CAROLINA FOURTH.

Tar Heel Baptists Moving Upward.

Rev. Livingston Johnson returned yesterday afternoon from the Southern Baptist convention, which closed its session at Chattanooga, Tennessee, Monday night. In speaking of the convention Mr. Johnson said it was the largest he has ever attended. There were over two thousand delegates enrolled, and fifteen hundred visitors who were not delegates, making the whole number in attendance between three and four thousand.

Mr. Johnson said:

"There were more from North Carolina than for many years. The reports of the boards were the finest ever made; $315,000 for foreign missions and a large number of converts this year than in any previous year. The home board reported $167,000, and four thousand more baptisms this year than last. There is a twenty thousand dollar debt on the foreign board, but the home board reported no debt. The debt on the foreign board was brought about by enlargement. A number of new missionaries were sent out last year, in answer to urgent calls for more workers. No retrenchment will be made because of this indebtedness. On the other hand the board was ordered to increase its operations by twenty-five per cent. Foreign missions evoked great interest. Fourteen new missionaries are under appointment, and twenty-eight others expressed themselves as ready to go as soon as the way opens. The greatest meeting was on Sunday afternoon, when the subject of "Evangelism" was being discussed. A Committee on Evangelism brought in a report, recommending that the home board secure the services of one man, or more, if thought best, to hold evangelistic meetings where they are most needed in the South. There was considerable opposition at first, but the meeting Sunday afternoon, removed practically all this from the minds of those who understood the way in which this work is to be carried on. Perhaps a meeting of such spiritual power as that of Sunday afternoon, was never known in the history of the convention. It was keyed up to the high, the all-important work of "soul saving," and addresses of unusual power were made by George W. Truett and J. B. Gambrel, of Texas; F. C. McConnell, of Kansas City, and Len G. Bronghton, of Atlanta.

North Carolina's Part.

"It is gratifying to North Carolinians to know that our State has gone up from seventh to fourth in the list of States in contributions to foreign missions. But she has made a richer contribution in men and women. The greatest preacher in the country, George W. Truett, was born in North Carolina, and many of the leading preachers in other States are from North Carolina. J. F. Love, assistant secretary of the Home Board, is from North Carolina. When it became necessary to elect a president of the Women's Missionary Union, auxiliary to the Southern Baptist convention, all eyes turned

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

James Leach, of Raleigh, fell dead in his home while dressing for breakfast.

In a row between laborers at the camp of the Southern & Western railway company, near Mariou, one man was killed and three others seriously wounded.

A colored man in Edgecombe county while using a stretching machine in putting up a wire fence, was instantly killed by a piece of the machinery striking him.

Policeman Boney, of Wallace, shot and killed a desperate negro in self defense. The officer went to arrest the negro, who was an ex-convict, and the latter began snapping a pistol at him, when the officer shot the negro dead.

The town of Kinston and the Western Union Telegraph Company are at outs over the question of removing poles from the principal business street. For failure to comply with an ordinance ordering removal of the poles the telegraph company has been indicted by the town.

Fun and Serial Stories.

An admirer of The Reflector writing from "Kow Swamp," wherever that is, and signing a name other than his own, though we think the "ear marks" are detected, says he "wood lak it more if it wood print sum serial stories and sum fun." Well, here's a bit of fun right here printing what he says, and as he threatens to "role long ergin" may be there will be some more fun from the same quarter. As to the "serial stories," the campaign nominating for office letters supply that deficiency right well along now, as another chapter may be looked for any day.

But to be serious, The Reflector has actually had it in mind to try a cereal story and may try our readers with something of that sort after awhile.

Light on Tarboro Mystery.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 15.—William T. Spait, auditor of the Carl Hagenbeck circus, was arrested here last night, charged with theft of $30,000 from the ticket wagon of the Forepaugh-Sells show in October, 1904, while he was treasurer of that enterprise. The robbery, it is alleged, occurred at Tarboro, N. C. The arrest was made by Sheriff Korb and Deputy Phelan, of Columbus. Spait was seized while at work in the ticket wagon, handcuffed, hustled into a waiting automobile and taken to a railroad station 30 miles away. From there he was taken to Columbus. Extradition papers have been prepared and he will be taken to North Carolina for trial.

Miss Fannie E. S. Heck, of Raleigh.

The next convention goes to Richmond, but Greensboro made a plucky fight for it and will get it some day before long.—Raleigh News and Observer.

MEETING AT GRIFTON.

Other Items Around that Town.

Grifton, N. C. May 17, 1906.

I don't know how it is with the other offices that have rural carriers, but Grifton can boast of as good a set of them as any in the United States. In fact they are second to none. They are full of fun, and sometimes they explode and keep us all in good humor, carrier No. 1 particularly. You would smile if you could hear him tell about his pa distributing watermelon seed that came out of a 175 pound watermelon. That is as far as I can go, you will have to get him to tell how he raised them.

Rev. J. B. Jones, of Wilson, commenced a series of meetings at the Disciple church in this place Monday night and his opening subject was, for each one, saint and sinner, to examine themselves, and see where the rotten places were, and to take the Savior for their standard to measure themselves by and not any human being whatever, as human nature is so frail that if we were to make that for our standard we would find that our idol would be lacking in the essentials so necessary for a good pattern.

Ground was broken Tuesday for a fine building to be erected for Jno. R. Harvey, one of our successful business men of the firm of J. R. Harvey & Co.

R. L. Blow, of Granger, was in Grifton to attend the meeting conducted by Rev. Mr. Jones, who is getting his coal and fire in the forge preparatory to take a welding heat upon "sin and its punishment." Wednesday night, as announced Tuesday night, his text was an "Increase of Faith." He set out his stakes. "Faith in God Bible and humanity," which was handled in a very instructive manner. He shewed we sinners how to get faith and increase it, and also how a great many of us lose it, by reading trashy novels and works of the "Infidel" meaning "I fidel." He told the congregation that no matter what the infidel thought or believed it made no difference with God's plan of salvation, for all those who believe and put their trust in "Jesus Christ" the Son of the "living God," and when eternity looks upon the infidel's vision they will find that it is everlastingly too late! too late!! too late!!! Brother Jones has that soul winning way, which persuades men to believe that he is "Christ like" in loving to save souls by showing sinners the straight and narrow way that leads on to glory and to God.

Pleasant call from Dr. Wm. Cobb Whitfield today. The doctor is looking the picture of good health and jovial as he always is. We are proud to say Capt. W. J. Pope is much improved, but still weak. Hope he will entirely recover his health and strength.

Congressional Convention.

We have seen no official announcement of it yet, but learn from a private source that the congressional convention for this district will be held in Elizabeth City on June 28th.

What the Hen Does.

We are frequently—too frequently—told of the great things men do; how they dig into the earth or build upon the earth or dam up the waters and irrigate the earth, but the great enterprises of which we boast so much sink into insignificance when compared to the records achieved by the ordinary hen.

The cackle of the hen that has laid an egg is modest and unobtrusive compared with man's noisy bluster about their business.

But in comparison to the noise made, the hen has the far more genuine substance.

In two months she lays more value than the annual production of all the gold mines of the United States.

Every three months she produces more than the year's production of pig iron.

Her eggs for six months are worth more wealth than the capital stock of all the banks in New York clearing house.

In less than two years she could pay off the national debt.

The annual report of the secretary of agriculture shows that last year the eggs of the United States were worth more than the cotton or the wheat, more than all the potatoes the barley, the tobacco, the sugar cane and the rice. They practically equal the dairy produce and are surpassed by the corn crop of a bumper year.

And the hen made a new record last week. On one day there were received in New York over 40,000 cases containing 15,125,000 eggs.

The hens business for one day in one city amounted to $250,000.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

How to Perform the Penetrative Quarter Trick.

To perform this trick you must have a handkerchief with a quarter sewed up in one corner of it. Take your handkerchief out of your pocket and ask some person in the company to lend you a quarter, which you must seem carefully to wrap up in the handkerchief, but at the same time keep the quarter in the palm of your hand, and in its stead wrap the corner in which the coin is sewed into the middle of the handkerchief and bid the person who loaned you the coin to feel that his money is there. Lay the handkerchief under a hat upon the table, take a glass or teacup in the hand that holds the quarter, place it under the table, under which knock three times, saying: "Presto! Come quickly!" Then let the quarter drop from your hand into the glass. Take the handkerchief by the corner that holds the sewed in coin and shake it, and, the coin not being there, it will appear to have passed through the table into the glass or teacup.

THE SHAPE OF THE SUN.

Professor C. L. Poor as the result of careful study of heliometer measurements confirmed by that of solar photographs makes the remarkable suggestion that the sun periodically changes its figure, being sometimes an oblate spheroid, like the earth, with its equatorial diameter exceeding the polar and sometimes a prolate spheroid, having a greater polar than equatorial diameter. His idea is that the solar globe is to be regarded as a vibrating body, having an equatorial diameter on the average slightly in excess of the polar, but changing at certain times so that the ratio of the two diameters is temporarily reversed. The period of variability, he thinks, is the same as the sun spot period. The changes of figure, if they really occur, are so small that only the most delicate observations can make them manifest, but, affecting a body of such supreme importance as the sun, they must possess much scientific interest.

Too Busy to Work.

The way to command a good price is to never cheapen one's stock in trade. At least that is the principle adopted by an Ohio justice of the peace. This gentleman, says a writer in the Philadelphia Ledger, has missed his calling. Given his opportunity, he would soon make a name among the humorists.

An attorney in a neighboring city wrote him to inquire about a judgment that had been entered against a client. He inclosed a stamp for reply. Several days later he received a postal card bearing this message:

"Your inquiry received. I beg to inform you that my time is mighty valuable just now. Corn cutting is most nigh here, politics is sizzling and the bass fishing is fine. If you would inclose a dollar bill it might stimulate me some. I paid $2.00 to a lawyer for answering a question, and all he said was 'No.'"

He Had Remembered.

Hiram Bobbs was absentminded. He admitted that himself. Still, even he was occasionally surprised by his own failings. One morning he reached his office unaccountably late. "Dear me!" he thought. "Where can I have been?"

The answer was not forthcoming. Hiram sat down at his desk and took out his pocket handkerchief. It was tied tightly in a knot.

"Now," he exclaimed, "what was that for? Oh, yes! Marthy told me to get my shoes soled."

With an air of resignation to the whims of womanhood he put on his hat, closed his desk, and went out to the "soled-while-you-wait" cobbler's. He went in and sat down, took off his shoes, and settled back in a chair to read his newspaper.

"What is it, Mr. Bobbs?" inquired the cobbler.

"What? Oh, er—er—er—why—oh, yes! I want my shoes soled."

"Pardon me, sir," said the cobbler, "but I finished sooling them only half an hour ago. They can't be worn out yet, sir."

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Power of the Sun Glass—Can Melt Metals.

A sun glass, you know, is a convex lens, which has the power of collecting the sun's rays into one point, called a focus. Many boys have one, using it as a toy to "set fire to things." Perhaps they do not know how great a power a large lens has. It is said that metals may be melted with one that is three feet in diameter. A similar effect may be produced with concave mirrors, so arranged as to reflect the rays that strike them to the same focus. You may have read the old story of Archimedes, who, in the year 213 B. C., set fire to the Roman fleet that was besieging Syracuse, and thereby saved the city. Buffon in modern times set fire to tarred planks at a distance of 150 feet by the use of such mirrors and melted silver at a distance of sixty feet.

Hon. John H. Small, representative of this district in Congress, not only looks well to the interest of his own district, but other sections come in for a share of his valuable services. The inland waterway, a measure upon which he has expended much time and labor, will prove of incalculable benefit to the entire Atlantic region of his ideas are put into execution.

The chamber of commerce of Wilmington recently held its annual meeting, and an idea of how that body esteems our Congressman is shown by the following resolution which was adopted at the meeting:

"Although not our immediate representative, we are indebted to the Hon. John H. Small for his active interest in our welfare and for numerous courtesies to us. Mr. Small is thoroughly committed to the expediency of water-way development, which is the most important project now before the public mind, and the realization of his designs would be most far reaching in their affects, in which Wilmington could not fail to receive most substantial benefits.

"To the obligation Wilmington is due this gentleman was added that of the visit of the Congressional party of yesterday, and we desire to convey to Mr. Small this formal expression of our appreciation of his good offices, and to entertain the hope that the opportunity will offer for us to reciprocate the favors of this valuable public servant."

President Roosevelt is squirming and trying to put it on somebody else, but Senator Tillman's pitchfork holds him where the public can see the truth.

The Charlotte Observer prints the story of a bloodhound's successful chase at High Point. Possibly the Observer will now have a better opinion of the bloodhound. Greenville has one that has made several successful runs after criminals.

When the producers make more strawberries than the consumers can use money is lost on the crop. That seems to be the trouble this season. So many berries were shipped to the large cities North as to glut the markets and the fruit sold at any kind of price.

The Water and Light Commission is doing some more figuring on the day electric current proposition. We hope they can see their way to figure it in operation and thus do another good thing for Greenville. In the meantime those who want day current, either for motors or fans, might keep the cause along by letting some member of the commission or the superintendent know it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

(By an Occasional Contributor.)

Father Capon is dead again. But this time it is in a fresh place.

Secretary Taft says that he and ex Governor Herrick are the best of friends,—outside of business hours.

The hard coal miners have resumed work, but the householders are continuing to pay winter prices.

The time is approaching to stir up some more alarmist stories as to the whereabouts of the drydock "Dewey."

Nobody has suggested yet that the doctors were behind the government's move against the patent medicine trust.

One of the recent rules of journalism is that you "muse not quote the President." When he really begins airing his opinions of ex-Senators, you hardly want to violate it either.

The paper trust has dissolved with dire prophecies of what will happen to the consumer. It is quite obvious that the paper trust contemplates entering into a "gentleman's agreement."

It is "semi officially" announced that this government will make no suggestion for the reduction of armaments during the Hague conference. Nor afterwards either if the present signs hold.

A Republican contemporary claims that there never has been much difference in the Senate over the rate bill. It has appeared to us that there were serious differences among the Republican members as to where to locate the loophole.

He Was in Such a Hurry.

A man who has resided in Cairo told this tale as an illustration of the dilatory ways of Arabian trades people:

"A certain gentleman ordered a swing to be erected in his garden or the use of his little boy, aged six. He waited and waited, but the swing never arrived. In due course of time that boy grew up to man's estate and became himself the father of a little boy. When his son was six years old he remembered how his own father had ordered a swing to be made for him. So he called on the tradesman, who lived at his gate, and asked him to send up the swing that had been ordered twenty years before. The man agreed to do so. The little boy becoming impatient after three weeks, his father called again and remonstrated with the Arabian as to his dilatoriness. The indignant tradesman replied that he could not really undertake to serve any one who was in such a hurry."

A Chicago University professor comes to the front with the statement that this world will be habitable for some 100,000,000 years yet. Most of us have little interest further than the first division of the enumeration, but the professor probably gives the full figures owing to predictions that the eruption of Vesuvius and the destruction of San Francisco herald the approach of the end of the world.—Charlotte Observer.

Our now popular Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security" Bond Suit originated last season in an attempt to furnish progressive dealers with a really meritorious boy's suit that can be sold at $5.00 with an unconditional guarantee of satisfaction or money back should the suit prove defective. After considerable experimenting as to fabrics, tailoring, improved features, such as Double seats, double double knees, extra strong thread, linings waist band, etc.

We succeeded in producing a guaranteed boy's suit that is proving a tremendous success with dealers now selling it. The "security" bond suit is good because it is so thoroughly reinforced throughout. Our success of last season has encouraged us to still greater efforts, and we are determined that the future of the Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security Bond Suit" shall be a bright one from your standpoint and ours.

"Finding the Ring."

A long string is held by the players, who stand in a circle, with one in the center. A ring is slipped on the string, which is rapidly passed from one player to another, covering it with their hands. The one in the center endeavors to seize the hands that hold it, and the person in whose hand the ring is found must take his turn in the circle. Pretending to pass the ring from one to another when it may be at another part of the circle bewilders the person in the center and makes the game more amusing.

The Morning Glory.

Here is an experiment to make with a morning glory vine: Early in the morning of some day that is likely to be hot and sunny make a mark on the training stick exactly opposite to the top of the vine, and an examination at night will show that the vine has not grown. But look at it the next morning, and you will find it grew a good deal during the night. It is said that this night growth is always in proportion to the light and heat of the preceding day.

Blind Artist—a Game.

Hang a blackboard at one end of the room. Take each guest in turn, stand him in front of the board, blindfold him, give him a piece of chalk and ask him to draw a picture of a pig or cow or horse.

The other guests should note down on pieces of paper their opinion of each pig as it is drawn, and when all have done their stunt then let them vote which did the best. Give a prize for best and consolation for worst.

When Tommy Went Fishing.

Tommy went to fish and took Rod and line and bait and hook. "Who can tell? I may," thought he, "Catch a sardine for my tea."

Out he waded from the shore; Then for quite an hour or more There upon the post he sat; Then he caught—a tittlebat! "Here's a catch at last!" cried he, "Just the very fish for me." Up he pulled it with a will, Showing off his angling skill. Oh, but didn't Tom look grim When that tittlebat caught him By the tail and made him yell— In the river splash he fell. Luckily he still could shout, "Brother pussles pulled him out. Next time Tom goes catching fish We will eat 'em them a' dish."

HEROIC TREATMENT.

The Remedies That Are Used by the Doctors of China.

Chinese doctors seem to delight in heroic measures.

In several diseases, notably rheumatism, neuralgia, gout, ulcers, carbuncles and diarrheal complaints, they are very successful. The method in treating these troubles seems to be a liberal use of hot teas and broths and a relinquishment of all other foods. In most of the foods there is the simple tonic, ginseng. In others there are aperients which are apparently impure epsom salts. One broth contained peppermint leaves, chopped almonds, bay leaves, honey, blood and wine.

The idea seems to be to drench the entire system with hot water, washing out the body in that way, and relying upon the elements added to the water for medicinal action as well as nourishment.

Their treatment of most forms of dyspepsia is truly heroic. The patient is laid at full length and the doctor with his muscular hands pinches the body. The pinching is done with the thumb and forefinger. The method, though cruel, has excellent results, and there is immediate relief and a speedy cure.

For catarrhal troubles they use warm solutions of astringents, rendered aseptic by peppermint and similar oil, and where there is pain, as in nasal catarrh, they use oil, in which is put a tincture of opium.

For some forms of dyspepsia they burn paper. The paper burned is a thick yellow tissue, which when burned leaves a fluffy black ash, which is probably one-half carbon and the rest silica and mineral salts. Occasionally they write talismanic characters with colored pencils on the paper. Different pencils are used, and each is made of a different substance, which when burned exercises a chemical or medicinal influence.

When it is burned and diffused in a cup of tea the ingredients pass into the stomach along with the carbon of the paper.—Kansas City Independent.

The Coconut Crab.

The coconut crab is one of the oddest specimens of the whole crab family. He lives in the south islands and makes a diet of coconuts. This species has a pair of front legs terminated with a strong pair of pinchers, and it is with these that he husks the nuts and breaks through the weakest portion of the shell. The crab begins by tearing the husk, fiber by fiber, and always at the end where the eyeholes of the nut are situated, that being the weakest place in the shell. When the husk has been removed the crab commences hammering the shell with his heavy claw and soon makes an opening, through which he extracts the meat of the nut. Darwin, writing of this crab, says, "I think this is as curious a case of instinct as I ever heard of, especially in structures so remote from each other in the scheme of nature as a coconut and a crab."

Costly Politeness.

At the battle of Fontenoy occurred a well known instance of politeness on the part of the English and French guards, which, it is almost needless to say, could only have happened in those ceremonious times. The two battalions of opposing guards were about to join in conflict when the English commander advanced and, saluting the French commander, exclaimed, "Gentlemen of the French guards, fire!" The French officer, not to be outdone in politeness, returned the salute and replied: "After you, gentlemen." The French guards never fire first! Upon which the English gentleman, thinking further ceremony needless, fired, with such effect as to put nearly 900 of the French gentlemen hors de combat. Somewhat costly politeness for them.

Fast Driving.

A well to do farmer had a spare horse, which he used to lend to his neighbors if they required it free of charge. He would, however, always admonish them to be careful of the horse and not work him too hard. One morning another farmer applied for the use of the horse for a part of the day. "Yes, you can have him," said the owner, "but it is going to be a pretty warm day, so be sure and not drive him too fast." "I am going over to B— to attend a funeral," was the reply, "and I must keep up with the procession if it kills the horse."—Kansas City In.

A POT SHOT.

It Was an Unintentional One, but Bagged Four Quail.

Four of us were out rabbiting, with indifferent success. H. got tired of it and thought he would try to walk up a bunch of quail. He walked along a road dividing a stubble field, and in nearing a bunch of grass alongside of the road a bunch of birds got up out of the grass. He gave them the first barrel as they rose, but missed. Then he gave them the second and saw two drop. One was dead, but the other only wounded. He picked up the dead bird and, having no dog, ran after the wounded bird and retrieved it. Then he followed up the birds he had marked down in some scrub oak to try for another shot.

About an hour afterward we came along the same place, when S. noticed one of the beagles mouthing a bird in the bunch of grass. The grass was about a foot and a half high, about two yards long and one yard wide. S. shouted to the dog to drop it and ran toward him. We both got there about the same time, and S. had taken the bird from the dog, saying, "Why, it's a quail." Just then I noticed one at my feet and said, "Here's another." S. walked on a step and said, "Here's another." Just then W. came along and stopped and said, "Here's another," picking one up at the same time. Well, we picked up four quail in that bunch of grass. The birds were still quite warm and were lying on their breasts, with wings spread out.

Well, we all wondered how such a thing could have happened. We all had heard H. shoot twice after he had been gone a short time, but no others. Just then we saw H. coming up the road. When he got to us we asked him if he had fired the two guns a short time before. "Yes," said he. "What at?" asked S. "Quail," said H. Then he explained that as he walked along the road the bunch of quail got up about sixty feet away. He fired the first barrel, but missed, "as he thought," as they got up out of the grass. Then he gave them the left barrel, knocking down two. "The one was dead, but I had a good run after the other one," he said, "and here they are," taking the two birds out of his game pocket. We then told him about the four we had found, and after a lot of talk and study we concluded that he had shot too low with the first barrel and killed the birds on the ground and, not knowing it, had gone right on after the others.

H. has been my shooting partner for the past eighteen years, and we all know him to be a thorough sportsman, one who would not shoot a quail on the ground. I don't know about a duck asleep. Nevertheless I am afraid the name of pot hunter will stay by him a long while.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

How He Knew When He Had Enough Eaten.

William Henry B., Jr., aged seven, has an inordinate appetite for buckwheat cakes and maple sirup. At breakfast the other day his grandfather watched him with amazement, counting the cakes as they disappeared.

"Junior," he asked, "have you ever in all your life felt that you had all the buckwheat cakes you could get away with?"

"Yes, sir," replied Junior. "Lots of times I've felt that I had enough."

"How do you know when you've had enough?"

"Oh, I just keep on eating till I get a pain, and then I eat one more to make sure."—Lippincott's Magazine.

THE COTTON SEED OIL INDUSTRY.

The census reports show that in 1900 there were 357 cotton seed oil mills in the United States. In 1905 the number had increased to 777. Not a bad showing for the progress of the South.

The cotton states produced in 1905 13,000,000 gallons of cotton seed oil. North Carolina produced over 6,000,000. — Charlotte

Nothing too GOOD

FOR

OUR CUSTOMERS

we are always looking for something better; always working to secure values and styles superior to other stores. when

began to sell paper patterns we began to investigate. we said to ourselves,

 THE LADIES HOME JOURNAL

is the leading Womans Magazine. It is first class and has never done anything in a second class way. We knew that its reputation was at stake. Our investigation convinced us that the patterns are as high grade as the Magazine

Furthermore the Ladies Home Journal added a new feature which makes these patterns much more desirable than any other pattern. They furnish a Guide Chart free with each pattern. This Chart shows exactly how the pattern is to be put together. It is so comprehensive that a child can understand it. It is a boon to ladies who are inexperienced in garment cutting and garment making. Mothers advise us that by the aid of the Guard Chart furnished with each

they train their daughters to do their own sewing

But there is still another point to consider. The patterns are all new, no old styles, no ancient creations; all new, all up-to-date and perfect in fit and style, and so much more easily understood than other patterns that one trial will convince you and make you a regular customer
