CAROLINA CLUB GETS GOOD ROADS LESSON

Gives An Informal Smoker Tuesday Night To Visitors

GOOD ROADS WAS THE THEME

Gentlemen Of The Atlantic Coast Line Good Roads Train As Guests Of The Carolina Club—A Few Hours Spent Pleasantly Together And Some Good Speeches.

Carolina club gave an informal smoker Tuesday night, having as guests the gentlemen here with the Atlantic Coast Line good roads train. There were Mr. E. L. Boylin, government chief expert on good road building; Mr. H. I. Chew, another government engineer; Mr. C. N. Clark, industrial agent of the Atlantic Coast Line, and Mr. C. M. Cobb, train master of the Atlantic Coast Line.

An hour was spent in social smoking as the members of the club came in and met the guests, and this was followed by President Dunn speaking a few words of welcome to the visitors and expressing pleasure at having them as guests of the club, adding that as the club felt much interest in good roads, the members would be glad to have some remarks from the gentlemen on this subject.

Mr. Boylin said that as he had been doing much speaking two to three times a day since starting out on this tour with the good roads train, and as he was to demonstrate good roads work to the public here Wednesday morning, he would confine his remarks before the club to the financial methods of getting roads. He said there are three methods of procuring funds to build roads—by popular subscriptions, by direct taxation and by bond issues.

Popular subscriptions to build roads is good so far as it goes, but can only apply to localities here and there and is not far reaching enough to be of much value. Direct taxation is good in counties that have a tax valuation sufficiently large for the levy to raise enough money to build roads quickly and systematically. Under these conditions you pay as you go and it is quickly over with. But if the value of a county is not large enough for this, the work of road building proceeds so slow as to be of little value and the burden of taxes too heavy on the individual. A bond issue provides a fund for the roads to be built quickly, and the payment is distributed over a long term so that the people get the benefit of the good roads while paying for them. The individual tax payer pays but little, and the paying for the roads is made even lighter by being distributed to future generations and increased population.

Census statistics show that good roads not only enhance property values, but also increase population, and it is just that the incoming population pay their part for the good roads in accordance with the benefits derived from them. Hence the bond issue is not generally regarded as the best method by which to build good roads.

Each of the other gentlemen in the train party followed with a few words. Then there came somewhat of an "open house" meeting, several members of the club making short talks, and the asking and answering questions that made the occasion a valuable lesson on good roads.

Capt. J. J. Laughinghouse, superintendent of the state prison, was present, and told of his recent visit to Iredell county where $400,000, raised by bond issue, is being expended for good roads. The work is under the direction of the best engineer that could be procured and is being done largely with mules and improved machinery, which is vastly better and more economical than building by hand with convicts. He said the competent engineer, the mules and the improved machinery is the way to build good roads.

Mayor F. M. Wooten, Mr. W. H. Dall, Jr., and Mr. S. J. Everett also made interesting talks. Mr. Everett especially emphasizing the fact that what is most needed is educating the masses to the necessity for good roads.

In the questions answered by Mr. Boylin it was brought out that sand-clay roads are much cheaper in construction and maintenance, costing

LIEUT. BRUCE COTTEN IN FISTIC ENCOUNTER

AN IRISHMAN, HIS OPPONENT.

Tarheel Army Officer Who Resigned To Wed Baltimore Belle Attacked By Hired Man On His Wife's Estate.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5.—A terrific fist fight to the finish was fought near the entrance to the garage at Cylburn, the beautiful suburban home of Mrs. Bruce Cotten, in the Green Spring Valley. Mr. Bruce Cotten, former lieutenant in the United States army who resigned from the service when he married Baltimore's leading society matron and son of Col. Randolph Cotten, of Cottendale, N. C., was one of the combatants. His opponent was William Green, a footman who was discharged on Friday from service in the Cotten household.

According to Mr. Cotten, the fight went to a "full finish," and "both men were nearly all in" when the gardener arrived to aid the master of the estate.

Mr. Cotten deeply regrets the occurrence, but says that he was forced to defend himself from an attack made on him by Green.

The former army lieutenant is a six-footer and built in proportion. His adversary is likewise a six-footer, an Irishman, and one who will fight at "the drop of the hat." It was not until Green struck him that Mr. Cotten became angry and let the footman it "hammer and tongs."

Mrs. Cotten is indignant, but exonerates Mr. Cotten from blame.

Mr. Cotten said there were four or five rounds. The proceedings lasted nearly ten minutes. A county policeman was summoned and escorted Green from the estate.

Just take him off the place, officer," said Mr. Cotten. "It all happened this way," said Mr. Cotten today:

"Green was discharged, and when I went to the garage he was hanging about. I told him that he had better leave the place, but he persisted in saying things that were not nice to hear. Finally he came to me and yelled at me, and then he let go and struck me.

"I saw that the man intended to fight. I saw that no one was about, so I thought that he could get what he was looking for. He came at me the second time and I let him have one. I think his reach was longer, but we were pretty evenly matched. We simply fought it out. That's all."

Mr. Cotten's knuckles were slightly stained and he sustained a few bruises. Green was bruised and battered.

AT THE GAILETY.

Present Program Comes To A Close Tonight.

Continuing along the lines of "the best for the best," the management of the Galety has engaged for the last three days of this week one of the best teams of "cross-talk" comedians touring the South. Richmond and Hess come to the Galety tomorrow and will be there up to Saturday. From all we hear this couple is there with the laughs and Greenville audiences will do well to go and listen to them.

The present program comes to a close tonight and those that up to now have not availed themselves of the opportunity for mirth offered should be sure to get there tonight.

Mr. Armstrong will continue his singing, and this alone should prove a very strong incentive to bring the people to the Galety.

Change in Constables.

Because of poor health Mr. G. A. Jackson, who for sometime was constable of Greenville township, on Tuesday tendered his resignation to the board of county commissioners, and Mr. J. L. Harris was elected to succeed him. There were five candidates for the vacancy.

hardly more than one-sixth as much as macadam roads. The life of the sand-clay road depends upon the character of construction and maintenance, just the same as with any other road. No road will last unless it is maintained, and a properly constructed and maintained sand-clay road will last indefinitely.

The good roads enthusiasm injected in it made the smoker one of much interest as well as pleasure.

Miss Mary Proctor District Number Two Maintains the Lead

Interest in Contest as End Approaches, Holds Readers of Reflector

BUT 4 DAYS FROM FINISH ALL CONTESTANTS DOING THEIR BEST

Some Contestants making Vital Mistake in Sacrificing Reserve in Order to Forge to the Lead—Keep your Votes for the finish but Increase their Total Success Will Be For Those Who Do Not Know How To Slacken—Defeat For Those Whose Certainty Of Winning Will Incapacitate Them For Further Work.

As the end of the contest comes still nearer and nearer, we cannot emphasize it enough. The work done by victory-meaning contestants these few remaining days is going to mean disappointment and defeat to those that think they have done enough to earn the prize they set out to conquer. A disappointment for which they will have nobody to blame but themselves, as due warning was given them at all stages of the contest, as to the possibilities to win. And not only this, but as far as we remember the best way to win was pointed out. So many prizes of unquestionable value, beauty and usefulness were offered by the Daily Reflector almost seven weeks ago. Since then contestants have been daily advised as to the very best means to annex some of those prizes. It seems to us that this is about the fairest way to treat candidates that could have been possible. So, when the final count is made by the judges next Saturday night, those that failed to follow our advice and "keep on" to the very end, might be confronted by the sad disappointment of defeat brought on by their own doing.

Make Four Remaining Days Hum With Activity.

Four days, or ninety-six hours, still separate every contestant from the finish. These days can be made mighty profitable by those candidates who appreciate the value of time and the possibilities that can be crowded into well-used time. In these ninety-six hours many victory-meaning contestants will secure thousands of votes which will probably spell victory when the final count is made. Every contestant should realize the value of the time left. Go for it, they fail to do so past efforts will go to waste by simply not continuing them a few days longer. When we start some piece of work and we are three-quarters through with it we hardly need anybody to tell us that it would be utterly foolish to lay the work down and trust that it will finish itself. Common sense would tell us that we were wrong in taking this point of view. The very same line of reasoning must be applied in a contest of this nature. There is not such a thing as success if you are to give up when only two-thirds of a race is run. In fact, that would not even put us in the class of "also-ran." And we are sure that every young lady that joined this contest nearly seven weeks ago agrees with us in what we have just said.

Perseverance Will Make You A Winner.

"Keeping everlastingly at it brings success" has been said and with every reason. Perseverance is simply "keeping everlastingly at it," and those that have tried it will be able to tell every candidate in the contest, that it is the only thing that will take that prize home for you. We can here recall the story of the hare that raced the turtle. The hare made such a fine start that pretty soon, in looking back, he could not even see that slow plodding turtle. Right here the speedy hare made a capital mistake. She should never have looked back. With her competitor out of sight she thought that there would be ample time for a nap. Nap she did and it so well that when she awoke, still the turtle was out of sight. Leisurely she trotted or hopped to the tree which marked the end of the run, and there was cordially greeted by the turtle. So much for intermittent efforts. The moral of this story is the little proverb that heads this paragraph, "keeping everlastingly at it, brings success."

For Your Own Sake.

Don't act like the hare, but rather like the turtle. Keep a-going until you reach the tape. The chances will be that there will not be so many to greet you there and you will have achieved something for which you will have a perfect right to feel proud. Just because the end is almost in sight it does not mean that you are there. The last lap of this race and the end of the contest will be simultaneous on Saturday night, next. Be sure to reach the goal ahead of the others, and this you will only be able to accomplish by "sticking to it to the finish."

ATLANTIC COAST LINE GOOD ROADS TRAIN

SPEND NIGHT AND MORNING HERE

An Interesting Road Exhibit With Demonstration And Lecture.

The good roads train fitted out jointly by the government and the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, and sent over this line of railroad through the states of Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida, under the direction of the office of public roads of the United States department of agriculture, reached Greenville Tuesday evening and gave a demonstration and lecture on road building this morning. The names of the gentlemen on this train are given in another article elsewhere in this issue. The train consists of an engine and four coaches, one of the coaches being fitted out with an exhibit of road models and road machinery and pictures of good and bad roads, another coach being for the lectures illustrated with moving pictures.

The road models in the exhibit car showed sections of macadam, sand-clay, earth, gravel, bituminous macadam and brick roads, with the method of mixing the material and constructing each kind of road. There were also working models of different kinds of road machinery, these being run by electricity. All around the exhibit car hung pictures of improved and unimproved roads, contrasting the difference between them. In the lecture car Mr. E. L. Boykin, the chief road expert of the government, lectured on road building, illustrating as he went along with pictures showing how road building is carried on. The whole exhibit and lecture was of much interest, and of great educational value in road building.

The Weather.

Fair tonight and Thursday; slightly warmer Thursday; light to moderate northeast winds.

SMITH'S SUCCESSOR SELECTED TOMORROW

Campaign Closing Today a Most Spirited One

3 CORNERED CONTEST FOR GOVERNOR

Resignation of Governor Smith And Necessity Of Special Election Were Brought About By Death Of Senator Clay, A Year Ago—Prohibition Leading Issue.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 6.—The permanent successor of Hoke Smith as governor of Georgia will be selected by the Democrats in a state-wide primary tomorrow. The campaign which closed today has been a very spirited one and has presented several unusual features.

The term of Governor Smith in the ordinary course of events would have expired in July, 1913. The resignation of Governor Smith and the necessity of a special election to select his successor were brought about by the death of United States Senator Clay a year ago. Upon the death of Senator Clay, Joseph M. Brown, who was then governor of Georgia, appointed ex-Governor Joseph M. Terrell to fill the vacancy in the senate but the legislature early in the present year named Governor Smith in his stead. Mr. Smith accepted the election to the senate but did not go to Washington during the special session of congress. He held on to the governorship until the middle of last month, when he resigned and was succeeded by John M. Slaton as acting governor. Mr. Slaton will continue to hold the office until the latter part of January, when the winner in tomorrow's primary will succeed him.

There are three candidates in the primary race. The first in the field was Col. J. Pope Brown, of Hawkinsville, who formerly held the office of state treasurer. Then came Richard B. Russell, of Russellville, a judge of Georgia court of appeals. Then last to enter the contest was ex-Governor Joseph M. Brown.

The candidacy of "Little Joe" Brown added spice to what would otherwise have been a very tame contest. For several years Brown has been the stormy petrel of Georgia politics. When Hoke Smith was first elected governor Brown held the office of railroad commissioner. The political differences that had long existed between the two were long in coming to a head and the result was that Governor Smith removed Brown from office.

Brown immediately began a campaign to succeed Smith in the governorship. He was successful in the primary and his election followed as a matter of course, for in Georgia the winner of the Democratic primary is as good as seated. But in his fight for re-election the victory was reversed and he was defeated by Hoke Smith, who again came into the governorship.

The entry of Brown into the present contest for governor naturally precipitated a renewal of the old-time bitter factional strife. The Smith adherents look upon Brown's plan as part of a plan of former Governor Terrell and the old machine to gain control of the Georgia Democracy and defeat Smith when he goes before the people for re-election as United States senator. Either J. Pope Brown or Judge Russell would be acceptable to the Smith faction in preference to "Little Joe."

The greatest difficulty facing the candidates at the beginning of the campaign was the dearth of important issues upon which to wage the contest. The old issues had been worn threadbare and no longer interested the people. Finally two of the candidates, J. Pope Brown and Judge Russell, decided that the question of prohibition should be the chief issue, though to the ordinary on-looker it would appear that the prohibition question had been disposed of as a live issue several years ago when the prohibitory amendment was added to the state constitution. But the prohibition law, or rather the manner of its enforcement, has given rise to considerable public discussion and more or less dissatisfaction, while the alleged intention of the liquor interests to start an organized campaign for the repeal of the amendment has served to further attract public attention

NEGRO JAHED FOR ATTEMPTED ARSON

MUST FACE A CAPITAL CHARGE

John Clark Sets Bed On Fire And Is Committed Without Bail.

On Monday night John Clark, colored, went to the home of a colored woman named Lizzie Joyner, who lives on First-street, and knocked for admission. Not being admitted he opened a window and crawled through into the room where the woman was. He picked up a lighted lamp from a stand and threw it at Lizzie, striking her head and cutting a gash on it. The woman fled from the house and summoned Policeman W. H. McGowan, who went and arrested John. On the way down town the prisoner got away from the officer. Policeman McGowan got Policeman G. A. Clark and the two went on a search for John.

Going back to Lizzie's house later they found that John had returned there and had shut himself up in one of the rooms. They heard striking matches in the room and going in found that John had piled Lizzie's clothes on the bed and set it on fire. The burning articles were thrown out the window and John was taken to the lock-up. Tuesday a preliminary trial was held before Justice C. D. Rountree, who committed the negro to jail without bail.

THE KIDNAPPING TRIAL.

Began Today, But Proceeds Very Slowly.

The preliminary trial of N. L. Tripp on the charge of kidnapping his wife, Mrs. Dora Tripp, on the night of Nov. 25th, she being previously separated from him and instituted proceedings for divorce, was called today before Justice L. A. Moyer.

The first step of counsel for the defense was to ask that an amendment to the original warrant charging assault with deadly weapon and false arrest to be stricken out. This was argued at some length by counsel on both sides, and the court decided that the trial would proceed on the charge of kidnapping, other elements to accomplish this to be considered.

Mrs. Tripp was the first witness and said in substance that Mr. Tripp overtook her and her sister, Mrs. Evans, while they were returning home from the moving picture show, that he got out of the buggy and asked her to go with him, which she declined to do; that he thereupon took hold of her and by force put her in the buggy and drove away, carrying her to the home of Mr. Clark, three miles from town. On the way he pulled a pistol from his pocket, thrust it in her face, saying, "Beattie was executed yesterday for killing his wife, and I'll be d— if I am not going to kill you." On cross-examination she stated that she did not love Mr. Tripp and did not want to live with him any more.

The trial proceeded very slowly, the evidence having to be written down by the court, and the above is all the particulars we can give today, the examination of the first witness not being completed by noon and there being many witnesses to examine.

Bazaar Begins Successfully.

The first night of the Christmas bazaar being conducted in the Proctor building by the ladies of the Methodist church, was in every way a success. A large crowd attended and purchases were liberal.

to the question. As the campaign progressed it became more and more manifest that the liquor question was to be almost the sole issue.

Judge Russell is carrying the local option banner, while J. Pope Brown is an out-and-out prohibitionist and strenuously opposed to "any scheme that could possibly bring the legalized sale of liquor back into Georgia." Former Governor Joseph Brown is the only one of the three candidates who has declined to make the prohibition question the paramount issue. He has shown an inclination to treat the matter lightly from the beginning of the contest, though he has made a public discussion and more or less dissatisfaction, while the alleged intention of the liquor interests to start an organized campaign for the repeal of the amendment has served to further attract public attention

OLD ENOUGH TO STAND ALONE.

It seems that every writer wishing to describe the location of Greenville falls into the error of saying it is located "midway between Washington and Tarboro, on Tar river." Now, gentlemen, don't you think Greenville is quite old enough to stand alone on the map? Greenville is about as well known as either Tarboro or Washington, and is a much better town than either. Let's, in the future, describe our location from a geographical standpoint, so that a stranger out west or in China can put his finger on the spot by simply tracing the degree lines across the map. Greenville is located 77 degrees longitude and 35 degrees latitude (just above the crossing of the lines), and if you ever have occasion to write about our location refer to it again if you have forgotten the figures, but never say "Greenville is located on Tar river midway between Washington and Tarboro," because all four points occupy comparatively small space on the map of North Carolina and a man in another state might look up near Asheville for them, as that is the most widely advertised spot in the state.

The coming of the Atlantic Coast Line good roads train was something immensely worth while. Through the co-operation of the railroad and the government this train was fitted out for demonstrations and lectures on good roads building, and at its own expense the railroad is carrying this train over its entire system, stopping at important centers to bring to the people object lessons and instruction they could get in no other way. It is a campaign of education that will be far reaching in its effects, and the Atlantic Coast Line is to be commended for this good work.

Some folks regard railroads as oppressive enemies of the people, but the running of good roads trains to give instruction in this public need, and the bringing of excursions of home seekers to help build up the section, prove this impression very erroneous. Both the Atlantic Coast Line and the Norfolk Southern railroads are doing much to develop Eastern North Carolina, and other roads are equally active in other sections of the state.

According to a report of Maj. W. A. Graham, commissioner of agriculture, 711,380 tons of fertilizers were sold in North Carolina this year at a cost of $15,000,000. It takes nearly half the cotton raised in the state to pay this enormous fertilizer bill. No wonder so many of the farmers are poor.

From their pictures one of the McNamaras looks like he might be a decent sort of a fellow, but the other—well, tough looking hardly expresses it. Yet you cannot always judge by appearances.

Ends Winter's Troubles.
To many, winter is a season of trouble. The frost-bitten toes and fingers, chapped hands and lips, chilblains, cold-sores, red and rough skins, prove this. But such troubles fly before Bucklen's Arnica Salve. A trial convinces. Greatest healer of burns, boils, piles, cuts, sores, bruises, eczema and sprains. Only 25c at all druggists.

Carolina club is strong enough in number and ability to get almost anything for Greenville that may be started out for. And we want to see the starting come early and often.

The president's message read in congress Tuesday treated almost exclusively on the anti-trust law.

You can mark it down that Carolina club is for good roads, too. Let the good work go on.

James Moore, $100.
In the will of Mr. J. P. Caldwell appears this paragraph:

"Fourth. I give and bequeath to James Moore, colored, one hundred dollars."

James Moore is janitor of The Observer building, having served in that capacity for about ten years. His predecessor was a black man named Frank. When Frank died, Mr. Caldwell attended his funeral, wrote a feeling tribute to the worth of the departed and "addressed himself to the duties of another day." We remember that he said to us he would "never get another darkey like Frank," and we agreed with him, but James Moore came in to fill the place. He has more than done so. But we are writing this to tell of the appreciation of the Southern white man for the worthy negro. All through the South there are thousands of men who claim loyalty to a black man—to "my nigger," as Mr. Caldwell would have said of James—and claiming this loyalty, would fight for him. James Moore is one of the type of the better class of negroes in the South. It was his honesty, his integrity and his industry that attracted the admiration of Mr. Caldwell, and that moved him to remember a faithful servant in his will. There are not too many colored men of the stamp of James Moore in the South, but he is of the type to which the Southern white man leaves after-death remembrance. This tribute to the worth of a colored man should have a place in the literature of the country.—Charlotte Chronicle.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

The navy eleven has made a great showing the past two years, not having lost a game.

Pennsylvania wants another big game next season, and will try to schedule a contest with either Dartmouth or Williams.

While Yale and Harvard were trying new tricks, Princeton played football that was in vogue twenty years ago and got away with it.

Coach Stagg, of Chicago, does not agree with the eastern coaches in regard to a change in the football rules. Stagg says the present rules are all right.

In the past four years Yale has not been able to cross Harvard's goal line and the Crimson has been held this side of Yale's goal line. You couldn't wish for a more even break than that.

Agreed.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of serious kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that these ills can be cured. Read what a Greenville citizen says:

Mrs. Fannie Moore, 214 Pitt street, Greenville, N. C., says: "I feel very grateful for the relief I have received from Doan's Kidney Pills, which I obtained from the John L. Wooten Drug Company. Backache annoyed me and there was much lameness and weakness through my loins. My kidneys did not do their work as they should and the kidney secretions bothered me. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief from these symptoms of kidney complaint and improved my condition in every way."

Christmas Gifts

Christmas is nearly here with all of it's joy-giving and you can not give that newly-married couple, that wife or that sweet-heart a more appropriate thing and one that will give more real comfort and joy than a nice Chair, Couch, Buffet, Dresser, Rug, Dining Table or Picture.

Our store is over-stocked with such good and useful articles named and we invite you to come to see us whether you buy or not. Look over the stock and we will leave the rest to your good judgment.

Yours truly,

Be Strong.

We are not here to play, to dream, to drift; We have hard work to do, and loads to lift; Shun not the struggle, face it. 'Tis God's gift.

Be strong! It matters not how entrenched the wrong, How hard the battle goes, the day how long; Faint not—fight on! Tomorrow comes the song.

Protect Your Interests.

That is what you have an opportunity of doing in the special sale going on at C. T. Munford's big store. Goods were never before sold at such low prices in Greenville, and by making your purchases here you protect your interests by saving the large difference in price. All goods in the store are going at the low prices, as you will see when you call. Do not delay to get the benefit of this sale, but come while the low prices prevail. Remember that C. T. Munford's is the place to get bargains on your holiday purchases as well as on your every-day needs.

The ladies of the Episcopal church will have on sale during the holidays, at the office of W. H. Dall, Jr., a beautiful line of goods suitable for Christmas presents, including china, bric-a-brac, pictures and silverware. See them before purchasing your holiday gifts.

THE HAPPENINGS AROUND AYDEN

MRS. JOHN H. TRIPP DEAD.

Bank Robbers Caught In Houston, Virginia.

AYDEN, N. C., Dec. 6.—Thanksgiving day passed off here so quiet anyone would have thought it the Sabbath. There was service in several of the churches, and our people were mindful of the widow and orphan; and, furthermore, we never saw the least sign of intoxicants.

Messrs. G. W. Prescott and B. Forrest returned Tuesday night from Houston, Va., where they went to identify the two men who had been arrested for burglary. They say that they are the men seen here the day that the bank was attacked that night. These two men had been seen in the town of Virgelina and other neighboring towns, where banks and post offices had been robbed, and had been shadowed by the citizens and the conductor had been on the lookout for them. He wired the cashier they were on his train and a posse was formed and guarded the bank and about twelve o'clock they saw them approaching; one of the posse unthoughtfully whistled, which frightened them off and supposing they would board the next train to leave town which would be in a few hours the posse went to the depot as though they were going 'possum hunting. When the train pulled in they saw the two robbers enter the car, one going to each end and taking their seat. The posse divided, some going to each end of the car, and when the train was running at full speed the signal was given and each robber covered with guns. They offered no resistance, but each had heavy pistols on their persons and in their grips were found a full set of up-to-date burglar tools, consisting of flash lights, batteries, fuse, drills, near a quart of nitro glycerine, and a large bunch of miscellaneous keys, two of which was exactly like the one left in the door of the Bank of Ayden. They were promptly landed in jail and will have a preliminary hearing on December 8th. The prisoners have retained Harry Smith, of Richmond, to defend them, the same lawyer that appeared for Henry Beattie, while the solicitor, insurance and government will assist in the prosecution.

Miss Edith Mumford, who is teaching at LaGrange, spent Thanksgiving here with her parents, and returned Sunday evening.

Miss Nina Smith spent Thanksgiving visiting relatives in town.

Mrs. John H. Tripp is very sick at the home of her father in Morehead.

Hardware, mill supplies, guns, pistols and ammunition at J. R. Smith & Bro's.

The new bank safe has been installed and insured against fire and burglars.

There is lots of cotton still in the fields around here. Mr. Skit Heath tells us he has rented for another year, so as to house the present crop.

Mrs. Lambert Beaseley is visiting her niece, Mrs. Eugene Cannon.

Catham county can boast of her rabbits and Pitt of her 'possums. We saw a large one in the express office here addressed to R. E. Darden, Franklin, Va.

We regret to learn of the death of our old friend and neighbor, Henry Tripp, which occurred at his home near Reedy Branch on Thanksgiving day. We have known Mr. Tripp all our life, while a boy of humble circumstances, and limited education he was a good farmer, neighbor and citizen, and accumulated an estate worth several thousand dollars. Mr. Tripp suffered an attack of apoplexy near a year ago, from which he never recovered.

At the home of the bride's father, Mr. C. S. Sumrell, in South Ayden, last Sunday evening, Mr. Robert C. Davis and Mrs. Julia Munn were made man and wife by Rev. E. T. Phillips officiating. We predict a happy life, as both had pulled in double harness before.

In the dry goods store of Messrs. J. E. Cannon & company, decorated with a beautiful display of fall calicoes and perfumed with kerosene oil, fish, barrels of apples and hot chocolate, Sunday morning Mr. Richard Moore and Miss Myrtle Eaks were made man and wife.

You marry the girl; we can furnish the home and farm for you. J. R. Smith & Bro.

The town and community was made sad Monday morning when the sad news reached here from Morehead of the death of Mrs. John H. Tripp, after all that medical skill and loving hands could do. She succumbed to that awful pneumonia. She leaves an infant one week old. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved husband and little babe. Both Odd Fellows and Pythians of which Mr. Tripp was a member, sent beautiful boxes of flowers as a token of their high regard and sympathy.

Mr. J. A. Griffin has bought of L. D. McGlohon, the old Skitton Den-nis homestead, near Harrington's X Roads. The consideration was $200 per acre.

Mr. John David Jones has bought a farm in Craven county, near Fort Barnwell.

Hardware, all sorts and kinds, harness, wash pots, lime, cement, and hair. J. R. Smith & Bro.

Mr. Benj. T. Smith spent Monday night here with his daughter, Mrs. Eugene Cannon. Mr. Smith had been to Kinston to take his son for an operation at the Robt. Bruce Memorial hospital.

Rev. B. W. Marshbourne, of Farmville, arrived Saturday night and preached sermons Sunday morning and night in the Christian church.

At a meeting of the I. O. O. F. Monday night there were two initiated and the following officers elected:

Dr. W. H. Dixon, N. G.
A. E. Garris, V. G.
J. E. Cannon, R. S.
H. G. Burton, F. S.
J. R. Smith, Treas.

GARDNERSVILLE ITEMS.

Personal Notes Around That Neighborhood.

GARDNERSVILLE, N. C., Dec. 6.—Prof. J. L. Saunders, of the Industrial Christian College, preached at Timothy Sunday.

Miss Ethel Mumford, from near Ayden, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Minnie Belle Witherington.

Misses Lula and Mamie Stocks were visiting Miss Velma Kirkman Sunday.

Messrs. Jarvis Batchelor and Elbert Moore went to Stokes Sunday. Saturdays seem to be Sheriff Kilpatrick's busiest days of late.

Miss Marriette Brown, who is teaching school at Gardnersville, went home Sunday for a short stay. Mr. Zebra Cox and sister, Miss Zada, spent Sunday with Miss Mable Skinner.

Mr. George Moore was visiting Mr. Harry Lee Wethering Sunday.

Miss Mary Lancaster spent Saturday night with Miss Faye E. Coré.

There will be a box party at Gardners' School house Friday night, December 8th. Everybody is invited to come.

Lightning Kills Few.

In 1906 lightning killed only 169 people in this whole country. One's chances of death by lightning are less than two in a million. The chance of death from liver, kidney or stomach trouble is vastly greater, but not as a token of their high regard of Electric Bitters be used as Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Ia., after eight months of suffering from virulent liver trouble and pellow jaundice. He was then completely cured by Electric Bitters. They're the best stomach, liver, nerve and kidney remedy and blood purifier on earth. Only 50 cents at all druggists.

STALK CUTTER

The Parlin & Orendorf Co., Canton, Ill., made the first Stalk Cutter ever built, over 50 years ago; today they are building the best Stalk Cutter on the market

You need weight in a Stalk Cutter to do good work. You get it in this one—and with weight you get strength. The P. & O. is practically indestructible. Beware of light, flimsy stalk cutters—you will rue the day you buy one. This one will last a life-time. What do the manufacturers themselves think of it? "Back it up with an unqualified guarantee." That is putting it pretty strong—what more can you ask?

McNAMARAS SENTENCED.

James B. McNamara "Gets" Life— His Brother 15 Years.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 5.—J. B. McNamara, confessed murderer, was sentenced to life imprisonment here today by Judge Walter Bordwell. His brother, John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, who confessed to dynamiting the Llewellyn Iron Works, was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary.

McNamara's brief confession, penned by his own hand late yesterday, was made public. It reads:
"I, James B. McNamara, defendant in the case of the people, having heretofore plead guilty to the crime of murder, desire to make this statement of facts and this is the truth: On the night of September 13, 1910, at 5:45 p. m., I placed in the ink alley, a portion of the Times building, a suitcase containing 16 sticks of 80 per cent dynamite, set to explode at 1 o'clock the next morning. It was my intention to injure the building and scare the owners. I did not intend to take the life of anyone. I sincerely regret these unfortunate men lost their lives. If giving my life would bring them back, I would gladly give it. In fact, in pleading guilty to murder in the first degree, I have placed my life in the hands of the state."
"Signed).

"JAMES B. McNAMARA."
McNamara's confession covers one side of an ordinary sheet of paper and was written with a fountain pen and witnessed by one of the attorneys. It is probably the only written statement of the case will be ever made by the writer or his brother, John J. McNamara, who pleaded guilty to dynamiting the Llewellyn Iron Works.

A HELPFUL TALK.

Rev. J. H. Shore At The Training School.
Rev. J. H. Shore conducted the exercises at assembly at the Training school this morning. He read the story of the vine and the branches.

He said this table talk of Christ furnished the true key to all permanent success in life; the key word is "abide." You must get a true vision and keep your mind centered on the vision, being willing to work quietly through the years, trusting for results. The temptation to take night cuts and do superficial work is great. The true test of discipleship is service, fruit bearing.

Mr. Shore paid a high compliment to the spirit of the school when he said he had never met such unanimous response from any other audience as he always met from this student body.

His visits to the school will be greatly missed. Faculty and students bid him God speed.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Meets Next Saturday, December Ninth.

The regular monthly session of the Teachers' association will be held in the auditorium of the graded school, Saturday, December 9th, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

It is proposed to make this an exceedingly helpful meeting and every teacher in the county is expected to be present. North Carolina day programs will be distributed and a suggested program for you to use will be given with full explanations. Come and let us make this a great meetings. I need not say that the law compels you to attend these meetings or your vouchers cannot be approved.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best blood purifiers, combined with the mucus surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O. Here Is Where The Draft Enters

The most perfect draft ever discovered is the patent Hot Blast Down Draft of the Wilson Heater. The only draft that secures perfect combustion and prevents waste. This draft is found only in the

Wilson HOT BLAST Heater

The air enters at the top, drives the combustible gases into the fire where they are burned—prevents the escape of heat up the chimney—doubles the heating power of the fuel. In other words, only half the amount of fuel used in ordinary heaters is necessary. The Wilson is air-tight, making perfect combustion possible and a fire can be held 36 hours. We sell Wilson Hot Blast Heaters for either wood or coal.
