

Fight Still on Over Ohio Dele- gates

Roosevelt Supporters Say That Unless They Control the Dele- gation Will Force Split

MEANWHILE BOTH FACTIONS CLAIM THE DELEGATION

COLUMBUS, O., June 2.—The attitude which United States Senator Theodore E. Burton will take in his keynote speech as temporary chairman of the Republican state convention here tomorrow is the chief topic of discussion among the delegates who arrived today. Senator Burton reached here during the day and conferred with Walter E. Brown, chairman of the Republican state central committee and manager of Colonel Roosevelt's campaign in the state. Following this he held a long discussion with Lewis O. Laylin, manager of the Taft forces in the state.

In a statement Mr. Laylin claimed that the Taft delegates will control the delegates at large to the national convention at Chicago with more than 400 of the 754 delegates composing the convention.

Mr. Brown declared again today that the Roosevelt forces will dominate the convention and the election of Ohio's big six with 420 delegates.

Brown's statement of several days ago in which he stated he would carry the fight for the state's big six to the convention floor is causing much speculation among the Taft supporters tonight. Predictions were frequent tonight that should the Taft delegates control the convention by a small majority the Roosevelt forces might bolt and hold a rump convention, which would send a big six delegation to Chicago to contest against the Taft delegation.

Roosevelt supporters, while claiming confidence that a big six delegation favorable to the former president will be secreted, tonight declared that in the event the convention should be controlled by Taft delegates, the strength of the Roosevelt forces would probably cause the Taft supporters to agree to a split delegation.

New York Politician in Wisconsin

McGOVERN SAYS ROOT IS NOT SATISFACTORY

MADISON, Wis., June 3.—Governor Francis McGovern of Wisconsin, chairman of the Wisconsin delegation to the Republican national convention in a telegram answering an appeal by William Barnes, Jr., of New York, refused the support of Wisconsin for Senator Elihu Root, as temporary chairman of the convention. Gov. McGovern's reply, said Senator Root, represented political views and methods that should not be sanctioned at the Chicago convention and that Root's selection would invite defeat in November.

Automobile Refuses To Climb Up Pole.

Our brand new Presidential Elector "got him a car". It's a "Overland" and as its name implies it was sketched and carefully manufactured to steer over "terra firma". Mr. Albion Dunn must have overlooked the fact as this morning, at about 6:30 he tried to make it climb a pole, a something about which the car knew nothing. As a result $30.00 are being put down to "wear and tear" and Mr. Dunn is wondering this morning that perhaps after all an aeroplane would be more useful. To skip over poles, if nothing else.

Dr. D. H. Rice, of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va.
Text, Gal 2:20.—I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless, I live; yet not I but Christ liveth in me, etc.

This was the secret of Paul's power. He divided his subject into three headings. 1. Paul was crucified with Christ. 2. Christ lived in him. 3. Paul's life was a life of faith.

Under the first division he reviewed the life of Christ, showing how Christ had come to save mankind from sin. He stressed the meaning of the crucifixion, it was God's way of dealing with sin. He said, "No man of principle can wink at sin." There are two classes of sinners distinguished by their attitude towards sin: (1) those who treat sin lightly, (2) those who are crucified again with Christ and are filled with a consciousness of their sin and claim the shame and disgrace. For the latter there is a time of getting right with God and then the barriers of sin are swept away.

For the second part he used the parable of the vine and branches to show how man lives in Christ and Christ in man. Man partakes of the resurrection as well as the crucifixion.

In the third, he brought out the ways of manifesting faith towards man and God and showed how Paul's life was ruled by faith.

In the application he charged the young ladies to take stock of themselves now, follow Paul's example. Only through Christ can they hope to lead others to be mighty—to touch and revolutionize character.

The annual concert will take place tonight, beginning at 8:30 o'clock and the class day exercises Tuesday afternoon, beginning at 6 o'clock. The graduating exercises will take place Wednesday morning, beginning at 10:30 when the annual address will be delivered by Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education.

The public have a cordial invitation to attend the commencement exercises.

Chapel Hill Students Hear David Stern

SCHOOL MATTERS DIS- CUSSED AT UNIVERSITY

CHAPEL HILL, June 2.—David Stern, who is here attending commencement, had something to say today concerning school matters and administration of school affairs in Greensboro. When seen on the campus this evening after reading a report in the Daily News, he granted an interview and said:

"No, I see nothing in the school situation to become excited about, and if there was I am having too pleasant a time swapping yarns in the cool, calm air of dear old Chapel Hill to permit myself to become excited about anything. I have been consulted by some of the best women in the community as to the legal status of the matter and I have not hesitated to advise them as to the law.

"As I understand their position, it is this: The superintendent of schools is out of harmony with a large number, if not the majority, of the children and parents of the town, just as Principal King was out of harmony with Mann. Because this is so, they are not in favor of abolishing the superintendency without notice. They feel as expressed by Mrs. Blair that the interests of the school is paramount and that whatever is done this shall be their prime consideration.

"They regret the injection of personalities of any kind in the discussion, for Greensboro's schools are of more importance than either the superintendent or the principal or both of them, and the issue must be settled on this basis."

Two More Aviators Claimed by Death

SUNDAY FLYING PROVES ILL-FATED TO BIRDMEN

BREMEN, June 2.—Albert Buchstaetter, one of the best known of the German aviators and his passenger, Lieutenant Stille, of the German army, were killed today when their monoplane plunged to the ground just after starting on the northwest aviation circuit of 425 miles.

The monoplane guided by Buchstaetter, rose and was taking a curve preparatory to straightening out for the long journey when the accident occurred. Apparently the aviator over banked his machine. The monoplane dropped so heavily that it was half buried in the earth and had to be taken apart before the bodies of the two men could be extricated.

Fifteen professional aviators with members of the army aviation corps as passengers had entered the contest, but after the accident the flight was abandoned. The calamity was witnessed by a distinguished gathering, among which was the Grand Duke of Oldenburg.

Buchstaetter was an experienced aviator who made several notable flights during 1911.

Congress Ready For Another Investigation

NEXT QUESTION: WHY HAS BEEF GONE UP

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Congress is about ready to investigate another "trust" and in consequence some of the big men in the packing industry, who recently were acquitted in criminal proceedings in Chicago, probably will be summoned to Washington to answer why the price of beef and other meats has gone up. After a conference today between Representative Henry of Texas chairman of the house rules committee, and Representative Clayton, of Alabama, chairman of the judiciary committee, a joint statement was made public indicating that such an investigation would be made.

The statement said also that the department of justice probably would be called upon to furnish information in its possession regarding the beef trust and its operations. A recommendation for an amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law may be made in a report of the committee after the inquiry.

Business Houses Requested to Close.

The business houses of the town are requested to close from 10:15 to 12:30 Wednesday, in order that proprietors and employes can have an opportunity of attending the graduating exercises of the Training school. The business men can well afford to show their interest in the school by closing during the two hours as requested.

Will Try to Seat R. B. Howell As a Test

If Successful the Roosevelt Forces Will Force Tickets for all Other Committeemen

CHAIRMAN NEW KEEPS QUIET OVER SITUATION

CHICAGO, June 2.—Friends of Col. Roosevelt announced today that the first real test of strength between the candidate and President Taft will come next Thursday when R. B. Howell, of Omaha; national Republican committeeman elect from Nebraska, will demand to be seated as the successor of Victor Rosewater, acting chairman of the national Republican committee, prior to the hearing of the contests by that body.

The Roosevelt managers are prepared to make a determined fight to have Mr. Howell seated and if they succeed they will demand that Borden D. Whiting of New Jersey, Thos. K. Neidringhaus, of Missouri, other national committeemen elect, chosen either by direct primary or state conventions be seated.

By this means they may succeed in controlling the national committee and deciding whether Senator Elihu Root, of New York, shall be recommended as temporary chairman of the convention.

Harry S. New, chairman of the subcommittee on arrangements for the convention; declined to discuss the plans of the Roosevelt leaders, but intimated that he believed the national committee would not seat Mr. Howell or any other committeeman elect until after adjournment of the convention. He also expressed the opinion that the national committee would approve of the selection of Sen. Root as temporary chairman and endorse the plan adopted for the distribution of convention tickets.

R. B. Howell, national committeeman elect from Kansas, arrived here today, armed with a certificate, signed by Governor Aldrich of Nebraska, and the secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and attorney-general of that state, setting forth that he was regularly elected to the office on April 19, 1912.

Other edifices destroyed, of which the loss has not yet been estimated, are: Potofice, Fort Lawderdale Pharmacy, Pioneer Realty Company, C. Gutchins Bakery, Williams Brothers, contractors, Snyder and Short, real estate dealers; Johnson's Millinery store; Jefferies meat market; Herald printing establishment, and C. G. Rhodes residence. The origin of the fire is unknown.

ONE SIX-YEAR TERM IN THE PRESIDENCY—A FOOLISH SUGGESTION.

By Arthur Brisbane The gentlemen who are planning to change our presidential system, making the term six years—with no second term allowed—mean well, but they don't know and they haven't thought.

Those that have really thought about the question—beginning with Thomas Jefferson, whose strong argument, written in 1805, settles the question definitely up to the present day—realize that the four-year term, with a second term as a proper reward for good service, is the right system.

The president ought to be nominated by the people—although this does not always happen. A good many presidents have been nominated and elected by money—the money in the hands of a very few men.

With a corporation-made president in office, with only one term permitted and with the president realizing that he can expect nothing more from the people—how much greater would be the influence of the corporation than that of the people!

At the end of six years the people could do nothing more for their president except say, "Thank you." No matter how faithful he might be to the people, they could not reward him—not even with a second term.

But if the president had proved faithful to the corporations they at the end of his single term could reward him in many ways.

They could give him, for instance, a very large income from an insurance company or a bank and make the job seem most honorable.

They could take care of his relations. They could tell the next president they owned to put their ex-president on the supreme bench.

If it were possible for the people to arrange matters so that corporations could not reward men formerly in office that would be admirable. But if the people should legislate so that the president after one term could have nothing to expect from them, yet with all of the usual rewards to expect from corporations—the corporations would rule even more fully than at present.

There is a constant effort on the part of special interests, and of all those that really object to government by the people to hamper and limit the people in their power. If this is to be a republic permanently, why not legislate to increase the people's power rather than to diminish it?

Mr. Elihu Root, the ablest legal representative of the biggest dishonest men in the United States, is in favor of only one term for the president. Of course he is.

He knows that with only one term in office possible, the trust candidate, once elected, would not be tempted to forget his trust friends in the effort "to curry popular favor" and get a second term.

Thomas Jefferson, before he had time to think about it thoroughly, was inclined to favor only one term for the president. But deliberation made him see the thing more clearly and this is what he wrote on January 6, 1805, to John Tyler:

"My opinion originally was that the president of the United States should have been elected for seven years and be forever ineligible afterward. I have since become sensible that seven years is too long to be irremovable and that there should be a peaceable way of withdrawing a man in midway who is doing wrong."

All of those who feel that the people are really not capable of self-government, who believe that a special class of wise and good and powerful men should rule, are constantly inventing new hobbles to hamper and hold the people. All the specious talk about one term for the president of six years and no re-election is simply another set of hobbles to hold the people down.

If a man proves himself incompetent, give the people the right to get rid of him at the end of four years, or, better still, to get rid of him at once by a properly safeguarded expression of public opinion.

If a president is competent and faithful, let the people elect him again, to prove their gratitude and secure his valuable services.

If somebody will invent a law to keep Mr. Elihu Root's friends from nominating presidents and electing them, and renominating them when that is thought advisable, the law will be welcome. But new laws to limit the people's power are not needed. The constitution as it stands attends to that task sufficiently.

Up to noon Saturday the number of applicants for attendance at the summer term of East Carolina Teachers Training school for the summer term beginning next Monday, was two hundred and thirteen in excess of the capacity of the dormitories. At the rate applications continue to come in the number will be much larger before the week is out. This shows the need of the people of the town opening their homes to boarders during the summer school. Quite a number who will take boarders have sent their names to President Wright, but more accommodations are needed yet if none of the applicants are to be turned away.

King George V.

George V., "by the grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India" was born at Marlborough House, June 3, 1865, the second son of the late King Edward VII. In his youth his majesty was known as Prince of Wales. He entered the navy as a cadet in 1877 and during the years that he followed the naval career he visited nearly all parts of the world. In 1891 the death of his elder brother, the Duke of Clarence, made Prince George heir presumptive to the throne. Shortly after the accession of his father, King Edward VII., Prince George, then known as the Duke of Cornwall and York, made a tour of the world. In 1893 his majesty was married to Princess Victoria Mary of Teck. The royal couple have six children, five sons and a daughter. The eldest son, Prince Edward of Wales, will be 18 years old this month. He is being trained for a naval career after example of his father.

WITH OTHER EDITORS

Out of his own mouth

During the months which have already passed since the fall of 1911 Col. Roosevelt has said just one thing in which lucidity of judgment and absolute assurance of statement were conjoined.

That was when he told his journalistic friend, Mr. Smith of Pittsburgh, that he could amagnie no greater calamity to the country than his own entry into the presidential contest as a candidate.

The thing which he so deprecated has occurred. He is violently, virulently and viciously seeking nomination to a third term; and the strife he has stirred up, the disreputable methods he has sanctioned, and the incendiary doctrines he has promulgated, and the racial and class hatreds to which he has appealed, and the political corruption he has engendered by the lavish use of money, and his inculcation on the public mind of contempt for the law and its agencies, and the glamour his audacious eloquence has thrown around fastly of speech and duplicity in conduct—all testify that he knew whereof he spoke eight months ago, when for once reason and conscience controlled his utterance:

No greater calamity could befall the country than has befallen it in his instruction as an aspirant upon the presidential contest, except his nomination and election to the place in pursuit of which he has sacrofind to an unholy lust for power political consistency, personal honor, patriotism, trust, obligation to his party, duty to his country, and the sanctity of his plighted word. Somewhere in the future, if not now, there, awaits Theodore Roosevelt the judgement and penalty which inevitably overtake those "Who know the Right and yet the Wrong pursue".

Long ago he foresaw and foretold as disastrous to all the interests he should have had in heart would be the course he has since deliberately adopted. That open-eyed, and of his own volition, he has brought about the evils he prophesied, but the move insures and the more fully justified the severity of the condemnation and punishment that are destined to be his when account shall be finally balanced between himself and the people of the United States.—Virginian Pilot.

Tariff Vs. Fight

Congress would just as well adjourn before the date of the Republican National Convention at Chicago, on June 18. It must have recognized, by this time, that there is no further politics to be played. The pension leach has been satisfied, the "economy" program has proved farcical, and the sample tariff bills are quite numerous enough. As each is the public interest does not center upon any or all of these things. Outside of the pensions and a few other political interests which know exactly what they want, every eye became fixed some time ago upon the grand spectacular scramble for the Presidency; and now that Congress has done or left undone about every thing except of it, the big attraction—though only one primary contest is left—holds virtually the entire stage.

A fight is more interesting than a tariff discussion, any day. Some fights are also more entertaining than other fights, wherefore the Republican Presidential contest—although this is supposed to be the Democratic year—draws by far the biggest crowd. Everybody has turned out to see Roosevelt put one over on Taft or Taft put one over on Roosevelt. Democratic primaries have had few partisans in some states where Republican primaries were on at the same time, Democrats by tens of thousands flocking to the main show and entering their votes there. In both camps, Republican and Democratic, the candidates have been far more interesting personally as fighters than the tariff or any principal for which they may be supposed to stand. The contest is personal; to some extent, also it is along factional and temperamental lines which cleave the whole country, more or less. But it renders serious discussions of serious public questions impossible for the time being. It discounts each discussion for all the year during which National politics shall be on the present plane.

"Whoopee! did you see that?" Let Congress—differing to the fight interest—call off its petty sideshow and adjourn.—Charlotte Observer.

Social and Personal

Where Willows Are Drooping.
Where the willows are drooping and softly saying
I saw a skiff in the dawn of the day
On the murmuring brook with the sunlight playing Drifting—like leaves of the autumn away,
Drifting from childhood's wonder-
land—
A mothers love was the guiding
hand.

Where the clouds hang low, and the storms are soaring,
I saw a boat in the heart of the
day,
On the foaming river, where whirling and roaring
It winds over reefs and rides its way
Over the falls of Reality's land—
A sweetheart's love was the guiding
hand.

Where the river meets with the surging billows
The tide of the traceless deep,
deep bay,
Far from the brook with its drooping willows,
I saw a raft in the dying day
Tossed on the brim of eternity's
land—
God's infinite love was the guiding
hand.
And I wondered how we can ever fall
Since love sits near us wherever we sail.

Prolific Corn.

How many ears of corn have you ever known to grow from one grain in one year? Think about it.
Well, two years ago Floyd, son of Mr. H. C. Turnage, of Edgecombe, near Fountain, grew thirty-six ears from one grain. At first there was one stalk. It grew and grew, and suckers grew on it, and when harvest time came thirty-six ears were pulled from that stalk and its suckers. He made a little more than twenty-three barrels on the acre, but if all had produced like that one grain he would have made—well, calculate for yourself.

To Be Tried For Repair Frauds.
CHICAGO, Ill., June 1.—After a lapse of a year and a half since they were indicted Frank B. Harriman, John M. Taylor and C. L. Ewig, former officers and employees of the Illinois Central Railroad, and Joseph E. Buker will be arraigned in court here Monday to stand trial for conspiracy in connection with extensive frauds said to have been practiced against the railroad. Through the padding of repair bills a total of $4,825,650, it is charged, was illegally taken from the Illinois Central by the four men named, in company with several car building and equipment concerns, which also were mentioned in the indictments. Harriman formerly was general manager of the Illinois Central. Taylor was general storekeeper and Ewig was general superintendent. At the time the alleged repair bill padding was done Buker was superintendent of machinery.

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N. C., June 1.—This popular and far-famed seaside resort opened its 1912 season today and from now until fall the island will be an exceedingly live place. The hotel registrations were unusually large the first day and many have been made for tomorrow and in fact, for the remainder of the season. The Seashore and Oceanic hotels both opened today, while the Hanover Inn and a number of boarding houses have been open for several days.

The first dance of the season will be given tonight at Lumina, generally known as North Carolina's pleasure palace and it is expected that several thousand people will attend. The orchestra at Lumina this season is said to be superior to any that has played at the pavilion in the past. A large party from Atlanta and Birmingham are expected to arrive tonight, the Seaboard Air Line having inaugurated special Pullman service from Atlanta and Georgia.

This season bids fair to be the best in the history of the resort. In addition to the excellent fishing, surf bathing, boating, sailing, dacing, etc., there will be a number of new amusement features, including tennis courts pool and billiard room, rifle range, bowling alleys, etc. A Japanese tea room, opened by a Japanese citizen and served by a number of dainty Nippon maidens, will also prove to be quite popular.
