GREAT MEETING HAS CLOSED

PROVED A BLESSING TO MANY SOULS

THE FINAL SERVICE TUESDAY NIGHT

In Number the Meeting Shows Many Professions—Churches Brought Closer in Christian Unity—Dr. Black Thanks All for What They Had Done and Makes Earnest Closing Appeal to Christians.

The meeting which Dr. William Black, State evangelist of the Presbyterian church, has been holding here for ten days in Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, came to a close Tuesday night. Just before the final sermon was preached, Rev. J. H. Shore, pastor of the church as chairman of the executive committee, having in charge the arrangements for the meeting, expressed appreciation to all the members of the various committees, for their earnest co-operation. He also spoke of the spirit of unity that had prevailed among the different churches of the town and the great blessing that had come from the meeting.

Before beginning this meeting Dr. Black said one result he wanted to see come from this meeting was the organization of an active young men's prayer league; and with this end in view he had, after a brief consultation with a few others, taken the liberty of presenting the names of the first officers of such a league, and appointing the first meeting in the Presbyterian church next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, subsequent meetings to rotate in the various churches as desired by the leaders. He then read the list as follows:

- C. W. Wilson, president.
- F. M. Wooten, vice-president.
- Charles James treasurer.
- C. W. Harvey secretary.
- H. E. Austin, choir leader.
- T. J. Jarvis, H. D. Bateman, E. B. Ficklen and D. J. Whichard, devotional committee to select texts and appoint leaders a week ahead.
- G. E. Harris, H. B. Smith and J. G. Latham, leaders for the first meeting.
- W. A. Bowen, W. E. Hooker, W. R. Ragsdale and F. R. Stretch ushers.

Subject for November 27th, "Forward" text Exodus 15:15. He said he hoped this work would be taken up earnestly and great good to the churches and the community result from it.

Dr. Black then read a portion of the 19th chapter of Luke and took for a text the 16th verse: "For the Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." It was a sweet, tender sermon showing the great love of Christ for sinners and how in various ways He seeks them. Time and again there were many tear-moistened eyes in the congregation, for it was a sermon that went to their heart.

After concluding the sermon and the invitation for any to make profession, Dr. Black spoke with feeling of his stay here during the meeting. It was the third meeting he has held in Greenville, and he could not help having great love for this people. He earnestly thanked every one for the many kindness shown to himself and the two singers with him, Messrs. Burr and McCoy.

He then made an earnest appeal to church members to stand by their pastors and uphold them in their work, then urged those who had made profession during the meeting to unite with the church of their choice as early as possible, for only by taking this step will their Christian lives and characters develop. One other thing he said he hoped would result from this meeting was more family altars in the homes, for the religion of the church is no stronger than the religion in the home. He then asked all in the congregation who would promise to hold family prayers in their homes to stand up, and quite a number responded. That manifestation, he said, was worth his coming here to hold the meeting, even if nothing else had resulted.

The Presbyterian church being at present without a pastor, Dr. Black held a service there Tuesday afternoon and received five persons into membership. The other churches

ANOTHER LARGE YIELD.

Pitt County Farmers Are Good Corn Growers.

Mr. E. F. Williams, of Falkland township, who is one of those engaged in the farm demonstration work in this county, writes that he gathered his test acre of corn on the 17th. The corn was measured carefully and the yield of the acre found to be 110 and 41-56 bushels or a little more than 22 barrels.

Mr. Williams says that his rows were 5 feet wide and the corn hills 15 inches apart. He used on this acre one sack of kainit, one sack of acid phosphate, one sack of 8-3-5 guano, two sacks of 8-3-3 guano, and 250 pounds of nitrate, and the total cost of fertilizers being $13.85. In addition to the 22 barrels of corn worth at market price $116, he gathered from this same acre 5 bushels of peas worth $10 and 1,000 pounds of fodder worth $10. The peas and corn are worth $615 more than the fertilizers used which added to the value of the corn makes his profit $116.15 on one acre not counting the cost of cultivation. It can be safely said that he raised this corn at a cost of less than 10 cents per bushel.

This is another striking example of what Pitt county corn raisers can do when they farm right.

THE WORLD'S MELTING POT

AMERICA AND IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

WHERE WE SHOULD DRAW THE LINE

President Charles S. Barrett of the National Farmers' Union Calls Upon the Officers and Members of the Organization to Assist in Solving the Problem of Undesirable Immigration to This Country.

President Charles S. Barrett of the National Farmers' Union has addressed himself to the problem of immigration in his latest open letter to the officers and members of the organization as follows:

To the Officers and Members of the Farmers' Union:

Our country has just been called the "melting pot of the world." We receive into our borders the best and the worst elements of every nation under the sun, and from the resultant flux we are pouring into the molds of character and custom the citizenship that is to determine the destiny of our people—whether we shall attain the development foreshadowed by our gifts and inheritances or fall short of that development.

I am not one of those insular Americans who would erect Chinese walls round this country, and keep our shores hermetically sealed against foreigners of every class and grade.

Many of the most consecrated patriots in our history, many of the men of great heart who have come to the rescue of the nation in the time of stress and trial, many who have risen to eminence in the fields of commerce and industry and agriculture and art and statesmanship and literature—first saw the light of day in the foreign lands.

I realize also that this country of unending diversity of climate and resources and habits of thought and conviction, has a wonderful power of assimilation.

Powers Has Limitations.

But I realize, first of all, that that power has its limitations and that they are now being strained and taxed and threatened to accommodate some of the rankest human products of European and Asiatic institutions such as may enter our body politic to fester and spread corruption, to infect our people with destructive and anarchistic tendencies, to undermine our political sanity and to reach a slimy trail of decay and disruption over the entire fabric of our ideals and our aspirations.

We are told that we need men to aid us develop America. But if we need men at all we need those only who approach our own economic standards, who can stand the test of moral and mental cleanliness, of physical soundness and freedom from seeds of violence and disintegration that are making poverty, vice and crime an enlarging spectacle throughout the old world.

We have our own problems of lawlessness, vice, unemployment, professional incoherence. Let us, the organized farmers of America, exhaust our influence to the end that these problems be not complicated by a horde of sickly importations dribbling inward from Ellis island and other ports of entry.

I will be asked where we would draw the line—and the line should we draw. The answer is easy.

I object to the class of immigrants that are responsible for an increase in one year of 25 per cent. of the criminal arraignments of New York City. If the influence of New York City and its people were confined to its own limits, I would raise no objection. Neither of them are thus confined.

I object to that class of immigrants that, in many American States, comprise from 15 to 34 per cent. of the inmates of institutions—jails, asylums for the insane, hospitals, poor houses—maintained at the public expense.

I object to that class of immigrants that make the so-called cultured cities of Boston one of the most misgoverned municipalities in America, the venality of floating voters necessitating a call from the city to the legislature of the State for aid in cleaning up the Augean stables.

GREENVILLE SOCIAL AND PERSONAL NEWS.

The People Who Come and Go on Our Trains.

Mr. B. B. Sugg left Wednesday evening to spend Thanksgiving in Wilmington and Clarkton.

Mr. W. O. Shelburn went to Tarboro today.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Coward, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan, Misses Essie Ellington and Alice Moore, and Messrs. K. W. Cobb, Bascom Wilson, J. B. Higgs, J. B. Kittrell, and Royce Tucker went to Richmond today.

Messrs. R. R. Cotten, Evans Sledge and H. S. Ragsdale went to Norfolk today.

Capt. Z. T. Vincent and family left this morning for Suffolk to make their home in that city. Greenville loses them with regret.

Visitor Addresses Students.

At the opening exercises of the Training school this morning, Superintendent A. C. Willison, of Maryland, spoke to the students. He gave a brief account of the public school law of his state, and gave in detail the "merit system" in the selection and pay of teachers, as it is operated in Alleghany county of which he is the superintendent. No man is probably had more to do with perfecting the school law of his state than Mr. Willison, and his county leads in the state for educational progress. It is a pleasure to have a gentleman so imbued with the spirit of educational uplift among us. He was a business man entering the school work and has carried business methods into the latter.

Thanksgiving Service.

Thursday at 11 a. m., there will be held a Thanksgiving service in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church. The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

No Freights Tomorrow.

The local Norfolk Southern freight train will not run tomorrow, Thanksgiving day, and the local freight office will be open only until 10 o'clock a. m.

Senior Play Tonight

The senior class of the Training school will present the play, "The Superior Sex," in the school auditorium tonight. Friends of the school cordially invited.

Sympathy has no place in business and business has no place for it.

igrants who come here solely to make a "stake" and who then return with to their mother countries.

I object to that class of immigrants who, at the first signal of panic drain our banks of savings and other deposits, and sail away home in the steerage, as they came.

I object to that class of immigrants who cause the police authorities of several large American cities to declare themselves powerless against organized blackmail, bloodshed, and pillage.

I object to that class of immigrants with neither knowledge of, respect for, or allegiance to our laws, our traditions and our institutions, who bring with them an inherited hatred for courts and justice which they will visit upon our own well-being.

I object to that class of immigrants who are willing to transplant here to the hurt of the American farmers and workmen, the proper standards of living and wages of which the returned European traveler tells us sickening tales.

Behalf of Farmers.

On behalf of the American farmer I insist that congress and the national government raise a protective tariff wall against human beings with ruin in their train, as well as a tariff wall against the necessities and luxuries of life.

On behalf of the American farmer I argue also that the time to consider this problem is now, not later, when our sane American citizens shall have been so weakened as to multiply our difficulties by a staggering nuperal.

Every member of our organization can hasten consideration of this issue by bringing these facts forcibly before his congressman and senator.

HANGS AT 9 O'CLOCK THIS MORNING

Only Prison Officials and Priests Witness Execution—Makes no Statement, but One Newspaper Publishes Alleged Confession Which Officials Discredit.

By Cable to The Reflector.

London, Nov. 23.—Dr. H. H. Crippen was hanged at 9 o'clock this morning. He was cool and calm to the last, his nerve never leaving him. He dressed with care, being allowed to wear his own clothes, and ate a light breakfast. Only prison officials and priests were allowed at the hanging, though there was a big crowd of curious outside the prison walls. The condemned man went to death without making any statement so prison officials say, but one paper is publishing an alleged confession said to have been made by Cripfen to a friend. This alleged confession is discredited by officials.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Carrying out his plan of attack on alleged expensive and wasteful system of railway management in opposition to general freight increase, Attorney Brander for the shippers called Fred B. Gilbreth, a New York contractor, to the witness stand. Brander read a telegram from J. C. Lincoln, president of the furniture dealers association, which stated that furniture dealers with the exception of those of Grand Rapids are opposed to a general advance of rates. The charge was made yesterday that Grand Rapids does not oppose the increase because J. P. Morgan dominates the furniture interests there.

Servants tried to drive the women away, but were defeated and made to seek shelter. Telephone calls were sent to police headquarters and several arrests were made. Of 147 women arrested yesterday for rioting and attacking the premier, all were released except six who were held for malicious destruction of property.

THANKSGIVING.

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving day. The day is not selected because of that, more than any other, men should be grateful to God for His blessings, but it is in keeping with the long established custom of the nation to set apart one day in the year to publicly recognize God as our Sovereign Ruler and to make acknowledgment to Him for His preservation of our nation, His blessings upon the people in giving us peace and prosperity. Is there one among the people of this great land who has not cause to be thankful to God on this day for His mercies? Not one. Even the poorest and the humblest has something to be grateful for. Then give God the praise that is due Him. And remember that your gratitude can be no more fittingly expressed than in contributing something to those less fortunate than yourself. Especially make glad the hearts of the orphans by a generous donation to them. As God has prospered you, so give unto these.

The Wilmington Dispatch and The Greenville Reflector are engaged in an interesting discussion of the modus operandi of the art of kissing. Neither seems to be aware that this subject is heavily leaded.—Charlotte Observer.

Loaded, eh? But there is something in knowing when and where. Time you were getting wise, boy.

We might as well let it out that the reason why some men dislike hobble-skirts is because these garments always stay on the job, no matter what the wind or weather.—Charlotte Observer.

Who would have looked for that from such a source? Shame on you!

Then Lets Change The Law.

The decision rendered by Judge McCall in the Standard Oil Co. case may or may not be right, according to law, and as to such uncertainty the country has first the evident fact that the Department of Justice must have thought it had substantial grounds, otherwise it would not have pushed the case so vigorously, and also has the rulings made by Judge Landis. However, as doubtful as the judicial decision may be, it remains and the Standard Oil Company is declared not to have been an offender; not an offender under the law. The vast amount of work done by the Department of Justice, the preceding trials, etc. etc. account for naught. Of course, if the Standard has not offended such an end is to be desired and the big oil company deserves to be exonerated. Yet the question has been presented in such manner, and the conduct of the Standard Oil Company has been such in the past that there is always doubt, and the case shows one thing very plainly. Certain laws must be changed. To have laws not clear enough, or not wide enough to cover the offenses of the trusts, or to allow laws to stand that provide loop-holes of technicalities through which a trust can escape is something that is decidedly wrong and that proves a detriment to the country. No law should be allowed to stand that protects the guilty through technicality. One technicality called to the attention of one judge will furnish the escape and the people are left without protection. So the laws must be changed. Laws must be made plain and definite enough to reach and punish the trusts for all their iniquities, and at the same time judicial procedure must be made such that the shameful delays that now mark the history of this country and mar the rights of its people will be eliminated.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Take Care of the Child's Health.

The child with decayed teeth, even with unclean teeth, is open to infection of lungs, tonsils, stomach, ears, nose. Every time food is taken and at every act of swallowing, the food must pass over these germ-infected bodies into the stomach, carrying disease and decay with it.

Mouth breathers with teeth in this condition cannot get one breath of air that is not contaminated air, every breath becomes poisoned in passing over these germ and decay-laden teeth. Bad teeth are frequently the cause of defective eyesight, headache, dyspepsia and ear troubles.

All decay of human teeth starts from the outside. A perfectly clean tooth will not decay unless particles of food remain between the teeth long enough to decompose. Decay, therefore, always means uncleanness.

The child's teeth should be cleaned at least twice daily, and no family investment will pay better than the price of regular, prompt dental care. If the cost of headache, earaches, sore throats, dyspepsia and a number of other ills directly traceable to bad teeth could be measured against the cost of tooth brushes, bicarbonate of soda, pulverized chalk or tooth powder and early dental attention, upon which side would the balance lie?—F. L. Stevens, in Raleigh Progressive Farmer and

J. H. ZEILIN & CO., PROPS., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Some Nautical Facts.
A knot is 6,080 feet long. The distance from New York to Liverpool is 3,064 nautical miles by the northern track and 3,139 by the southern track.
The former course is taken by vessels bound for New York, the latter by vessels bound for Liverpool. From Liverpool to New York the distances are respectively 3,039 and 3,109 miles.

In estimating records the points taken on either side are Sandy Hook and Daunt's rock, Queenstown harbor.
The first light sighted on the British coast is the Bull, Cow and Calf, Ireland, and on the American coast either Nantucket or Fire Island.

He Was Cautious.
Frederick the Great was always fond of disputations, but as he generally terminated the discussion by collaring his antagonist and kicking his shins few of his guests were disposed for an argument. He asked one of his suit why he did not venture to give his opinion on some particular question. "It is impossible, your majesty," was the reply. "to express an opinion before a sovereign who has such convictions and wears such very thick boots!"

Live Table Talk.
"I hope you will be interested in yonder gentleman," said the hostess. "I have assigned him to take you out to dinner."
"I shall be," responded the lady addressed. "That gentleman was formerly my husband, and he's behind with his alimony."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

It Often Is.
"I was in hopes when I married that I could give my wife everything she wanted."
"Well?"
"I didn't think her yearning capacity would be so much greater than my earning capacity."—Washington Herald.

Gives Him No Chance.
"Were you quarrelling with your wife when I came in? I heard you talking loud."
"No. When we're quarrelling she's the one that talks."—Cleveland Leader.

Grief is crowned with consolation—Shakespeare.

The Title "Esquire."
The title "esquire" is derived from the French word escuyer (a shield bearer) and originated in the old days of chivalry, when, as is well known, each knight appointed one or more persons of gentle birth to carry his shield and perform other honorable services. These persons were known as squires, or, more accurately, esquires, and were of such birth as would permit of their being in their turn created knights when they should have merited the distinction by deeds of valor or otherwise. In the reign of Richard II. the status of an esquire was granted for the first time by letters patent as a title of honor merely, no duties being attached. This method of creation is now obsolete, but it marks an advanced stage in the decay of chivalry, which decay resulted in the titles "knight" and "esquire" becoming wholly honorary.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Stuck to His Bargain.
Exasperated Purchaser—Didn't you guarantee that this parrot would repeat every word he heard?
Bird Dealer—Certainly I did.
"But he doesn't repeat a single word."
"He repeats every word he hears, but never hears any."—It is so dealers often find.

Doesn't Know Her Age.
There is a glaring phase of unfairness in the position of the two sexes, despite all our struggles for the surfrage. A woman still dreads to tell her age, no matter how youthful she may look, while as long as a man looks youthful he is generally willing to admit and even to boast of how many milestones he has passed. There is at least one father who understood this problem in time and who gave his daughter a fair chance in life by never letting her know how old she was. He realized at her birth that a time would come when she would not want to tell her age, and he spared her the humiliation of having to prevari-cate, so she was never told either her age or the place where she was born, and there were no birth records preserved in the family.—New York World.

Tearing a Proverb to Tatters.
One of our correspondents, to whom so far as we can remember we never did any injury, sends us the following: Carlyle said that genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains. We venture to think this definition appropriate to a clerk.
But in a doctor genius is an infinite capacity for slaking pains.
In a commercial traveler, for taking trains.
In a literary man, for raking brains.
In a sanitary engineer, for making drains.
And in a Don Juan, forsaking
Janes.
Oscar Wilde's emendation of the proverb was at once briefer and more obvious. "Genius," he said, "is an infinite incapacity for taking pains."— London News.

Shopping Troubles.
"Tomorrow is my wife's birthday, and I want to buy a present that will tickle her."
"We have a nice line of feather boas."
"No, no. I mean something that would make a hit with her."
"Anything in hammers?"
"You misunderstand. I want something striking that!"
"Ah, you wish a clock."
"That's all."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Permanent.
"Mr. Smith," spoke up the young lawyer, "I come here as a representative of your neighbor, Tom Jones, with the commission to collect a debt due him."
"I congratulate you," answered Mr.
Smith, "on obtaining so permanent a job at such an early stage in your career."—Success Magazine.

Hardly.
A Sunday school teacher, after reading the story of Ananias and Saphira to the juvenile class, asked,
"Now, children, why doesn't the Lord strike everybody dead who tells a lie?"
"Cause," answered a bright little fellow, "there wouldn't be anybody left hardly."—Chicago News.

Must Be Rich.
"He must have money."
"What makes you think so?"
"He never takes the thirty days' grace allowed on his life insurance premiums."—Detroit Free Press.

A Fair Inference.
Joe—For years I used to get up at 6, breakfast at 8, dinner at 1, tea at 6 and bed at 10, and I never felt better in my life. Bill—Joe, what were you in for?—London Telegraph.
The slander of some people is as great a recommendation as the praise of others.—Fleming

How to Open a Can of Corn.
One of the smallest of the little girls in a West Philadelphia family had often assisted her mother in preparing the meals. She observed that her mother, who was rather hasty, always talked to herself when she had any difficulty in opening cans of vegetables.
The little girl thought that the hasti-ness was a part of the operation.

"One day she was visiting a neighbor and went into the kitchen to help prepare a meal.
She watched the neighbor take a can of corn, apply the opener and remove it.
"That's not the way to open a can of corn," said the little girl.
"Why, what other way is there?"
asked the neighbor.
"Well, you take the can of corn and start to open it, and then you bear down and the opener slips. Then you say 'Darn this can!' and finish it.
That's the way my mother opens a can of corn."—Philadelphia Times.

Diamonds to Lampblack.
You may purchase equal quantities of carbon for 5 cents or a million dollars. A bargain hunter might invest a nickel and get a package of pure lampblack. The million would secure a blazing diamond, easily turned into lampblack; not so easily—intense heat would be required. However, coal and wood are really more valuable than diamonds. They surrender life giving heat, while the only use so far discovered for diamonds is to cut glass, and for this carborundum is a good substitute. All diamonds in existence could be annihilated without loss to mankind; but, then, to vaporize diamonds would be costly, as the enormous heat of 12,632 degrees F. in the concentration of an electric furnace would be required, and then you might get enough graphite to make a lead pencil or a little fine stove polish.
—Edgar Lucien Larkin in Nautlius.

Mystery of the Egg.
An egg for one thing is a succession of bags, bagged up in one another, a series of envelopes enveloped in one another, bags and envelopes without joints, seams or openings. Puzzles, ships built up and full rigged in bottles, flies in amber, are simply simplified puzzles when it comes to how these bags wrap one another up, bag in bag. In a hen's egg there are eight or nine or ten of the sacks in sacks ensacked. Everybody thinks he knows what an egg is, and after weary reading and study in many languages he only begins to learn that nobody knows a tiny fraction of all the world of secrets and mysteries hidden in an egg. "As full of meat as an egg" is not the true comparison, but "as full of mystery as an egg" is nearer the truth. Eggs are the greatest puzzle in all nations.—New York Press.

Poor Pay, Poor Preach.
Once upon a time there was an Indian named Big Smoke. A white man, encountering Big Smoke, asked him what he did for a living.
"Umph!" said Big Smoke. "Me preach."
"That so? What do you get for preaching?"
"Me get ten dollar a year."
"Well," said the white man, "that's d—d poor pay."
"Umph!" said Big Smoke. "Me d—d poor preach!"
So runs the world—poor pay, poor preach.—Minneapolis Tribune.

sport to those who like it. This one don't. He went one night and stayed all night, and that's enough for me.

Miss Nina Smith spent Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Hope Craft.

Mrs. S. M. Manning left last Saturday for Hancock, where she will visit Mr. William Smith and family.

An Omnivorous Insect.

There is in Egypt a little shaggy black and tan insect about an eighth of an inch long that eats almost everything under the sun. In most countries ivory brushes are pretty safe from insects. In Egypt this little terror eats the ivory and eats the bristles. It eats your toothbrush and eats your toothpick. It eats the wool with which you are going to mend your husband's socks—the cards as well as the wool. It eats the handles of your knives and forks. It rejects nothing but glass and china and metal.—Sla-den's "Egypt and the English."

"Eating Crow."

The term "eating crow" comes from an ante-Revolutionary story. A soldier of an English regiment stationed in Virginia shot a pet crow belonging to a farmer. The latter entered a complaint with the colonel, who sentenced the soldier to eat the crow. The farmer was left alone with the soldier to see that he did it. After the soldier had consumed a portion of the bird he took his gun, presented it at the farmer and told him to eat the remainder of the crow or he would shoot him. This was the origin of the eating crow story.

Didn't Awe Him.

The members of a Greek letter fraternity from a southern university were being shown through the library of congress. They were apparently stricken dumb with admiration of the beauties of the building. But the atmosphere of awe was dissipated when one of the party, a red headed youth, exclaimed fervently:
"Gee, fellows! Wouldn't this make a dandy frat house?"—St. Louis Republic.

The Old Problem.

"This magazine looks rather the worse for wear."
"Yes; it's the one I sometimes lend to the servant on Sundays."
"Doesn't she get tired of reading always the same one?"
"Oh, no. You see, it's the same book, but it's always a different servant."

No Cause For Worry.

Painter (to his servant)—Now carry this picture to the exhibition gallery, but be careful, for the paint is not quite dry yet. Servant—Oh, that's all right. I'll put on an old coat.—Flie-gende Blatter.

Both Exempt.

"Do your daughters help their mother with the housework?"
"We wouldn't think of expecting it.
Muriel is temperamental and Zama is intense."—Pittsburg Post.

Not Acquired.

N. Read—How you stutter! Did you ever go to a stammering school? J.
Terry—N-n-n, sir. I-d-d-do this naturally.—Brooklyn Life.

HOLIDAY NECESSITY—TELEphone, 5c per day.

Mr. W. H. Haynes, of Neuse township, exhibited a curiosity in The Free Press office today in the shape of a jaw bone, evidently from some prehistoric animal, much larger than any now inhabiting this section of the country at least. The bone with a double row of teeth appeared to be the lower jaw bone and was rather strangely constructed. The width of the double row of molars was three and a half inches and the length of the entire jaw bone less than seven. Coincidental projections on the molars indicate that the jaw bone and teeth were that of the mastodon, parts of whose skeletons are frequently found in marsh beds.
It was in one of these Mr. Haynes found his specimen. The teeth and entire shape of the jaw bone were remarkably well preserved.—Kinston Free Press.

counting other runs."—Houston Post
