagines will keep him from the choicest crops. We have seen rabbits run up the face of a quarry to their holes toward the top, a feat which we have not found it easy to imitate.

Cinderella and Her Slipper.

Yes; I know you are saying to yourself, "That headline would have looked and sounded better had it been 'Cinderella and the Glass Slipper,'" says a critic, but the writer has been making a close study of this most interesting nursery story and finds that the famous "glass" slipper properly has no place in it. The "glass" slipper is really the "fur," "cloth" or "felt" slipper, the word "glass" having been substituted through a strange mistranslation of the story. In the original it was written pantoufle en vair, which, being translated, would be "the fur slipper." The translator, however, wrote it as if it had been pantoufle en verre, making the "little cinder girl's" fur foot covering one of glass, which, it must be admitted, would be one quite appropriate to a fairy.

A Clench.

The editor of the Glasgow Echo avers he is not much of a sport; but, he says, "when we meet a clench in the road we recognize it." He accepted a proposition the other day, made by a friend, through which he was to give his friend a dime for every time a woman passed them and did not put her hand behind her to learn if her skirt was all right behind. On the other hand, the editor's friend agreed to give him a nickel for each time a woman felt of her belt behind. "We got sixty-two nickels," the molder of opinion says, "and paid him one dime. A woman with both arms full of parcels came along."

Wax From Trees.

The wax palm of the Andes is a vegetable wonder. It grows to a height of nearly 200 feet and thrives not only on the plains, but the mountains. The wood is tough and durable and is employed in carpentry. The wax comes from the pits between the trunk and fronds. It is yellow or grayish white, is as pure as beeswax and is used for making candles. A peon climbing the trees can gather from twenty to thirty pounds from each.

The Measure of Success.

It is one of the appointed conditions of the labor of men that in proportion to the time between the seed sowing and the harvest is the fullness of the fruit, and that generally, therefore, the farther off we place our aim and the less we desire to be ourselves the witnesses of what we have labored for, the more wide and rich will be the measure of our success.—John Ruskin.

A Symphony of Colors.

Gray was asked why he had written the "Elegy in a Country Churchyard." "Because," he returned, "I thought it was the best place to make the ghost walk."

And indeed this seemed reasonable when it was remembered in addition to being Gray he had both duns and blues.—New York Tribune.

A Branch of Etiquette.

"Am I to understand that you were discharged from the army for a mere breach of etiquette?" queried the interested friend.

"Yes, sir," boldly asserted Colonel Blupher.

"What was it?"
 "Turning my back to the enemy."—Philadelphia Record.

Negro Shot.

This morning at the wharf Joe Johnston, colored, shot another negro, named Moore, with a pistol. The ball entered the right breast and made a serious wound. Johnston was arrested and is being held in custody to await the result of Moore's injury. It is claimed by the negroes that they were fooling with the pistol and that the shooting was accidental.

MRS. SPICER'S CATCH

[Original.]

I never approved of Mrs. Spicer's course. That I wish distinctly understood. Whether she had any private grief of her own to avenge I don't know. At any rate, she might have accomplished the same result without publicly wounding any one's feelings.

Herbert Vincent was an athlete and a good fellow with one especial weakness—he was easily led by women. But as all men are more or less weak in this respect Herbert was not blamed by his friends. Indeed, there was something amusing in the violence of his love affairs. At last, however, he settled down to two women. He was very fond of a young girl, Hazel Abbey, and in love with a widow, Mrs. Arabella Bates. Miss Abbey was too young and inexperienced to cope with Mrs. Bates, who drew the massive body of Mr. Vincent in her wake as a tug will draw a ship. Hazel would have ruined all by a display of jealousy had it not been for Mrs. Spicer, who in the ways of the world could discount the widow and give her points besides.

"You keep away from Herbert," said Mrs. Spicer, "while the fever is on him. Sooner or later it will pass away." Hazel had the good sense to take the advice, and she went away for a visit.

One evening Mrs. Spicer was chatting with Herbert at a ball. Mrs. Bates was present, and, passing the couple on the arm of a cavalier, she gave Vincent a smile that displayed a set of very white and regular teeth.

"Oh, if I had such teeth as Mrs. Bates," said Mrs. Spicer, throwing up her hands dramatically, "I'd not ask for another beauty."

"They are as white as her unblemished soul!" exclaimed Vincent.

"If I were a man and had a ladylove with such teeth, I would never rest till I had one of them for a keepsake. I'd wear it next my heart."

Vincent made no reply, but the next time he was left alone with Mrs. Bates he entered into raptures upon what he called "pearl crescents," meaning her upper and under rows of teeth, asking her to give him one little tooth from an unexposed place. The widow demurred, spoke of the dreadful pain she would suffer, the fact that the tooth would never grow again—in fact, made every excuse in reason and beyond reason—but Herbert pleaded and whined and threatened till at last he secured a promise that he should have his heart's desire. A few days later he called on Mrs. Bates and received the tooth, wrapped in a bit of white, scented tissue paper. The widow showed him the spot left vacant, whereupon he gathered her in his arms.

The next time Vincent met Mrs. Spicer, while he was leaning over to pick up her handkerchief, she caught sight of a delicate gold chain which had become entangled in the collar which had been at the back of his neck. She knew he was wearing the tooth.

Before the close of the social season Mrs. Spicer gave a cotillon party at which Mr. Vincent, Mrs. Bates and Miss Abbey were present. Mr. Vincent was somewhat troubled at the presence of the two women who held the chief place in his heart; but, as usual, the widow, by superior "push," carried the evening and secured her admirer for a partner. Miss Abbey, seeing him carried off, turned her face to the wall to hide her vexation, then faced about and accepted for a partner a meek looking young man who had asked her.

Mrs. Spicer made a list of the figures in the dance which she gave to the leader. This was one of them: A lady would place an ivory bit in the mouth of another lady and with a pair of fancy reins drive her to the gentleman with whom she was to dance the figure. A number of ladies had been thus driven when the hostess appeared before Mrs. Bates and, placing the bit between her teeth, drove her once around the room, then stopped before Mr. Herbert Vincent. Just as he was about to put his right arm about his partner Mrs. Spicer gave a terrific jerk on the reins, with a sawing motion, that nearly pulled the widow over backward. There was a shriek, and a double set of false teeth fell on the floor.

Mr. Vincent was a true cavalier. The teeth had scarcely touched the floor when he dropped his handkerchief over them, picked it up with the teeth, and before any one but himself and one or two immediate bystanders had seen what had happened he sallied away with Mrs. Bates. After once or twice circling the room he paused before the doorway and, leading his partner into the hall at the foot of the staircase, handed her the teeth, still inclosed in the handkerchief. Catching at them, she turned and hurried away to the ladies' robing room.

Herbert Vincent and Mrs. Spicer were not again on speaking terms that season. He bitterly condemned her for her ungracious act, though the lady went about with a self-satisfied air, as though she had accomplished a great feat. Vincent's next call upon Mrs. Bates was fraught with embarrassment. He was so considerate as to swear eternal devotion, but his words had a hollow sound that did not deceive the widow, who knew that the end of her reign had come. Her lover left her feeling very uncomfortable and, needing a solace for his disturbed feelings, dropped in by the way to console himself with a visit to Miss Hazel Abbey. Hazel, who had learned of the device of her friend in her own behalf, had the good sense to pretend ignorance of it and made herself very agreeable.

That's the end of the story. Mr. Vincent was landed safely in the matrimonial net held by Mrs. Spicer and the catch turned over to Miss Abbey.

"Don't Buck"

If your neighbor is prosperous let him prosper. Don't growl, grunt or grumble. Say a good word for him and let him go at that. Don't be a kicker. Your turn will come. No one is a whole show. If you see the town is moving along rapidly feel good about it. Help things along. Show a little push. Try to get some of the benefit yourself. Don't stand around like chilly cadaver and waste your time feeling sore because some fellow has more sense and success than you have. Do a little hustling yourself, and if you can say a good word for your town or its people say it like a prince. If you are full of bile and disposed to say something mean put a padlock on your mouth and keep it there till you can get a hypodermic injection of the milk of human kindness. Don't be a kicker. No man ever made a dollar kicking but a professional foot ball player. No man ever got rich minding everybody's business but his own. No man ever helped himself up permanently by kicking his neighbor down. Give others a kindly word and give it liberally and gracefully. It won't cost you a penny, and remember, you may want a good word yourself some day. You may have thousands today and tomorrow be without the price of a shave. Don't be a kicker. It doesn't pay. You can't afford it. There is nothing in it. If you want to throw something at somebody, throw cologne and don't throw mud or brickbats. If you must kick go out behind the house and kick yourself, for if you feel that way you are the man that needs kicking. Whatever you do don't allow yourself to become a chronic kicker. Don't even have an acute attack. Let everybody push together and we'll all be better and happier and live longer. Don't be a kicker.—Elizabethtown (Ky.) News.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Ferris Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's PainBalm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep, which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.
