Solicitor Parker Makes Statement to Court

CONTINUANCE OF 90 DAYS LONGER

Subpoena Issued for Oscar L. Flow, the Missing Detective, With Order That He be Placed Under a $5,000 Bond if Apprehended—Recorder Charges Officers of the Court.

CHARLOTTE, Feb. 17.—Messrs. W. L. Hand, of W. L. Hand & Co., druggists; J. W. Bowen, of the Bowen Drug Co.; T. W. Blackman, of the Hornets' Nest Club; Tom Cdump, of the Clover Club, and Clem Wilson, of the Royal Club, were all present when the recorder's court was called to order this morning at 9:30 o'clock, Chief Christenbury having served the warrants on them early yesterday morning, citing them to appear at this morning's court. As stated in yesterday's News, there was no session of the recorder's court yesterday morning, owing to the fact that, Solicitor Parker had no case made out against them and would make a statement in open court this morning. Mr. Parker's statement, as printed yesterday, was read this morning at court.

Following the submission of his statement, Mr. Parker asked for a continuance of the cases for 90 days, which was granted. The recorder also ordered that a subpoena be issued for Oscar L. Flow, the main witness in the case and the absence of whom makes the trial of the cases impracticable.

The North Carolina Will Take Maine to Gulf of Mexico

THIS WILL BE LAST RESTING PLACE

Battered Rests of the Maine Will be Carried by Cruiser North Carolina to Gulf of Mexico—Impressive Funeral Services for Sailors Who Perished in Fatal Explosion.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Impressive funeral services for the bodies of sailors recovered from the wreck of the battleship Maine and for the remains of the battleship itself, have been arranged by the United States and Cuba.

Shortly after March 4, it is expected, the twisted mass which has lain fourteen years in the Havana harbor mud will be towed out into the Gulf of Mexico and sunk. The armored cruiser North Carolina and the scout cruiser Birmingham with the recovered skeletons aboard, will convey the maine to its final resting place.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Bland-Moore Marriage to Take Place in April.

From three to five o'clock Friday afternoon, at the home of their parents on Dickinson avenue, Misses Susie and Ward Moore entertained at a Valentine party in honor of their guest, Miss Catherine Staples, of Harrisonburg, Va. and in the midst of the festivities the engagement of their sister, Miss Lizzinia Moore, to Mr. D. H. Bland, of Goldsboro, was announced.

The decorations of the home were strikingly beautiful, hearts and cupids being much in evidence. The hall was in red, the parlor in pink and the dining room red.

The guests were received at the front door by Misses Ward Moore and Hennie Whichard, and at the cloak (Continued on Third Page).

Big Drive of Jack Rabbits.

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 17.—One hundred and fifty gunners, carriers and drivers armed with double-barrel shotguns, a ton of ammunition and pikes, will start for Marshall, Wash., early tomorrow morning to participate in the biggest hunt ever arranged in this part of the country. It will mark the beginning of a campaign organized by the Inland Empire Game Protection and Propagation Association with the object of clearing the intermountain country of jack-rabbits, which have damaged crops for many years. The game bagged by the army of hunters will be presented to the Salvation Army for distribution among the poor in Spokane and other cities.

Giants off for the South.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—An initial push was given the baseball season with the departure last evening of a bevy of Giants for St. Louis en route to the south. Only a few of the players began the trip, the majority joining the party at St. Louis toady and by the time Texas is reached it is expected that nearly the entire list of players reserved by the club will be on duty. The warming up practice will be conducted at Marlin Springs. After leaving there a series of exhibition games will be played through the south, the team working its way northward in time for the beginning of the season in April.

Weir, who was president of the Adams Express Company at the time of his death, and Oliver De Gray Vanderbilt, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver De Gray Vanderbilt of Orange, N. J. The ceremony was performed in the fashionable St. Thomas church this afternoon and was followed by a large reception at the home of the bride's mother in East Fifty-second street.

KINSTON IN WESTERN SHOW

MAN WILL SHOOT OUT LIGHTS

POLICE OF KINSTON HAVE A PECULIAR CASE TO DEAL WITH INDIVIDUAL FOR SHOOTING OUT LIGHTS.

KINSTON, Feb. 17.—The police here have a mystery of a unique kind to deal with. Afflicted with a mania for shooting out arc lights, an unknown person has caused the city lighting force much trouble in the past six weeks, having destroyed nearly twenty corner lights at different times during that period. The operations of this marksman of the night are confined to no one locality, but have extended throughout the eastern residential section. Not a clue has been had to lead to the apprehension of the mischief-maker, and no one has seen him, though officers have made every effort to track him down. Four in one one night was the last entry made on the unknown's record, and the electric light repairmen are beginning to lose sleep.

Governor Kitchin Fires First Campaign Shot

"Kitchin Club" in Raleigh Hears Governors' Attack of Senator Simmons in Speech of 10,000 Words Kitchin Sails Into Simmons for His Vote on Lorimer, Reciprocity, the Lumber Trust and Other Matters

600 PEOPLE HEAR GOVERNOR OPEN CAMPAIGN

The Audience Was Rather Reserved, Applause Being Carefully Given, And on Rare Occasions Did The True Campaign Cheer Ring in Assembly Hall. Kitchin Invites Simmons to a Joint Discussion.

RALEIGH, Feb. 10.—Speaking before an audience of 600 persons, several of whom were women, Governor Kitchin tonight opened his campaign for the United States senate with an attack on the public record of Senator Simmons. The chief points of attack were the Lorimer, vote, lumber, coal and reciprocity votes of the senior senator during the extra session of Congress.

Governor Kitchin spoke at the invitation of the Kitchin club organized one week ago to further his campaign. He was introduced by Carey J. Hunter, president of the club, who declared that the speaker's record and character were so well known as to need no reference at his hands.

The audience was more critical than demonstrative. Spasmodic applause, sometimes breaking forth into a genuine campaign cheer, greeted the governor on occasions, but the audience was thoughtful. The speaker knew that what he said tonight would not arouse tremendous enthusiasm and he spoke to the people of the state through the newspapers. In closing his speech, which did not digress from the original printed copy he challenged Senator Simmons to a joint discussion before the people of the state.

Members of the Kitchin club, ex-Judge Manning, of Durham; Frank McNinch, of Charlotte; Charles E. Johnson, of Raleigh and others occupied seats on the platform.

Governor Kitchin's speech, in full, including his sub-headlines, follows: Mr. President:

In response to the invitation of the Kitchin club I am here to make my first speech in the senatorial contest.

The Democratic party owes no man any office, but it owes the people the duty of filling each office with him who will render the best service and best promote its principles. To represent this state in the senate carries a great responsibility and the people should give that representation earnest consideration, for upon it will in part depend their fidelity and zeal in behalf of democratic principles.

There should be a primary to select the senator. I regret that the legislature did not provide a legalized primary for all officers in accordance with my recommendation. I hope a party primary will be held, but until it is actually ordered there will be an element of uncertainty about it. A primary is the right method of determining the choice of the democratic voters; it will give a voice to such voters in Republican counties, it will relieve the legislative aspirants of embarrassment, and will assure our legislative nominees of the united democratic support.

BRYAN JURY CAN'T AGREE STRANGE BLIND TIGER CASE

SOLICITOR ABERNETHY SECURES MANY AFFIDAVITS AS TO JURORS CONVERSING WITH PARTIES.

NEW BERN, Feb. 17.—Yesterday afternoon quite a crowd of people attended the session of the Superior court expecting a sensation to be sprung during the afternoon, as it had been rumored around that the solicitor had received information to the effect that some members of the jury had violated their oath, or had talked with parties, which is contrary to the rules of such cases.

Solicitor Abernethy had quite a bunch of affidavits, same charging members of the jury with having expressed an opinion before the trial to the effect that defendant Baker Bryan was not guilty. Others to the that members of the jury had been seen conversing with people. One affidavit says that a member of the jury was seen talking with a man on the sidewalk, and that Baker Bryan's mother was on the porch, opposite the court house at the time, and after the conversation the man went across the street and talked with Baker Bryan in jail.

ASHEVILLE, Feb. 17.—Yesterday morning in Superior court Judge Long told of an peculiar case that came under his jurisdiction while he was holding court some months ago in one of the counties to the north of this. He stated that an old woman was indicted for selling whiskey; that she, too, persisted in selling it, and had made quite a little money out of the business. It seemed that she was almost paralyzed and could not move her hands and was in bed all the time. For this reason she had not been brought into court.

WAKE FOREST CELEBRATES 77th ANNIVERSARY OF FOUNDATION OF LITERARY SOCIETIES.

WAKE FOREST, Feb. 17.—With a warm sunlight driving away the dampness and the mud, the day of the celebration of the 77th anniversary of the organization of the two literary societies of Wake Forest College was most fittingly ushered in. The rain and generally bad weather which has continued through the past week brought discouragement to the prospects of many. The genuine spring weather which prevails today is a suitable recompense for any temporary discomfort.

In spite of the weather there were many guests who arrived in time for the basketball game last night. The trains today have been crowded with fair visitors, and at the present time the usual anniversary number is here. The first scheduled event of anniversary occurred this afternoon when the representatives of the Euzelian and Philomathean Literary Societies discussed the query, "Resolved, That the Right of Suffrage Should Not Be Restricted on Account of Sex."

FIRE DESTROYS FINE DWELLING IN GREENVILLE

Mr. A. L. Potter's House Consumed By Fire This Morning

PROPERTY IS VALUED AT $3400

Towards four o'clock this morning the town woke up to the cries of fire, and the ringing of the town bell. Sleepy persons took a hasty survey of the horizon from partly open windows and fully woke up when the red glare of sky-ascending flames drew a picture of destruction against the indistinct light of dawn, towards Tobaccotown.

Hurriedly people jumped into their clothes and more hurriedly repaired to the scene of the fire, which in the few minutes of its existence had assumed important proportions. Not until probably 20 minutes from the time Mr. Potter gave the alarm was the fire department in a position to assume the fight against the flames and an unfortunate blunder committed at the time of their arrival, robbed them of precious time and still more precious efficiency in the fight.

Although the fire started a few minutes before four, the hose was not working against the flames till about 25 minutes to five and by that time the fire had been so rapid in gaining access to practically every room in the house, that when the stream was turned on the walls were a mass of flames.

The isolation of the house made the danger for surrounding property almost nil. Also the absence of wind or a breeze of any kind insured the neighboring structures from the sparks that ascended and fell back to earth almost perpendicularly.

Mr. Potter, who is a rural mail carrier on route No. 1, and a very industrious man, also operates a wood saw at odd hours when not engaged in his mail duties. He began sawing a lot of wood Friday evening and got up early this morning intending to go back to finish the job before time to go to the post office for his mail. He built a fire in his bed room, and Mrs. Potter arose and went to start a fire in the kitchen and prepare breakfast while Mr. Potter went out to feed his horse and attend to some other work about the lot. After starting the kitchen fire Mrs. Potter went back into the house to arrange her room while the cook stove was getting hot. Mr. Potter later carried in some wood and when he entered the kitchen saw all the ceiling burning around the stove flue. Although he tried his best to put it out it soon assumed such proportions that he was forced to give the alarm. A fact that goes some way to tell what a man will do under such circumstances, is that Mr. Potter removed from the burning kitchen the range from which the fire started. And this range weighs five hundred pounds.

Some furniture was saved from the lower rooms, but that occupying the two double and the two single rooms up stairs was destroyed. Although the house was not totally consumed by the fire, great damage was done to it before the firemen succeeded in drenching the fire into submission, and it is practically a total ruin.

The value of the property was estimated at $3,400 with insurance of $1,750, of which $1,250 was carried by the H. A. White agency of this town, and the other by Moseley Brothers. The furniture was also insured to the amount of $700.

WITNESS DISAPPEARS.

Wanted—at once, darkest and deepest hole on earth; will take possession at once and will STAY there; 99-year lease preferred. R. L. D., Charlotte.

The above ad. has not actually appeared, but if we happened to be in the shoes of the secretary of the Anti-Saloon League, that's the way we would go about finding a place of refuge.

It must be mighty gratifying to wake up some fine morning and find oneself famous. The intoxication of self-respect and appreciation must be immense. And right here is where the little party called "Gloom" makes its bow and claims the figuratively speaking "intoxicated" person and hurries him to the deepest recesses of despair and sorrow.

It is said that the majority of poor mortals are not equal to the occasion when Dame Fortune takes them by the hand and leads them on (or should we say, eggs them on?) to the enchanted palace of their dreams. Or in the words of the popular proverb "He could not stand prosperity." And what a world of meaning is embodied in that simple, inoffensive little phrase. We go on building our castles of cards and without looking around for an example that will tell us exactly when it will be wise to put the very last card, we can see the whole thing take a turn downward and we again say "our hopes were shattered."

Not so long ago Rev. R. L. Davis woke up in the capital of the state to find that he was famous. His name was in every mouth. Typesetters could spell it backward, forward and sideways. The surprise he sprang at the dormant Raleigh citizens is recent history. But alas! more recent still is the Charlotte episode with the accompanying puns of "perfectly good booze" gotten without the slightest difficulty by a gentleman of the "gumshoe" variety.

The social earthquake felt in good Charlotte did not lack the Law Enforcement League and meetings which followed closely in the Capital City. In fact Charlotte tried to go one better and the secretary of the Anti-Saloon League was "pinched." Of course this was a matter of form.

We all rejoiced at the prospect of having a few more hardworking people on the roads. Everything seemed to point out to a general clean up in the growing city, when Presto! Hokus-pokus, the detective, is spirited away. Lost, strayed, or stolen!

We can all imagine the heavy gloom that gathered around the offices of the secretary in question. Not only that, but the witnesses who were going to give the corroborative evidence now come out with the ugly statement that the whole thing was a miscalculation of the truth by the worthy sleuth. Still more gloom.

How is the secretary of the Anti-Saloon League going to wriggle out of it, is something that the Charlotte authorities can make either very hard or very easy. As far as we know the only person who had any booze in Charlotte was the mentioned secretary and it certainly should be up to him to say where he got it from. But not just in a roundabout way. When he made his blind tiger wrecking statement in Raleigh sentiment seemed to be in favor of having the authorities investigate the matter on their "own hook." But, when the feat was repeated within a few days in Charlotte, and the authorities took the steps they did take, it seems that from the eagerness displayed by the secretary of the Anti-Saloon League, that he was too valuable a weapon and the authorities saw their chance to show how powerless they really are without the proper backing.

IN RE. THE PARCELS POST.

We are in receipt of the following letter:

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 15.

Editor, Reflector:

Dear Sir:

I am very glad to learn that you and I think very much alike on public questions. I will be glad to have your assistance and co-operation in the effort I am making to secure the success of measures for which we stand.

No man can render more efficient service than an editor for the reason that these measures are for the betterment of the masses and to secure their adoption the main thing is to get them presented to the people and discussed so that they may vote intelligently in regard to them.

In a kind of a way no one really opposes these measures, but what we need is to nominate and elect men to the United States senate especially who will use their utmost effort to get these measures enacted into a law. Merely saying that we are for them will do no good. We have got to get them passed into laws and that can only be done by electing men who will exert themselves to see that this is done.

With very high regard,

Yours truly,

WALTER CLARK.

The above is a comment on a short editorial which appeared in The Reflector some days ago. It had to do with the parcels post. If we spoke of the parcels post system in the way we did it simply was because we thoroughly believe that the people at large would be benefitted by the passing of such a measure. And if in thinking that way we agreed with the distinguished writer of the letter above we feel gratified.

We do not for one minute think that the people to be benefitted by the parcels post would simply be the mail order houses, thereby causing harm to local merchants.

In England, where the parcels post has been in existence for some years, much to the delight of the people at large, no local merchant has been recorded as registering a kick, because of any harm that came to his business by the establishment of the parcels post. If people are uncivic enough to trade away from home, ten to one their trading is undesirable. And to show that we are perfectly fair in this matter of standing for the local merchants we can refer our readers to one of our issues, under the heading "From Other Editors" they will find a reprint from a contemporary in which the tribulations of a farmer who would buy abroad are clearly explained.

We stand for everything that is good for our community. Fairness in all dealings, yes, even to the abolition of such a disgraceful trust as that composed of the express companies.

AGAIN THE STOCK LAW.

The stock law in Pitt county continues to be a much discussed question, and possibly there are many people who are losing sleep over it. The Reflector told not long ago of the county commissioners being enjoined from having the fence built, that Judge Allen dissolved the injunction by deciding that the commissioners were acting within the law, and the matter was appealed to the Supreme court. The opponents to the stock law followed this with another injunction against Mr. W. A. Forbes and the fence commissioners, and this latter came up for a hearing before Judge Foushee at chambers in

New Counties.

The creation of new counties has become a fad. It ought to be checked. We have an even one hundred counties in North Carolina now. This is a good place to stop for at least ten years. Where a rail road penetrates a county and people can reach it by driving 8 or 10 miles it is folly to pitch in and make an ew county in order to make it still more convenient. The truth of the business is the people who are suffering most because of remoteness from the court house are having the least to say about it. Several of the communities now clamoring for a new county are at present in easy reach of court houses—too easy, it may be, for their own good. The legislature ought to grant a new county only for the most serious reasons. The enlargement and growth of a town, or the political complexion of the new county ought never for a moment to have a feather's weight with the legislature. There are many advantages in having counties of a considerable size. It is less expensive for one thing. Our judges complain now of being overworked; new courts will not lessen but increase their labor, for it means more judges and heavier court expenses. It is with counties a good deal like it is with school districts. It was the fashion a while to make a new district to suit the fancy of every half dozen families. The multiplication of these little districts have been a great hindrance to the progress and efficiency of our public school system, and for years past the policy of our educational leaders has been to merge the districts and make one strong school where before there were two or three weak ones. It will be an easy matter to have too many counties in North Carolina and unless the present tendency is checked we are going to sadly overdo the thing. Let us stop at old hundred. It sounds well and it is well. One hundred and one or two would destroy the harmony and turn the lobbyists loose.—Charity and Children.

Whichard bobs up smiling through the sleet and snow to say "heres hoping you will have a warm Fourth of July." Same to you, young friend, with a merry Christmas and a happy New Year thrown in.—Greensboro News.

New Bern on the 15th. In this case Judge Foushee dissolved the injunction in so far as the right of the county commissioners to appoint fence commissioners to build the fence is concerned, but decided that the county commissioners were wrong in holding an adjourned meeting on the 22nd of January for the purpose of electing the fence commissioners; as they should be elected only at a regular meeting of the commissioners on the first Monday, hence the appointment of fence commissioners at the adjourned meeting was illegal. From this decision both sides appealed to the Supreme court, so the matter of whether the fence around the new stock law territory will be built awaits the decision of the higher court.

BLUNDERS AT THE FIRE.

The Tenth street hose reel, which is under the supervision of Foreman E. H. Evans, was the first to get to the fire this morning and the only one to put a stream on the building. With Chief D. D. Overton, Captain J. C. Tyson and Foreman Evans directing them, this squad did fine work with their single stream. Superintendent Allen is also a quick man when a fire alarm sounds, and before the firemen can even get to a fire he has double quicked to the stand pipe and arranged for direct pressure from the station through the mains, and it gives a pressure that is worth looking at.

But two blunders were made at this fire that should not have been made. The first was by the hose wagon stationed at the city hall, where there is a horse and driver to take the wagon to fires, and this morning the assistant chief of the fire department was on this wagon. With a horse to pull this wagon it was noticeably late putting in an appearance. It drove up to the corner of Tenth and Washington streets, not quite a block from the fire, where several of the firemen started to meet it to help run out the hose. The wagon drove off towards

Evans street, coupled to a hydrant on the corner of Tenth, then drove out Evans street to Eleventh, and on towards the fire by that route, which was around a block out of the way. Quite naturally the supply of hose on the wagon gave out several sections short of reaching the fire over such a distance from the hydrant. In this situation those in charge of the wagon simply stopped and looked on, until some one asked why they did not take up the hose and attach to a nearer hydrant. Of course those in charge of the wagon ought to know instantly when a fire is located where the nearest hydrant is and the nearest route from the hydrant to the fire.

The second blunder was made when the hose wagon went to take up and move the hose as indicated above. Several of the Boy Scouts offered their services to the assistant chief, which was accepted, and under his direction the willing boys changed the line, coupled on to a nearer hydrant and run the line to the fire. By this time, however, the second line of hose could be of no service, so water was not turned in it, and some of the firemen abused, and actually cursed the boys for running out the line of hose as the assistant chief had directed them to do. This was an outrage, to say the least of it.

The mystery of the murder of Governor Goebel, of Kentucky, who was shot from ambush in 1900, has been cleared by the dying declaration of a man named James Gilbert, who said he fired the fatal shot. Gilbert gave no further details of the murder beyond that he committed it.

Greensboro commissioners have voted two to one not to issue any more license to druggists to sell liquor on the prescription of physicians. Thus by degrees the prohibition law becomes more effective.

Ho! For Carolina!

(By William B. Harrell.)
Let no heart in sorrow weep for other days;

Let no idle dreamer tell in melting lays

Of the merry meeting in the rosy bowers;

For there is no land on earth like this fair land of ours!

Chorus:
Ho! for Carolina! that's the land for me.

In her happy borders roam the brave and free;

And her bright-eyed daughters none can fairer be;

Oh! it is a land of love and sweet liberty!

Down in Carolina grows the lofty pine,

And her groves and forests bear the scented vine;

Here are peaceful homes, too, nestling 'mid the flowers.

Oh! there is no land on earth like this fair land of ours!

Ho! for Carolina! etc.

Come to Carolina in the summer time.

When the luscious fruits are hanging in their prime,

And the maiden singing in the leafy bowers;

Oh! there is no land on earth like this fair land of ours!

Ho! for Carolina! etc.

Then, for Carolina, brave and free, and strong,

Sound the meed of praise "in story and in song"

From her fertile vales and lofty granite towers,

For there is no land on earth like this fair land of ours!

Chorus:
Ho! for Carolina! that's the land for me.

In her happy borders roam the brave and free;

And her bright-eyed daughters none can fairer be;

Oh! it is a land of love and sweet liberty!

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

room by Miss Susie Moore. They were then directed to the punch bowl in the hall where punch was served by Misses Hennie Ragedale and Susie Warren. In the parlor they were received by Misses Lizzinia Moore and Catharine Staples and Mrs. W. M. Martin, of Hickory.

The game of the afternoon was "sweethearts" with six tables of players. The score cards were red hearts, and stickers of gilt hearts designated the number of progressions made by the players.

After the game refreshments, heart-shaped ices mounted with pink cupid, were served by Misses Ruebelle Forbes and Lillie Lanier.

The guests then all gathered in the parlor where suspended from the chandelier was a handsomely decorated basket from which hung ribbons with small hearts attached to the outer end. To the other end of the ribbons concealed in the basket were attached cards containing the secret all were eager to learn. The first ribbon, to the hidden end of which hung a diamond engagement ring, was drawn out by Miss Susie Moore, who with an appropriate toast handed the ring to the bride-to-be. Then each guest drew a ribbon and disclosed cards ornamented with Cupid and a bridal couple on one side, and on the other "Bland-Moore, April, 1912." Several toasts were given the bride-to-be, and all offered their congratulations.

REFLECTOR OFFICE

Greenville, N. C., Feb. 17, 1912.

Dear Pitt Countians:

No matter where your home is located, whether in the northern, southern, eastern or western part of the county, THE DAILY REFLECTOR wants to know what you or yours are doing and how it is being done.

Anything out of the ordinary is interesting at all times and to everybody. For this reason, THE DAILY REFLECTOR wants to get a line from you whenever that something out of the ordinary takes place in your neighborhood.

For the purpose of publishing these general county news items, THE DAILY REFLECTOR will dedicate each Saturday of each week, half a page or a full page, if necessary, to such matter.

People coming and going about your neighborhood, affairs about your farm, gatherings, whether social, religious, or for the discussion of problems that face you every day. All of that is interesting and in many cases instructive. THE DAILY REFLECTOR wants to be posted and will pay regular news-rates for everything published.

Wherever you are, whatever your denomination, whatever your means, you can furnish us with just that news matter that we want for our General County News Section. THE DAILY REFLECTOR wants to hear from you all, and the best care will be taken of everything you send in.

Yours truly,
THE DAILY REFLECTOR.

A BIG MASS MEETING.

In The Interest of The Boys of The Town.

We have a council of the Boy Scouts in Greenville in the interest of the boys of this town, for their good spiritually, morally and physically. A part of the Scout oath is "I will keep myself mentally awake, morally straight and physically strong."

We are trying to teach the boys the highest principles of life. That they may be useful to themselves and helpful to those around them. To be kind, obedient, strong and manly in all things. Surely this town should take a deeper interest in our boys if we are to have strong, well prepared men for the future.

This big meeting is to be held in the court house Friday, February 23, and we want men, women and children to come and all friends of the boys.

There will be five to ten minutes talks by prominent men of the town. First the boys will tell something of what they are doing and what they intend doing. This will be directed by the Assistant Scout Master Mr. W. T. Lipscomb. Mayor F. M. Wooten will give a short talk on the importance of such an organization in our town. Then Prof. W. H. Ragedale will make a five minutes address on the future of our boys. Rev. Mr. Hoyle will speak in behalf of the boys' needs in this place. Last Dr. Charles Laughinghouse will address us. We will give him full freedom to say what he pleases. All will be given an opportunity to express themselves in some way or other. Any talks running over time will be charged up at one dollar per minute. We hope to make this meeting good and spicy for all who come. Now, let us have a house full and show our interest in the boys. The boys will march from their hall to the court house. The meeting will be called to order promptly at 8:00 o'clock, Friday evening.

C. M. ROCK,
Scout Master.

THIS IS MY 50th BIRTHDAY.

Russell E. Chittenden.

Dr. Russell N. Chittenden, Director of the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale and one of the foremost American authorities on diet and blood subjects, was born in New Haven, Conn., February 18, 1856. After graduating from Yale in 1877 he spent three years in study at Heidelberg University. He was appointed to a professorship at Yale in 1882. Dr. Chittenden served as president of the American Society of Naturalists and the American Physiological Society and has received honorary degrees from Yale University, the University of Toronto, the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Birmingham, England.

Fads and Fancies

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Although furs have been used a great deal during the present winter, the furriers are complaining of an exceedingly unsatisfactory season and the retail merchant with courage and money to seize his opportunity has been able to take over at wholesale large consignments of furs at so low a price that he is able to offer to his customers veritable bargains.

Medium weight cover-all coats are appearing plentifully among the heavier winter models and while too light for use in northern February and March weather they are desirable for a southern sojourn and for later spring and summer uses in the north. The light-toned, rather rough woollens of light weight are popular for such purposes and one sees, too, some charming new models in dark blue serge which, while not so serviceable for motoring as a mixed material because of its propensity for spotting and showing dust, is always a becoming and good looking long coat material.

There are new and smart looking coats of severe English air in black and white check of moderate size, and some of these have their severity slightly softened by touches of black velvet in collar, cuffs and pockets. Silk coats of the dust coat type are not yet generally shown, but coats of a more dressy kind developed in silk are provided for the southbound folk, and among these taffeta plays an important part.

The war between the straight line coatcoat and the coat of perceptible curves goes merrily on and will be waged throughout the season, since each cause has powerful backing. The fashions are undoubtedly moving toward trimmed effects, longer and belted waists, shapely under arm seams, etc., but the change comes slowly, and there seems to be no occasion for doubt that a woman may wear her high-waisted, straight, scant frock throughout the coming season without feeling out of fashion.

With the belted long waist effects come peplum and basque arrangements, a development to be expected after the tentative gropings in this direction that could be observed last summer. Very charming things of this sort are in evidence among the new frocks and separate blouses, and they call quite as emphatically as do the high waist and straight shillhouette for a slender, hipless figure. The peplum may extend all around the bodice, may be merely a wide tab in front or back or in both places, or may confine itself to the sides. It may fall from a long waist or from one slightly raised, but in its latest and smartest aspect it is associated with the long waist and the belt.

REVIEW OF HAPPENINGS AT NATIONAL CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(Special.)

Judge Gary, head of the steel trust, attended a banquet in New York. The food was excellent; the lights were bright; the silver shimmered; the wine sparkled; the cigars added a final completeness to the happiness of all present. When it came Judge Gary's turn to speak, his mind was saturated with benevolence, and his thoughts turned to the welfare of the republic, and the sufferings of working men. Listen to him:

"Things are being said at the present time that are closely akin to the things that were said just prior to the French revolution. . . . Unless capitalists, corporations, and men of great wealth and power take a leading part in the amelioration of conditions, there will be changes made later by the mob."

The same newspapers which told the story of the banquet, and of Judge Gary's speech, also chronicled the testimony of witnesses before the Stanley committee. These witnesses told how the steel trust forced men to work 12 hours a day, seven days a week, for wages which compelled them to live like swine—a condition which Judge Gary could ameliorate with a few strokes of his pen.

The banquet hall is dark. The diners are gone. The tables are stripped of their damask and viands. And somewhere in that deserted room, shrunken so small that even the servants failed to see it when they swept out the crumbs, is Judge Gary's beautiful altruism.

Roosevelt and the Tariff.
Once in his life Theodore Roosevelt almost expressed an opinion on the tariff question. In a preliminary draft of one of his messages, as it came from the printer, was this sentence:

"In a later message I shall discuss the tariff."
This document fell into the hands of Senators Aldrich and Lodge and Speaker Cannon, and immediately they hushed to the White House. Presently when the message finally was submitted to congress, it contained no reference whatever to the tariff. Aside from that single sentence, no living man can quote the former president on the tariff question.

A Stand-Patter's Wall.
The senate was discussing the bill for the establishment of a Children's Bureau in the Department of Commerce and Labor. Senator Borah, author of the bill, had gone to great lengths to explain how the huge corporations were exploiting little children, crushing them, with hard labor, while they were yet of tender years. He explained that the bill contemplated no difference with the proper relations of parents toward their own children, and that its purpose was merely to provide for the collection of figures and information on which the various states and municipalities could base a proper solution of the child welfare problem.

"In the big cities," said Senator Borah, "little children fester and squalor and steal and starve and die by the thousands. This bill is designed to aid them."

When Mr. Borah had finished up Senator Heyburn, and for two hours the senate listened to his walls about the "unconstitutionality" of the bill. His final argument was that Abraham Lincoln was a poor boy.

Some Bald Facts.

The Republican campaign fund in 1908 amounted to $1,655,518.27. The Democratic fund was $620,644.27. The Republicans had more than a million in excess of the Democrats.

The number who contributed to the Republican fund was 12,230, and to the Democratic, 74,000. In other words the number of contributors to the Democratic fund was six times greater, and their contributions amounted to a million dollars less.

The contributors to the Republican fund, as a rule, were interested in legislation, the money coming from such men as J. Piermont Morgan, Charles P. Taft, Andrew Carnegie, Charles M. Schaub, John Jacob Astor and the heads of the various woolen mills who desired the passage of the Pany-Aldrich law, together with donations from the Wall street banks, railroad magnates, and individuals, representing the tariff trusts.

The contributors to the Democratic fund were not personally interested in legislation. The contributions to the Republican fund ranged from $11,000 downward, while contributions to the Democratic fund ranged from $5,000 downward.

"Elevating" the Workingman.
President McKinley, in one of his speeches, said: "It must be conceded that the protective system has dignified and elevated labor. We observe its triumphs on every hand."

The industries most benefited by the high protective policy are steel, wool and cotton manufacturing, and we observe the methods by which these trusts have "dignified and elevated" labor. We observe one result of this "elevating" process in the Lawrence, Mass., strike, where whole regiments, with drawn bayonets, are required to keep order among men, women and children who are trying to retain their present wages of $6, $7 and $8 a week, in which a cut has been threatened.

The "elevating" process is to be seen, in the flower of its beauty and triumph, in the steel trust's mills, where men are forced to labor 72 hours a week for the same wages paid laborers for 56 hours work in free trade England. Still another evidence of the "elevating" effect of protection on labor is seen in the employment, by the trusts, of thousands of children.

A Big Difference.
"Millions for defense; not one cent for tribute."

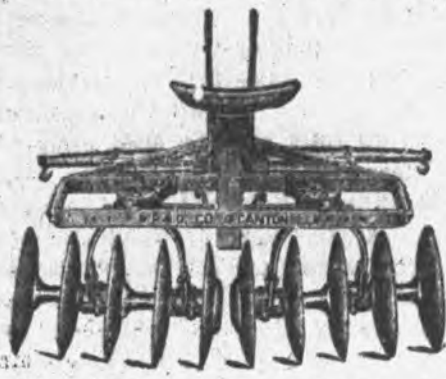

The American Woolen Mills Company, the woolen trust, spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in magazine advertising, the purpose of which was to "educate" the people into seeing the justice of schedule "K" and the way it was making sheep raisers rich by paying a big price for wool, and the way it was selling good cloth to the American people for less than they really ought to pay.

And then, when the workers in its mills objected to a cut in the $6 a week wages they were getting, the woolen company employed an army of guards to protect its mills. When the state shortened the hours of labor, of course wages had to come down. Of course that patriotic company wouldn't pay 22 cents per week to its operatives in order that they might have shorter hours and still get $6 a week.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Murder Trial for "Lifer."

DENVER, Col., Feb. 17.—Interest in a sensational tragedy which stirred Denver last summer will be revived Monday, when Frank Henwood will be placed on trial for the murder of Sylvester von Phul Henwood, a well known man-about-town shot and killed von Phul, an amateur balloonist and wine salesman, in the bar-room of the Brown Place Hotel on May 24, last. According to the testimony at the trial ill feeling had existed between the two for some time as a result of a quarrel over a woman with whom both were said to be infatuated. The woman in the case was Mrs. John M. Springer, wife of a Denver banker, who secured a divorce from Mrs. Springer soon after the murder of von Phul. In his attack on von Phul Henwood shot G. E. Copeland, a mining man of Victor, Co., who died from his wounds several days later. Henwood was tried and convicted of the killing of Copeland and is now under sentence of life imprisonment.
