

TORMENTS INFLICTED UPON THE PRISONERS BY CUBAN REBELS

Followers in Commander Gomez's Improvised Army Amputate Ears of Prisoners--Revolutionists Make Bold Attempt to Burn Town of Guantanamo

MANY OF THE ISLANDERS ARE FLEEING TO LARGER TOWNS

SANTIAGO, Cuba, June 12.—A detachment of government troops under Major Rosendo Collazo fought a battle today with the insurgents near El Cobre, ten miles to the west of this city.

The rebels were defeated, losing 10 killed. The government troops made effective use of their artillery and are now pursuing the fleeing insurgents.

Attempt to Burn Guantanamo Falls.
Santiago, June 12.—The Gomez troops repulsed the rebels in their attempt to burn Guantanamo Monday night, but the good showing made by them has been overshadowed by verified reports of barbarous practices of the volunteer guerrillas who represent the amajority of the government forces in the field. Captain Ramon Garriga, who left Santiago last Thursday with 100 guerrillas, returned yesterday his men bringing as trophies of their conflict with the rebels the right ears of eight black men and exhibited the gruesome prizes seemingly with as much pride as though they were well earned objects of war.

Public opinion grew so intense that it forced General Montego, the government leader, to make a statement. His reply to the protests against the inhumanity of his men was simply this:

"All the guilty will be punished." Captain Garriga, who was asked for an explanation, said:

"Only one soldier is guilty and he has been shot."
This is known to be untrue. The one man mentioned is now in jail in Santiago. The uncivilized warfare practiced by the few soldiers in the field leaves them few sympathizers among their own people.

The purpose of both the rebels and the government is causing a rapid depopulation of the interior. All of the residents of those sections are flocking to the larger centers. The homes of many have already been burned. The train leaving Guantanamo was packed and before Santiago was reached women and children were fighting for a foothold on the steps of the cars. The majority of these people become public charges as soon as they reach their destinations.

Several hundred Porto Ricans who were imported to work on the sugar plantations here are without funds and are clamoring for return transportation. Consul Oladay has asked Washington for advice on the matter.

General Yvonet, the rebel leader, is now supposed to be retreating towards the north shore, and is expected at Guantanamo before the end of the week with a strong force. Other rebel bands are operating near Fermeza, twenty five miles from Santiago and inland from Siboney. This is near the new headquarters of Colonel Lejeune, commander of the district of Santiago.

Foreign property of Cagua de Tanamo, on Nipe Bay, is burning but details are unobtainable.

The gubboat Nashville has landed a detachment of marines at Felton on the west coast to guard property. A force of rebels under the command of General Evaristo has been seen in the vicinity of Sagua de Tanamo, in the northeast of the province of Oriente.

General Iovnet is reported to be surrounded by the government troops at Las Cuevas, between Sagua de Tanamo and Zatorara. The number of rebels who attacked Sagua de Tanamo on the night of June 8, when they were repulsed, is said to have been 500. The mayor of Santiago and the members of the provincial council representing the committee of defense have handed in a protest to General Jose de J. Monteguado, the commander of the government troops, against the arming of negroes as guerrillas. General Monteguado replied that a large portion of the regular troops were negroes and had hitherto proved perfectly reliable. There had not been a single case of desertion among them.

All Quiet, Navy Reports.
Washington, June 12.—Rear Admiral Usher, of the fourth division of the Atlantic fleet in command of all the marines and blajackets in Eastern Cuba, today reported no new developments on the south coast and conditions quiet.

Battle Reported.
Caimanera, Cuba, June 12.—A battle is reported to have been fought today between government troops and revolutionists at a distance of ten miles from the town of Imias on the north coast of the province of Oriente, near Baracoa. The result of the fighting is not known here.

Marines Marching to Deseo.
Caimanera, Cuba, June 12.—A detachment of United States marines is proceeding tonight to Deseo, a point near Caimanera, to protect the American property there.

The United States collier Cyclops arrived here this morning and the Cuban gunboat Enrique Villuendas with arms and ammunition for Guantanamo.

Low Hanging Wire Catches Conductor and Flagman

Men Were on Box Car When They Came Across a Low Hanging Telephone Wire. Were Thrown.

KINSTON, June 12.—Conductor Coward, of the Norfolk Southern and the flagman of the freight train of which he was in charge, had narrow escapes from death late yesterday, between Kinston and Lincoln City, a suburb. The men were riding a box car and struck a telephone wire which was hanging low, the train running at a fair rate of speed. The flagman was caught by the wire across the chest and lifted from his feet, while the conductor was cut by it across the face, receiving painful wounds about the eyes. Both men fell and the flagman caught as he was about to fall between the moving cars. Coward also narrowly averted falling under the car, rolling several feet to its edge.

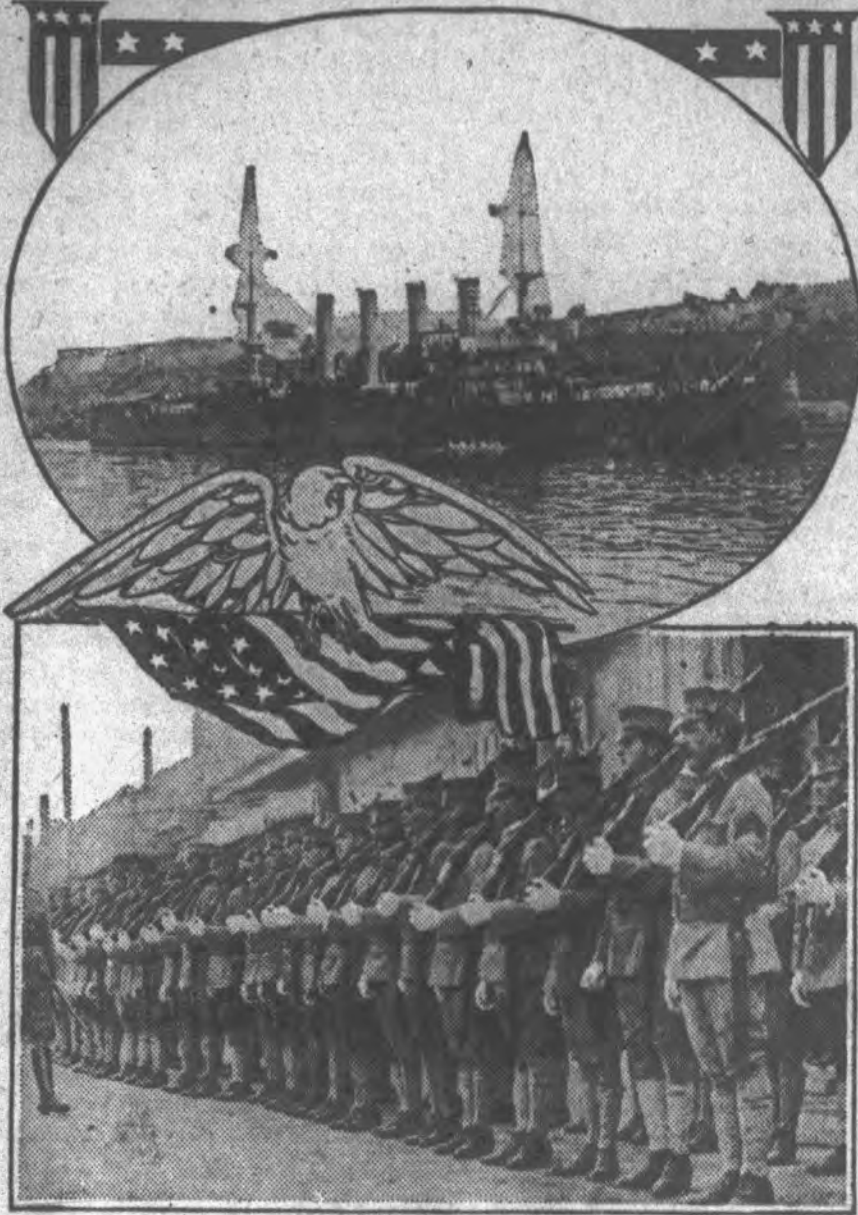

President Back At The White House

Special to Reflector.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Much rested by his 36 hour water trip, President Taft returned to the White House yesterday having gone to Hampton, Va., to attend the meeting of the trustees of the Hampton Normal School. The president has requested an investigation and report on the narrow escape of the collision between the yacht Mayflower, carrying the Presidential party and the Norfolk-bound passenger steamer Northland, early Sunday morning. Naval officers claim the pilot of the passenger boat was to blame and a thorough inquiry into the entire matter has been promised.

Immediately on returning to the White House the President called for the latest news from Chicago, and went over the situation with a number of his advisers.

Cuba's Insurrection and Two Of the Means of Checking It

Photos by American Press Association.

ONCE again the United States government has been obliged to make preparations to "keep the lid on" in Cuba and has dispatched a strong squadron under the command of Rear Admiral Osterhaus, with the armored cruiser Washington as his flagship, to land marines at Guantanamo and to take such steps as may be necessary to safeguard American interests. Under the provisions of the Platt amendment the United States has "the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence and for the maintenance of a government able to protect life, property and individual liberty." The Cuban government has protested its ability to put down the negro insurrection with its regular and volunteer forces, which include many of the men who fought against the Spaniards in the war of liberation. The Washington is shown in the upper photograph, a detachment of the regulars in the lower.

"VOTES FOR WOMEN" TEDDY

Will Announce Himself For Women Suffrage

Friends of the Colonel Advise That It Will be Part of Platform He Will Submit at Convention.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 12.—Theodore Roosevelt announced this afternoon through Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver, that he is in favor of woman suffrage in this country and that the platform which he will submit to the Chicago convention will contain an unequivocal declaration to that effect.

Judge Lindsey spent two hours with Colonel Roosevelt today. The object of his visit was primarily to persuade the colonel to announce that he was in favor of woman suffrage. Heretofore Colonel Roosevelt has merely said that he believed the question of woman suffrage should be submitted to the women themselves for determination whether they wished the ballot. As the judge was leaving Sagamore Hill, he said: "Colonel Roosevelt has come out decidedly for woman suffrage. He was induced to take this indefinite stand by what the women voters have done in Colorado in opposition to Messrs. Guggenheim and Evans; in Washington, California and other western states. Colonel Roosevelt told me that he was convinced from this record of the advantage to the country to be gained by placing the ballot in the hands of women. The Colonel also said that he had definitely decided to incorporate in the platform which he will submit to the Chicago convention a woman's suffrage plank."

TRY IN ON "TAR HEEL" VOTES

Magnitude of Delegates Stolen by Presidential Forces May be Taken up by Roosevelt Before Convention

CHICAGO, June 12.—Macauley once observed that a grain of poison would some times be fatal where an ounce would prove its own antidote. This figure of speech was recalled today when the Republican national committee placed the delegates from Arizona and from other sections in the Taft column, where they did not belong. The very magnitude of the offense is expected to result in a back fire and recoil from which Roosevelt will profit when the actual balloting begins. It is the opinion of the best political minds tonight that, in the event that the committee makes one consistent gigantic steal of it and takes all the contested delegates including those from Texas and Washington, Taft would then have, on the face of the returns, a paper majority of not more than this number of Taft delegates who believe that honesty is the best policy even in politics, will come over to the Roosevelt standard and it is intimated that even at the worst the Roosevelt forces, without leaving the convention hall, could organize, recognize the delegates from Washington and elsewhere where the claims of the Roosevelt delegates are universally recognized to the just and the colonel would be declared the regular party nominee.

Congressman Wilson, of Illinois, who made the trip with Colonel Roosevelt through the south said he had heard it was the Taft program to inaugurate a steal in North Carolina, but this is considered unlikely. Supporters of Colonel Roosevelt are saying some exceedingly uncomplimentary things about Mr. Duncan because he has voted steadily with the Taft majority, but it is not believed that the North Carolina committeeman would stand to have two personal friends, McNinch and Green, thrown out in the Ninth, no matter how much Mr. Taft might need the votes, to which no one thinks for a moment he is entitled.

Earthquake in North Carolina Town

WILMINGTON, N. C., June 12.—In common with a number of other southern cities, Wilmington experienced an earthquake this morning at 5:30 a.m. The tremor was distinct and was felt by a large number of people who were awake at the time and a number of others were rudely awakened by the shock which shook houses. Some noticed that small articles trembled. So far as could be learned the shock did no damage.

A DOZEN MORE DELEGATES FOR TAFT

Republican National Committee Grows Stronger

DO NOT FEAR FAULT OF BOLT

With the Addition of the 72 Southern Delegates Taft's Roll of Delegates Amounts to a Total of 285

Special to Reflector
CHICAGO, June 12.—Today's work of the Republican national committee added twelve more delegates to the catalogue of the Taft strength on the temporary roll of the Republican national convention. The much discussed Indiana contests came before the committee and were decided, all in the President's favor.

With the 72 delegates comprised in the Southern contests decided last week in the Alabama, Arkansas, Florida and Georgia cases, today's gains make a total of 84 delegates added to the Taft forces by the work of the national committee. And with the 201 instructed and uncontested delegates credited him, they bring his present total on the temporary roll up to 285. A large proportion of the contested seats among the 170 cases still to be passed on by the committee represent delegates instructed for Taft; the precise number is the subject of much dispute, nor can it be stated how many of these contests Taft will win.

The cases decided today were those of the Indiana delegation at large, four in number, headed by Col. Harry S. New, chairman of the convention committee of arrangements an included in former vice president, Charles W. Fairbanks and the district delegation from the 1st, 3rd and 13th districts. The contest in the fourth was withdrawn and the committee confirmed the two sitting (Taft) delegates.

The real fight of the day in the committee came not on the contest over the delegates at large, where, it had been expected, the committee was unanimous in giving them to Taft, but over the seating of the two Taft delegates from the 13th or South Bend district.

For Roosevelt and Glasscock.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 13.—The West Virginia delegates to the Republican national convention, who will depart from here tomorrow for Chicago, will carry with them a boom for Gov. Glasscock for the vice-presidential nomination in the event that T. Roosevelt is named to head the ticket. The friends of Governor Glasscock believed that he is entitled to second place on the ticket from the fact that he is the original Roosevelt man. On January 18th last, almost two months before the headgear of the famous Rough Rider was tossed into the circle, Governor Glasscock issued a public statement in which he declared that a careful canvass of the political situation in West Virginia had convinced him that the people of the State were overwhelmingly for Col. Roosevelt for the Republican presidential nomination, and calling upon the people to elect delegates to Chicago who would vote for his nomination. Furthermore, it was pointed out that Governor of West Virginia is the only one of the seven governors who prevailed on Roosevelt to be a candidate, who carried his state solid in the contest for delegates.

WAKE COUNTY'S EARLY GROWER HAS A RIVAL

Mr. D. D. Haskett, of Pitt County, Who Signs Himself the "Tomato Grower of the East."

Wake county is not alone in raising early vegetables, according to a communication just received from Pitt. Mr. W. A. Simpkins has a rival, who writes to the News and Observer as follows:

Greenville, N. C., June 11.

Mr. Editor: I saw in Sunday's News and Observer that Mr. Simpkins had picked a ripe tomato. I at once went to my field of 1500 vines and picked five, one of them undoubtedly was ripe on the 7th. Three years in succession I have had them ripe on the 9th. As far as heard from old Pitt is still ahead.

Very truly,

East Carolina Teachers Training School Over-run, More Applicants than Both School and Town can Accommodate—Private Homes Thrown Open and Still not enough room to Receive Them.

The work of the summer term of the East Carolina Teachers Training School began Tuesday. More than a month ago every possible room at the school had been filled with students who will remain the entire term. From then until the day of the opening applications have continuously come in and now the number is such that the town and school together can not accommodate them.

Others still continue to ask for admission. Up to the day when the school was to open there had been received in the office four hundred and sixty four applications for the one term.

Private homes were kindly and generously thrown open for the entertainment of this overflow and yet there is not sufficient room to meet the demands of the school. More than five hundred teachers would have taken advantage of the splendid opportunities for instruction in this school could they have gotten accommodations. The president for the past thirty days has constantly been writing applicants that they could not be received unless they could make arrangements for lodging somewhere else besides in the school. This has kept a number from applying who would have done so had there been any chance to get room.

The State of North Carolina will not long permit these teachers who are so anxious to make themselves efficient in the school room, to be turned away from its institutions. The schools of the state are now crying out for trained teachers. The state must give these. To do so opportunities for improvement must be given them.

State Campaign in Maine.
AUGUSTA, Me., June 13.—Although the date set for Maine's first statewide primaries is but four days distant, the campaign is attracting comparatively little attention. The only contests that have aroused any public interest are those for the Republican nominations for Governor and United States Senator, for each of which there are three candidates in the field. On the Democratic side there is no opposition to the renomination of Governor F. W. Plaidsted and Senator Obadiah P. Gardner.

The men seeking the Republican nomination for governor are Frederick E. Boothby of Portland, Albert H. Shaw of Bath and William T. Haines of Waterville. Those for senator on the Republican side are former congressman Burleigh of Augusta, Judge F. A. Powers of Houlton and Herbert M. Heath of Augusta.

Convention of New York Bankers.
BUFFALO, June 13.—The New York State Bankers' Association began its nineteenth annual convention in this city today, with headquarters in the Lafayette Hotel. President Bennett presided at the opening session this morning and the chief feature of the program was an address by George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago. The bankers devoted the afternoon to a cruise on Lake Erie. At the concluding sessions tomorrow the prominent speakers will be Sir Edmund Walker, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and George E. Allen, educational director of the American Institute of Banking.

Army of Visitors in Chicago.
CHICAGO, June 13.—An army of visitors that is expected to surpass all records for a national political convention week in Chicago already is marching into the cities by companies and regiments, and by Saturday the hotels in the downtown section will be filled to capacity.

Within two weeks after the national committee decided last winter to give the convention to Chicago every room in the Congress hotel, where both the Taft and Roosevelt headquarters have been located, have been sold out for the convention week, an indication of the crowds that are expected to be attracted to the city by the big quadrennial meet of the Republicans.

The Blackstone, LaSalle, Sherman House, Great Northern and other big hotels report that a similar demand on their capacity and the proprietors predict that by Saturday night every downtown hostelry, both big and little, will be hanging out the sign "cot room only." Officials in charge of the passenger traffic of the railroads entering Chicago likewise are of the opinion that a new record for crowds will be week.

No matter how great the throng, however, Chicago expects to be able to give them accommodations. More than 15,000 visitors are expected to be cared for in the big hotels in the loop district, additional to the ordinary run of patronage. Outlying hotels and the larger rooming houses will take care of almost as many more, according to the statement of hotel experts, while thousands of other visitors will be quartered in private homes with friends or relatives.

Hamilton's Centennial.

CLINTON, N. Y., June 13.—Alumni and other friends of Hamilton college are gathered here to attend what promises to be the most notable commencement in the history of the institution. The exercises began today and will conclude next Monday with a celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the chartering of the college. President Taft and Senator Root will be among the speakers at the services.

Washington Capital's Finest Building Washington Letter

(By Victor Elliott.)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Building has been done on an extensive scale by the United States Government ever since the nation was established, but although it has built firmly and well, it has never eclipsed, or, in the opinion of many even approached, the excellence of its first great project, the Capitol building at Washington.

The story of the United States Capitol has been told and written and sung, set to music, but there are few stray bits of legend which cling about it and which are little known save among some of the few elder residents of Washington.

That the cornerstone of the United States Capitol was laid by General Geo. Washington in 1793 is a fact generally known for instance, but that the ceremony was performed with the most solemn rites of Freemasonry is perhaps a fact of scantier circulation.

Gen. Washington arrayed in the apron and other insignia of his rank as a Mason, handled the trowel, and smoothing the mortar in place to receive the cornerstone. The material for the original building came from Aquia Creek, Virginia, and was brought up the river on barges, a distance of about forty miles.

The designs for the original building was prepared by Dr. William H. Thornton, who was among the small company of men which established the type of architecture called in latter times Colonial. Dr. Thornton bro't this style of architecture its present high standard, of which the Capitol building is an expression.

The Capitol has the unusual distinction of having been built upon two cornerstones laid by two presidents. The second cornerstone was laid by Pres. Millard Fillmore, in July, 1851. Daniel Webster was the orator of the occasion.

It is from the time of the beginning of these extensions, which were designed largely by Thomas U. Walters, that residents of Washington draw most of their reminiscences. However there is many an old story of the original building.

Perhaps the most enthralling tale of them all is the story of the buried treasure. The legend goes back to an extremely nebulous beginning and follows all the Capitol's history, interweaving itself with ramifications of fact and fiction.

The treasure is said to be in the form of gold bars and bags of Spanish milled dollars, which in the early days were about the only coins except those in England, which had a face value in the colonies. Many a trader of the time would rather have had a Spanish milled dollar than any piece of British coinage. Spain and gold were then synonymous.

At first, the story says, the treasure was buried under the scrypt of the capitol, deep down in a subterranean cavern. There is some doubt as to whom this treasure belonged. It has been said that this treasure was government money, that it was a part of the secret treasury of the Masonic order in America and that it was the private property of General Washington and some of his most intimate of friends.

To whomsoever it belonged, its story clings tenaciously to the history of the building and constitutes one of its most enchanting stories.

It was whispered about Washington as late as ten years ago that the Capitol treasure was to be moved again, and the persistent stories which haunted the public and were printed for nearly six months concerning the matter, told of its removal from a place where no one had dreamed it had ever lain. That was beneath the statue of Chief Justice Mitchell on the West Facade of the Capitol.

Some degree of authenticity was given to the report by the fact that the ground beneath the statue is literally honey-combed with underground passages. Even the engineers and the police at the capitol do not know where all the passages lead. Nothing has been said of the capitol treasure recently but there are some old inhabitants in Washington who put implicit faith in the tale.

Another interesting story of the old building is that of the sculptor who modeled the classic frieze which decorates the interior of the rotunda. This sculptor with his own hands undertook to model the entire frieze, about 335 feet in length. The design is elaborate, depicting idealized scenes of American history. The sculptor worked and worked and finally, when his task was within a few feet of completion, he slipped from his scaffold and fell a hundred feet to the floor of the rotunda and was instantly killed.

Out of respect to the man and as a monument to his memory, the architect then in charge of the building decided to permit the frieze to remain unfinished. And to this day it is uncompleted, just as the hand of the unfortunate sculptor left its modelled figures.

Leadenhall Street.

Leadenhall street, which is to be widened, was so called from the lead roofed mansion of Sir Hugh Nevils, which the city acquired for a court of justice. Few London streets possess more interesting literature and historical associations.

Here Peter Motteux, the translator of "Don Quixote," kept "an East India shop," and Gibbons great grandfather 'did not aspire above the station of linen draper in Leadenhall street." THE LATE W. T. STEAD IN AMERICA

Mr. Stead had never crossed the Atlantic until, in the autumn of 1893, he accept an urgent invitation from his American colleagues to come as his guest and see the great exposition at Chicago in its closing days. Mr Stead at that time had been trying to start a daily newspaper in London, which he was obliged to discontinue through lack of financial support. This was a great disappointment to him, and the moment was one of the fatigue and depression such as he had never experienced before. It is only when this is understood that the circumstances of his visit to Chicago can be fully appreciated. His fatigue was so great that he had promised to not speak in public during his entire visit.

But he had recently started in England a so-called "civic federation" movement, which had been productive of immediately useful result in a number of English cities and towns, where he had succeeded in bringing about a sort of informal union of all kinds of societies and forces that were working for the betterment of the community, so that their effort might be mutually helped. This idea had been taken up in the American Review of Reviews from Mr. Stead's English work, and the result had been beginnings of similar organizations in a number of American towns. The plan had appealed strongly to many people in Chicago who were glad to have the exposition year followed by a well-considered and permanent program for social and moral progress. Mr. Stead was recognized as the apostle of such movements, and when called upon to expand his reviews he could not decline what seemed to him a call of duty and an opportunity for usefulness.

He spoke, not once, but many times. Chicago was to him a new and astounding phenomenon. In studying the conditions that needed reform, he was perhaps over-impressed, as a stranger must needs be, by novelty and contrast. He did not quite understand the wholesome forces that were dominant after all in American life; at any rate, he preferred to hold up to American communities a picture of their worst shortcomings. If he did not understand Chicago, it is true in like manner that Chicago did not understand him. He wrote a book, which he called "If Christ came to Chicago". Many good and tentative Americans felt that this scattering exposure of vice and crime lacked balance and proportion. Mr. Stead, of course, would not for a moment have denied that an American might have gone at that time to London or Liverpool and found conditions of misery, poverty, brutality, sin, and crime far worse than those existing in Chicago. Generally speaking, it seems better for the visitors to fight evil in his own country, where he is responsible, than to expose it in any other country at the very moment of his first landing upon its shores. But Mr. Stead did the thing that he saw fit to do He was genius, a moral enthusiast and a law unto himself. He had made his exposure of vice in London ten years before, upon his own sensational plan, and he had accomplished valuable results. The Chicago visit caused him to be misunderstood in America; and it certainly diminished for a number of years the influence which his valuable political and social articles might otherwise have gained. Yet the great National Civic Federation grew out of his suggestions.

Next week the Republicans will be warming up Chicago and the week after the Democrats will be doing the same thing for Baltimore.

The way things are going now, T. R. may get the corporal's guard vote.

The presence of Uncle Sam's blue jackets in Cuba is having a tendency to quell the trouble on the island.

They are putting the ban on ragtime music and dances in Chicago. It is time the "Windy City" was doing something good.

Charlotte will issue no liquor licenses to druggists after July 1st. Another step in the right direction.

His friends are trying to make amends for Roosevelt's clash with the Pope, by selecting a Catholic priest to make the opening prayer at the Republican national convention in Chicago.

Greenville is going to make such improvements this year that the town will hardly know itself.

This is My Birthday

Thomas Mackenzie.

Thomas Mackenzie, who has become premier of New Zealand as a result of the victory of the Liberal party in the recent elections in that country was born in Edinburgh, June 13, 1854. In early youth he accompanied his parents to New Zealand and received his education in the public schools there. He began his public career in 1887 as a member of the New Zealand parliament. The following year he went to Australia as the representative of the New Zealand government and a year later he visited England and America on a special mission that had for its purpose the extension of New Zealand's export trade. Subsequently Mr. Mackenzie filled several important posts in the New Zealand government and was particularly successful as minister of agriculture.

Editorial of Human Interest
By Arthur Brisbane

Why Are All Men Gamblers.

The annual report of the gambling house at Monte Carlo shows a profit of about $5,000,000.

A large collection of human beings travel from all parts of the world to Monte Carlo for the sake of giving $5,000,000 to the gambling concern there.

When you look on earth today or in the past you find human beings gambling and you will find the gambling instinct stronger than any other - stronger than the love of drink, infinitely stronger than the love of normal, honest gain.

Christopher Columbus' sailors gambled on the way over and the Indians on this side were gambling while waiting to be discovered.

In an office overlooking Trinity graveyard, in New York city, an old man, past eighty, with a fortune of at least $50,000,000, gambles every day with all the excitement of youth. The fluctuations in his game bring to his sallow cheeks the color that no human emotion could bring there.

On his way home this old man passes crowds of children in the streets and looks down, concerned and sorrowful, to find that they, too, are gambling.

They are matching pennies or shaking dice.

Clergymen are startled and amazed to find that women are gambling heavily.

They have gambled heavily ever since civilization has progressed far enough to give them large sums to gamble with.

Marie Antoinette staked thousands of louis at a time at Versailles.

She was so wrapped up in gambling she could not see that her neck was in danger.

When the lava came down from Vesuvius it buried Pompeiians who were gambling.

The men who dig up monuments in Africa find gambling instruments crumbling away side by side with appliances for taking human life.

Nowhere in the lower forms of animal life, so far as we know, is there the slightest indication of the gambling instinct.

The monkey, the elephant, love whiskey and easily become drunkards.

The passion for alcohol seems innate in animal life; even the wisest ant can be readily induced to disgrace himself if alcohol is put near him.

For all the human weaknesses and mainsprings—ambition, affection, vanity, drunkenness, ferocity, greediness, cunning—we can find beginnings among the lower animals.

But man appears to have evolved from within himself the gambling instinct for his own especial damnation.

Where did the instinct come from? Why was it planted in us?

Like every other instinct with which intelligent nature endows us, it must have its god purpose, and it must not be judged merely in the corrupted form in which we study it at Monte Carlo or in Wall Street.

Perhaps the spirit of gambling is really only an atrophied, perverted form of the spirit of adventure.

Columbus staked his life and gambled when he started across the water.

The leaders of the American revolution expressly staked their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor, in signing the Declaration of Independence. They were noble gamblers, working for the welfare of their fellows.

Perhaps gambling is only a perverted form of intelligent ambition—we are all natural gamblers because we have within us the quality which makes us willing to risk our own comfort, security and present happiness for a result that seems better while.

The universality of the gambling instinct in human beings is certainly worthy of our study.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howara L. Rann.

THE PESSIMIST

THE pessimist is a dejected mortal who is continually rising to a point of order in the mournful and lugubrious accents of the amateur undertaker. A natural born pessimist, one whose soul is in his work, is one of the most distressing sights in the English language. He can scatter more crepe de chien bloom and whole-souled melancholy in an assembly of bright-faced citizens than a 10 per cent advance in the price of butter. The pessimist is never satisfied with anything except some forecast of impending evil, which he is able to detect with the naked eye at a great distance from the scene of action. Just now the baleful look of the pessimist is cast upon the crops. It is too dry for the corn, too wet for the oats, too cold for the fruit, too hot for the hay and too late for everything except a season of prayer. We never saw a genuine, strawberry-marked pessimist in our life who did not prophesy that somebody would fall into the cistern and break a leg or two before the bell rang for prayer meeting. When the new minister comes to town the pessimist goes to hear him at once and then prophesies that he won't last six months. If the minister receives an encore at the end of the conference year, the pessimist says it is because his congregation is too chuckle-headed to tell the Pentateuch from the concordance. If somebody tries to resurrect the village by organizing a Booster's Club, the pessimist will proceed to excite the tight-wad element by dismal remarks about the high rate of taxation. If the Cemetery association gives a dinner for the benefit of the Lawn Mower's union, the pessimist will make some bitter references to people who waste their substance in riotous living. If the pessimist should look upon the bright side of anything once or get a glimpse of the silver lining of the cloud, he would be blinded for life. The best treatment for the confirmed pessimist is to place him tete-a-tete with your deaf ear early in the conversation.

A POEM ABRISTLE.
Down in Bennettsville, S. C., there resides a poetess who bids fair to snatch the laurels from the head of the fair poetess of the Raleigh Times staff. An ode "In South Carolina" has been going the rounds of the South Carolina press. From the standpoint of action, it is unapproachable. Each line is abristle with that fire which only the born poet can call forth. It runs as follows:
Grafters are the boldest—
In South Carolina,
Murders are the coldest—
In South Carolina,
Blind tiger booze is strongest
It's effect will last the longest
And it will wrong the wrongest
In South Carolina.
Politicians are the slickest—
In South Carolina,
Their handshakes the quickest
In South Carolina,
Old maids are the oldest,
Old bachelors' feet the coldest
And leap year girls the boldest
In South Carolina.

But better time sars comin'
In South Carolina,
Things will again be hummin'
In South Carolina,
Our great men are the blandest
Our legislature is the grandest
And our governor is the DAMNDEST
In South Carolina.

THE LITTLE FELLOW MUST BEHAVE.

OR HE WILL GET ANOTHER PADDLING.

Johnson in Baltimore American.

GOV. WOODROW WILSON
"The Most Available Democrat."

Not Yet President. "Wherever two or more democrats are gathered together, they are praying that President Taft will be nominated." Such was the substance of a remark made by one of our well known Democrats on a Southern train the other day. It was the usual smoking room crowd that finds no greater delight than the discussion of existing situations in political circles. The remark referred to a hitherto fairly well hinted sentiment in the Democratic household. It is a sentiment that was formed even before the Lion Hunter made his phenomenal showing in the presidential primaries held in various sections of the country. At least, they were apparently phenomenal in that they were successive victories for Roosevelt. This public opinion, which affirmed the New York results predicated the renomination of President Taft, began to turn the other way, until a few days ago the triumph of the Third Term at Chicago seemed almost acertainty. The change of opinion, too, was largely influenced by the absurd figures of Senator Dixon, Roosevelt's manager, who claimed a working majority of the national delegates so far named a claim now exploded. We have intimated that the nomination of Taft was more desirable from a Democratic point of view, on the assumption that he would be easier for Democrats to beat at the polls. But in the light of latest facts, as proved by figures, Theodore Roosevelt will not be an impossible task for the candidate such as the country knows Woodrow Wilson to be. Champ Clark, Harmon and Underwood are all good men, but not one of them could hope to cope with Roosevelt. Woodrow Wilson is undoubtedly of that class which we have come to know as "progressive", and he would undoubtedly be acceptable to all brands of Democracy, as well as being able to secure a large number of votes from Republicans who, while holding progressive ideas cannot subscribe to the destruction of the anti-third term tradition.

Let us remember, too, that only fifty percent of the normal Republican vote has been expressed in the various state primaries. What will the other fifty per cent do on election day? It is reasonable to presume that a great portion of this unexpressed Republican vote cannot stomach Roosevelt, and yet it disapproves Taft. So that we do not hesitate to state that while Mr. Taft may not be nominated at Chicago, Roaring Roosevelt is still a long way from the presidency, regardless of whether he is nominated or not.—Ashville Citizen.

Roosevelt vs. Wilson

Should Roosevelt and Wilson be pitted against each other in a presidential race, Roosevelt would be the worst defeated man that ever ran for the office.—Times and Democrat.

Usually Do It. Some of the sweetest little girl babies have republican daddies, which is something to make them cry about, and they usually do it.—Pensacola Journal.

Serving Democracy. Roosevelt is earning the gratitude of democrats for his part in the disruption of the G. O. P.—News and Press.

And Still Going Up. If Roosevelt delegates cost $3,000 apiece they come higher than a Pittsburgh committee.—Buffal oTimes.

Its Dr. Underwood Now. Meet Dr. Oscar Underwood of Columbia university.—Charleston Post.

Almost a Collision. There came near being a general mix-up of automobiles and traps near the corner of Evans and Fourth streets Wednesday afternoon. Unless there is more careful handling of vehicles on the streets and turning corners, the expected will happen and there will be a disaster to write about.

Beautifully the Square. The flower garden on a part of the court house square, shows what a little work towards beautifying will accomplish. There should be more of it. To put lawn grass on the square would make it attractive.

Mr. Bryan's Opportunity

Part of the Dutch Pageant
Given at Croton-on-Hudson

PAGEANTRY is in the air this summer. Representations of incidents of local historical interest through the mediums of tableaux, dances and the like, which have for a number of years been popular in England and this country, are more in vogue than ever before. One of the earliest of this season's pageants was that presented at Croton-on-Hudson for the benefit of the local health league. Many of the descendants of the early Dutch settlers took part in costumes and with settings historically accurate. The illustration shows the miller's ten children as they troop out of the old mill to eat their breakfast in the open air. Not only were the costumes of the colonial period, but the songs sung during the two days of the representation were those in words and music familiar to the Dutch ancestors of many of the present-day dwellers in the Hudson valley.

Convention Did Not Show Strength

(From Mr. D. M. Clark)
The Reflector,
Greenville, N. C.

To the Editor: The discussion by the newspapers of what transpired at the state convention seems to have led many to believe that the state convention was assembled more to determine the strength of the respective senatorial candidates than to name a state ticket. The supporters of Senator Simmons take the action of the convention as an indication of the strength of their candidate; while on the other hand the supporters of Gov. Kitchin charge that it was only a steam roller method employed to cover up a record that would not bear inspection, and although the record of Sen. Simmons was endorsed the fact that 364 delegates voted against such endorsement, which is without precedent, is a repudiation of Sen. Simmons. The question is therefore asked by the great mass of voters who took no interest in the selection of delegates to the convention, who are content to wait until November to support Judge Clark, "what part did Judge Clark and his friends in the convention take over the platform?" The answer is very evident, Judge Clark has no machine working for him and his friends are not machine politicians. Believing the senatorial question would not come up until November, no effort was made by Judge Clark or his friends, except in Pitt county, to send delegates to Raleigh though quite a number of those were Clark men. The fight over the endorsement plank in the platform upon which North Carolina's Democracy is to stand, was purely a fight between the two great political machines, headed by Gov. Kitchin and Senator Simmons, respectively. The friends of Judge Clark were not allowed a voice in the framing of this platform and in view of this fact why should they have entered into a fight for the majority or minority report?

From the pronounced position taken by Judge Clark on all great public questions he is known to be the progressive of the progressives; therefore, it is safe to say, that had Judge Clark's friends in the convention who believe as he believes as he believes, been given a voice in the making of the platform, more attention would have been paid to the true progressive Democratic principles and less to the one plank which looked to the endorsement of individual office seekers. It seems to us that the progressive platform announced by Judge Clark upon his becoming a candidate for the United States senate, would have been a god one upon which a progressive Democratic party could stand. But be things as they may, we all know where Judge Clark stands and the masses in North Carolina will some day show the political machines a thing or two. The hand writing on the wall indicates November 5th, 1912.

List Your Taxes—Last Call.

To the Taxpayers of Edgecombe County, whether residing in or out of the county, notice is hereby given that all property owned by them, either as principal or trustee, must be listed in the township where situated, on or before Saturday, June 15th, 1912. And thereafter all persons who have failed to list their taxes for any cause, are required to appear before the list taker at such times and places as he may designate in his notices and list their property. After the dates named in the notice posted by the list taker the tax lists will be closed.

Attention is also called to the fact that failure to list will result in your being double taxed and the taxpayer failing to list subjects himself to a misdemeanor.

The same penalty is provided for the citizens of the county liable for poll tax. The penalties prescribed by law will be enforced.

By order of the Board of Commissioners of Edgecombe County.

H. S. BUNN, Clerk of Board.

GASTONIA.—A serious accident occurred late this afternoon about 2 miles south of here on the union road when J. Leon Adam's 5 passenger automobile jumped an embankment and rolled over three times, spilling its occupants and breaking Miss Jennie Pegram's leg just above the ankle. The other occupants of the car were more or less bruised and shocked but almost miraculously escaped injury.

MRS. LARAMORE TELLS TROUBLES

Lady in Goodwater Describes Her Distressing Experience and Tells How She Was Finally Relieved.

Goodwater, Mo.—"Ever since I was a little girl," says Mrs. Riley Laramore, "I was a great sufferer from dyspepsia. I suffered misery after eating, and had terrible heartburn."

"I thought I had to suffer this way as long as I lived, but when I began to take Thedford's Black-Draught, in small doses, every night, the heartburn was all gone in a few days, and I could eat without distress."

"I took two small packages in all, and although that was some time ago, the dyspepsia has not returned."

"I speak a good word for Thedford's Black-Draught whenever I have the opportunity."

"If eating causes distress, we urge you to try Thedford's Black-Draught. It cleanses the system, helps the stomach to digest its food, regulates the bowels, and stimulates the liver."

It acts gently and is without bad after-effects. Try it. Price 25c.

Lord Northland Takes a Bride.

LONDON, June 13.—Lord Northland, whose name figured prominently in the sensational trial two years ago of the divorce suit brought by Capt. Sterling against his wife, an American actress, was married today to Miss Hilda Cooper, daughter of the late Sir Daniel Cooper, the noted English sportsman. The wedding took place at St. Margaret's, Westminster, and was largely attended.
