MOSQUITOES.

What They Do, How They Do It, and How to Prevent Them.

Mosquito prospects are fine this season—for the mosquito. All they need is a little more time. They will do the rest. Wet weather, with abundance of water standing about in ponds, swamps, puddles, rain barrels, old tin cans, bottles, dishes, roof spouting, etc., furnishes ideal mosquito conditions. Add to this from one to two weeks of warm weather and the result will be marvelous. Thousands of mosquitoes will appear as if by magic.

What Mosquitoes Do.

Of course a few will bite you while others will hum and buzz around your ears in a tortuous way when you wish to sleep, rest, or read. But this is the least of the trouble. What they may do is to inject the tiniest amount of malarial germs into your blood. That will give you malarial chills and fever for months or years, make you generally inefficient, impoverish your blood and make you the easy prey of scores of other diseases that you would not otherwise contract.

Approximately 550 North Carolinians died of malaria last year and several times as many died of other diseases because their bodies were in such an "all-run-down" condition, due to malaria and the mosquito bite, that they contracted every other disease to which they were at all liable.

How to Prevent Mosquitoes.

Fortunately the mosquito is not a great traveler. He usually resides within from one hundred to five hundred feet of his birthplace. Winds may occasionally drive him further away, but like the fly, he is very domestic. Therein lies our cue. Destroy his breeding places around our homes and we have turned the trick. If the average householder in the city would have removed all his old tin cans, bottles, tubs, barrels, buckets and other vessels containing water, if he would examine his roof spouting and cellar to see that there is no stale water, and if he would either fill or drain low wet holes, his mosquito pests would be decreased over half. If he can succeed in getting his neighbors on both sides to do the same thing, he will have less than a fourth of an average mosquito crop. If he can get all the people in his block to abolish all their mosquito breeding places and keep them abolished for the summer, he will not have one mosquito where he had ten last year and when the entire town learns to follow suit, mosquitoes will be found only in the museums.

But perhaps you have no near-by neighbor, or he does not know about mosquitoes, or does not care to know. You can still win out. Simply abolish all of your mosquito breeding places—both inside and outside the house—screen the doors and windows with fine screen, not less than eighteen meshes to the inch and kill the mosquitoes that get into the house. Mosquitoes and flies are easily stupefied by burning pyrethrum or "insect powder". When stupefied they may be easily swept up and destroyed. In bed rooms further precautions may be taken by having the beds screened with fine mosquito netting. The state board of health, at Raleigh, publishes a free pamphlet on the mosquito and malaria, which tells all about the pest and the disease he produces. Write for it.

In his speech here a few days ago Attorney General T. W. Bickett said "It takes more courage to face a company of creditors than it does to face a regiment of soldiers". And there were not a few men in the audience who fully agreed with the speaker.

A Fredericksburg, Va., man was sentenced to jail for one minute. That gave him time enough to draw a long breath.

Greenville will soon be supplying her need in the hotel line, and we hope she will yet wake up in the matter of factories.

First thing you know you will see more building going on in Greenville than you can look at at one time.

Some of the Democrats are getting almost as bad as the Republicans for slinging mud.

This is My Birthday

Robert S. Vessey

Robert S. Vessey, the present governor of South Dakota, was born near Oskosh, Wis., May 16, 1858. His education was received in the common schools. As a young man he went to South Dakota and for several years engaged in sheep raising. In 1884 he entered into mercantile business in the town of Wessington Springs, S. D. He met with marked success and in the course of ten or fifteen years he had accumulated a considerable fortune as a result of his successful investments in real estate, mining properties and industrial enterprises. Governor Vessey's public career dates from 1905, in which year he was elected to the South Dakota senate on the Republican ticket. In 1909 he was elected to the governorship and two years later was elected to his present term.

Unknown Graves

But, ah, the grave which no man knows,
Uncontinued graves which never can be found,
Graves of the precious "missing" where no sound
Of tender weeping will be heard,
Where goes
No loving steps of kindred! Oh, how flows
And yearn our thoughts of them!
More holy ground,
Of graves than this, we say, is that whose bound
Is secret until eternity disclose
Its sign.
But nature knows no wildness.
There are no missing in her numbered ways.
In her great heart is no forgetfulness.
Each grave she keeps she will adorn,
Careless.
We cannot lay such wreaths as summer lays,
And all her days are decoration days.

American Nobleman.

Probably the most romantic instance of an American "ennoblement" is that of an Ohio boy whose father was a farmer near Stubenville. The son, Richard M. Jackson, was at one time United States vice consul at Stuttgart. He later became privy counselor to the King of Wurttemberg. The story of this man reads almost like a tale from "The Arabian Nights."

Young Jackson, having a passion for music, left an Ohio college for the famous Conservatory of Music at Stuttgart. He became an excellent pianist and a good German scholar. But constant practice at the piano so paralyzed the nerves of his hands that he was obliged to abandon his anticipated profession. Subsequently he was employed as clerk by the United States consul at Stuttgart. His efficiency caused him to be promoted to vice consul.

Occasionally Mr. Jackson met the King of Wurttemberg in the streets or parks. He would raise his hat and the King would as politely return the salute. In April, 1881, the vice consul was surprised to receive a letter from the King inviting him to become a member of the royal court. After several personal interviews Jackson accepted the King's invitation. He resigned the vice consulship, renounced his nationality and swore allegiance to the King of Wurttemberg and the Emperor of Germany, and was appointed reader of the former, with a handsome annual stipend guaranteed to him for life.

One morning a royal coach, with coachmen and footmen in livery, stood in front of Jackson's modest lodging house. A large crowd gathered to see for whom it was waiting. In a few moments Jackson made his appearance. The young man seated himself and the footman closed the door. The coachman cracked his whip and the "court reader" was carried to the royal place, where a luxuriously furnished suite of rooms, with a number of servants, had been assigned to him. He had not been installed in a new position long before the King of Holland presented him with the Knight's Cross of the Golden Lion of Nassau; the King of Saxony bestowed upon him the Knight's Cross of the Albert's Order; the Emperor of Austria invested him with the Ancient Order of the Iron Crown of Austria; the Queen of Russia, gave him the Knight's Cross of the Crown of Wurttemberg. The King of Wurttemberg subsequently made him a baron and a privy counselor.—New York Press.

Federal Prison Labor

A bill instructed by representative Booher of Missouri is now before Congress, which on its face is calculated to relieve conditions in States in which, under the law, products of pri on labor are not put on the market in competition with the products of free labor, but in which such prison-made products are brought into the State from other States and countries and placed on the market. The attention of the courts have frequently been called to this paradoxical condition, the inequity of which would seem to be apparent even to laymen. For what shall it profit a State which prohibits the sale of products of its own prison labor within its own borders if outside prison-made products can be brought into such States and sold in competition with products arising from free labor?

The courts have held, it is said uniformly, that a State is powerless to prevent the import and sale of prison products made outside of the State. The Booher bill provides that all convict-made goods shall, upon arrival within any State or Territory, be subject to the laws of such State or Territory exactly as if they had been manufactured within its borders. The bill, on its face seems to meet the situation fairly, although some doubt has been entertained regarding the view which the United States Supreme Court may take of its constitutionality.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Motor Regulations.

In commenting upon recommendations by the Touring Club of America for a set of standard traffic regulations, Maj. Richard Sylvester, president of the International Police Association and superintendent of the Metropolitan police of the District of Columbia, said:

"Every city having in view a favorable reputation in traffic regulation must today make provision against excessive emission of smoke and gases from automobiles. It should be just as diligent in suppressing noise from running engines after motor conveyances have stopped and other unnecessary mechanical noise when moving. Dense smoke or noises should be under the ban through proper enactment.

"In cities all vehicles should be required to carry lights and all business conveyances should be numbered. The need for such regulations is at once obvious. Criticisms can also be made justly in this connection of the bright and dazzling headlights of motor vehicles in congested districts, as well as against the frequent failure to throw sufficient light upon license numbers on automobiles anywhere and everywhere.

"Equally necessary are the sound signals on motor conveyances and they should be of a kind as near in accord as possible, and their use avoided for announcing 'The machine is in waiting,' and for similar purposes."—New York Sun.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Pitcher "Jeff" Pfeffer, who used to stop 'em for the Cubs, is pitching for the Washington team in the United States League.

Shafer, of the Giants must be out for the base-stealing record. During the first three weeks of the season he pilfered eleven sacks.

With Manager Boin in the game the Quakers look like a bunch of live ones, and should be able to get up among the leaders pretty soon.

Pitcher "Hub" Perdue had won all his games this season when he faced the Cubs, and then the stuff was off. The Cubs eat Boston pitching like a kid punishing cream puffs.

The Milwaukee club has released George Stone to the Terre Haute club. While a member of the St. Louis Browns a few years ago Stone was the champion batter of the big show.

The circuit of the Maine-New Brunswick league will be composed of St. John, Fredericton, Woodstock and Houlton. Eighty games will be played, the season opening May 24 and closing Sept 7.

Of the five players, Zimmerman, Smith, Bell, Berger and Coulson, turned over to Newark by the Brooklyn club, only two, Zimmerman and Smith are now with the Indians. Bell refused to report, Berger was released and Coulson was sent to Kansas City.

The Cardinals have been fat picking for the Cincinnati Reds this spring, the Reds having copped out seven straight games from R. Bresnahan's crew.

Comencement Colored Graded School.

The commencement of the colored graded school will take place in the assembly room of the school tomorrow (Friday) night, May 17th, 1912. The annual orator for the occasion will be Rev. C. H. Williams, editor of the Baptist Sentinel and the North Carolin representative to the Jamestown Exposition.

By a speech he delivered before the appropriations committee of our state legislature $5,000 was granted North Carolina negroes for their exhibit at the exhibition.

The message he will bring to our young people will be on the line of the farewell address of Dr. Meserine at the recent commencement of Shaw University.

We feel that this the ninth year of the school, has been decidedly the most successful in actual results. We have not the quantity of work in sewing, but the quality is in evidence. Each graduate made her own dress. The girls heretofore had a monopoly in industrial effort, not so this year, the boys have finished caning twelve chairs belonging to several white families, notably, Mrs. James Little, Messrs. Moseley Bros., Editor Whichard, Prof. H. E. Austin of Training school, and two colored families.

Everybody of both races is invited to hear the address at night beginning at 8:45. During the day our white citizens are especially entreated to view the work of the school from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m.

In this notice two of the faculty take pride in asking all citizens to note the practical work accomplished since one of our teachers is a product of the school.

The principal of the school delivered the commencement address at the Training school of Edenton, on May 2nd, where another young woman is leading teacher, who is also a product of this school. Our industrial effort ranks among the best, visitors say. We beg you to come.
C. M. EPPS, Prin.

Youth to Be tried For Murder

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 16.—How a youth managed to play the dual role of a respectable young man by day and a daring burglar at night is expected to be revealed in the circuit court here next week, when Samuel A. Cheatham is placed on trial for the murder of George Wurzburger. Arrangements have been made to begin the trial Monday. The murder of Wurzburger, who was a clerk in a well known pawn shop, occurred in the office of the establishment on the night of January 31 last. The crime evidently was the deed of a thief, as watches and money aggregating $2,000 were stolen. The finding of a pair of sleeve buttons led the police to suspect Cheatham, whose mysterious disappearance from his lodging place had puzzled a large circle of friends, who believed him to be a young man of respectability and possessed of means. At the time of his disappearance he was supposed to be engaged to marry an estimable young woman. Cheatham was traced thru the South and thence to New York, but it was not until his return to this city was he arrested. He is said to have admitted his guilt, but later entered a plea of not guilty.

Levi P. Morton 88 Years Old.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Former Vice-President Levi P. Morton, who now makes Washington his permanent place of winter residence, quietly celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday anniversary today. Though the serious illness which he experienced about a year ago left him slightly enfeebled in body the former vice-president is as alert mentally as most men of half his years and he continues to take a keen interest in politics, finance and all public questions of the day. It is not without interest to note that Mr. Morton has attained a greater age than any other man who ever held the vice-presidency with the single exception of the first vice-president, Jno. Adams, who died in his 90th year.
