POLICEMEN RAID NEGRO GAMBLING JOINT

Six Colored Men Surprised and Arrested

IT WAS A CLEAR CASE OF GAMBLING

Last night at about 11 o'clock, Chief of Police Smith and Officer Clark raided the pressing store of the colored man, Frank Hopkins and arrested six negroes who were there gambling.

The men arrested are: Jerry Barnes, porter at the Hotel Bertha, Tom Williams, night watchman at the market, Willie Fleming, Frank Hopkins, lieutenant at large, Jim Tucker, loafer, Joe Foreman, barber and Wortham Knockett, tramp and rouser.

The place had been in observation for some time and last night's raid came after Chief Smith and Officer Clark felt sure that their efforts would be rewarded. Chief Smith took his stand at the rear entrance and Officer Clark proceeded to the front door of the store. They held their position for a while and heard the men talking and also heard the jingling of silver. There was no doubt as to the reason for the gathering within. And if there had been any, it was totally displayed when Chief Smith heard the telephone ring within the store and Jerry Barnes hold a talk over the wire with some party. It seems that some friend had gathered information that the raid was to take place and had tried to warn them.

Jerry informed his friend gamblers "The cops are on, we'd better stop". This was followed by the noise of silver being pocketed and drawers

FOR ORANGE COUNTY ROADS

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING HELD

LARGE AUDIENCE GATHERS TO DISCUSS BOND ISSUE OF $250,000 FOR GOOD ROADS

CHAPEL HILL.—March 16.—An enthusiastic and well attended good roads meeting was held here last night for the purpose of discussing the proposed $250,000 bond issue for road improvement in Orange county. Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt addressed the meeting and the frequent applause he received signified that a large majority of his hearers were heartily in favor of the bond issuance. Dr. Pratt gave an interesting exhibition with stereopticon views, showing model roads of some of the other counties of the state and also pictures of the deplorable condition of roads in Orange.

Sentiment is very high over the proposition here in Chapel Hill. The continued bad weather of the past two months has made the roads of this section practically impassible. The principal street in this town presented a humorous scene yesterday owing to the happy genius of some good roads enthusiast. The road resembled a mill pond and on one side a toy boat was launched. A sign "No fishing allowed in this pond" was posted and byit another one, "vote for good roads" was painted in red ink.

Antlered Tribes Have a Glorious Time in New Bern—Last of Festivities Trip Down the Neuse River With Oyster Roast—Wm. Dunn of New Bern Elected President.

NEW BERN, March 15.—The Elk's state convention, which convened here last Wednesday for a three day's session came to a close with a trip down the Neuse river on the revenue cutter Pamlico and an oyster roast. It was the intention of the local lodge to carry the visitors as far down the river as Winthrop Mill, but owing to the fact that a heavy gale was blowing and a storm threatening every hour, this was not done. Before returning to the city an oyster roast was held and this was greatly enjoyed by all who participated. The visitors returned to their homes this afternoon.

Miss Sue Kinsaul Dead.

Miss Sue Kinsaul died at 4 o'clock this morning at the home of Mrs. M. A. White in East Greenville, where she had gone about a week ago to spend some days. Her death was sudden, or she was sick only a day or two.

Miss Kinsaul was 73 years of age and one of the oldest native residents of Greenville. She united with the Methodist church here in early life and was the oldest both in age and membership of the church. Her life was that of a faithful Christian, filled with comfort and blessings to others. The death of this good woman brings sorrow to many hearts that held her in highest esteem. Her nearest surviving relative is a niece, Mrs. Ada Cherry, with whom she has lived for many years.

The funeral service will be conducted in the Methodist church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the interment following in Cherry Hill cemetery.

REWARD OFFERED BY GOVERNOR MANN RAISED TO $3,000

(Special to Reflector)

HILLSVILLE, Va., March 16.—Another victim of the Allen gang died tonight. Miss Bettie Ayers, aged 19, who happened to be in the court room at the time of the tragedy and received mortal wounds.

The Allens, Floyd, Sidney and Jack had been always known as "bad men" and had many times clashed with the officers of the law. Some years ago Sidney was charged with another mountaineer, Dinkens, with counterfeiting, but owing to the influences brought to bear by the brothers, it is thought, the Allen man got off "scot free" while Dinkens received a five year sentence. Later District Attorney Holton, indicted Sidney Allen for perjury in the counterfeiting case and in spite of the threats made by his brother that Sidney would never go to prison he was convicted by a jury from another district as the authorities knew well no man from the neighborhood of the Allens would sit on a jury trying any of them. He was convicted and sentenced to two years in prison, but his brothers appealed and stood his bond.

At the time of this trial Floyd Allen boasted to some of the officials that he carried in his body the holes of thirteen bullet wounds, five of them inflicted upon him by one of his brothers while in a duel.

$300.00 A PIECE

RICHMOND, Va., March 15.—After holding a conference with Adjutant General Sale, the governor announced that troops would not be sent to Hillsville, but that militia companies at Roanoke and Lynchburg had been ordered to proceed to that town should the case be necessary. The original reward offered by him yesterday for the capture of the gang was raised by the governor who declared $300 would be paid for every member of the gang arrested.

JUDGE MASSIE NOT AFRAID.

RICHMOND, Va., March 15.—"Rather than indicate a fear of law breakers by sitting on the bench with a weapon in my pocket, I prefer to be killed in the administration of justice" was the way Judge Massie answered a friend who urged him to arm himself before going into the Hillsville court. Commonwealth Attorney Foster said early in the morning of the tragedy "This will probably be my last day on earth". He knew that should the jury bring in a verdict of guilty, trouble was sure to follow the conviction of Floyd Allen.

Judge Massie was one of the most prominent jurists of the state. He was appointed to the bench by Swanson in 1908 and was 48 years old. He is survived by a wife, two sons and a daughter. Attorney Foster was 40 years old and was known throughout the state as a fearless prosecutor.

FLOYD ALLEN'S NEAR ESCAPE.

HILLSVILLE, Va., March 15.—That the gang's attempt to liberate Allen was frustrated, was partly due to the man himself, who, as soon as the firing began threw himself into the midst of it and was desperately wounded, both by Sheriff Webb and some of his friends. It was erroneously reported at first that the gang had been successful in carrying away wounded, but this is not true. Floyd was never allowed to be taken and was quickly lodged in the local jail, where by some means he obtained a razor with which he tried to commit suicide. He was prevented from doing this by his guards.

PROBABLY IN NORTH CAROLINA.

ROANOKE, Va., March 15.—It was reported here that the Allen gang has broken up and that eight of the outlaws succeeded in reaching North Carolina soil tonight.

Lenoir Man Com-mits Suicide

Was Despondent Over His Falling Health and This, It is Believed, Was the Cause for the Suicide—Committed Rash Act With a Single Barreled Gun, While Sitting in a Chair.

LENOIR, March 15.—Yesterday about noon a young man, Vernie Simms, shut himself up in a room and committed suicide. He sat down on a chair and took a single barrel shot gun, placed the muzzle of the gun against his back 4 1/2 inches against his forehead and took his foot, pushed back the hammer of the weapon, allowing his foot to slip off and the gun discharged, blowing the top of the young man's head off.

For some months Simms has not been in good health and this coupled with despondency over religious matters is thought to be the reason he took his life. He deceased was about 24 years old.

Dr. H. W. Wiley Resigns

Flow of Long Standing in the Department of Agriculture Causes Retirement of Noted Pure Food Expert—Will Immediate go on Lecture Tour—"Tired of Service".

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Official announcement of the resignation of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist of the United States department of agriculture, was made today. Dr. Wiley will leave the service at once and go on a 30-day lecture tour. He explained his resignation by saying he was "tired of public service".

This action on the part of Dr. Wiley ends a row in the department of agriculture that is of long standing and which only a few months ago was a live subject throughout the country. For some months past there have been rumors afloat that Dr. Wiley would resign and almost as often would these reports be denied, but those who have been in close touch with the department were not surprised today to learn of the resignation.

Maine to Speak First.

AUGUSTA, Me. March 16.—Maine probably will be the first of the New England states to express its preference for the Democratic presidential nomination. The state convention will meet in this city next Tuesday to select the delegates to the Baltimore convention. There will probably be an effort to instruct the delegates for Woodrow Wilson. Senator Gardner, Congressman McGillicuddy and several of the party leaders are outspoken in favor of the New Jersey governor. Some of the other leaders, however, believe that the delegates should be left free to follow their own judgment.

Memorial To Cleveland.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The life of the late Grover Cleveland and its influence upon the national progress and material welfare of the United States will be the themes of speeches by Chief Justice White of the Supreme Court of the United States, Mayor Cuyler, Judge Alton B. Parker and other well known public men at the memorial exercises to be held tomorrow afternoon in the assembly hall of the college of the city of New York. The affair has been arranged by the Cleveland Administration Association in honor of the seventy-fifth anniversary of Mr. Cleveland's birth.

G. O. P. Split in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 16.—The anti-Taft movement in Alabama came to a head today, when a conference of progressive Republicans met in this city to take steps looking to the sending of Roosevelt delegates to Chicago to contest with the Taft delegates for seats in the national convention. The leader of the Roosevelt movement is Joseph O. Thompson, internal revenue collector for the Alabama district, who is said to be at odds with the President because the latter disregarded some of his recommendations in the matter of federal patronage.

Railroad Man is Killed in Lenoir

Robey Montgomery, a Flagman on the C. and W. N. Railroad Was Crushed Between Couplings of Coal Car and Caboose—Death Was Entirely Accidental.

LENOIR, March 15.—This afternoon about 5 o'clock Robey Montgomery, flagman on the C. and N. W. railway, was instantly killed in front of the depot, having been caught between the couplings of a coal car and a caboose. The caboose which had been shoved back, rolled forward and caught the young man, who had stepped on the track behind the coupling of the coal car to adjust a knuckle which was working imperfectly. His life was instantly crushed out. The caboose was seen creeping down on him by one of his fellow workmen, but too late to give warning.

Mr. Montgomery had been in the employ of the railroad about eight months and was a sober, industrious, quiet and popular young man, being connected with one of the best families here. He was a son of the late J. Todd Montgomery, who died two months ago, and thus his death is more keenly felt by the family.

The young man was 23 years old and is survived by his mother, one brother and two sisters.

Sale Monday of Valuable Property.

Those interested in valuable estate in Greenville should bear in mind the sale of the Sutton property that takes place before the court house door at noon Monday. This property is right in the heart of the town and near to the business section.

STORM FELT ALL OVER VA., AND NO. CAR.

Terrific Showers Flood the Surrounding Country

GREENVILLE HAD SMALL SHARE

The heavy shower experienced yesterday in Greenville was the tail end of the most fierce storm that ever raged in the Carolinas. Although the material loss in our neighborhood was almost nil other parts of the state report severe losses. In some instances lives being lost. Railroad property suffered considerably and altogether the storm has been the hardest in years.

Two lives were lost, Southern railway traffic was paralyzed, a score of county and railroad bridges in the county were washed from their moorings and thousands of dollars in property damage sustained in Greensboro and Guilford county as the result of the damage of rain which fell throughout the Carolinas and Virginia yesterday morning. Reports from every section are that the rainfall was the heaviest in years; that the property loss was enormous and inconvenience to traffic great. In Greensboro the precipitation was officially reported at slightly more than three inches from midnight to 1 o'clock yesterday.

In this and Rockingham county the deluge exacted human toll. Anna Bell, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bell, was caught in the raging torrents which surged over North Buffalo bridge across Greene street, while on her way from school and drowned before help arrived. A negro, whose name was not learned, attempted to cross a bridge in Rockingham county and was swept away to a watery grave.

ALMOST THE ENTIRE BUSINESS SECTION OF NASH COUNTY'S CAPITAL IS IN RUINS

ROCKY MOUNT, March 16. News reached this city yesterday morning bringing the facts that Nashville was visited early this morning by the worst fire in the history of the town, entailing a loss of over $50,000 and sweeping the very heart of the town out in several hours.

Flames were discovered about 5 o'clock in the morning in the rear of the Brooks Mercantile Company, on the south side of Main street, fronting the court house, which rapidly eating their way through the double walls in to the store of Cochran and Williams on the east side, and in a few moments both of these stores were seething masses of flames, approach near them being almost impossible. LAWLESSNESS.

The little town of Hillsville, Va., was three days ago the scene of a tragedy without parallel in the annals of crime. A gang of law defiers, outlaws, swooped upon the town and spreading death wiped out the whole machine which was dealing out justice to a noted lawbreaker.

Organized lawlessness against organized justice and the outcome of the clash has been the death of four useful citizens. Four citizens who were so much thought of by the people of that part of the state as to be elected the representatives of justice.

A whole nation deploras today conditions that led to the sad and sudden death of those citizens and the severe lesson of Hillsville will be long lived. Facts are facts and in this case it is an almighty sad fact that conditions existing in Carroll County made it possible for the outlaws to organize to the extent of dealing out such a blow to justice. We have laughed time and time again at the inefficient efforts made by the authorities of countries on the other side of the great pond to capture famous bandits and criminals. Italy and Spain in particular have been the laughing stock of our authorities in their methods to deal with the class of criminals that rely on their knowledge of mountainous country to elude the attempts to capture, but today we can no longer laugh, for it seems to be time to weep instead; to mourn the loss of those citizens that met their death in the discharge of their duties.

Something must have been abnormally wrong in that part of Virginia when a gang of moonshiners, such as was headed by the Allen Bros. had been allowed to grow so bold. There must have been slackness somewhere and now for that want of something which might be termed indulgence in local evils, Virginia, and for that matter the whole of the United States is robbed of four good citizens.

We know that the outlaws will be caught. That they will be caught very soon and that once in the hands of the law their punishment will be, in proportion to the lawlessness of their crime. But another big fact in this case is that Judge Massie, Commonwealth Attorney Foster, Sheriff Webb and Clerk of the Court Goad are lost forever to the Commonwealth of Virginia and their respective families.

CONGRATULATIONS.

The Lawrence mill strike is practically over and the 18,000 operatives that carried the fight so bravely are to be congratulated for a success which called for such a strenuous fight.

Through their stand in this strike mill workers throughout the country will feel their weekly envelope a little heavier and lives that were made a drudgery by the squeezing hand of the operators, will have a little of the sunshine come into them. The cotton mill operators of Lawrence and the country at large, must "come through" with the advance demanded and while it is true that the dividends will not be so large, there is no fear of famine among mill owners.

In the following tabulation is shown the effect in dollars and cents of the new wage schedule at Lawrence. Each line in the table represents a separate classification of workers, from the lowest in grade, getting 9 cents an hour, to the highest, getting 20 cents.

The increase in wages will affect the earnings of 18,000 workers in Lawrence, exclusive of the 175,000 workers in other textile centers of New England who will receive more pay, reaching into millions, as a result of the Lawrence strike. These 18,000 Lawrence mill hands are divided into ten classifications and the average increase, in cash, will be 75.8 cents a week for each, or a total of $13,500. This means $702,000 more to the textile workmen of Lawrence every year. The percentage of increase to every mill hand if these hands were equally divided between the ten classifications would be a fraction under 12 per cent.

ABOUT "ISERS."

In the course of a few days we expect to give a list of the Greenville concerns which, in a quiet way are doing this town a lot of good.

We have some statistics already, but are expecting to hear from other people to whom we have explained our plan. In this manner does The Reflector expect to spur some of the men of our community to do a little thinking in regards to "starting something" which will do the town good. And incidentally do "them" some amount of good.

We may have to be sorry if the list appears to be rather short, but the figures which we will give are bound to impress some of our business men and we trust will do justice to the firms of which we will write.

Whichard writes: "Did you know Greenville had a Mut and Jeff? Spot them if you can." We knew the town had a Mut, and spot him, all right. Want to see him? Well, attend the press convention next summer—Greensboro News.

Aw, come off. You could never guess, even at what was under a pie "kiver".

Roosevelt says he is merely "answering the call of the people". According to a recent cartoon the "people" who are doing the calling have Roosevelt's face on them, from which it is to be judged that he is doing the most of it.

A county that does not want good roads does not have to have them, nor is any county going to have good roads that does not want them bad enough to go after them.

Straw ballots, hotel lobby and college hall votes are not to be taken to mean who is going to get a nomination.

Is the ground hog doing this for spite.

The princess, who has frequently been spoken of as the handsomest member of the English royal family, received an excellent education, which has been supplemented by extensive travel. Since her seventeenth birthday she has more than once been reported engaged to this or that member of royalty, among the number being King Alfonso of Spain, who according to popular report, vainly sought the hand of Princess Patricia Four Views of People's Fitness.

We think the readers, regardless of his political bent, will be interested in the following four views of popular government. Three of them are from candidates for the presidency, and the other from Senator Penrose, who is stoutly opposing a popular expression of the will of the people in Pennsylvania. Read:

PRESIDENT TAFT—"There are those of us who do not believe that all people are fitted for popular government. The fact is we know they are not. Some of us do not dare say so, but I do."

SENATOR PENROSE—"If the 90,000,000 people of this country were to be called together, I do not believe they would be any better able to frame a constitution than would the inhabitants of the Philippine Islands."

THEODORE ROOSEVELT—"With Lincoln I hold that this country, with its institutions, belong to the people who inhabit it. * * * Many eminent lawyers believe, and sometimes assert that the American people are not fitted for popular government and that it is necessary to keep the judiciary independent of the majority or of all the people. I take absolute issue with all who hold such a position

* * I believe with all my heart that the American people are fit for complete self-government."

WOODROW WILSON—"When I do hear a popular vote spoken as a mob government, I feel like telling the our whole system of government. * I regard it as a complete negation of man who utters that that he has no right to call himself an American. Do you see anything resembling a mob in that voting population of the country side—men tramping over the mountain side; men going to the general store at the village; men going into little, conversing groups to cast their ballots—is that your notion of a mob, or is that your picture of free, self-governing people? I am not afraid of the judgment so expressed, if you will give me time to think, because the deepest conviction and passion of my heart is that the common people, by which I mean all of us, are to be absolutely trusted."

It will be no trouble for the followers of Wilson and Roosevelt to feel a degree of pride in their choice; but it is a strange sort of American citizen who can indorse the other views. "Pay your money and take your choice," but choose in way that will make you feel like a man.—Greensboro News.

What the Critics Say.

It is the fashion nowadays
To censure every one,
Those heroes whom we used to praise,
For instance, Washington.
They say he was no genius, had No military skill;
But English strategy was bad,
Else we'd been English still.

Cornwallis, Gage, and all the rest—
Which was the greatest fool?
'Twas by their faults, 'tis now confessed.

We came ourselves to rule.
'Twas foolish strife by fools embraced (We thought it noble once!) And victory's crown was slightly placed Upon the greatest dunce!

Our Gerge in worth was poor, they say,
Nor in perspective gains;
And only men who write today
Have—shall we call it brains?
Yet common folk who read and run,
And come to reason's rule,
Will yet remember Washington,
Ignoring wisdom's school.

Fine Debate.

The second public mid-term debate by the Vance Literary Society, of Winterville High School took place in the auditorium of the school last night. The query was "Resolved, That the United States should enact a National Prohibition Law, Constitutionality Conceded."

The affirmative was represented by M. H. Smith, F. W. Carroll and R. C. Causey and the negative by J. D. McLawhorn, I. L. Bennett and G. H. Cox.

The speakers on both sides presented their side of the query excellently and in forceful argument. The decision of the judges was for the negative, but it was a close contest.

In connection with the debate were three musical collections, instrumental solos by Miss Clyde Chapman and Mr. J. R. Adams and a quartette by Misses Clara Braxton, Minnie Carroll, Blanche Cox and Fannie Forbes. The latter was remarkable for its beauty.

Winterville High School has a splendid faculty under the leadership of Prof. F. C. Nye and the work of the school takes highest rank. There are students present from twenty counties.

FROM AN EX-GRENVILLE BOY

MEXICO, D. F., March 6.—From the papers, it is very hard to learn the real conditions down here. Very few here know the real conditions, but they are serious, yes, very serious, but not any more for the foreigners than the better class of Mexicans. There is now being formed a unity between the foreigners and the better class of people of the city. This is being done, however, on the quiet and same is not being published. When the Rebels try to enter this city, I shall shoulder a gun with many other foreigners, business people here, and the soldiers who are left here for protection. The President has called on all citizens who love the government and people who have interest in this country to protect what we have here, and they are responding readily. The general public think that the Rebels will march in here and take the city without any opposition, but when the same is tried some one will be very badly fooled. The main fear of the Rebels is that they will come into the city robbing and killing in their usual way as they are doing through the country.

All foreigners who were able have sent their families to their countries and the men are left here merely as soldiers to protect their property. The money people here are waking up to the fact that something has got to be done and they are uniting to do it. Some great change may take place before this reaches you, but the way everything is at present in this city shows that the government is going to me upheld and Madero is going to be continued as president, though the general opinions are against him. The city is well armed with volunteer soldiers and I am quite sure they will be able to take care of the situation here and if they can the government soldiers will be able to take care of the outside trouble within a few weeks.

I am no longer an optimist regarding the beauty of things here, but am very much disheartened and discouraged. The country is being torn to pieces and robbed without any real cause in the world and it is a dirty shame. The climate here is the most wonderful in the world and it is a crime that it should be imposed upon my some of these dirty people.

POLICEMEN RAID NEGRO

In the big steel mills of Nova Scotia and the soo, men are not only compelled to work seven days a week, but they also have to work in shifts of eleven and thirteen hours.

Barnes made a dash for the front door and was received by Officer Clark. The arrest of the others was easy.

They offered no resistance and were quickly bundled off to the jail. Four of them were later released under a $25 bond to appear before the mayor this morning.

Willie Fleming and Tom Williams were unable to put up the required $25 and spent the night in jail.

On a chair in the store Officer Clark found a revolver, which nobody claimed as being his property.

The men had a preliminary trial before Mayor Wooten. They all pleaded guilty and were bound over to superior court under bonds of $50.00 each.

Fads and Fancies

New York, March 16.—Some of the fashion dictators in Paris have attempted for some time to abolish the extremely tight-fitting skirts and the clinging Empire gowns, but they met with considerable opposition and made but little progress. However, very gradually and very imperceptibly a slight change was affected, which may be clearly recognized in the latest Spring models imported of Paris.

There is no longer any doubt that the extreme long, narrow lines and the hobble skirt are doomed and that the coming season will bring the flounced skirt and broadened shoulder lines. Even now one sees ruffles appearing on the skirts and bodices of soft, filmy gowns designed for the debutantes. These ruffles are very narrow on the bodice and from six to eighteen inches wide on the skirts.

The bridesmaids gowns for an early Spring wedding are made of soft, silk net, having the short-waisted bodices draped in surplice fashion into a narrow girde of blue satin. The skirts are slightly full at the waist line and fall in graceful folds to the knee, where there begins a series of seven narrow flounces edged with lace. The effect is quite narrow and straight, but the flounces give a delightful grace and finish to the lower portion of the skirt. Over the shoulder is draped a fichu of net bordered with three narrow frills of net with lace edges. The fichu is caught in the center of the bodice at the high waist making an effect altogether charming.

For suits the twenty two and twenty four inch lengths continue to be popular for coats. White and cream suits will be much seen, with black combinations either in the fabric or the trimming, or both. The separate coats in long, loose straight line models are seen in a wide range of light-colored and navy-blue materials. The styles are varied mainly by the adoption of large revers and wide lapped, side fastened fronts. Large ornamented buttons are prominent on most of these coats.

While the foundation skirt in nearly all dresses remains narrow, the over-draperies often show more fullness, not, however, materially detracting from the slender lines. The waist line is slightly raised, set-in sleeves in three-quarter or shorter lengths prevail and collarless waists are very prominent. Serge and crepe are favored for early wear, and crepe meteor and taffeta are very fashionable. Chiffon waists give promise for early spring in colors which match or harmonize with suit colors. Crepe meteor, crepe de Chine and Taffeta in both chameleon and plain colors are la semi-tailored designs. Shirt styles in washable silks as well as in other materials are noticeable in the early styles. The set-in sleeve and one-side effects in trimmings are much in evidence.

Childrens wear for spring follows along in the same fashion lines as women's so far as it is possible. In the designing of dresses the set-in sleeve in three-quarter or shorter lengths in collarless designs are very much favored, with one-sided effects in trimmings, and the use of large collars in the trimming of both dresses and coats is fashionable.

MERCHANTS, TAKE NOTICE.

That the last legislature passed an act forbidding the sale of 22-cartridges that are commonly used in 22-rifles, and can be used in 22-pistols, without paying a license tax. I have been informed that several merchants throughout the county are selling such cartridges and it is unlawful to do so. All who continue to sell them after this date will have to pay the required tax for selling pistols and cartridges.

To Test Atlantic Airship.
BERLIN, March 16.—Everything is practically in readiness at the John-annisthal aviation grounds near this city for the trial flights of the dirigible airship Suchard, which is soon to undertake the hazardous task of making a flight across the Atlantic ocean, from Tenerife to the West Indies. Dr. Paul F. Gans, the scientific head of the undertaking, who is to be in command during the trans-Atlantic flight, Joseph Bhucker, the business manager of the enterprise and the members of the prospective crew are on the spot, ready for the first trial flight, which is awaited with great interest by the public in general and the dirigible-enthusiasts in particular.

The dirigible balloon Suchard, which has been built especially for this trans-oceanic flight, was completed last fall, but after its completion it was found advisable to make some alterations and re-arrangements, which made it impossible to carry out the original plan of making the flight before the beginning of winter.
If the trial flights during the next few days should be successful, the balloon and its attachments will be packed without delay and shipped to the Canary Islands. The start is to be made from Tenerife at the earliest opportunity.

The Suchard is a non-rigid dirigible of the Parseval type, 250 feet long and 54 feet in greatest diameter. It is equipped with three powerful engines of the type used in the Parseval. Each one is capable of developing 110 horsepower and weighs about 800 pounds. They can be operated independently and are to be used only as auxiliaries, to keep the airship in its course. The balloon will depend for its propulsion almost entirely upon the trade winds, which,
at this time of the year, blow steady-ly from the Canary Islands toward the West Indian archipelagus.

Dr. Gans and his friends are confident that the flight can be made safely at this time of the year and it will take about four or five days after the start from Tenerife to reach some of the West Indies Islands. The danger of gas leakage, which would make it impossible for the big balloon to remain in the air so long, has been materially diminished, in the opinion of Dr. Gans by the coating of the balloon which will absorb moisture from the atmosphere, thus protecting the enclosed gas from the heat of the sun and consequent excessive expansion. The balloon will be ballasted with sea water of which a sufficient supply will be carried to sprinkle the balloon during the hottest time of the day.
Under the bag is a gallery for sleeping quarters and below that will be suspended a powerboat that can be quickly cut loose in case of accident.
The powerboat is intended as the main living quarters of the six men of the crew.

The motors drive two two-bladed propellers of the Parseval type which makes only 40 revolutions a minute.
It is planned to run the motors alternately during the day and depend altogether on the trade winds at night.
According to the present plan the voyage is to be made at a height of 500 to 600 feet. The dirigible will be steered by an ordinary vertical rudder and for the purpose of rising, descending and balancing large fins, like ailerons, will be used. The steering is to be done by compass and to enable the navigator of the craft to judge of the lessway, bright red hollow aluminum balls will be dropped from time to time. Expedition will carry a liberal supply of these balls.
Owing to the fact that the engine will run alternately and only during part of the day, the quantity of benzine used will be thrilling; which is rather important, as it would be impossible to carry a large supply of that fuel.

Of course, owing to the difficulty of holding a definite course in a balloon or airship steered by compass only, Dr. Gans unable to tell where his craft is going to land. The general course will be in the direction of the caribbean islands and Dr.
Gans intends to make a landing on the first island which the balloon should reach. The airship is equipped with a wireless apparatus and can signal at a distant of 150 miles.
