THIS TIME ITS SNAKES THAT ARE SNAKES

ONE THAT FEEDS ON SQUIRRELS

An Old Man Who Takes On New Ways.

HANRAHAN, N. C., Oct. 2.—We quote the following as related to us by Mr. S. Dall, of Blount Hall:

Said he, "while rambling in the low lands of Contentnea creek, Thursday afternoon, in search of hogs and trying to find a good hunting ground for squirrels, thinking to try my marksmanship as soon as the law is off, I came near a tall gum with a thick top, and nearly hidden by the foliage of the tree I saw a squirrel's nest. While thus standing and gazing at the nest, I heard a very strange noise inside the nest. I stood a while with hair on end and hat pushed nearly off my head, trying to find an open place to run, when to my consternation a few yards from my feet there fell to the ground a snake. So tremendous in size was his snake-ship that I looked towards his head and beheld to my great surprise he had a long, grey beard. Thought I what on earth shall I do? Must I attempt to kill a monster of this kind? Then I kinder whistled to get my courage to at least a standing point. So after a little further consideration and great effort on my part, I struck the monster a severe blow with a ten-foot pole that I carried with me, which blow killed his snake-ship so dead he scarcely wiggled. It was one of those blows that a 'scared' man gives when hemmed in with no chance to run. When I saw for sure that the monster was dead from head to tail, I cautiously approached his head to see if I could by any means discern what kind of a beard that was. By careful examination I found that it was the half of a squirrel's tail projecting from the snake's mouth. Then I ventured to measure the snake and found that he was three ax helves in length, species what is known as the chicken snake. But it seems that this one preferred squirrels for his diet.

A more wonderful story is told of a snake that was captured some time since by one of the Hanrahan boys. After killing the snake he found a glistening hard egg-shaped substance inside the snake, which, when he had carefully cleansed he handed to his aged mother and on receiving it she found that youth and vigor was returning. So this was put up to the highest bidder. There is a widower who has a beautiful country home near Ayden. Some years had passed over his head and the frost of several winters had somewhat streaked his hair, but being a man of much wealth he bid higher than any of his neighbors could bid and secured the wonderful wan. So completely did it change his entire being that now he is as erect as a military cadet, his steps are as steady and quick as one of 20 years. Before he was content to ride behind a medium swift horse. Now he spins over the county in an automobile at a 40-mile gait. Once the mails were swift enough to carry his messages, but now he often visits the central telephone office that his messages may be received more hastily, for they are all urgent, at this time, and if they are answered satisfactorily she will have the chance of a lovely country home or a mansion in the select portion of her choice of cities. And furthermore she can have a span of horses at her command or an automobile if she desires to more speed. Any age from 20 to 40, for with his wan he can adjust his years to suit any within this limit. The quality is the one feature desired. He has fully realized that God spoke a great truth when He said, "It is not good for man to live alone."

I suppose I had better close and not tell on that preacher who rode the whole afternoon in the low lands of Contentnea looking his near conals! he could not find them. So he alas! he could not find them. So he had to appoint another day and find water enough in the public road. The preacher believes in sprinkling, but like Paul, he tries to be all things to all persons that perchance he may be instrumental in saving some. Hence he did not know the creek very well.

MEN'S PRAYER LEAGUE.

Should Have A Larger Attendance.

It seems a little hard to bring the Men's Prayer League up from its small summer attendance. Though last Sunday was an ideal day so far as weather goes, the attendance showed but little increase over what it had been in the heat of mid-summer. The men of the community must not realize what they miss by absenting themselves from the meetings. The league did much good through last winter, and there is yet opportunity for it to do much more.

Last Sunday the subject for discussion was "What the Lord Requires of Us," and three most excellent talks were made by the leaders, Messrs. A. B. Ellington, H. B. Harless and R. H. Wright. The responsibility resting upon each of us, and the power to choose between right and wrong, was strongly presented.

Next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the meeting will be held in the Methodist church. Subject, "Happy is the Man Whom God Correcteth." Text, Job 5:17. Leaders, Messrs. M. W. Wallace, F. M. Wooten and T. J. Jarvis.

Help make the attendance larger at next Sunday's meeting.

FALL OPENINGS TODAY.

Mrs. Lee and Pulley & Bowen Have Attractive Displays.

This was the day of the fall openings, and the ladies had a feast looking at the many new styles in millinery that are out for this season.

Mrs. I. F. Lee & Co.'s always recognized for its splendid styles, was never more attractive than today. Some of the leading styles shown were the Indian head, Welch hat, steeple crowns, and a full table of mourning styles. The black and white combinations and the coronation purples also received much attention.

Pulley & Bowen, the home of women's fashions, not only was elaborate with the newest styles of millinery, but also had an attractive display of tailored suits, dress goods and furs. Among the most admired of their millinery styles were the bonnets, Mother Goose hats, velours and beavers. There is certainly variety enough in the styles this season to suit any taste.

ADMIRAL SCHLEY DEAD.

Hero of Santiago Drops Dead on New York Street.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley dropped dead near the corner of Forty-fourth street and Fifth avenue while on his way down town today. He died before medical aid could reach him.

Schley had been out of town over Sunday. On his return here he had gone to the New York Yacht club. After a short stay at the club the admiral left the clubhouse and started to walk along Forty-fourth street toward Fifth avenue, when he was suddenly taken ill.

Boy Scouts Meet Taft.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 3.—Three hundred boy scouts were at the union station this morning to greet President Taft upon his arrival here from the east. The Colorado Yale club entertained the president at breakfast and later he addressed the students of Denver university. An automobile tour of this city and vicinity this afternoon and a big banquet tonight conclude the Denver programme.

Daughters of the Confederacy.

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 3.—An excellent program has been prepared for the entertainment of the many visitors who have assembled here for the annual state convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The regular business of the convention will be taken up tomorrow morning and the sessions will continue until Friday.

Home for Aged Masons.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 3.—The first home for aged Masons to be established in the Southwest was dedicated today at Arlington, a short distance from this city. The dedication was conducted under the auspices of the grand lodge of Texas and was attended by prominent members of the Masonic fraternity from every part of the State.

TO DISCUSS "PERSONAL LIBERTY"

"PERSONAL LIBERTY," SUBJECT.

Convention Will be Attended by 1,000 Delegates.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 3.—"Personal liberty" will be a leading subject of discussion at the sixth annual convention of the National German-American Alliance, which is to meet in this city the latter part of this week. The convention is expected to adopt strong resolutions in opposition to restrictive legislation in matters affecting temperance and Sunday observance. In its campaign for "personal liberty," it is declared, the alliance has been given assurance of the close and staunch support of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and other Irish-American organizations throughout the country.

The convention will be attended by about 1,000 delegates, representing German organizations throughout the United States. The opening session will be held Friday morning at the New Willard Hotel and will be devoted largely to the exchange of greetings. In the afternoon the delegates will make a pilgrimage to Mount Vernon, where exercises will be held at the tomb of Washington. The programme for Saturday provides for a business session in the morning, a visit to the white house in the afternoon and a banquet at the New Willard in the evening. The banquet has been arranged on a pretentious scale, and many notable men in official and private life will be numbered among the guests of honor. Sunday will be devoted to sight-seeing and on Monday the final sessions of the convention will be held.

The German-American Alliance was founded eleven years ago in Philadelphia. An idea of the influence it wields may be gained from the fact that it numbers nearly 2,000 societies in the state of Pennsylvania alone. It is also heavily represented among the German population of the western states. At the time of the Boer war a petition presented by the alliance to congress, praying that the government use its good offices to bring about an honorable peace, bore the signatures of 3,000,000 voters.

The object of the alliance is to exert a wholesome, salutary influence over public affairs in this country and incidentally, to promote friendly relations with Germany. It is a civil rather than a political body in its aims. One of its most worthy aims is to perpetuate the memory of the early German pioneers, who made so many sacrifices for America in the dark days of the French and Indian wars; the struggle of the Revolution, in which men of German blood, such as General Stark and Nicholas Harkheimer, gained splendid victories for the cause of the United Colonies, and of the early days of the last century, when the development of the Great West was undertaken.

Dr. T. I. Hexamer, of Philadelphia, has been the president of the alliance since its first organization. The other officers are: First vice president, Joseph Keller, of Indianapolis; second vice president, John Tjarks, of Baltimore; third vice president, Col. E. G. Stahl, of Trenton, N. J.; fourth vice president, John D. Capelman, of Charleston, S. C.; treasurer, H. Menlger, of Philadelphia; financial secretary, Herman Weder, of Philadelphia; recording secretary, Adolph Timm, of Philadelphia.

WHAT THEY ARE HERE FOR.

President Wright is giving a series of most helpful and interesting talks at the assembly exercises at the school on the purpose of the individual student at East Carolina Teachers Training school, which is one with the purpose of the school. The beginning is back in the early days after the war, for there are three steps in the development of public education in North Carolina: first, the realization of the state of its obligation to the children; second, the period of provision of school houses; third, the provision of efficient teachers. This school is here for the last purpose and the students are here to fulfil that purpose.

CONFERENCE OF ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS

FLYING THE HEARST BANNER.

Attended by Representatives From Every County From Chicago to Cairo.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 3.—Page after page of the Springfield hotel registers filled today with the names of prominent Democrats from all over Illinois and unless present signs are misleading the State conference called for tomorrow will be attended by representatives of every county from Chicago to Cairo. Mayor Carter H. Harrison of Chicago, accompanied by several hundred members of the Cook County Democracy, opened headquarters at St. Nicholas hotel today. Mayor Harrison's co-workers flying the Hearst banner are quartered at the New Zeland.

The feature of the gathering will be the big demonstration in Arion hall with speeches by a number of the party leaders. The oratory, however, will not be permitted to interfere with the real business of the round-up, which will be to complete the State organization of "progressive" Democrats launched at the Chicago conference last month. This organization will not confine its activities to State politics. On the contrary, its chief aim will be to capture the control of the Democratic organization in Illinois for the Hearst-Harrison faction and to oust Roger C. Sullivan from his position as the Illinois representation on the Democratic National Committee.

INFORMAL RECEPTION.

The Y. W. C. A. At The Training School.

The Young Woman's Christian Association at the Training school began active work as soon as school opened. Miss Minnie Best Dail was elected president in the place of Miss Agnes Smith, who failed to return.

An informal reception was given on Saturday evening to the new students to which all the students and the faculty were invited. All had a jolly evening getting acquainted. Each one was tagged with her name so there was no need of introduction.

On Sunday evening Prof. C. W. Wilson conducted the public services in the assembly hall. He made an excellent talk on the value of Christian work in the school.

REVIVAL BEGINS

At The Christian Church Monday Night.

The first of the series of evangelistic services was held at the Christian church last night. A fairly large audience was present at this opening service and gave the speaker their undivided attention.

The evangelist's theme was "The Three Fools of the Bible," which was handled in a masterly instructive way. He said that the first fool is the infidel who said in his heart, "There is no God." Both nature and reason, and furthermore, the Bible itself declares him to be a fool.

The next fool is the rich man whose new barns are filled with grain, and who foolishly trusts in his riches for his soul's food. He is foolish, because he trusts in perishable things, rather than in those things which are eternal.

The third type of fool is quite different from the other two types, for while he is indeed foolish in the eyes of the world, he is yet wise in God's sight, because he believes in Christ, and serves Him faithfully, making himself a fool for His sake.

Mr. Boblitt is an efficient song leader, and is supported here by an unusually good choir. His sermon last night created a very fine impression, and the public is very cordially invited to hear him as he continues in the series.

TO TOBACCO FARMERS

Should Make Exhibits at The State Fair.

A few days ago I received a letter from Mr. J. O. W. Gravelly, of Rocky Mount, calling attention to special premiums offered by the State Fair Association this year to tobacco farmers for exhibits of tobacco, and asking me to take the matter up and endeavor to get the farmers of Pitt county interested and to make exhibits at the coming state fair. As I was not informed as to the requirements, premiums offered, etc., I wrote him for information, and have the following letter in reply:

"Replying to yours of the 30th ult., the premiums are offered on smokers, fillers and wrappers, 5 lbs. of each. The premiums range from $5 to $25. The tobacco will be gold during the week following the state fair and the proceeds turned over to the owner thereof. Upon these conditions it appears to me that quite a number of farmers would send up exhibits. I think you will do your farmers and the tobacco interest of the state a good service by getting a nice exhibit from your county. Send all the samples to Col. Jos. E. Pogue, Raleigh, N. C., prepaying express charges.

I hope you will give this matter some little time and attention as in my opinion it will do much good to the tobacco interest."

I hope a number of our tobacco growers will take an interest and decide to make an exhibit this year, for I believe they can take some of these premiums. I should be glad to render any service in this connection I can, and will give any further information desired, upon request.

EFFORT TO SAVE "BIG BILL"

Alleged to Have Obtained $350,000 From Bank.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The most important case on the docket of the United States circuit court which convened for its regular session today is the appeal in the case of William J. Kellher, widely known as "Big Bill," who is under sentence of eighteen years in state prison for complicity in looting the National Bank of Cambridge. Kellher, who is equally well known to the sporting fraternity of New York and Boston, is alleged to have obtained through the medium of stolen fare games the bulk of $350,000 taken from the bank by Cashier Coleman. It is expected that the case will be reached by the court before the end of the week. While awaiting the result of his appeal Kellher has been confined in the East Cambridge jail, being unable to secure $50,000 bail.

Wife Follows Husband.

About a month ago the body of Mr. A. S. Walker was brought here from Macclesfield and interred in Cherry Hill cemetery. Today the body of his wife, who died Monday, was brought here and buried beside him. Having spent many years together in life, they were not long separated by death.

NORTH CAROLINA HAPPENINGS

GATHERED FROM EXCHANGES.

And Briefly Stated For The Reflectors Busy Readers.

LILESVILLE.—Samuel E. Smith was shot and instantly killed on the streets of Lilesville at 5 o'clock this afternoon by T. J. Flake, his first cousin, who was drinking.

RALEIGH.—The North Carolina Society Sons of the Revolution is preparing to present his year to the state for place in the walls of the executive offices in the state house the portrait of Governor Benjamin Smith. The presentation is to take place November 15 and the presentation address is to be by Prof. Collier Cobb of the University of North Carolina, a university man being chosen especially for the reason that Governor Smith was a special benefactor of the State University, in addition to being an able governor of the state.

MOORESVILLE.—Late yesterday afternoon the premises of Mr. B. W. Kerr, in the heart of town, were literally covered with honey bees, a stray swarm having decided to take up with him. They began to settle on the corner of his well, and were there by the millions, as it appeared. Mr. Kerr got busy and made a hive in which to catch them, but instead the bees sought the side of the well shed. They were left there. This morning at quite an early hour Mr. Kerr went out to look for his bees but they were gone. Not caring, but wondering what became of the bees, he sought to draw a bucket of water. When the vessel reached the top of the curbing, he found that he had a bucket full of bees, the little things having gone down into the bucket and the well. He has been drawing bees and honey from the well at various times all during the day.

MERCHANTS REACHING OUT.

The Merchants' Association is having published an illustrated leaflet of six pages advertising Kingston and the business of each of its members. The leaflet calls attention to the large stocks of merchandise carried by its members, and that anything brought to Kingston finds a ready market. The idea conveyed by this leaflet is that Kingston, beside being a residential city, is a live business city. Kingston merchants are reaching out for business in all the surrounding counties, and the Merchants' Association is paving the way by having all its members cooperate for this purpose.

This association has done much to eliminate bad trade conditions, and besides effecting co-operation, among its members, it has engendered a spirit of progress along all lines of business in Kingston. The purpose of this organization, while directly for the improvement of business conditions, particularly as to credits; yet, it has done much, indirectly, to the benefit of Kingston and the surrounding territory.—Kinston Free Press.

This shows the way the merchants of Kinston are reaching out to get more trade and improve conditions. It is a step worthy of emulation in other towns, and is along the line that The Reflector has repeatedly tried to arouse the merchants of Greenville. Some years ago Greenville had a Merchants' Association which met a few times with small attendance and was allowed to die for want of interest. Much good could have been accomplished through the organization if it had been kept up and properly used. Surely the business men of this town ought to be doing something to bring more trade here, and there is no better way to do it than through active organization and co-operation.

A close observer of things going on, says that more horses and mules are sold in Greenville than in any town its size he knows of. While wondering what becomes of all the horses and mules sold here, he also said he believed that the heavy sandy roads of the county wore them out so fast that a horse could not stand them but a few years and the people had to keep buying more. This is strong argument for good roads, for roads are much cheaper than horses.

The death of Admiral Schley, the hero of Santiago, recalls his victory over the Spanish fleet off Cuba and the attempt of Admiral Sampson to rob him of the honor.

The bearish movement continues to pull down the price of cotton. The farmers can hold the key to the situation by refusing to sell at the low price.

A little more change in the cooler direction will call for stoves.

Advice to Lawyers.

One of the most interesting publications is West Publishing Co.'s Docket, which contains a record of law cases passed by the court. The current issue prints the following advice to lawyers when addressing the jury, with the statement that it is taken from the columns of a contemporary:

"In promulgating your esoteric cogitations and in articulating your superficial sentimentalities and amicable philosophical or psychological observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your conversational communication possess a certified conciseness, a compact comprehensibility, a coalescent consistency and a concatenated cogency. Eschew all conglomerations of flatulent garrulity, jejune babblement and asinine affectations. Let your extemporaneous desecrating and unpremeditated expatiations have intelligibility and veracious vivacity without rhodomontade or thasonical bombast. And, furthermore, sedulously avoid all polysyllabic profundity, pompous proclivity, psittacous vacuity, ventriloquial verbosity and vanilaquent vapidity. Shun double entendre, prurient jocosity and pestiferous profanity, obscurant or apparent. In other words, talk plainly. Don't use big words."

Take A Stand In Life.

The wishy-washy man never accomplishes anything in this life. In fact, it is hardly possible, and not at all probable, that he is happy with his own thoughts. How can he be? The nomenity counts for nought commercially and never helps promote civic righteousness. The man who takes a stand in life is the one who accomplishes things for himself and for the world, though too often men of this type nip their own accomplishments short by retiring too early in the game.

It is first essential to take a stand, but it is next essential, in fact the working companion, to take a firm stand. It is not only where a man stands, but how firm he stands. Marching up the hill and marching right down again merely kills time, and frequently a good cause. Plan your trip, select your route, carefully pick your way, and then when you get to the spot stay there. The world may not like your advent at first, but if you are righteously armed after while it will wipe the mote from its eye and look up to you.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Bill and His Watch. "Bill, can you give me the correct time?" says one of Bill's friends.

"Sure," says Bill, dragging out his watch. "My watch was just seven seconds slow at twenty minutes of 4 day before yesterday afternoon, and I don't believe it's varied more than a quarter of a second since. It's now twenty-two minutes and seven seconds past 5."

"Thanks, old man," says Bill's friend, who then drops his own watch into his pocket and goes on his way.

Really he wasn't so particular about knowing the time himself as desirous of giving pleasure to Bill, for he knows that Bill is one of the few million men in the world who think each that his watch is a wonder and who feel themselves flattered when their friends ask them for the correct time.—New York Sun.

The House Fly's Doom.

O hated malefactor of ill health, The foe alike of poverty and wealth, Your end approaches! We rejoice to know

That you ere long must hear the call and go.

Your destination is a matter small. You've got to make your getaway—that's all—

And when the frost compels you to depart

No friends will be on hand to see you start.

There will be much rejoicing through the town.

The brow on which you grazed will lose its frown.

The germ that used you for an aeroplane

Must now get out and walk its goal to gain.

No more your ribald song is harshly sung;

No more you sound that fierce triumphant "Stung!"

No more to scenes of squalor shall you turn,

As gay as Nero when he watched Rome burn.

You've had your day; and though the winds may roar

And snowdrifts pile around the shivering door

And hailstones rattle, we will smile and cry

"Thank heaven, this climate keeps away the fly!"

"THIS IS MY 52nd BIRTHDAY."

Lillian Whiting, well known as an author and critic, was born in Niagara Falls, N. Y., October 3, 1859, the daughter of L. D. Whiting, who was for many years prominent in public life in Illinois. After completing her education Miss Whiting became literary editor of a Boston paper and for nearly fifteen years continued in newspaper work in that city. She first attracted attention as an author in 1896, when she published "The World Beautiful." Subsequently she added to her literary reputation by writing a study of the life and poetry of Elizabeth Barrett Browning and other works. Of late years Miss Whiting has spent much of her time in Italy, though she still regards Boston as her home.

WILEY HANDICAPED.

The President, Wiley and The Pure Food Law.

Intelligence from Washington is to the effect that while standing exonerated and having the approval of President Taft for his course, Dr. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, is as greatly handicapped in the performance of his duty—the strict enforcement of the pure food law—as he was before the row was started. Conditions in the Department of Agriculture that thwarted Dr. Wiley exist at the present time and Solicitor McCabe and Mr. Dunlap are still on the job and is in a position to nullify anything that Dr. Wiley does in the interest of pure food and good health.

The circumstances are such that they have led many to the opinion that President Taft was influenced by public opinion to render his Wiley decision and that no house-cleaning in the Department of Agriculture need be expected before the convening of congress, when there is little doubt but that the investigation of the department will be continued with some effect. Meanwhile, the pure food law will be as ineffective as it has been, since Dr. Wiley, single-handed, is unable to do anything with any except the most flagrant cases of violations. —Charlotte Chronicle.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

A meeting of progressive Republicans of Minnesota is to be held in St. Paul on October 30 to promote the La Follette presidential candidacy.

A campaign to have the District of Columbia represented in Congress by a delegate has been launched by the citizens' organizations in Washington, D. C.

Former Governor Folk, of Missouri, has accepted an invitation to address the first Democratic state convention of the new state of New Mexico, to be held this month.

When President Taft visits Chicago at the end of this month he will lay the cornerstone for the new clubhouse to be erected by the Hamilton club, the leading Republican organization of Chicago.

A conference of progressive Republicans has been called to meet in Chicago on October 16 for the purpose of gauging the extent of the movement and the future conduct of the work of the organization.

Former Governor Joseph M. Brown, of Georgia, who was defeated for reelection by Governor Hoke Smith, has announced his candidacy for the governorship, to be made vacant when Governor Smith resigns a few weeks hence to assume his duties as United States senator.

NOTES FROM THE LABOR WORLD.

There are fifteen trade unions in China.

Linotype operators in Tokio, Japan, earn only 45 cents a day.

There are said to be fewer suicides among miners than among any other class of workmen.

The average rate of wages throughout the Chinese empire is probably 18 cents a day. In Japan it is probably not more, and in India much less.

Eighty-five per cent. of the deaths in the membership of the International Metal Polishers', Buffers', Platers' and Brass and Silver Workers' Union is chargeable to tuberculosis.

The San Francisco Labor Council will assist the Cascade County Trades and Labor Assembly of Montana in compiling a complete table of statistics regarding the cost of living and wages in every large city in the United States.

During the last six months there has been an increase of three thousand in the membership of unions affiliated with the Los Angeles Labor Council, and the total increase since June 1, 1910 is 7,216, making a total of 14,329 union men in the city of Los Angeles.

The fatal accident rate in the Minnesota mines has steadily fallen from 7.25 for each one thousand men employed in 1906 to 4.05 for each thousand in 1910, in spite of the rapid development of the industry and the large importation of unskilled mine labor into the state.

The Associated Iron Molders of Scotland have increased their membership to eight thousand and report an arrangement whereby piece workers secured an increase of 2 1-2 per cent. in piece wages, and an increase of 25 cents weekly for all workers drawing less than $9.00 per week.

The pardon system, against which the United States immigration authorities and various philanthropic and reform bodies have contended for many years, prevails among the Greek bootblacks of Detroit, according to the findings of a young Greek investigator employed by the state labor commissioner.

Tenant farmers in the state of Texas, who, according to statistics, till about 80 per cent of the soil, have caught the organization spirit of the times and have begun the formation of a renters' union, which will hold a state convention at Waco, Texas, next month. All land renters and farm laborers are invited to join.

The eight-hour law for women passed by the recent session of the Washington legislature, was declared unconstitutional the other day by Superior Judge John F. Main, at Seattle. Physicians testified that it was not injurious for women to work nine or ten hours a day, but the court upheld the constitutionality of the law.

The organization of the Brotherhood of Timber Workers in western Louisiana and eastern Texas, to remedy evils which have grown up in that work, mainly the company store and the "check" system of payment, has been met by the Southern Sawmill Operators' Association by shutting down twenty-four of the largest plants and discharge of all men and the statement that other mills will be closed as fast as organizers get busy with the men. The men claim that the system employed by the mill owners is reducing them to a condition of peonage, and that now is as good a time as any to bring about a change of conditions.

One of the best sales, if not the very best, made this season on the Greenville market was made at the Star warehouse today. We challenge them all.

Helping Those Who Help Them.

However the people of Concord may have stood as to reciprocity with Canada they certainly seem to have a strong leaning towards reciprocity with home folks, and as they appear quite willing to make the first tender why it does look as if they might be right in their conclusions. A specific case: Concord wanted a new railroad depot, and the people of that town, as we understand it, had long contended for such. The Southern railroad had declined to furnish such, but at same time desired to rush its trains through Concord. Here is where the folks of Concord balked. They were perfectly willing to allow the the privilege, but thought that they should be allowed something in return; not in money, but in a needed railroad improvement, which they deemed just as necessary to their town as it was necessary for the trains to rush through Concord in order that passengers may save time and reach their destinations sooner. So Concord made a rule that all trains must stop first upon entering the town, the same as if at a depot. This put a crink in arrangements for through trains, and so now Concord, it is reported, is to have a new depot and the fast trains can rush through without interruption, unless flagged. Concord evidently knows its business.—Wilmington Dispatch.

ECCENTRIC WAGNER.

A Glimpse of the Famous Composer in One of His Moods.

Richard Wagner, the composer, needed a good deal of managing, and Frau Cosima was always tactful, according to Judith Gautier's "Wagner at Home." When the author hesitated before accepting Wagner's invitation to an excursion she says Frau Cosima made signs to her and, coming nearer, said in a low voice: "Do not refuse, he would be angry. And let him manage it all; let him take the lead, if you do not wish to grieve him."

Later on she gives another curious scene: "Behind the house, in that court which formed a part of the garden, and from which the carriage drive started, there was a high swing, which the children were allowed to use very carefully, and with which the older people sometimes amused themselves. One day Mme. Cosima was sitting on the narrow board. Wagner offered to start the swing and give her a good flight through the air. All went well for a time, but, little by little, the motion became more rapid; higher and still higher went the swing. In vain Mme. Cosima begged for mercy. Carried away by a kind of frenzy, the master paid no attention and the incident began to have a terrifying effect. "Cosima grew white; her hold relaxed, and she was about to fall. 'Do you not see that she is fainting?' I cried, throwing myself toward Wagner. He grew pale in his turn, and the danger was quickly averted. But, as the poor woman continued to be dizzy and trembling, the master concluded it would be wise to create a diversion. He ran rapidly toward the house, and by the aid of the shutters, the moldings and protections of the stones, he climbed nimbly up the side and, reaching the balcony of the floor above, leaped over it.

"He had obtained the desired effect, but in replacing one evil by another. Trembling with anxiety, Cosima turned to me, saying under her breath: 'Above all things, do not notice him; do not look surprised, or you can never tell where he will end.'"

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J.
