BRILLIANT RECEPTION AT SCHOOL

Such audiences are seldom brought together, even in towns many times larger than Greenville, as was assembled in the auditorium of East Carolina Teachers Training school, Thursday night, at the public meeting of the council of the Federation of Women's Clubs. Not only were the people of the town out in large numbers, but there were also many visitors from neighboring towns.

Mrs. R. R. Cotten, president of the council, presided over the meeting most gracefully, introducing each of the participants in the program in truly happy and interesting vein that delighted the audience. She is indeed an ideal presiding officer. From what transpired in this meeting the public has a much better idea of what the federation and the work of club women means, and the effect on the social and civic life of the state. After the "Pilgrim's Chorus" was charmingly sung by the school, President Robt. H. Wright delivered the address of welcome. We have heard Mr. Wright make good speeches before but none ever better than on this occasion. He said that Greenville's slogan could never be more appropriately applied than now, and turning to the women of the council added "before you came it was 'Our Greenville,' but since you have come (Continued on Third Page).

TAFT WANTS NEGRO VOTE

Desertion of Hook Signifies President Wants It

HOOK UPHELD "JIM CROW LAW"

That Taft Had Made up His Mind to Win the Negro Votes of the Northern States is Latest Comment in Regards to Appointment of Nagel for the Bench.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—August McSweeney, the Philadelphia North American's Washington correspondent today furnishes that paper the following interesting information concerning why President Taft threw down Judge Hook, of Kansas, whom it was believed generally he would name as United States Supreme court justice to succeed the late Justice Harlan. Mr. McSweeney, in his correspondence, says:

"To strengthen himself with the negro voters of the north, and to aid in obtaining delegates from the south, who will support him in the national convention, President Taft has decided to use an appointment to the Supreme court bench to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Justice Harlan.

"To do this he has abandoned his intention of elevating Judge Hook, of Kansas, from the Circuit court, and will probably make a Supreme court justice out of his present secretary of commerce and labor, Nagel.

"The abandonment of Hook was made known to administration senators today, after a cabinet conference had been held. The reason Hook will not be appointed is that he concurred in a decision upholding the Jim Crow car law of Oklahoma.

Big Athletic Meet at Boston.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 9.—The annual indoor track and field games of the Boston Athletic association, to be held in Mechanics' hall tomorrow night, will attract to this city more than 400 athletes representing all the prominent colleges and most of the leading athletic clubs of the east. The decision of the B. A. A. to permit only the best track and field athletes to compete assures interesting competitions in all the events.

STATE CONDENSED NEWS FROM ALL OVER THE OLD NORTH STATE

Hard to Get Jury.

NEW BERN, Feb. 9.—At the opening of yesterday's session of Superior court the case of the State vs. Baker Bryan, charged with the murder of young William Avery in this city on last Christmas night was called. Two hundred men had been summoned on the special venire and the work of selecting the jury was begun at once. All through the day this continued and at 7 o'clock last night the venire had been exhausted and only ten of them had been selected to sit on the jury. Judge Foushee ordered another special venire of 75 men to be summoned and for them to be on hand Saturday morning. At that time the trial will be continued.

Implement Dealers Adjourn.

GREENSBORO, Feb. 9.—Virginia and North Carolina Association of Retail Implement Machinery and Vehicle Dealers closed a two-day session here today with the selection of Richmond, Virginia, as the place for holding the next annual convention and election of the following officers: S. M. Bumpass, Greensboro, president; H. L. Smith, Petersburg, Va., first vice-president; Graves Smith, Goldsboro, N. C., second vice-president; and Charles Bailey, Richmond, Va., third vice-president. The secretary is to be named by the board of directors.

Death of George A. Gray.

CHARLOTTE, Feb. 9.—George A. Gray, one of the pioneer cotton manufacturers of the south, died suddenly this morning at his home in Gastonia. Three weeks ago, Mr. Gray was operated on for appendicitis, and while he was thought to be recuperating splendidly from the operation, pneumonia developed, resulting in his sudden death today. Starting life as a doffer boy at a wage of thirty cents a day, unable to read or write, he had built and owned the controlling interest in fourteen cotton mills at the time of his death, several of them having numbered among the most successful plants in the south.

Coast Line Machinist is Killed by a Train.

ROCKY MOUNT, Feb. 8.—H. V. Bryson, aged 25, machinist at South Rocky Mount, was run over and instantly killed at 7:30 last night. The body was horribly mangled. He has been living here for several years. He leaves a wife and three children. He was standing on the track and there were no eye witnesses to state how the accident happened. Mr. Bryson was one of the most popular machinists on the Atlantic Coast Line system.

Sumers of Foul Play in Tragedy.

RALEIGH, Feb. 8.—A sensational turn was given the mysterious case of asphyxiation of the three Benson men, when this afternoon William Hunter, head waiter at Wilson's Chop House, connected with the apartments in which the triple tragedy occurred, was jailed on the charge of the larceny of a revolver and $100 from the ill-fated men. Officers hunt at developments showing foul play.

Receiver of Bank of Jonesboro Appointed.

JONESBORO, Feb. 9.—Judge Whedbee this evening appointed A. A. F. Seawell, of Jonesboro, receiver for the Bank of Jonesboro, and he will take charge tomorrow. Bank Examiner Brown tonight made a statement concerning the affairs of the institution in which he said that all the capital stock ($6,000) would be a total loss.

Child Burned to Death.

WINSTON-SALEM, Feb. 9.—The four-year-old child of Rev. and Mrs. W. Williams, of Rural Hall, was so badly burned at 11 o'clock yesterday that it died this afternoon. The child was alone in the room when its clothing supposedly caught from a spark from the fire-place. The mother, who was summoned by the child's screams, found the little one wrapped in flames.

ASHEVILLE ALSO HAS SUCH LAW IN ITS CHARTER

At Thursday Night's Meeting of the Law and Order League Mr. B. C. Beckwith Makes Discovery of Law in Raleigh Charter, and a Great Demonstration is Made When He Reads Same.

RALEIGH, Feb. 9.—The reading of this sweeping statute last night at the organization of the Law and Order League of Raleigh brought into the meeting already markedly aroused over its high mission, a degree of enthusiasm never seen here before.

It came with the unexpectedness of Rev. R. D. Davis's several exhibits a few Sundays ago, when in an afternoon temperance rally he brought forth the outward and visible signs of an inward and spiritual disgrace. The presence of just such a law, which enables one to expose, at least, a shining and malignant locality of infamy, was almost more than the crowd could accept, but the writing was so plain that he that ran could read and reading understand.

It was a great demonstration. Newspaper men who two weeks ago could write only of enthusiasm where numbers sorely lacked, of eloquence where concrete action was so much wanted, found in last night's meeting an ideal rally. The crowd was overwhelming; the enthusiasm was impelling; the speeches were good reading, and the people harmonious. Not an incident put up its head to thwart the even working of the night.

The league enters the field of law enforcement without a string. It finds a public sentiment strong enough to banish every pint of illicit aqua fortis, every gill of red-eye rot-gut, every ounce of half-distilled damnation and ### Scheme to Flood South With Supplements Relative to Underwood Follows Visit of His Manager, Senator Bankhead, to Thomas F. Ryan.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Following is a special dispatch sent out from Washington by a Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia North American, which furnishes some interesting information concerning the "publicity plans" of the Underwood campaign for the presidential nomination.

The dispatch, in full, is as follows:

"Some idea of the activity of the Underwood candidacy for the Democratic nomination, and the financial strength behind that candidacy is revealed by a circular letter which has been sent to all the weekly newspapers in the Southern States, offering to pay for the publication of a special supplement in each of these newspapers booming Underwood. "The letter is signed by Senator John H. Bankhead, of Alabama, who, according to his letter head, is the chairman of the Underwood campaign committee.

Hearing for Strike Leaders.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 9.—Joseph J. Etor, leader of the cotton mill strikers, and his principal assistants, Arthur Giovannitti, editor of a New York socialist paper, were arraigned before Judge Chandler today for a preliminary hearing in a charge of being accessories in the murder of Anna Lopizzi, an Italian mill worker who was hot in the street riots here two weeks ago. The riots and the killing of the Lopizzi woman followed a proclamation alleged to have been issued by Etor and his assistant counseling the strikers to use violence. If held to the grand jury the two accused men probably will be obliged to remain in jail until the opening of the April term of court.

To Greet Chief Scout.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Several thousand delegates from various points in the United States and Canada assembled in this city today to attend the second annual meeting of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America and to meet General Sir Baden-Powell, the founder and head of the Boy Scout movement. The famous soldier will conclude his New York visit with a lecture tomorrow night and the next day he will start on a tour that will end at San Francisco the second week in March.

Christian Endeavors Meet.

Teachers Meet in Oshkosh.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Feb. 9.—Scores of teachers are here attending the 21st annual meeting of the Northeast Teachers' association. Every city and town in the territory covered by the association is represented, and it is said to be the largest convention ever held by the association. E. H. Deeman of Neesh is presiding over the sessions, which will last two days. A number of educators of wide prominence are on the program.

LEAP YEAR SOCIAL DANCE

Social at Carolina Club Was Well Attended

LUNCH GIVEN AT MRS. R. J. COBB'S

The young ladies of the Greenville social set entertained Thursday night at the Carolina Club in a leap year dance that was well attended and which proved very successful. About twenty couples enjoyed the dancing from 9 to a little after 1 o'clock.

The decorations of the ball room were most appropriate. Electric lights were shaded and hearts of many sizes and degrees of crimson hue hung from every available support to remind the young men that there was danger of declarations, not of independence, but very much the other way. As it is no proposals are reported.

Full credit should be given the Misses Smith, Cobb, Shelburn and Forbes for preparing the club for the evening. Of course Messrs. Gates and Kittrell also helped to decorate and reach such places as made a ladder dangerous for feminine reach.

Altogether a delightful evening was spent and the young ladies surely proved that they are quite capable to keep up with the young men of our community, when it comes to social entertainments.

After the dance a lunch was given at Mrs. Cobb's, complimentary to Misses Hines and Staples, by the Misses Smith, Moore, Shelburn, Cobb and Mrs. Dunn. The party broke up at Mrs. Cobb's well satisfied with an evening which had brought forth so much happiness and enjoyment. The guests at the dance were: Miss Mary Shelburn with Mr. M. Bass. Miss Lucille Cobb with Mr. J. B. Kittrell. Miss Mary Smith with Mr. Cecil Cobb. Miss Ward Moore with Mr. Wm. Patrick. Miss Staples, Virginia, with Mr. Alec Blow. Miss Clara Hines, of Kinston, with Mr. John Shelburn. Miss Myers with Mr. Chas. James. (Continued on Third Page)

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1912.

C. W. MORSE.

And now even that sober-minded, fair publication that has attained the stupendous circulation of one million and three quarter copies per weekly issue, has slipped in the slippery pavement of resentment, and joining hands with those that believe that the lower a man sinks, the harder he should be kicked, has registered a protest.

We quote an editorial of last issue of the Saturday Evening Post:

"Pardoning Morse, the bank wrecker, was a humane act; but he was able to get the pardon not because he had not been a great criminal, or because he was sick, or because he had an innocent family—but because his crime was of the genteel sort and he had influence. If he had blown open a postoffice safe and abstracted the registered mail he would not have been pardoned."

We can't hardly agree with the contemporary of the large circulation and the very good reading matter and numerous pages of ads. We can't agree with it from any point of view.

To begin with Morse was himself a victim of the laxity with which banking laws were enforced previous to the panic of '07. Yes, and even to the laxity with which banking laws are enforced today. Example is one great old thing that spurs most of us to accomplish. If previous to the crash of '07 Morse had looked around for an example from which to conduct his banking business, we are afraid that the get-rich-quick route must have suggested itself to him from the many cases of banks managed for shabby speculative enterprises. If the law was made for one, it was likewise made for two and three and more. And if bankers were thriving under certain methods of conducting their business and nobody was "kicking any" small wonder that Morse, or Tom, or Dick, or Harry would make ready to patronize the system. Wrong, of course, but, nevertheless too general to hardly be illegal.

It was quite natural that the authorities should do a "hurry up act" and keep their jobs by sending somebody "up." Unfortunately for Morse, very fortunate for others, Morse was appointed "goat in general" for the '07 wreck and to satisfy the public and assume an air of justice, the authorities rushed Morse to Atlanta.

If it had been put to a vote by Morse's creditors, does the writer of the quoted editorial doubt for a minute what would have been the outcome? Morse would have never been imprisoned and today his creditors would have been paid dollar for dollar, which we venture to say is a good deal more than they will receive now. Morse showed in his returning from Europe that he meant well and in acting fairly with the authorities that were after him, showed a good faith that is hardly a trait of the criminal. For these reasons we say that Morse was a victim.

How long did it take him to build a credit on his return from England?

A very short time, it will be remembered. In fact, he had no sooner returned that he had one of his steamship companies in a much better standing than it had ever stood.

Unfortunately Morse had been a very successful financier and the small fry of Wall street could never forgive him for it. They were after him, and crimes which were committed by these self-same small fry, at his very shadow were pinned onto his name for good measure.

It was said at the time of his conviction and sentence that it was an excellent example to madcap financiers. If so, how much truth has there been in it? Not much. And besides what right had the authorities to make him the example for the edification of other delinquents who if the law is as level as it is claimed to be, should have gone to keep Morse company in Atlanta?

Morse was a gambler of securities and in one case a near necessity, ice. Yet there are now many men who gamble in real necessities and they go about their business unhampered, except for a good natured poke in the ribs administered when their good humor in handling these real necessities carries them a little too far.

Morse was rightfully convicted and sentenced, but the precedent set up by our authorities in allowing others to go free, more than makes up for his pardoning.

NOT HERE.

One of the metropolitan dailies had a picture the other day calculated to have brought tears to the eyes of the most seasoned campaign manager.

Directly after the Delhi, hundreds of natives were snapped in the act of kissing the recently vacated thrones of the British and Indian rulers.

What would a Harmon, or a Wilson, or a Taft "booster" give for faithfulness as depicted there? $5.00 a head would be a cheap price. Can any one imagine such a mark of reverence every time our own "Bill" removes his avoirdupois from the White House chair? Hardly. Yet what a curious sight this would be and what joy would overflow the hearts of the political boosters! Is it that we lack the respect for the "big men" or that we are more civilized? And if we are more civilized, as we readily admit, why is it that we do not use our privilege to better advantage? Why not go ahead and do a little thinking of our own and use the privileges we are given and elect the man we really want? This is a most appropriate time to make a few reflections along those lines. In a few months we'll have to tell who we want to see in the White House and it would be a mighty pleasant happening were we to see "the man we want take his seat in the coveted chair."

Under-Drainage Necessary.

The question of controlling moisture is always of the utmost importance to the Southern farmer. There is scarcely a year in which at some part of the season the crops do not suffer because of insufficient water. On the other hand, few seasons pass in which at some time during the growing period the crops, or some of them, do not suffer from too much rain.

These conditions are not exceptional. Last year many parts suffered for lack of moisture, but even during this generally dry season, the cotton crop of a considerable area, in the Gulf States, suffered from too much rain than from any other unfavorable condition. In this territory the army worm is thought to have done much damage, but excessive rains during July and August did much more damage to the crop.

We know of no section more generally blessed with an equitable rainfall than the cotton belt. It is true that the amount of rain during the year is large compared with the Northern States; but it is equally distributed on the whole and is not usually excessive on land properly drained and cultivated. It is also true that the quantity of rain best suited for corn growing is just a little more than cotton requires for best results; but while we suffer almost every year from both too much and too little rain at different times, proper management will very largely offset these unfavorable conditions and the question is of the greatest importance to Southern farmers.

Land which becomes too wet for any considerable length of time also suffers most from lack of moisture when periods of dry weather are prolonged sufficiently. This being the case, drainage becomes the point of first consideration. Where the rainfall is a heavy as ours, under-drainage becomes a necessity. When several inches fall in a few hours, and over fifty inches in the year, it is impossible that this water be carried off over the surface quickly enough without carrying with it too much soil fertility. On the other hand, lands in the present condition of ours can not absorb and handle these large quantities of water without the aid of under-drainage.

If these be facts,—and they are,—then under-drainage is a necessity on all the stiff lands, and most other lands in the South. This is the first and essential step in controlling our soil moisture problems. Of course, this is expensive, and better surface drainage must be largely employed for the immediate improvement of the present conditions. In fact, better drainage by ditches (usually large ones) is the first step to successful tile drainage and the complete solution of the problem. When the excess of water is taken care of as best it can, then the next essential steps in guarding against failure of the crop from lack of moisture are deeper plowing, better cultivation and a larger supply of humus.—Progressive Farmer.

Road Drag Did It.

In commenting the road drag the other day we said we didn't know whether it could be put to as good use in the winter as in summer or not, but that it was giving most satisfactory service anyway and was being used more than ever. A friend who has urged the use of the drag almost constantly for the past several years and has had a big part in creating the sentiment in favor of it and the good roads sentiment in general, tells us that winter is the proper time to use the drag. And here is another illustration of its successful use, taken from the Troy Montgomerian:

"All of us thought the roads were ruined when the freezes, snow, sleet and rain put in their work recently. Not so. Mr. D. W. Saunders, who lives three miles southwest of Troy, put his mules to a split log drag and in half a day converted what was an almost impassable road between his place and town into the same admirable turnpike that it was before the bad weather set in. We had begun to despair of good roads, thinking them a failure, but since Mr. Saunders has demonstrated that the most trying weather cannot deprive us of good roads long at a time, we are stronger than ever in favor of good roads."—Raleigh Evening Times.

Forsaken.

The word is said, and I no more shall know
Aught of the changing story of her days,
Nor any treasure that her lips bestow.

And I who loving her was wont to praise
All things in love, now reft of music go
With silent step down unfrequented ways.

My soul is like a lonely market place
Where late were laughing folk and shining steeds,
And many things of comeliness and grace.

And now between the stones are twisting weeds,
No sound there is, nor any friendly face,
Save for a bedesman telling o'er his heads.

NOTES FROM THE LABOR WORLD

London (England) waiters have formed a trade union.

Fourteen large British shoe factories are now using the union stamp.

The New Brunswick legislature has enacted a stationery boiler inspection law and a workmen's compensation law.

The Ohio supreme court has upheld the constitutionality of the Greene nine-hour work-day law for women.

Every member of the Baltimore Federation of Labor will soon be compelled to wear clothing, hats and shoes made by union labor or be expelled from their organization.

Stokers, stationary enginemen and haulage enginemen engaged at the North Staffordshire (England) coal fields have made an application to the colliery owners for an eight-hour day.

The Atlanta (Georgia) Federated trades has moved into its new labor temple, in which accommodations will be furnished to all the unions of the city. The new home is already paid for.

In the year 1855, out of every one thousand persons employed in the British mines, a percentage of 4.3 lost their lives through accidents. In 1910 this percentage was reduced to 1.4 per cent.

STATE AND COUNTY NEWS

Happenings Around Standard.

STANDARD, N. C., Feb. 9.—Mr. H. C. Bibb and son, Gilbert, was with us a few hours last Saturday.

Messrs. J. E. Cobb, Leon E. Jones and Arthur Tucker went to Farmville Saturday night to enjoy the play at the opera house.

Mr. James Cobb of here who is attending the Winterville High School, came home Sunday to spend the day with his father and mother. He was accompanied by Mr. Mark Smith.

Dr. Frank of Norfolk, Va., bid us good-bye for a while saying that he would soon return to Pitt county again.

For your garden seed and farming supplies see the People Supply Company.

Mr. Joseph Cobb made a business trip to Goldsboro Monday and returned Tuesday.

A BALD-HEADED WOMAN.

Shorn of Her Crown of Beauty, Loses In Love and Marriage.

Hair is certainly most necessary to woman. Who could love and marry a bald-headed woman? What charms could one array to offset such a disfigurement?

A woman's goal is usually love and marriage. Her crowning glory is her hair. The loss of her hair mars her beauty, happiness, and success. Yet there are thousands of women who are neglecting or injuring their hair to such an extent that it is only a matter of time when it will be utterly ruined.

Many women destroy the beauty of their hair through thoughtlessness or ignorance of certain facts. They use curling irons over-heated, or to excess, which destroys the natural oil of the hair, causing it to split, break, and come out. They do not shampoo their hair often enough, or too often. They use soaps or preparations which contain ingredients positively harmful to the scalp and hair.

As a result of such treatment, dandruff is created, the hair loosens, loses color, falls out, and baldness commences, unless proper and prompt precautions are taken in time. Then again, microbes and certain diseases bring about unhealthy scalp and hair conditions.

Almost any woman may rid herself of dandruff and diseased scalp and hair if she will but use the right remedy. We have that remedy, and we will positively guarantee that it will either relieve dandruff and baldness or it will not cost the user anything.

That's a pretty broad statement, but we will back it and prove it with our own money. We will return your money if you do not find that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is an entirely satisfactory remedy that will promote hair growth and overcome scalp and hair troubles; that it will grow hair even on bald heads, unless all life in the hair roots has been extinguished, the follicles closed, and the scalp is glazed and shiny. It gets its name from the fact that it grows hair in 93 out of 100 cases, where it received a thoroughly "We want you to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic at our risk. You surely cannot lose anything by doing so, while you have everything to gain.

You had better think this over, and then come in and see us about this offer. You will be well repaid for your visit to our store. Remember, you can get Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store.

PROF. WRIGHT WELCOMES LADIES AT TRAINING SCHOOL

The guests were received in the hall by Misses Ross, Mr. R. J. Murphy, and four members of the senior class.
At the punch room door they were received by Miss Jones, and punch was served by Prof. and Mrs. H. B. Smith.
Across the hall in the room leading to the reception room they were received by Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Everett and Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Skinner and introduced to the receiving line. In the receiving line were President and Mrs. R. H. Wright, Mrs. B. V. Wright, Mrs. K. R. Beckwith, Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Laughinghouse, Prof. and Mrs. H. E. Austin, Prof. and Mrs. C. W. Wilson, Prof. W. H. Ragsdale and Miss Hennie Ragsdale, Prof. L. R. Meadows, and Misses Bishop, Lewis, Graham, Muffy, Pugh, Davis, Dabney, Waite and Jenkins, all of the school faculty.
At the refreshment room they were received by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hooker and Misses Beaman and Cassidy. Here an elegant menu was served, consisting of chicken and aspic, cream peas in timbale cases, neufchatel cream cheese sandwiches, olives, saltines and coffee. The menu was entirely prepared and served by the senior class under the direction of Miss Pugh, the domestic science instructor, and its elegance brought highest credit to this department of the school.

"Pursuant to this end she has deposited in her memory for future use, the multiplication and other arithmetical tables.
"She has recited the principal divisions,—oceans, islands, etc., and answered a hundred and nine questions on the map of the world.
"She has also recited the principal divisions,—lakes, rivers, bays, gulfs, &c and answered forty-one questions on the map of North America.
"She has defined the boundaries of twelve of the United States, and repeated ninety-five of the chief towns and thirty-three of the principal rivers, belonging to those twelve states.
"She has answered eighty-six questions corresponding to the geography of that line country.
"On the map of South America she has committed to memory the different countries belonging to that great peninsula and repeated fifty-eight of the chief towns and thirty-three of the principal rivers and answered thirty-nine questions corresponding to its geography.
"Let no one say hereafter that females cannot learn, for that is an assertion without foundation, for Elizabeth is a living proof to the contrary and she merits the approbation and encouragement of her parents and friends.

Signed,
P. Warden."

The address of welcome was gracefully and eloquently responded to by Mrs. C. C. Hook, of Charlotte, who completely captivated the audience with her sallies of wit in reply to President Wright's reference to "ettes and ists." She said they were neither, but plain club women engaged in the noble purpose of helping and uplifting humanity.

Here Mrs. Cotten said they believed in grasping and improving every opportunity in reach, and seeing ex-Governor Jarvis in the audience called on him for a few words of inspiration. The governor responded in his characteristic manner and was accorded an ovation.

After an instrumental selection by Miss Jennie Brown Morrill and a semi-chorus by the school, there were interesting short addresses by the chairmen of the departments of the council on their work. These were by Mrs. G. W. Whitsett, recording secretary, of Greensboro; Mrs. J. L. Wooten, corresponding secretary, of Greenville; Mrs. B. W. Hayes, treasurer, of Oxford; Mrs. K. W. Kimball, civic department, of Greensboro; Mrs. M. N. Stover, education, of Wilmington; Mrs. T. B. Tyson, publicity, of Carthage; Miss Edith Royster, legal status, of Raleigh. Some of these ladies admitted that they were very much frightened in appearing before such an audience, but they need not have said it, for the addresses were all excellent.

Here Mrs. Cotten said the women had shown that they could "talk," but she was going to give the men a chance, and called on County Superintendent W. H. Ragsdale and Revs. E. M. Hoyle and C. M. Rock, who were on the rostrum, for remarks. Each responded most pleasantly and frankly admitted that they had been more than captured by the good ladies and were duly federated.

Miss Arlene Joyner favored the audience with a beautiful solo "Good-night, Sweet Dreams," that showed the magnificence of her voice. The school followed with "Schubert's Serenade" with inspiring effect.

A request coming from the audience for "Dixie," the school and audience joined in singing this stirring southern song as a climax to the public meeting.

Reception to Council.

Following the meeting in the auditorium, a reception was given by the school in honor of the council and visitors. The decorations of the halls and rooms in the administration building used for the reception were most appropriate and effective. In the halls were ferns and potted plants in abundance. The punch room was in federation colors, blue and white, in white carnations, blue ribbon and smilax. The reception room in evergreens, potted plants and white carnations. The refreshment room displayed the school colors, yellow and purple, in huge vases and masses of jonquils and violets and smilax. Throughout all this there was elegance in the simplicity of arrangement.

GREAT WORK IS A LIBRARY ON CIVICS, HISTORY AND INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Messages and Papers of the Presidents Compiled in a Series of Eleven Volumes.

INSTRUCTION FOR YOUNG AMERICANS.

It is a great privilege for an American citizen to possess this work, because it is the reservoir of historical knowledge, and it will inspire patriotism to a greater degree in any one who reads it or occasionally refers to it.

It is a matter of pride to Americans to know that Uncle Sam sits at the head of the diplomatic table of the world.

Part of the creed of an American is and should be to believe that he is a citizen of "the greatest country on earth." It is one thing to believe and loudly voice this belief, but it is nobler citizenship to have a knowledge of it based on facts. When you have read or used extensively for reference the "Messages and Papers of the Presidents," a record that shows Uncle Sam at work, you will wonder at the great progress made and at the wonderful opportunity the government itself affords to its citizens, and you will realize why the greatest individual blessings come to those who live under the protection of the stars and stripes. The "Messages and Papers of the Presidents" is a big, vital work, brimming over with information of vast importance and intense interest to every American citizen. It is made more interesting by its pictorial embellishment. It is fairly ablaze with illuminating historical pictures.

The language employed is at the same time simple and exalted. Each president has called to his service his own best ability, together with that of his cabinet members and his scholarly friends, to make each message a masterpiece of its time, knowing that it would be translated into every known language and read in every civilized court of the world, an union which has never been vouchsafed to any other set of authors on earth.

In opening volume 1 we find, as in each volume, the end sheet and lining paper of a special design, giving a birdseye view of a map or plan of Washington and a splash of all the principal public buildings in Washington pictorially displayed. The frontispiece is a splendid portrait of the Hon. James D. Richardson, who, under authority of an act of the Fifty-second congress while chairman of the committee of printing of the house, compiled and edited the work. Then comes a picture of the capitol, followed by a picture of the White House, both in color. In the preliminary note the editor says:

The messages of the several presidents of the United States—annual, veto and special—are among the most interesting, instructive and valuable contributions to the public literature of our republic. They discuss from the loftiest standpoint nearly all the great questions of national policy and many subjects of minor interest which have engaged the attention of the public from the beginning of our history.

Then comes a faithful color reproduction of Trumbull's famous painting "The Declaration of Independence," followed by a reprint of the Declaration of Independence, the articles of confederation and the constitution, these being given as the preliminary documents in the foundation work of building the nation. The various other illustrations need not be alluded to in detail.

But, in general, it is to be noted that a faithful reproduction of the official steel portrait of each president is inserted at the beginning of the respective administrations, fronted with a tissue upon which is a suitable characteristic illustration—as, for instance, "Home on Potomac," of the parents of George Washington."

Preceding each administration is a concise, interesting biography of the president.

POLITICAL FORECAST FOR COMING WEEK

Important and Political News From National Capital—Schedule of Next Week's Business

REFLECTOR'S WEEKLY LETTER FROM CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Politics aplenty is promised for the coming week. In fact, the next few days will be the busiest ones that the politicians have experienced in a long time. The Lincoln Day celebrations will be a cause for unusual activity on the part of the Republican leaders, particularly those of oratorical ability.

President Taft will go to Newark to take part in the Lincoln celebration in that city Monday and in the evening he is scheduled to speak in New York city. The same night Attorney-General Wickersham will address a Republican banquet in Milwaukee, Senator Townsend, of Michigan, will speak in Detroit, Representative McCall of Massachusetts and several other Republicans of note will be heard in Minneapolis, and Representative Hinds, of Maine, will be the chief orator at a gathering of the clans in Portland.

Secretary of the Treasury McVeagh will add to the gaiety of the Republican situation by making a speech to the Republicans of Michigan with "What is a Progressive?" as his topic. The speech will be delivered on Tuesday night at the annual dinner of the Zach Chandler Club at Lansing.

Another Michigan banquet at which Republican oratory will be on tap will be that of the Calhoun Lincoln Club at Albion. Governor Osborn will be the chief figure, with Congressmen J. M. C. Smith, of Michigan, C. H. Sloan, of Nebraska, and Frank

W. Mondell, of Wyoming, as the other speakers. The personnel of the speakers' list indicates that many good words will be spoken for Theodore Roosevelt before the evening is over.

A Lincoln Day banquet to be given in St. Louis by the Association of Young Republicans of Missouri will have as speakers Governor Deneen, of Illinois, and Governor Hadley, of Missouri.

Governor Tenor, of Pennsylvania, ex-Governor Utter, of Rhode Island, Charles M. Schwab and Congressman Howland, of Ohio, are scheduled as speakers at a banquet to be given by the Lincoln Republican Club of Bethlehem, Pa.

Republicans of the Hoosier State will turn their eyes toward Newcastle, where a thousand or more of the party leaders are expected to gather for the annual meeting and banquet of the Indiana Lincoln league. In Colorado, also, the anniversary of the birth of Lincoln promises to be a banner day for the Republican party. Republican leaders of all factions have been invited to meet in Denver on that day for a grand "harmony" conference. The state committee will meet to discuss plans for the state convention, a conference will be held by the Republican editors, and the gathering will close with a Lincoln banquet at which former Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, is the star speaker.

Keep your troubles to yourself and they will not expand.
