SUPERIOR COURT.

September Term in Session.

The September term of Pitt Superior court began this morning with Judge E. B. Jones, of Winston, presiding and Solicitor L. I. Moore representing the state.

In calling over the list of jurors every man but one answered to his name and he had not been summoned. More of the business men of the town than usual were on the list, and several excuses were asked for. Two of those wanting to be excused were cotton buyers, who one of the lawyers said were needed on the street to make as much competition as possible on the price of cotton. Judge Jones told them to go push cotton to 11 cents and he would excuse them. Another who is in the horse sales business made an excuse, and was told to go and trade horses for two days and be back in court Wednesday morning. One from the country had a sick mother-in-law and was told he could go home. A very busy insurance agent was also let off, and this ended the excuses.

The grand jury as selected and sworn is composed of the following: J. C. Lanier, foreman, T. H. Williams, C. M. Tucker, B. R. Whitehurst, J. F. Cox, Henry Harris, W. H. Kilpatrick, David Stokes, Joe. V. Cox, Oscar Tucker, S. G. Forbes, C. S. Forbes, S. B. Hardee, Richard Harris, S. I. Fleming, M. L. Turnage, J. R. Flake and W. C. Hines.

W. H. Smith is officer of the grand jury and L. W. Lawrence is court crier.

The court room was crowded during the time Judge Jones delivered his charge to the grand jury, and such good attention was given that only once did the sheriff call for quiet. The people learned much of common law by listening to charges from learned judge, and they were amply repaid in following closely all that Judge Jones said.

Judge Jones said there are two kinds of crimes—those of omission and of commission—and men are alike guilty when they fail to do what the law says shall be done as they are when they do what the law says shall not be done. Then under six divisions he discussed the violations that should have the attention of the grand body of inquest. These were offences against person, offences against property, offences against peace and order, offences against public justice, offences against health, offences against public morals. These were discussed clearly and practically, now and then with emphasis.

On carrying concealed weapons he said that the man who kept the law was left at the mercy of the man who failed to keep it, and this was a violation that should be rigidly enforced. The most frequent offences were by negroes who carry razors to the parties and carve up their best friends before they leave; or the young who think it takes a pistol in one pocket, a bottle in the other and a pack of cigarettes to make them grown.

Referring to lynching Judge Jones said he had already told the grand jury what murder in the first degree was, and that is what he thinks men commit when they band together, premeditate the deed, select leaders to demand the jail keys, enter the prison, take out a human being, hang him to a limb and fill his body with lead. It is murder, and there is no excuse for it in North Carolina.

Abandonment and the double lives some men lead were referred to under offences against public morals, and the effect of these upon a community were strongly emphasized. Gambling was also given a good shaking up when he said the white man who deals in cotton futures is just as guilty as the negro who deals in craps.

Judge Jones said so many good things in his charge that we wish all of them could be referred to, but space will not permit. This is his first visit to Pitt county and at the outset he convinces the people that he is a good judge.

Mrs. Moye's Funeral.

Notwithstanding the very disagreeable weather, there was a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives in attendance upon the funeral of Mrs. E. A. Moye Sunday morning. The services were held in the Universalist church, conducted by Dr. D. B. Clayton. The pall bearers were R. C. Flanagan, J. S. Tarstall, A. H. Critcher, H. L. Coward, T. W. Skinner, J. H. Keel, J. L. Carper and L. T. Smallwood. The body was taken near Falkland for interment. Dr. Clayton will preach a memorial sermon in the Universalist church tonight.

His Night Off.

One of the attendees of the Ten Nights in a Bar Room company tried to take the whole ten nights in one after the play, Saturday night, and was not in shape to find his way to the car to get off with the troupe Sunday morning. He played his part (the bottle) too long.

Had Large Crowd.

A very large crowd gathered under the tent of the Frank E. Griswold company, Saturday night to witness "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." Some of the characters in the play were very good and the performance as a whole was much enjoyed.

Federal Court Jurors.

A term of Federal court will be held in New Bern beginning Oct. 23rd. The jurors drawn from Pitt county are Elias Dail, W. J. Fleming, L. B. Mewborne, W. H. Edwards and S. A. Stocks.

STATE NEWS.

Cleveland Holler, a young man of Hickory, used a gun to knock down apples from a tree. The weapon was accidentally discharged and the load entered his breast, killing him almost instantly.

William Hicks, of Lexington was caught between two cars which he was coupling and received injuries which caused his death.

W. A. Bethune, a Mississippi man who had fled from yellow fever and was spending a while near Aberdeen, in this state, attempted to place his gun in a boat to go hunting when the weapon was accidentally discharged and killed him.

A brick wall topped down on a Greensboro negro, completely burying him, but he came out with no injuries worse than bruises.

LETTER TO DR. R. L. CARR.

Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir: $20 difference. Two neighbors painted their houses—Devoe; lead and oil—difference $20; houses about alike.

Mr. A. H. Howard, Nelson, N. Y., is the one who painted Devoe and saved the $20; don't know the other.

A neighbor of both, Mr. J. H. Hughes, expected to use 5 gallons Devoe; took 3.

Devoe goes further, its least merit; but that amounts to half sometimes. It costs two or three times as much to paint as to buy the paint. Good reason for not painting often. Paint Devoe then.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.
P. S. H. L. Carr sells your paint.

Greensboro Life Insurance Company,
Greensboro, N. C.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed you will find a remittance for the full annual premium on my policy in your company, and with it I wish to send my congratulations upon the extraordinary record of the company during the first month of its life.

I have taken out this policy for three reasons:

1. Because I believe in the substantial business men who are backing the company.
2. Because I like the form of the Income Indemnity Policy.
3. Because I desire very much to encourage, so far as I am able to do so, the building up of strong insurance companies in North Carolina, in order that we may send less of our capital through insurance companies to build up other sections of the country instead of our own.

Very truly yours,
CHARLES D. McIVER.

We hope those New Englanders will not be trying to cripple or kill our governor with their automobiles.

As the insurance investigations in New York proceed the public gets an insight into the way large Republican campaign funds are raised.

Nan Patterson is trying matrimony again, having recently married a man whose wife she once was but from whom she was divorced. It is to be hoped he can keep her in bounds this time.

"Some of the best white men deal in cotton futures, and some of the worst negroes deal in craps. Both are alike guilty of gambling, and if I get some of them before me they will be punished alike."—Judge Jones in his charge to the grand jury.

"I can conceive of nothing more dangerous to the welfare of any community than the slanderous tongue of a man or a woman. To slander the character of a virtuous woman is one of the meanest crimes in the catalogue of crimes."—Judge Jones in his charge to the grand jury.

Southern people have been for years paying heavy insurance premiums to Northern life insurance companies, and it comes to light that these premiums have been helping to make enormous contributions to Republican campaign funds. The way to stop this misuse of the money we pay for life insurance is to patronize the home companies. North Carolina now has good life insurance companies.

Morganton and the Southern railway have had a clash, but the town came out on top, showing that it was not quite owned by the railroad. The town was putting in a system of sewerage and one of the lines had to cross under the tracks of the railroad. This was objected to by the railroad, and when the town was digging the tunnel for the pipe the railroad hands filled it up. The mayor put the railroad hands in jail and had the pipe laid.

Brain and Hand Education.

The demands of the times have, and are constantly, demonstrating that the education of the boy and girl of today must be along lines not so much in book learning, as in a manual training which shall equip the youth and make them able to cope with modern requirements, and so be capable of earning an independence in both the mental and physical world.

The equipment of today for those who would succeed in life, is one through which the brain culture shall offset the hand culture, each trained, developed and brought into a close fellowship of action.

Routine learning, which school and college may give the youth, the teaching of the purely mental, without the hand and eye receiving their rightful share of education, cannot but lead to a generation which shall fail to be self supporting, therefore become a burden upon the community.

What the youth can do is the essential thing, and the ability to do depends upon previous practical training and experience, which can be gained in the technical and manual schools.

The educational equipment of the boy and girl calls for one that gives independence, which means the ability and strength to produce, to earn a livelihood, to come into active life and assume positions of trust and character, an honor to themselves and a factor in their community's development.

The necessities of today, emphasizes the urgency of a brain and hand education, one that is co-operative, each assisting and promoting the success of the other, and if each be proportionally educated to meet the requirements of the other, there will be a balance secured which makes the gifts of each most available to the other, producing an individual, equipped to meet every requirement of the day, and meeting the world, to take from it those things which the youth most seeks, fame, wealth, high position.—New Bern Journal.

Ratio of Lint to Seed.

A well-known cotton merchant on College street stated to an Observer reporter yesterday that the ratio of the lint to the seed in the new cotton was 5 per cent. less this year than that of last. For instance, out of a thousand pounds of seed cotton, where last year 500 pounds of lint would be ginned, this year only 475 pounds of the lint could be obtained. This will mean a loss to the crop of a half million bales and is something that has not been fully reckoned with in our cotton statements.—Charlotte Observer.

Col. Bryan declares that he will remain in politics twenty-five years longer. He is losing breath, for nobody had any thought of his getting out.—Charlotte News.

Governor Glenn did the right thing when he ordered that the South Carolina requisition papers for the alleged safe crackers at Wadesboro be honored.—Charlotte News.

It is quite the correct thing for the Farmers' Congress to petition the National Congress to have election of Senators by the people, but the present Senators may see in the near distance their jobs fading away if they adopt the idea.—Wilmington Dispatch.

A South Carolina paper says that Samuel H. Fleming has in his possession a bale of cotton raised by his father in Laurens county, S. C., in 1862. He could have received 40 cents a pound in gold for it in 1865, but didn't sell, and it is presumed that he is still holding for 40 cents.—Statesville Landmark.

Some people having expressed skeptical views as to whether Mr. Roosevelt deserves the signal credit given him for making peace, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge thus clinches his right to the honor: "I am familiar with all the details, and to the President belongs the credit of the organization and of guiding the entire conference."—News and Observer.

THE SOFT ANSWER.
Amusing Instance of the Wit of Kenney, the Irish Dramatist.
The following story of Kenney, the Irish dramatist:
Kenney was once in a Brighton lodging in the days when the high price of tea made it worth purloining, and the attraction of the tea caddy for landladies was proverbial. Kenney's landlady, an Irishwoman, was no exception to the generally understood order of lodging house keepers, and accordingly day by day Kenney missed portions of tea from his stock, though the caddy had a lock, and he made a point of keeping the key—in his pocket.
As the depredations became more serious, he one day bethought him of a delicate mode of intimating that his eyes were open and wrote on a slip of paper, "Don't steal, the lodger's tea," locking it up in the caddy before he went out. On his return the dame seemed altogether beside herself with anger and, flinging open the door of his sitting room, asked him whom it was he suspected of robbing him of his "dirty tar."

Kenney had not foreseen there would be such a storm in a teacup, and as he didn't at all care to be on terms of hostility with the lady he answered meekly:
"I make a point of never suspecting anybody but the cat when anything is missed."
"Och, and ye know as well as iver I do that it isn't the cat ye mane, and there's no other livin' thing in the house!"
"Well, perhaps," suggested he, "it's one of your hens out of the yard?"
"Hens, is it, ye say? I'd like just to know if ye iver saw a hen sthaling?"
"No," was the dramatist's witty reply, "I can't say I ever did see a hen stealing, but I don't know why I shouldn't, for I have seen a cock robin."

Answering Abernethy.
Although one of the main characteristics of the famous Dr. Abernethy was the readiness with which he could administer a sharp and witty retort when occasion arose, he was once considerably nonplused by the remark of a medical student.
"What would you do," the doctor asked the student at an examination, "if a man was placed in your hands with a broken leg?"
"Set it, sir," was the reply.
"Good, very good. You are a witty young man, and doubtless you can tell me what muscles of the body I would move if I were to kick you, as you deserve, for your impertinence?"
"You would put into motion," replied the student, not in the least abashed, "the flexors and extensors of my right arm, for I would forthwith knock you down."

Jesse Grant and the Queen.
When General Grant was in London on his trip around the world he was invited to Windsor castle by Queen Victoria, says the Saturday Evening Post. The queen received the party in one of the private audience chambers and chatted with General Grant for a few moments before dinner was served.
Jesse Grant, then a small boy, was with the general and stood just behind him. As the general was talking Jesse pulled in patiently at his coat tails a number of times. Finally the general turned halfway, and Jesse whispered, "Pa, can't I be introduced?"
"Your majesty," said the general, "I should like to present my son, Master Jesse."
The queen took Jesse's hand cordially, and that young man, thinking it incumbent on him to say something, glanced approvingly around the room and said, "Fine house you have here, ma'am."

Little Harold's Plea.
Little Harold had been told, says a writer in the Chicago Clinic, that the Lord will heal in answer to prayer. Soon after in the course of a thunderstorm Harold suffered from a jumping toothache, and his mother overheard him say:
"O Lord, stop my toothache!"
After a few seconds' silence he continued, "O Lord, please do, for heaven's sake, stop my toothache!"
There was silence for another short interval, followed by a crash of thunder. When the rumbling ceased Harold was heard to groan and plead:
"O Lord, please do stop the durn thund' long enough to listen to me!"

Wyoming's Natural Bridge.
There is a great and little known natural bridge twenty miles southwest of Douglass, Wyo., where La Piele creek breaks through the foothills of the Laramie mountains. In the span of its arch it is said to be the greatest in the world. It is 180 feet wide and 75 feet above the water. The stream flows through a canyon nearly 1,000 feet deep. The bridge is a ledge of rock near the bottom of the canyon. Doubtless once the water flowed over the ledge, but in process of time found softer material below and wore its way through, making the bridge.

HIS SCHEME A BOOMERANG.
It Came Back and Brought Trouble and Mr. Green With It.
"When I was new in the business," said the dentist, "I resorted to a good deal of freak advertising. My pet scheme was to send bills to people whom I pretended to have treated. All these people were total strangers. I simply selected their names from the directory and sent them bills for sums ranging from $5 to $50. Of course I never got any money—I didn't expect any—but I got plenty of advertising, which was what I was after. Usually the people that got the bills were hopping mad, and a large percentage of them came down to the office and demanded an explanation. During those interviews I put on my nicest professional manners, apologized for the mistake through which they had been bothered by a bill meant for somebody else, and not infrequently the affair ended by my securing a patron.
"But one day I met my match. I had sent a bill for $15 to a man named H. S. Green for services rendered to his wife. Green and his wife came down together. He did most of the talking, but she had a glint in her eye that told me she was capable of butting in if occasion demanded it.
"I received your bill this morning," said Green, "but I refuse to pay it on the ground that the work you did for my wife was not satisfactory."
"That attack took the wind right out of my sails. I was thrown completely off my guard. The work I did for your wife?" I exclaimed. "Why, good heavens, man, I never saw your wife in my life!"
"Green waved the bill right under my nose. 'Fifteen dollars for services rendered,' he said significantly. 'But I don't wonder that you are trying to crawlish. It is an atrocious piece of work. But you can't get out of it. Here is your bill to prove that you are responsible for her condition. Will you kindly make an examination and see if you can't fix her up? If you don't I'll be tempted to sue you for malpractice.'
"Well, I saw that I was in a tight place. Green knew as well as I did that I had never set eyes on his wife until that morning, yet he meant business, and as my little advertising scheme would not bear exposure just then I was forced to knuckle under. His wife really had suffered at the hands of a woefully incompetent dentist. It took me a week to get her mouth into shape. I must have done at least $60 worth of work before I got through, yet there was that confounded bill for $15 staring me in the face, and the only thing I could do was to accept that paltry sum in payment and call the deal square."—New York Press.

His Only Magic.
The old story of the Irishman who, when he was asked how he played upon the fiddle, answered, "Be main strength, be jabbers!" is outdone by the answer of a celebrated violinist to a lady who asked him the same question.
"Oh, signor!" exclaimed the fashionably dressed lady, with a gushing air. "By what magic do you evoke such divine strains from your violin?"
"I have no magic, madam," answered the musician bluntly. "I have nothing but the bow and my hand."

Artificial Snow.
A curious instance of the formation of snow was witnessed at Agen, France. A fire broke out in a saw-mill when the temperature was 10 degrees below the freezing point. The water thrown upon it was instantly vaporized and, rising into the cold, dry air, was immediately condensed and fell as snow. What with bright starlight and a strong northwest wind blowing, the whirling snow above and the raging fire below, a brilliant spectacle was presented.

The Spider.
The spider has a tremendous appetite, and his gormandizing defies all human competition. A scientist who carefully noted a spider's consumption of food in twenty-four hours concluded that if the spider were built proportionately to the human scale he would eat at day-break, approximately, a small alligator, by 7 a. m. a lamb, by 9 a. m. a young camelopard, by 1 o'clock a sheep and would finish up with a lark pie in which there were 120 birds.

The Secret of Good Coffee
Even the best housekeepers cannot make a good cup of coffee without good material. Dirty, adulterated and queerly blended coffee such as unscrupulous dealers shovel over their counters won't do. But take the pure, clean, natural flavored LION COFFEE, the leader of all package coffees—the coffee that for over a quarter of a century has been daily welcomed in millions of homes—and you will make a drink fit for a king in this way:
HOW TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE.
Use the LION COFFEE, because to get best results you must use the best coffee. Grind your LION COFFEE rather fine. Use 1/2 tablespoonful to each cup, and one extra for the pot. First mix it with a little cold water, enough to make a thick paste, and add white of an egg (if egg is to be used as a settler), then follow one of the following rules:
1st. WITH BOILING WATER. Add boiling water, and let it boil THREE MINUTES. Serve promptly.
2d. WITH COLD WATER. Add your cold water to the paste and bring it to a boil. Then set aside, add a little cold water, and in five minutes it's ready to serve.
3. (Don't boil it too long. (Don't let it stand more than ten minutes before serving. (Don't use water that has been boiled before.)
TWO WAYS TO SETTLE COFFEE.
1st. With Eggs. Use part of the white of an egg, mixing it with the ground LION COFFEE before boiling.
2d. With Cold Water instead of eggs. After boiling add a dash of cold water, and set aside for eight or ten minutes, then serve through a strainer.
Insist on getting a package of genuine LION COFFEE, prepare it according to this recipe and you will only use LION COFFEE in future. (Sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages.) (Lion-head on every package.) (Save these Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)
