HOW MY BOY WENT DOWN.

It was not on the field of battle,
It was not with a ship at sea,
But a fate worse than either
That stole him away from me.
'Twas the death of the tempting wine-cup
That reason and senses drown;
He drank the lulling poison,
And thus my boy went down.

Down from the heights of manhood
To the depths of disgrace and sin;
Down to a worthless being,
From the hope of what might have been,
From the brand of a beast besotted
He bantered his manhood crown;
Through the gate of sinful pleasure
My poor, weak boy went down.

'Tis the same old story
That mothers so often tell,
With accent of infinite sadness,
Like the tones of a funeral bell;
But I never thought, once, when I heard it,
I should learn all its meaning myself;
Thought he'd be true to his mother,
I thought he'd be true to himself.

But alas! for my hopes all delusion!
Alas! for his youthful pride!
Alas! who are safe when danger
Is open on every side?
Oh, can nothing destroy this great evil?
No bar in its pathway be thrown,
To save from the terrible malestrom
The thousands of boys going down?

The Women in Country Homes Deserve a Better Showing.

Women in the country do not leave the home and the children half enough. Nobody else lives so narrow and bleak a life as the wife of the average farmer. There are exceptions, to be sure, but these only prove the rule. The insane asylums tell the tale. More farmers' wives fly off into the darkness of insanity than any other class. This ought not to be so. It would not be so if a little more light were let into the lives of these martyrs to their households. The trouble is not that the labor is so heavy and hard, but it is the weary monotony, the ceaseless grind and unending care that dethrone the reason and too often wreck the health of these faithful and uncomplaining women.

A little break now and then in this dreary and desolate monotony would serve to brace the nerves and lighten the load. An evening each week spent in the company of other toilers, and a pleasant interchange of experiences would work wonders in the lives of these women. We rejoice to hear of the formation of a book club, for instance, in a country community, or a missionary society, or a "salmagundi," or anything in the world that serves to change the current of a weary woman's life; and shame be to the man who would say them nay, or grumble at a cold supper, or talk about neglected children, when his wife is gathering strength for her task all too heavy at best.—Charity and Children.

Again Remembered.

Big hearted Jimmie Ruess again remembered The Reflector force Saturday evening in the way of a big treat of pies. It was just at a time when we were winding up the week's work, and they tasted better at that time than any other. We tender him our sincere thanks and wish for him and his bakery continued success.

Mrs. Spier was a faithful member of the Missionary Baptist church and was loved by every one that knew her. The community is stricken with sadness and grief at the loss of such a noble and good woman.

She was twice married and is survived by three children of the first marriage and two of the last. These are Mr. John Dixon, of Robersonville; Mr. E. S. Dixon, of Greenville township; Mrs. G. T. House, of Bethel township; Mrs. W. H. Bagwell, of Greenville and Mr. M. T. Spier, of Pactolus.

Man an Accident.

The great majority of men are accidents. I mean that they are creatures of circumstances and victims of environment. How small indeed must be the number who set out in life at an early age to become this, that or t'other and are now switched off the track with just a little incident. Some of us are switched off early and some late; nay, some too late. I do not believe it advisable for a man to change his occupation after he is forty five. Yet many men do make a change, and for the better, even after fifty or fifty-five. A man should be settled down at about thirty three. At that age he is old enough to have some sense, and should know pretty well his bent and capabilities. Most of us, however, are the straws of every wind that blows.—New York Press.

National Bank.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE.

Day of Joy With the Baptist.

Sunday was a day of gladness and devotional inspiration for the Baptists of this community and the many friends who worshipped with them in the anniversary exercises of Memorial Baptist church. The day was bright and beautiful, in itself an incentive to praise, and the appropriate exercises of the anniversary exercises harmonized delightfully with such a day.

The Sunday school was the first service of the day, and the attendance there was large and the interesting lesson on the two foundations—elected by the wise man and the foolish man on which to build—were well applied with admonitions to right living and to be doers and not hearers only of the words of Jesus.

The anniversary exercises were in accordance with the program previously published. Dr. J. D. Hufham, the grand old man whom everybody loves, delivered the historical address and it was almost like the voice of inspiration—his words were so earnest, so interesting, so uplifting. He began with a reference to his love for every spot in North Carolina and especially this eastern section, and expressed his delight at being present and able to take part in this service. Then going back to the days of the pioneers and early settlers, he told how the Baptists came in and planted churches here and there, their advocacy of religious liberty, and belief in individual priesthood and universal brotherhood giving them great favor with the people. The Baptists, he said, acknowledged the superiority of no man as able to pronounce curses or blessings upon the individual, but every believer in Christ is a priest in himself free to approach God at will and commune with Him. Then, too, he said, the Baptists recognize in every believer in Christ, of whatever name, a brother and strike hands with him in carrying on God's work.

Coming nearer home Dr. Hufham told much of the early history of Greenville, how the town was first located a few miles distant from the present seat and was called Martinsboro in honor of Governor Martin; and later the town moved up on the bank of Tar river and the name changed to Greenville. He told of the establishing of the church here in 1827, and the organization of the Baptist State Convention here three years later, in 1830.

Greenville, he said, was then the most accessible point between Raleigh and Elizabeth City, hence this place was selected for the meeting of those interested in the movement. So you see what honor rests upon the Greenville church. But for the existence of a church here it is possible that the convention would not have been organized.

Dr. Hufham also made brief mention of early pastors of the church here and their labors, and turning to the present beloved pastor said "you have followed a line of noble succession and I know you will do nobly in carrying on the great work here." Then looking over the large congregation, with tremulous voice he spoke of those dear friends he had known here in years long gone, who have passed on to the better world. He missed them, and tears welled into many eyes as he called names of some of these faithful saints and told of their virtues.

Dr. Hufham said that Greenville had also been very dear to him even outside of the church. In this connection he referred especially to the late Dr. O'Hagan and paid a beautiful tribute to his memory.

The entire address was most interesting and appreciated by every hearer. Rev. J. E. Ayscue followed in a few remarks, thanking Dr. Hufham for his admirable address and urging his church to live up to the principles that had distinguished the Baptists and marked their growth as a church. At night Mr. Ayscue delivered an excellent sermon on "Light and Life," that delighted the large congregation.

The music feature of the anniversary was superb, the choir being in excellent condition and rendering every selection faultlessly. The solos at the morning service by Mrs. Nana Brown and evening service by Miss Janie Tyson were exceptionally charming, and the anthems by the full choir and special selections by the male voice- came in for their share of admiration.

The entire services of the day were truly delightful and will prove helpful to the community in welding the spirit of Christian brotherhood among the people. While this is the first anniversary the Memorial Baptist church has held, we hope it will be followed each year by such an inspiring service.

COTTON ASSOCIATION.

Adopts Resolution of Surprise—Date for Meetings Changed.

The Pitt County Division of the Southern Cotton Association held its regular monthly meeting in the court house here today, April 2nd.

The meeting was called to order by J. J. Laughinghouse, both the president and vice president being absent. The usual routine of business was transacted. The president R. R. Cotten, came in shortly after the meeting was called to order, having been delayed by an accident on the road while on his way from home.

It was decided by the association to hold only quarterly meetings of the county organization after this one, and the next date of meeting was set for the second Saturday in July at 2 o'clock p. m. in the court house. The meetings have been held heretofore on Mondays, so as to make it convenient for the merchants in Greenville and surrounding towns to attend. The change to Saturday was made and the following resolution passed by unanimous vote:

"Be it resolved by the Pitt County Division of the Southern Cotton Association, that the merchants and professional men of Pitt county are not giving the association the support and co-operation it has a right to expect, and we hereby express our surprise and Singular or Plural?

A discussion starts up somewhere every now and then as to whether the "United States" as a nominative requires a singular or a plural verb. The late David Dudley Field, one of the ablest scholars and constitutional lawyers of his time, said that the use of a singular verb with United States not only violates a rudimentary rule of syntax, but misrepresents the fundamental principle on which our national system is founded. The Union is one, and the United States government is one, but the United States are several. Therefore we should say, "The United States are not at war with any nation," not "is not at war." The distinction may seem a fine one, but most of the best scholars say that it should be made.

How They Crossed.

A father and his two sons wish to cross a river, which it is impossible to do without a boat. They have a boat which will carry only sixteen stone (224 pounds), but the father weighs sixteen stone, and each of the sons weighs eight stone. Yet in less than half an hour they are all across the river. How do they manage it?

The riddle is an old one, but a new answer, offered by an English paper, is more ingenious than the trick solutions that the reader probably remembers. Here it is:

The two sons cross in the boat. One goes back to the father. The father then crosses. The other son goes back again with the boat, and then the two sons cross together.

Tobacco injures Boys.

General Baden-Powell, writing to a Bolton schoolboy, says he believes that "smoking by fellows who are still growing does them an infinite amount of harm, and those who are sensible don't take up smoking until after they are twenty years of age or so. Fellows who smoke before that age generally turn out rotters afterward. They only do it because they think it looks swagger and manly to smoke, but any man who has done any scouting or big game hunting knows that they are fools."

CONDENSED STORIES.

The Professor Was Not Interested in the Measure.

For some time George Dexter Clark, former chairman of the Republican city committee, has been greatly deceived by the resemblance which Professor C. D. Hazen of Smith college bears to Representative Winslow H. Edwards of Easthampton. His confusion of the two led to many amusing interviews, in which Professor Hazen was asked his opinion on political matters. His replies were often along other lines than those expected by Clark.

"HOW ABOUT THAT LIQUOR BILL?"

Matters culminated on a train to Springfield a short time ago, when Mr. Clark and Professor Hazen occupied seats opposite each other. Raising his voice so that it could be heard above the roar of the train, Mr. Clark yelled, "How about that liquor bill?"

"What liquor bill?" demanded the astonished professor. "I know nothing about any liquor bill."

"Why, of course you know," persisted Mr. Clark. "You introduced it into the house."

"Introduced nothing!" said Dr. Hazen.

"Aren't you Representative Edwards?" asked Mr. Clark.

"No."

"Oh!"—Boston Herald.

There is nothing worse than an offensive breath. It comes from bad stomach and liver. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea cures all liver disorders and perfumes the breath. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets.

The best way to rid the system of a cold is to evacuate the bowels. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar acts as a pleasant, yet effectual cathartic on the bowels. It clears the head, cuts the phlegm out of the throat, strengthens the bronchial tubes, relieves coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough etc. Sold by John L. Wooten.

The most healthful, upbuilding medicine known to science; gently soothes the liver and nerves, makes digestion easy, brings to all the sweet sleep of youth. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents.

If you are troubled with Piles and can't find a cure, try Witch Hazel Salve but be sure you get that made by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. It is the Original. If you have used Witch Hazel Salve without being relieved it is probable that you got hold of one of the many worthless counterfeits that are sold on the reputation of the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for Coughs and Colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Coughs, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Don't frown—look pleasant. If you are suffering from indigestion or sour stomach, take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Hon. J. W. Moore, of Atlanta, Ga. says: "I suffered more than 20 years with indigestion. A friend recommended Kodol. It relieved me in one day and I now enjoy better health than for many years. 'Kodol digests what you eat, relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach, belching, etc. Sold by John L. Wooten."

Old Shoes.

"There are hundreds of men in New York city," said a salesman in a downtown shoe store, "who are indirectly adding to the income of the corporations controlling the shoe business. A man wearing an old pair of shoes, sometimes only half worn, purchases a new pair and leaves his old ones here. Gradually others accumulate, and in time there are, say, a hundred pairs. These are placed in pasteboard boxes, wrapped and tied. About once a month a dealer in secondhand footgear comes along, bids on the lot and gets it. In this way the company profits during the course of a year some hundreds of dollars. Of course, the secondhand man 'gets stuck' once in awhile, but most of them also realize a profit by selling the shoes again after they have been repaired and polished."—New York

What Dr. Carter Sought.

The eminent lecturer, Dr. L. Carter, self made and not wholly unconscious of the fact, was addressing the Somerville Y. M. C. A.

"My dear young people," he began, "let me refer briefly to the humble auspices under which my start in life was made. Without a dollar in my pocket and with no worldly possessions of consequence, my indomitable nature and an in-born determination to utilize to the fullest advantage my abilities constituted my entire assets. But even with this modest beginning what do you suppose was the first thing I sought—that which at the very outset of my career I strove most earnestly to attain?"

For one second an awestricken silence fell over the audience as the speaker paused to allow the significance of these impressive words to permeate the youthful understanding. Then in a spontaneous outburst of juvenile enthusiasm came the answer as of one voice, "Milk!"

WATCH THE SENATE.

The Rail and Insurance Trust Active to Control It.

Farmers of North Carolina:—There is no grander work than the upbuilding of rural life to its true dignity, usefulness and prosperity. Let the present false order of things end. Let not your industries be taxed to death in order that great fortunes shall be built up for other people. Demand of your Legislature that your industries shall be treated as others, equal as to benefits and equal as to burdens. To do this you have got to be more careful who represents you in the Senate branch of your Legislature. One term to service in the House has taught me that there is not any use of sending men representing the manufacturing, the agricultural and commercial interests to frame good laws, to be killed in the Senate by lawyers nominated and elected by railroad and corporation influence. If we desire a reduction of freight and passenger rates that our net earnings may be increased, we must see that some one else represents us in the Senate besides railroad attorneys or that class of attorneys that will accept a fee to look after railroad interests after they are elected. A fee of this kind should be called a bribe. Your last Senate was composed of 27 attorneys and 23 members representing all other professions. Why should the agricultural, manufacturing and commercial interests, representing 99 per cent. of our population, let the lawyers representing one per cent. of our population, control the Legislature of our State? Not a law could be enacted in our last Legislature unless it met the approval of the lawyer Senate.

A law has just been passed in Ohio and Virginia reducing passenger fare to two cents per mile. The Legislatures of those States did not have a majority of a class representing less than one per cent. in their Senate. In the House branch of your last North Carolina Legislature a bill was introduced to make the passenger rate 2 1-2 cents per mile and it passed the House by 74 for, 31 against; over two to one, but was killed by a unanimously unfavorable report by the railroad and corporation committee of the Senate. I believe every member of that committee was a railroad attorney. Here ought to be an object lesson to all. A bill passed the House three-fourths of whose members represent the great agricultural, manufacturing and commercial classes, comprising 99 per cent. of our population, by a vote of over two to one. When it gets to the Senate it is killed in the committee room.

The average railroad attorney or that class that will take a bribe and call it a fee, will say that it is all prejudice on the part of this writer, but it is not true. I consider the profession of law a most honorable one, and some of my most valued friends are among the profession. They are men who practice law on a high plane. When they know their client is guilty will go no further than to hold the State to a strict proof of his guilt, that will not make himself an accomplice in perjury and bribery—remembering always that his character has not been bought by his client. This represents the true lawyer. Now for the other kind, and I believe they are greatly in the majority. The lawyer that will pervert the truth, foment discord, tamper with witnesses and bribe jurors, knowingly mislead the judge, knowingly use false testimony and make himself a party to the crime. Principle with this class are things to use, to trade on and desert. Truth, honor and patriotism are so many stage habits which he may or may not assume, as occasion requires. There is a much larger part of the latter class now than there was 30 or 40 years ago. It is the latter class that a prominent Southern railroad official is credited with saying that "we must control the Senate. We prefer to elect our own attorneys, but we must have attorneys for a certain part of them can be made railroad attorneys after they are elected d—d quick."

J. J. LAUGHINGHOUSE,
Greenville, N. C., March 31.

The foregoing letter from Mr. J. J. Laughinghouse, of this town, appeared in the Sunday issue of the Raleigh News and Observer. It is in line with an editorial that appeared in The Reflector a few days ago, and the letter also drew forth a strong editorial in the News and Observer warning the people against the danger of electing corporation lawyers to our legislative bodies. The people cannot be appealed to too strongly along this line, as there was never a time in the history of our State and Nation when this danger was greater. The trusts, the railroads, the great insurance companies and large corporations generally are using every effort to control our legislative bodies, and they can readily accomplish this through their lawyers and employes being elected to seats in these bodies. The people can check this if they will.

With the Best Intention.

Quite lately a workingman of the best type, having been laid up in a London hospital with an illness which needed incessant care, was at last nursed into convalescence. Gratitude to the kind lady who had tended him beamed on his honest face as he wished her farewell with untutored cordiality:

"Goodby, Miss Nurse, and thank you heartily. If there ever was a fallen angel on this earth it's you." An old Balliol friend to whom I have told this anecdote caps it with an experience of Charles (afterward Lord) Bowen, whom we both knew well. Bowen when at Oxford went to a tobacconist's shop to order a peculiar kind of tobacco. As the woman in the shop did not understand the order, he explained that her husband would understand it perfectly. "My husband, sir, is above."

Bowen said, "Surely you can call him down."
"No, sir; he is in heaven."—London Saturday Review.

EASTER

IS Approaching.

-E-A-S-T-E-R-

C-L-O-T-H-E-S

Every man and boy of taste desires to be well dressed upon EASTER above all days of the year. And to every such man, well fitting clothes add much to his general appearance. No Clothes made to day are so popular as the "GRIFFON BRAND" with men of recognized taste in matters of dress. The Styles are here, the Prices are here. Our Suits at $12.50, $15.00, $18.00, $20.00 and $22.00 have that air of superiority that suggests custom made. There's the same good values to be found in the Boys Department.

Methods of the Mole.

In burrowing his tunnels the mole seems to swim through the earth rather than to dig his way. Although much of the earth is never removed from the runs, but is beaten hard into the walls and floor of the tunnel, the creature finds it more expeditious in busy times to clear the runs of loose earth. This he does at a point where the run comes to the surface by pushing the earth before him with his flat forehead and face. Sometimes where the earth binds easily he pushes out the mold in solid round plugs, showing the exact dimensions of the orifice through which they have been thrust. When the mole is hunting or traveling underground he has no need to throw up the earth. This is a subsequent operation for the purpose of cleaning the runs for regular use.

Unfortunate.

A certain merchant of Baltimore, who is well known for his philanthropic spirit, was approached one day by an Irishman, formerly in his employ, who made a touching appeal for financial assistance. Said he:

"I trust, sor, that ye'll find it convenient to help a poor man whose house an' everything in it burned down last week, sor."

The merchant, although he gives with a free hand, exercises considerable caution in his philanthropy, so he asked:

"Have you any papers or certificates to show that you have lost everything by fire, as you say?"

The Irishman scratched his head as if bewildered. Finally he replied: "I did have a certificate to that effect, sor, signed before a notary, but unfortunately, sor, it was burned up with the rest of me effects!"

A Broad Hint.

A laborer was recently engaged in a railway yard in the east. He was set to carry some heavy planks. After a couple of hours' work he went to the foreman and said, "Did I tell ye me name when I started?" "Ah, mon, ye did. Ye said it wor Tamson." "Oh, that's a' richt, then," replied the man wearily. "Ah was wunnerin' if ye thoct Ah said it wor Samson."

A Test of Sanity.

Some visitors were being shown over a pauper lunatic asylum. They inquired of their conductor what method was employed to discover when the inmates were sufficiently recovered to leave. "We have a big trough of water," said the conductor, "and we turns on the tap. We leaves it running and tells 'em to bale out the water with pails until they've emptied the troughs." "How does that prove, then?" asked one of the visitors. "Well," said the conductor, "them as ain't idiots turns off the tap."

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Game of Telegrams Is Interesting and Instructive.

Each person is furnished with a pencil and a pad of paper, and a player, chosen by lot for the purpose, names ten letters of the alphabet, which are at once written at the top of each sheet of paper in the order in which the player gives them.

Each player is then asked to write a telegram of ten words, which must begin with the letters at the top of the sheet in regular order. A certain time is given for the writing, and then the papers are handed in to be read. A vote may be taken to decide which is the best, or a judge appointed for the purpose may make the decision, and the prize is awarded accordingly.

For example, take the letters T, E, L, E, G, R, A, P, H, S, out of which the following telegrams may be made:

"Thoroughly enjoying life. Everywhere good roads. Automobile proved howling success."

"Theresa entertained Lena Edwards. Great rejoicing among people here—S."

Curious Jail.

The most curious prison in the world is in the island of Sark, a little spot in the home dominion of England. They have very good folk in Sark, and crime is so infrequent that an "open door jail" is the only penal institution in the place. There are very few arrests. The most recent was of a woman accused of stealing handkerchiefs.

She was placed in jail, and all of the sympathizing women of the island sat around the door and told her stories to pass away the time. The next morning she walked out to the magistrate's house and asked whether he would release her if she promised to be good and not steal any more handkerchiefs. He said she might go and formally released her in his capacity as warder. As constable also he offered no obstacle to her immediate departure.

This insular Pooh Bah, in fact, is as much of a curiosity as the jail.

The Opium Poppy.

Opium, from which morphia is obtained, is extracted from the milky juice of the opium poppy. The juice is obtained by making slight incisions in the capsule while in a green but full grown state. The juice soon hardens and is scraped off and formed into balls. The seeds are free of narcotic qualities and may be eaten. The plant has become naturalized in almost all temperate and subtropical climes and attains a height of from three to four feet. The various colored flowers which are borne appear in July. In endeavoring to prevent the use of opium the government of China in 1839 destroyed a great quantity, the property of British merchants, which led to the first war between these two great countries, resulting in the opening of that great empire to the trade and commerce of the world.

Making Love in Tibet.

Courtship as conducted in Tibet would scarcely arouse the enthusiasm of the modern minded maid. Bargaining between the suitor and the father of the girl goes on for weeks without any reference to the wishes of the woman. The requisite price having been paid, she is led to the house of her husband, where she is subjected to a severe beating in order properly to humble her spirit and made to run around the village loudly proclaiming the merits and valor of her husband.

Now They Don't Speak.

Miss Screech—He said something to you about my singing last night, didn't he?

Miss Peppery—Well, he did remark how funny the corners of your mouth looked when you sang.

Miss Screech—The idea! How could he have seen them?

Miss Peppery—Why not? He was sitting directly behind you while you sang.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Armies of Caterpillars.

Of the plague of caterpillars that overran the Scottish lowlands in 1885 a naturalist writes: "The caterpillars marched in armies straight ahead, and the consequence was that when they encountered 'sheep drains,' which are open drains about eighteen inches deep and eighteen inches wide at the top, they tumbled into them in such numbers that their dead bodies dammed up the water, and they might have been taken out in barrow loads."
