RED MEN CAPTURE PITT COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Great Gathering of Redskins Makes Things Lively In Our Midst GREAT SACHEM TALKS

The great pow-wow, the big noise was pulled off last night in this burg by the Red Men of the 4th District. Fat Indians, lean Indians, young and old gathered in Greenville yesterday afternoon to the number of about 150 and in the evening gave the town a taste of "Injun" doings, when they paraded from their hall on Five Points to the Court House. They were all there with their war paint and feathers, whooping and hollering to their hearts content, and vastly to the amusement of the crowds that gathered along the streets to see them pass. Opposite the court house a little wigwam was rigged up and before they all repaired to the temple of justice to hear the Great Sachem speak, the redskins managed to round up a pale-face and figuratively burned him in the immediate neighborhood of their wigwam all the while emitting war-whoops contemplated to bring fear to the hearts of the unknowing.

For last night's great gathering the Great Sachem of North Carolina, W. J. Leary, journeyed to Greenville accompanied by Bro. Goodwin, another Red Man of high standing in the organization. The parade formed at the hall in Five Points about 8:15 and a few moments later proceeded to the court house. Heading the parade the automobile of Mr. Sam. T. White with Bros. Leary, Flanagan and Capt. Smith and that of Mr. Fred Forbes with Bros. Clark Goodwin and James, picked their way slowly through the crowds on Evans street. Several mounted Indian Scouts were in evidence.

After the ceremony concerning the much run pale-face, all Red Men and a great crowd of citizens crowded into the court house to hear Bro. Flanagan deliver the address of welcome, Great Sachem Leary speak about the organization and Bro. James close the proceedings with a talk. Great Jr. Sagamore, R. C. Flanagan delivered a veritable gem of an address of welcome to the Great Sachem. He clearly explained the aims and goal of all Red Men. Their purpose and actions and expressed pleasure at being able to welcome the highest official of the order to Greenville.

Dr. D. L. James, chairman of the meeting in a few introductory words presented the Great Sachem to the audience. Mr. Leary said he was always glad to come to Greenville and that every time it was his good fortune to do so he noted the great progress of our town. After many complimentary remarks about Greenville and its people the Great Sachem passed on to explain the advantage, material and moral of being a Red Man. He cited cases in which the beneficiary hand of Red Manhood had exercised a charity that is only with men that have the brotherly spirit. In closing his talk the Great Sachem urged every man in Greenville to join the Red Men, to be Red Men, and to strive for those noble principles that constitute an organization that extends throughout all this country.

Dr. D. L. James closed the proceedings with one of those magnificent speeches that must come from somewhere very near his heart. It is well known to us that Bro. James is eloquent, very eloquent, but last night he was extra eloquent and held his audience at will.

Dr. James spoke of the greatness of charity and drew a parallel of pictures with a masterly hand. To him brotherhood is what education was to the lamented Aycock. Brotherhood and all the good that it breeds amongst men. For this reason he believed all should form part of an organization that fosters brotherhood and friendly feeling between men.

However strong Dr. James' love for brotherhood there is yet something else that seems to be uppermost on his mind these days. Otherwise why should he refer to that North Carolinian of high standing and handsome appearance that sits in the coveted state chair? Perhaps this point is Bro. James' only weakness. Anyway they all enjoyed his "break".

After the speeches in the court house the Red Men repaired to their place of meetings and had their pictures taken in a group that crowded the main hall. Later refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served, cigars were passed around and the greatest feeling of brotherhood cheered the Redskins.

WELDON.—Mack Allen lies dead at his home near Essex shot through the heart by his brother, Melville Allen, last night. The Allens are members of a prominent Halifax county family. The father died the past week and the mother is an invalid. It appears the brothers had some words when Melville Allen pulled his pistol. His brother told him to put up his gun and turned away. Melville then fired the fatal shot, the bullet taking effect in the heart of the victim, who died instantly. Melville gave himself up to the sheriff this morning and was sent to Halifax without bail.

Republican Convention.
The Republican county convention met here this afternoon to select delegates to the district and state conventions. The meeting was too late for us to give any of the proceedings today.

Many Applicants.
There were about twenty applicants to stand the examination today to fill the vacancy on the Grifton rural mail route and to get on the eligible list for the civil service for the county. It will not be known for some days how many of the applicants passed.

Washington's Game.
The Washington and Greenville boys played an interesting game of baseball here Friday afternoon. It was a tight game, resulting in a score of 4 to 2 in favor of Washington.

Paragraphic News From The Outside World

To Dedicate New Campanile
VENICE, April 30.—For the first time in a decade the ears of the Venetians will be gladdened during the coming week by the sounds of the famous bells of the Campanile of St. Mark's. Ever since the old Campanile fell in ruins in 1902 the work of rebuilding has been carried on. Today the beautiful reproduced, from the wonderful bronze statues to the famous chimera, for the sound of which Pope Pius X. has often expressed a yearning since he quit Venice for the Vatican. The formal dedication of the new Campanile is set for next Thursday. The municipality has issued an invitation to Italy and the world to attend the ceremonies, which will be conducted on an elaborate scale.

Georgetown "U" to Celebrate.
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20.—During the coming week Georgetown University is to hold a celebration that promises to assume even larger proportions than the great centennial celebration that was held here some years ago. The leading feature of the celebration will be the unveiling of a statue of Archbishop Carroll, the founder of the university. The event will be attended by hundreds of alumni and other friends of the institution, including many distinguished prelates, priests and laymen of the Roman Catholic church.

Ask Pardon for Wisconsin Lifer.
MADISON, Wis., April 20.—A hearing was held before Governor Mc Govern today on an application for the pardon of Harry Dunn, who is serving a life term in the prison at Waupun. Dunn was convicted of the murder of Emil Leber, a Milwaukee saloonkeeper, August 3, 1898. He was convicted on circumstantial evidence and has always maintained his innocence. The pardon is asked chiefly on the ground that the prisoner is suffering from tuberculosis and cannot live long if kept in confinement.

Grifton Commencement.
The commencement of the Grifton graded school will take place the second and third of May. There will be a concert on Thursday night 2nd and on Friday 3rd, the address will be delivered by Prof. J. Henry Highsmith of Wake Forest College. A barbecue dinner will follow the address and a game of baseball in the afternoon.

Free Scissors.
Maybe you have not opened your eyes to the fact that The Reflector is giving away scissors to its pay in advance subscribers. They are going, too, and you lose an opportunity to get something useful free if you wait until they are all gone.

The Republican county convention civil service examination and other things combined to bring a large crowd to town today.

School Debate Victory Sweeping For Home Boys - Good Speaking

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS

When Washington and Greenville meet in a contest, it is always a case of Greek meeting Greek. The debate between the schools of the two towns last night was no exception. The query for the discussion was: Resolved, "that the United States Senators should be elected by direct popular vote." For an hour and a half the boys waged a lively contest in argument. The Greenville boys did their best to show that the present method of electing Senators ought to be changed. The Washington boys argued with much force and at times, eloquence, that the method established by the framers of the constitution and the method which has placed in the Senate such men as Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Pinckney, Vance, and many of the other ablest men the nation has produced, ought not to be changed.

Greenville had the affirmative, and her first speaker was Mr. Milton Pugh. He traced the history of the political parties in the convention of 1787, showing that the chief leader in it, Alexander Hamilton, was opposed to popular government. He did not believe that the people could govern themselves. In this view concurred such men as Franklin, Sherman, Adams, Madison, Patrick Henry, and even Washington had grave doubts about it. Mr. Pugh continued by saying that throughout our history the struggle had been to make the government more popular, and that the efforts of all the present day leaders of both political parties are striving to place the government more effectively in the hands of the people.

The speaker then took up deadlocks, bossism, cases of bribery that have disgraced the old system, the dangers of the present methods, declaring that democracy has made wondrous gains in the past one hundred and twenty-five years, and that the vast majority of the American people demand a better method in choosing federal senators.

The first speaker on the negative was Mr. Thomas Sparrow. Mr. Sparrow's delivery was fine, and he made a good speech. He was easy in his manner, well-trained in the forensic art, and he showed himself very familiar with the subject in hand. He argued that the affirmative would have to prove that the present system is not satisfactory, and then prove in addition, that the proposed method is the one that will remedy all existing evils, and be a method satisfactory to all lovers of free and honest government. He then proceeded to defend the plan adopted by the fathers, showing that the senate is the most dignified and the most conservative body of lawmakers in the world.

Greenville's second speaker was Mr. D. J. Whichard, Jr. He recalled to the attention of the audience the history of the formation of the constitution, as it was recounted by the first affirmative speaker, Mr. Pugh. Mr. Whichard showed that the change proposed was not new; that it had been agitated in all parts of the country for eighty-five years; that thirty-two of the states had demanded the change; and that the House of Representatives has passed a resolution for the change numbers of times. Mr. Whichard closed by recounting the objections usually raised by the opponents of the measure, and declared

Inquiry Into Disaster Started in Earnest

Investigating Committee Has Important Witness Before the First Day. 140 Survivors in New York Hospitals. Bruce Ismay, Director of Steamship Co., Denounced.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The seriousness of the inquiry by the Senate Investigating Committee into the Titanic disaster was disclosed tonight when Senator Smith, of Michigan, the chairman, at first flatly refused to let any of the officers or the 200 odd members of the crew of the sunken ship get beyond the jurisdiction of the United States government. The men were all to have sailed tomorrow on the steamer Lapland. Later it was settled that the greater part of the crew would be permitted to sail on this steamer, but that the twelve men and four officers among the survivors now under subpoena together with Mr. Ismay, would not be allowed to depart.

The first day's testimony brought to the front the apparent conclusion that the biggest ship which was ever built, "lifeboat in itself" according to the views of the modern shipbuilders, sank in midocean with more than 1,500 human lives because she was being rushed across the ocean almost at top speed and crushed into a field of icebergs after warnings had been given to look out.

That so few were saved from watery graves was because there were not enough lifeboats on board to accommodate the passengers. There were only twenty lifeboats, because the Titanic was believed to be unsinkable.

This state of affairs appeared after the committee had examined today J. Ismay, managing director of the White Star line; Arthur Henry Roston, captain of the rescue ship Carpathia and Second Officer Lightholder of the Titanic, who went down with the ship but was later rescued together with Wm. Marconi, inventor of the wireless telegraph; Thomas Cottam, the wireless operator of the Carpathia and others from the sunken ship.

It was explained to the committee at tonight's conference the question of holding the crew that Mr. Ismay was very anxious to leave at once for Europe as he had been worn out by his experiences and felt the need of returning to his English home for a rest. His pleas, however, were unavailing.

Nearly 140 in Hospital.
New York, April 19.—Nearly 140 of the survivors of the Titanic were in hospitals tonight, suffering from shock and exposure, but as far as could be learned none of them were in a serious condition. It was expected that all would be discharged within a few days.

Most of them were third class passengers and members of the crew. More than 25 were children under 10 years old, several of them orphaned and a few yet unidentified. There was, for instance, a wailing nine-months old baby, ossed into a lifeboat by its mother that will probably grow up without knowing who its parents were.

More than a hundred were cared for at St. Vincent's hospital, which was a scene today of many pathetic incidents. Not only were their tearful but happy reunions between the survivors and friends who had missed meeting when the Carpathia docked last night, but there were scores still hoping against hope that some of their dear ones, not named among the survivors might still, through some ever sight, be among the rescued, who called to make inquiries.

Washington, D. C., April 19.—An indictment rarely equalled in its vigor, of J. Bruce Ismay, managing director and other officials of the White Star Line holding them responsible for the Titanic disaster, was delivered in the Senate today by Senator Rawner, of Maryland, who pictured Ismay as "the officer, primarily responsible for the whole disaster, who has reached his destination in safety and unharmed."

Senator Rayner pointed out that while there were no civil nor criminal means available in the courts, criminal and civil suits could be brought in the British courts and that a congressional committee would have absolute authority to subpoena every one connected with the disaster and that if anyone should refuse to answer questions he could be indicted and imprisoned for contempt.

Rev. Dallas Tucker and wife, formerly of Bristol, Tenn., arrived Friday evening. Mr. Tucker is the new rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church and Greenville gives him and his wife a cordial welcome.

THE DISASTER OF THE TITANIC.

Humanity is still cowering at the greatest disaster on the high seas and 1500 souls are being mourned in almost as many homes. Human skill, human power and human heroism were all tried off the treacherous Newfoundland banks and heroism was the only one which triumphed in the grim fight against the unconquered enemy of navigation. This is hardly the time to place the blame. Rather it is time to feel the deepest sorrow for the many families who miss today some member very dear to them. To alleviate their woe in whatever it is possible and to devise some remedy against a possible repetition of this mammoth disaster.

Brave men, good men, useful men, are now at the bottom of the Atlantic. Men who through their abnegation should be gratefully remembered by us through the years to come. Men who lived and died up to their name of MEN. Men who forfeited their lives willingly to assure those of the women and children who had been their travelling companions. The rule of the sea did not find an exception in the Titanic. "Women and Children First" and unfortunately last.

Some there were in the giant vessel whose lives had been a long rosy path; others who, through their activities had made their names honored and beloved by the rest of humanity. USEFUL MEN whose lives had been employed in the uplift of others. Their loss we must mourn as deeply almost as must those who called them fathers, brothers or sons.

This is what should be uppermost in our minds in these hours of sorrow.

The steamship officials fully realize the enormity of the loss. They fully realize that the saving capacity of the Titanic was not in proportion to her carrying capacity and they are already devising plans whereby no such calamity as the Titanic's will be repeated and we believe no time will be lost in putting into execution the best plan for the purpose.

In the meantime some men seem to have already forgotten the solemnity of the hour and are heaping blame on the unfortunate officials of the White Star line and other lines. We are sorry that those men have gained a "big enough name" to have a hearing. If Smith or Jones, just plain Smith or Jones, were to say anything on the subject, plain Smith's or plain Jones' cries would be snuffed in the utter contempt of their obscurity. On the other hand, Mr. Carnegie, the iron master of the Bethlehem strike fame shows absolute want of discretion in writing Mayor Gaynor, of New York. He says "What business did the Titanic have among the icebergs?" If Mr. Carnegie had been a mariner instead of an iron master he may never have formulated this impertinent question. For really, what does Mr. Carnegie know about navigation across the Atlantic? Mayor Gaynor wisely agrees with him. "What business did Capt. Smith have amongst the icebergs?"

We want to answer the question, woman like, with another question. "Is it likely that the steamship officials would send their steamers through a dangerous course just for the sake of braving accidents and disasters? Is it likely that one of the veterans of the North Atlantic crossing, as was the unfortunate Capt. Smith, would not follow the wisest course in his voyage.

We repeat it, this is the hour for sorrow and mourning and not for useless vituperations. The action of Congress in trying to determine all the facts leading to the tragedy is but in order to adopt such measures as will insure the lives of the thousands that cross the North Atlantic from year to year. They are not trying to punish or blame anybody. The catastrophe is now unavoidable. It simply was a resultant of unforeseen circumstances. The commander and officers of the vessel have through their heroism gained a verdict of acquittal with honors from the world and all left to be done is to mourn for the victims and make future traveling safer.

It takes some great disaster to awaken the public to a realization of the necessity of providing more efficiency for the protection of human life. The Iroquois theatre holocaust in Chicago opened the way to fire proof equipment for the safety of large crowds in theatres. A large hotel fire with alarming fatality caused the demand for adequate fire escapes to hotels that would enable the guests to escape. The burning of the shirt waist factory in New York with a death loss reaching hundreds was followed with call for the protection of operatives in factories. Likewise the sinking of the Titanic accompanied by the largest human and financial loss in the maritime history of the world will bring a demand from the public that large passenger ships be equipped with life boats and life preservers adequate to their full carrying capacity.

Already the enterprising papers have given two or three different pictures of the Titanic striking the iceberg. Any big steamer with her nose in a berg seems to answer the purpose. None of them, however, have shown the glancing collision like the rescued passengers say actually occurred.

There is only about a week left in which to attend to the matter of paying your poll tax if you want to save yourself the right to vote. It must be done by May first.

North Carolina Honored

At the suggestion of Senator Bailey, ranking member of the Senate Finance Committee, Senator Simmons of North Carolina has been selected by the Democratic members of the Committee to take charge of the management on the floor of the Senate of the tariff measure, providing for a revision of the duties on steel and iron and other metallic substances. Today and tomorrow, Senator Simmons will move that this bill be made the unfinished business and will insist upon speedy action by the Committee upon the chemical schedule of the tariff bill and that the sugar hearings be closed this week. The Washington correspondent of the Evening Chronicle says that the "election" of Senator Simmons to lead the fight for the Democrats at this important stage of the tariff controversy is considered a very high compliment to the ability and standing of the senior North Carolina Senator. His friends claim that this refutes the charge that he could not be promised the Chairmanship of the Finance Committee in the event of a Democratic Senate.

We may all congratulate the State upon the signal honor which has been done to her representatives in the Senate at Washington. With Senator Martin, of Virginia, as Democratic leader of the Senate, and with Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, at the head of the Finance Committee of the Senate, the South is coming into its own place in the political and economic affairs of the country. Long experience and business ability have resulted in the case of our North Carolina Senator in this impressive recognition of his ability and faithful party service. In honoring him, his Democratic colleagues in the Senate have honored North Carolina.—Charlotte Observer.

A Detective Accounting

Now that a full month has elapsed since the Hillsville tragedy, it might be well if the state were given some official statement "reporting progress."

For thirty days the mountains are supposed to have been swarming with detectives.

The net results are that the capture of three minor members of the gang that defied the law in its temple; while the two men who are supposed to have been chiefly responsible for the shooting are still at large.

Of the three captures, one was taken on information furnished the detectives as to his whereabouts, and the others gave themselves up because they were hungry.

We do not know exactly what this campaign has cost the state, nor what the average force has been. It is understood that $10 a day and expenses for each sleuth is the price that is being paid. This makes quite a tidy sum, in addition to the rewards offered when it is remembered that as an incident to quick captures the detectives established a censorship of means of communication and have been given the rare privilege of declaring through several counties what is tantamount to martial law.

After thirty days of waiting, it is not unreasonable to suggest that the people be given an opportunity to know the figures to date, showing the cost of the two captures, and a general idea of the plans for the summer campaign.

Also, it might be of interest to know whether the two fugitive Allens are in Virginia or in the Klondike.

A battalion of detectives is a good thing when they detect. For ornamental purposes they are expensive as the Katsuma ware that one gets at the "Japanese auction."—Richmond-Virginia.

For a World Christian Brotherhood.

NEW YORK, April 19.—What is said to be the first really national general Christian congress ever held by the laymen of America was formally opened in this city today and will continue for one week. The congress is the climax of the nine month's campaign of the Men and Religion Forward Movement that has swept over the United States and Canada. Reports of the campaign from every section will be a leading feature of the gathering.

The general sessions of the congress are to be held in Carnegie hall with auxiliary meetings in neighboring churches. The program calls for the presentation and discussion of carefully prepared reports on Immigration, The Negro Problem, The Church and the Newspaper, The Boy Problem, Christian Unity, The Rural Church, Bible Study, Evangelism, The Unsolved Problems of the Christianization of the World.

President Taft, Ambassador Bryce and William J. Bryan have accepted invitations to address the congress. Other lay speakers of prominence will include John Mitchell, former Governor Northern of Georgia, J. A. MacDonald of Toronto, Booker T. Washington, Robert E. Speer and John R. Mott. Among the clergymen who will address the congress will be Bishop Greer of New York, Bishop McDowell of Chicago, Dr. R. C. Gray of Glasgow and Archdeacon Madden of Liverpool. The only woman who will appear on the platform as a speaker will be Miss Jane Adams, the famous Chicago sociologist and settlement worker.

A great parade of delegates, augmented by special delegations from New York and neighboring cities, is to be held tomorrow afternoon. The mens' parade will be followed by one of older boys.

CHRISTMAN'S OINTMENT.

The following extract from a recent letter will be of interest to all sufferers from skin diseases: 802 W. 181st St., New York, N. Y.

"I would like to see it (Christman's Ointment) sent to all parts of the world and if I were a young woman I would do all I could to introduce it everywhere, but I have just passed my 69th birthday and am very weak yet from the terrible disease that developed on my face and neck during the fearful heat of July last and which your ointment cured me after five months of great suffering. Nothing sold here or recommended by doctors equals Christmans Ointment. I have sent some friends in New Jersey and California your address."

Yours truly,
CAROLINE DONNER

Christmans Ointment is sold at 25c a bottle at drug stores or 30 cents prepaid from Owens & Miner Drug Co., Importers and Jobbers, 1007-1009 Main St., Richmond, Va.

When I Go Home.

When I go home it will be evening, And I shall hear my own dear people sing,
And see the lighted rooms and take my place,
As one of them, in that sweet time of grace.

When I go home I shall be very tired Of struggling for the things that I desire,
But I shall be content to end my quest Gaining the best things, peace and love and rest.

When I go home how sorry I shall be,
Not to have brought more treasures back with me Yet though I be a failure, worn and poor, They will not turn me from my father's door.

When I go home I shall be travel-stained,
For winds have beaten me, and storms have rained, And earth has clung to me by vale and hill,
But they will take me in and love me still.

When I go home—oh, will it not be heaven
To be restored, accepted, loved, forgotten?
Sorrow and sighing are for those who room;
I shall have found my bliss when I go home.
—Marianne Farnham.

After-Debate Party.

A very pleasant supper-party was given last night by David Whichard, Jr., at his parents' residence and in honor of last night's debaters, judges, superintendents of the Greenville and Washington schools, officers of the debating societies, ushers and teachers of his grade. Twenty-four guests attended the party and after punch had been served in the drawing room the invited were ushered to the dining room where a delightful salad course luncheon was given. The colors of the Greenville school were in evidence every guest being presented with a beautiful carnation round the stems of which a blue ribbon was tied. The younger members of the party stayed until the 1 o'clock train when the Greenville boys and girls escorted their Washington friends to their train.

PUNY LITTLE BOY

"No Picture Of Health," His Father Says.

The pale, wistful faces and thin withering limbs of "delicate children" tell painfully enough the story of poorly nourished bodies.

We know just what ought to be done for such children. Here is a letter from Richard Rush, Columbus, Ind., saying "I believe I am indebted to Vinol for the health of my little son. He had a severe attack of whooping cough and measles which affected his lungs and constipation.

"We tried several other remedies without any result, then commenced using Vinol and I take pleasure in saying that he is the picture of health now, due to the use of Vinol."

Sickly children need the strengthening cod liver elements and the tonic iron that Vinol contains—that is why Vinol builds them up quickly and gives them a fine healthy color.

It is pleasant to take and we guarantee that the results will satisfy you —money back if they do not. Moyes Pharmacy, Greenville, N. C.

EULOGY TO THE LATE DR. FERNANDO C. JAMES

Delivered by Special Request at the Funeral of Deceased by His Nephew, Dr. D. L.
James.

There are occasions when silence is the only expression of sorrow and perhaps today a silent burial would be a better expression of our respect and our feelings than with speech or song. But, he who sleeps before you cold in death has time and again requested me to make a talk at his funeral. And rare indeed is it that a layman and especially one so near akin should ever be asked to perform such a task.

Dr. Fernando Cortez James was born in Pitt county at what is now known as Whitehurst eighty years ago. He remained on the farm until he was fourteen years old. He then went to Boston, Mass. While there he commenced the study of medicine while clerking in a drug store, and attending the public schools of Boston. He was graduated in medicine from the National Medical College of Columbia University in 1858. On Jan. 20th, 1860, he was married to Miss Francis Willard of Boston, who died only a few months ago.

He returned to his native state in 1860 and commenced the practice of medicine at his old home Whitehurst.
But soon the bugle-blast of war soured its call to arms. With that devotion in which he conceived to be his duty, with that constancy that was one of his marked characteristics, with that intrepidity that was inborn, he joined the ranks of his countryman, and was afterwards promoted to first assistant surgeon in the 3rd North Carolina Cavalry. In 1863 he was taken prisoner and was confined in a Northern prison until the end of the war.

In 1870 he located in Bethel and has been engaged in the practice of medicine continuously. But for the last few years he has only been able (on account of old age and bad health) to do office work.

He was an Agnostic in his belief.
A term first used by Professor Huxley in 1869 and is defined as one who neither affirms nor denies the existence of a personal Deity, or a future life. He believed that nature was God and that God was nature.
It is possible that his creed would shock the sensibilities of some but friends it is always kind to cover the faults of others with the mantle of charity and remember that He who spake as never man spake, commended us to judge not that we be not judged. While it is only natural that a Christian community should think there were irregularities in his life, yet I doubt if Bethel township ever produced a man who was more loyal to her interest than he. In speaking of this great crowd of his friends and neighbors I question if your town or county has ever produced a man that has done more for the poor and the distressed of this community that has this great big hearted physician and I believe the physician is brought closer to humanity than any other profession or calling.

Without the advantage of a collegiate education and without the facilities for thorough preliminary technical training, he, by dint of perseverance, industry and innate skill, made a place as a practitioner of medicine and in the hearts of the people which few men attain.

Although he was not a Christian and might have been called a blasphemer, yet he was good enough to give to every frowning cloud the sun and silver of his smile. His nature was the essence of sympathy. He loved his fellowman and he served him. Not another man in your community living or dead, would have rendered the service he did and he did it all with such unconscious ease.

Without fear he fulfilled his mission, leaving the doubter, the bigot, and the critic enmeshed in their own coils.

The people can be just today. "In death's last pillow there should be no thorns". The sympathy of this kind, this loving physician touched every phase of life. In all the relations of life he discharged his duty with that simple fidelity and earnestness which marked him as the noblest work of God—an honest man.
He lived for the stranger as well as for his friends. His gifts were many and his gracious acts were legion.
Of all his earnings he saved but little because loving others better than himself he withheld nothing.

Now, friends, after all, who knows what goodness and greatness is? It is idle for men of this generation to try to tell who of their own time, is so and what is the cause. WE DO NOT KNOW. It escapes the contemporaries of all. It baffles the historian. It eludes the philosopher.
It mocks the politician. It defies analysis. Those stamped with its subtle spirit come unheralded, fulfill their mission and pass to the unknown. The alchemy which transmutes great men from the common place of the sublime is not a science.

Learned societies may resolve to confer greatness. The academy of immortals may write it on rolls. Crowns may decree it: The beggared hermit in his solitude, or wealth with unmeasured gold may ask it, but it shall not be given. Those who seek it shall not find.

I have often said and I say it reverently; that that man best loves and best serves God who best loves and best serves his fellowman.

And when the roll call of the ages is sounded and we are brought face to face with our departed friends, I hope to find my dear old uncle Fernando, rejuvenated and transformed, with a great big diadem on his brow and those bright eyes sparkling with celestial brightness.

Friends, the melancholy occasion that calls us to this grave is fraught with rich instruction. Here we are reminded of the universal dominion of death and that like our friend, we shall soon be wrapped in the winding sheet of death and pass into the spirit land. This is the common fate of all. Pride, pomp, wealth and poverty are alike victims to the iron tooth of time and beneath this green sod find a common level. The hand of friendship cannot oppose the King of Terror, nor the charms of innocence elude his grasp. Therefore, my friends

"So live, that when thy summons comes to join The innumerable caravan which moves
To that mysterious realm where each shall take His chamber in the silent halls of death, Thou go not, like the quarry-slave at night, Scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave Like one that wraps the drapery of his couch
About him and lies down to pleasant dreams."

ers throughout this section are very busy at work now.

We all are having some fine weather now to work.

Some of the farmer's tobacco plants are nearly large enough to set out.
It looks like we are going to have some rain at this time.

Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. W.
Dixon.

The farmers union held their regular meeting last Friday night.

HANRAHAN, N. C., April 16.—I have been hibernating either in a hollow log or perhaps in a grass covered bag, but be that this or another way of the winter I've this to say, it was too cold to think or write, and if one had to lie alone, for a campion well might they moan, I eaked it out in some old way and am here to enjoy the flowers today. While shivering from cold I had a strange dream and then I woke in my hollow log and for sooth the earth was covered in a dense fog, the people were sending up a mighty wail and no effort to comfort them could prevail. They said their hero had banished from sight, he fell while speaking one star-lit night. No message could say you Aycock's dead, two great a light his words had shed; there is no death for a soul like this, his trial is ended, he now labors in bliss; the sun goes down and we call it night, but

REAL ESTATE! REAL ESTATE!

A Bargain Today--A Fortune Tomorrow!

A GREENVILLE KLONDIKE

"Opportunity," so it is said, "knocks at every man's door once in a life time."

There are men in Greenville today, who can buy many broad acres because they heeded the knock of cheap real estate a few years ago. They had foresight enough to buy where others were afraid. The present price of all real estate seems high; it looked that same way ten years ago.
You have only ten years longer to learn that the opportunities in real estate at present prices mean a fortune to you. In the past, right now, and in the future, some one has sung and will continue to sing the old tune about "at such and such a time I could have bought it for one-fourth its present value."

Real estate itself must have an opportunity. The broad acres of a swamp miles away from the steam whistle and thoroughfares of life, have but poor show to advance in valuation. Purchase real estate that stands along the highway of travel, or where men come and go, and there is hardly anything under the sun to hold the price down. A piece of good property in a live spot, is like a rolling snow-ball—the oftener it changes hands, the bigger it gets. Have you never noted the fact that the more readily a piece of property can be sold the more valuable it is? And it is always worth more in ready cash in the hands of the last holder than in the first.

Right here in Greenville, there is some of this class of real estate, some that has not got to wait for Greenville to grow. It matters not what you pay for it, it is always behind the horizon he sheds more light. The brown leaf falls and the flowers wither and are scattered by the winds we know not whither; they are confined a while to their winter tomb, but they come again with a sweeter perfume. So when they fell the sun shine of May, hidden from sight they can't longer stay. So they burst from their graves in greater profusion, the thing called death is the passing through of the pearly portals, to a brighter view to things that are and shall be eternal. No dark lines there will cross our journal. So if you have flowers to give or kind words to say, please hand them to me while I pass this way; don't wait till you hear that dreaded sound of clouds falling on my box in the ground.

So after awaking from my dream and after mature consideration of all the beauties that I could behold of this ideal spring day, I have come to realize that there are still living heroes and that in our midst as truly great as any that have been called to a brighter home.

On last Friday night at the Hanrahan academy we had your townsman and our Ragsdale, to talk to our people about things that are worth living for and I declare to you I felt from the very depth of my soul that right here in our midst yes, even at Hanrahan, we have before us a man who has toiled as hard if not harder and has sacrificed as much if not more than any one man who is now in our state or who has gone on before us.

Long may he breathe that he may lo-bor here;
That he will die, we have no fear.

Roehdale Items.

ROCHDALE, N. C., April 16.— Misses Nannie, Sallie and Carrie Bell Smith and Mr. Jim Bob Smith attended the commencement exercises at Tuckers school house Friday night.
Mr. Leon McLawhorn of near Ayden visited his brother, Mr. C. E.
McLawhorn, Saturday and Sunday.
Miss Mattie Smith is visiting Miss Janie Tyson near Winterville.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gay of Farmville were visiting at Mr. F. M. Smith's Sunday.

Mrs. Lloyd Smith and Miss Gertie Smith went to Farmville Saturday.
Mrs. Ivy Smith returned from Ayden Monday.

Misses Agnes and Trilby Smith went to Greenville Monday.
Master Alton McLawhorn is visiting Master Ruel Tyson near Winterville.

There will be services at the Christian church at Arthur Saturday night and Sunday.

worth just a little more than you gave. Old Father Time is a great auctioneer and while he takes the bid slow, he never goes backward.

I have right in the heart of the town, on Dickinson avenue, an opportunity that knocked at my door and I bought it. This property lies within a very short distance of the Norfolk Southern depot, and only about two blocks from Five Points. It is far too good a parcel of land to stand undeveloped. It should today be speaking for the material improvement of the town and remunerating some investor with dividends. I have not the money to hold or improve it. On the other hand, I am not forced to sell it. But it is entirely too good to remain in my hands, undeveloped. There are people in Greenville and Pitt county, who need it, and need it badly. I will not stand in the way of progress and yet I cannot give it away. The property is known as the John Corey land and runs along nearly the entire length of the new street recently opened from Dickinson avenue, with its paved street and side-walks. I will take pleasure in showing it to anyone.

If money is scarce with you, I will sell for one-fourth cash and the balance on easy terms. Somebody will buy it; it may be your or your neighbor. If it be your neighbor, no doubt, in a few years, you will be telling your children, "Why, I could have bought that property in 1912 for one-third what it is worth today."

This offer will not last long. It is too good to go a begging.

GREENVILLE BOYS WIN IN DEBATE

that the strongest men of our state, and of the senate, have favored the change.

The last speaker of the negative was Mr. Enoch Simmons, of this years' graduating class in Washington graded schools. Mr. Simmons proved to be one of the strongest and clearest and most convincing speakers of the evening. He had a good speech, and he presented it well. He dwelt upon the principle underlying national representation in congress and showed that the purpose of the Senate was totally different from that of the House of Representatives. That while the House representative of the voters of districts, the Senate was a body representation of the nation and the popular whims and political waves ought not to reach it, and that the election of Senators by the legislatures preserves this very fundamental safe-guard.

The rejoinders were limited to five minutes to each speaker. Much originally was injected into the replies and perhaps the audience got even more pleasure from them than the first speeches.

At the close of the discussion the committee composed of Supt. W. A.
Bivins, of Bethel, Supt. Ray Funderburk, of Grifton, and Supt. H.
L. Kooztz, of Ayden, were shown to a class room where they balloted as to which should be declared the winners. Prof. Funderburk was appointed to announce the decision and he performed his task in a humorous and tantalizing way. Several times he was at the point of giving out the secret to the anxious audience, but each time he halted and proceeded to talk of something else. He finally announced that the vote of the committee was unanimous in favor of the affirmative. The announcement was greeted with a tremendous outburst of applause.

This is the second time Greenville has defeated Washington in debate.
Two years ago Greenville won over the Washington boys in the latter town on the ship subsidy question.
The members of the Henry Grady Debating Society now have three victories to their credit and no defeats.
It will be recalled that they defeated Goldsboro here three years ago. The members are very jubilant over the splendid speeches made by their representatives last night.

Washington was well represented here for the debate. Supt. N. C.
Newbold, Prof. P. Q. Bryan and perhaps fifty of the students in the high school were in attendance.

Truth.

"He who will not reason is a bigot; he who cannot is a fool; he who dares not is a slave."

Many are taking more thought of the Titanic than of their "own household". You may not go down two miles deep, but you will go down just the same. Better see that you have a policy with The Mutual Life of New York.

H. Bentley Harris has it for you.
