The national chairman was accompanied from New York by National Committeeman Roger Sullivan, of Illinois; Secretary Urey Woodson, of Kentucky; and assistant treasurer Dolin. The party was joined here by National Committeeman Goltra, of Missouri, who spent the day in Washington, conferring with Speaker Champ Clark.

Chairman Mack and his fellow national committeemen were delighted with the convention hall and made a careful inspection of the building.

In Favor of Making Wages Public

CLEVELAND, O., June 3.—The substance of a report containing recommendations on industrial conditions which will be submitted to both national parties for incorporation in their platform was made public today at the 39th National Conference of Charities and Corrections.

In part it recommends an eight-hour day; abolition of night work for women and children; minimizing of night work for men; publication by employers of wages they pay; prohibition of the manufacture of poisons dangerous to workers when harmless substitutes are possible; no child under 16 to work; insurance against unemployment; a working men's compensation act; women not to work in standing positions.

Archbishop Fifty Years Old.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—Many messages of congratulations were received at the archiepiscopal residence in this city today to remind the Most Rev. John J. Glennon, Roman Catholic Archbishop of St. Louis, of his fiftieth anniversary birthday. He was born in Ireland and received his education in that country. He came to America soon after his ordination to the priesthood and was connected with the Kansas City diocese until his appointment to succeed the late Archbishop Kain of St. Louis in 1903.

England Is Enthusiastic Over a New Hydroaeroplane

Photos copyright, 1912, by American Press Association.

THOUGH later than Americans to take up experiments with hydroaeroplanes, the English are now enthusiastic over the successful maneuvers of the machine which was tested at the recent naval review in Weymouth bay. It is described as having "the powers of an albatross, able to fly over the water, float upon it and rise again." King George watched the evolutions of the craft, which located the royal yacht in a thick fog and later alighted on the water near the yacht and disembarked an officer who delivered a message to the king. The naval authorities declare that in the new invention, for which an Englishman is responsible, Great Britain has the most remarkable and satisfactory machine of its kind in the world, "that other powers have been left behind in the race for aerial supremacy" and that "the British waterplane has already performed feats completely altering the conditions possible in naval warfare." And yet a month or so before the Weymouth review an American aviator, Frank Coffyn, performed feats equally remarkable in New York harbor. The upper of the two photographs shows the waterplane towed on a boat, the lower just rising from the water.

Roosevelt Mass Meeting is Postponed Teddy Back in His Shell About Chicago

CHICAGO, June 13.—The postponement until Monday evening of the Roosevelt mass meeting called by William Kiel, of California and Medill McCormick of Chicago, for tomorrow afternoon was discussed by politicians today and evral reasons assigned for the change in the plan. One reason suggested was that the promoters desired to hold off until the last minute in the hope that Colonel Roosevelt may decide to come to Chicago and be the principal speaker.

Another story was that it was deemed advisable to delay the rally until after the national committee finishes the hearing of contests.

Six-Story "Brodie" Doesn't Die Instantly

NEW YORK, June 3.—Bertha Kininsky, a young girl bent on suicide, today jumped from a six story building in Brooklyn. She landed on her feet, and although her back was broken, she walked some distance before she dropped unconscious. Miss Kininsky was taken to the hospital where she died a few minutes later.

An examination showed that the patient had died from a broken back. It is said the girl killed herself because her sweetheart, said to be a Brooklyn youth of good family, had gone away a short time ago and failed to write.

North Dakota Elks.

FARGO, N. D., June 14.—Fargo gave a cordial welcome to the hundreds of visitors gathered here today for the annual convention of the North Dakota Elks' Association. The city is elaborately decorated in honor of the occasion. The convention will last two days and will include a parade and numerous features of entertainment in addition to the business sessions.

Special to Reflector

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 13.—Positively worded statements that he is to start for Chicago in a day or two were neither affirmed nor denied today by Colonel Roosevelt.

He said that there was nothing which he could say on the subject. Nor would he comment upon the latest developments in the situation in Chicago; "but I shall have something to say later in the day on that subject," he added.

It is Colonel Roosevelt's custom to spend three or four hours a day in outdoor exercise when he is at Sagamore Hill, but since the Republican national committee began its sessions has had little time for such recreation.

By means of the telegraph the Colonel is keeping in touch with the situation at Chicago, directing every move of his forces.

Young Grand Duchess Ascends.

LUXEMBURG, June 14.—All Luxembourg was in fete today in celebration of the coming of age of the little Grand Duchess Marie Marie. She was 18 today, and being 18, and consequently a woman, she succeeded to her title and rights as the reigning sovereign, which have been hers only by courtesy since the death of her father in February.

Mark Sites of Early Day Taverns.

FREEPORT, Ill., June 14.—Bronze tablet to mark the site of what is now known as "The Old Stage House" was unveiled here today. The historic tavern was erected in 1839 and was one of the prominent stopping places on the route of the old stage line between Chicago and Galena. The tablet was unveiled by the Daughters of the American Revolution, which has undertaken to place markers on the sites of the early day taverns throughout northwestern Illinois.

REPUBLICANS AGAIN TAKE DARK HORSE

Persistent Rumors Alarm Fighting Leaders

TO BRING PARTY TO HARMONY

Proportion of Fight Between Taft and Roosevelt Helps Belief That a Third Candidate Is Imperative

CHICAGO, June 13.—Many delegates to the Republican convention who arrived in the early hours today talked of the advisability of a dark horse candidate for president in the hope of bringing party harmony and success.

The leaders while hoping that some solution of the problem may be brought forward at the lines of battle between Taft and Roosevelt have been so sharply drawn and such high feeling aroused that the fight will have to be brought to a finish between the president and Colonel Roosevelt.

Taft supporters apparently were more confident of success than ever after yesterday's victory in the contests before the national committee and freely reiterated their predictions of the renomination of the president on the first ballot.

Roosevelt managers declared that their candidate would have the necessary 540 votes to secure the nomination on the first ballot.

The followers of Senator Cummins, of Iowa, and Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, are expressing the opinion there will be no choice on the first ballot, leaving the inference that they hop their men may be decided on as a compromise candidate.

Senator Elihu Root, of New York, the choice of the Taft leaders for temporary chairman of the convention, arrived from Washington and immediately conferred with Director McKinley, of the Taft bureau to devise plans for the temporary organization of the convention.

There was less talk of opposition today to Senator Root's selection as temporary chairman. The Roosevelt men apparently have not agreed on a candidate for the position, but declare they will have one when the time comes.

Several conferences of Taft leaders were held during the morning at which tentative plans for the organization of convention committees were considered.

Former Senator Charles Dick, of Ohio, was brought forward as a candidate for chairman of the committee on credentials, while Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana, still is mentioned as a likely candidate for chairman of the committee on resolutions.

TRAGIC DEATH OF A BOY

Head is Literally Torn From His Body in Mill

Boy Playing in Basement of Cotton Mill Meets Accident That Causes a Horrible Death.

LUMBERTON, June 13.—Ten year old Charles Laughton's head was literally torn from his body this afternoon while the lad was playing in the basement of the Dresden Cotton Mill, in East Lumberton. There were no witnesses to the instantaneous death, but employees had seen the boy a few minutes before, with a long cord, or rope, looped about his neck, the noose end being used as a whip-lash.

As nearly as can be learned the youthful victim of a horrible death was amusing himself by tossing the loose end of the rope over the rapidly revolving shafting, the rope catching and tearing the boys head off in a moment. He had been in the habit of playing about the mill and it is said that he was warned, only yesterday, by Superintendent Brietz, to stay away from the place. Mill officials are held blameless.

PRESIDENT GOMEZ GIVES NO QUARTER

Revolting Negroes Will Be Soundly Punished

GOMEZ WANTS NO PACIFIER

Suggestion That American Officer Assume Command in Island Not Popular With Cubans

HAVANA, June 13.—Secretary of the Interior Bru, informed the Associated Press today that the proposition to send Major General Leonard Wood or Brigadier General Enoch H. Crowder on a mission to Cuba would be regarded with disfavor by the government if they came with authority to arrange terms of settlement between the government and the insurgents.

The Cuban government fears that if a mission from the United States were to have authority to arrange a settlement it might involve recognition of some of the demands of the negroes.

The only concession the Cuban government was willing to make was the allowance of a few days grace to the rebels in which to surrender, after which the only course open to the government would be to proceed to stamp out thoroughly the insurrection of its ability to do with promptitude the government entertained no doubt.

Not Considered by the Administration. Washington, June 13.—The administration has not seriously considered sending General Wood or General Crowder or any other army officer to Cuba at this juncture to try to bring about peace between the factions.

The proposal has been formally discussed. It emanated from persons in Cuba, probably resident foreigners with large financial interests at stake.

No responsible official here has made such a proposition and it has not been officially considered.

Marines Believe Sailors.

Santiago, June 13.—Fifty-five marines under command of Captain Richard S. Hooker were landed today by the United States gunboat Eagle at Felton, on the north coast of Oriente province. The marines will proceed for Mayari to relieve the bluejackets recently landed by the gunboat Nashville for the protection of the Woodfred mines.

Atlantic Hotel Opens in Morehead City

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., June 12.—The Atlantic hotel opened for the 1912 season today, with everything indicating one of the biggest summers in the history of Morehead.

In addition to the three big conventions that will meet here this summer, attracting many of the most prominent people of the state, numbers of the foremost North Carolinians have made reservations. Hon. Locke Craig, gubernatorial nominee, will spend a part of the summer here; Ex-Gov. Jarvis and Mrs. Jarvis will occupy their usual room at The Atlantic; Associate Justice George H. Brown, Col. P. M. Pearshall, Judge Francis D. Winston, Hon. Ed Chambers Smith, Attorney General T. W. Bickett and many others widely known throughout the state will come to The Atlantic.

The hotel was spick and span for the opening today and in every department there is the perfect system that makes it appear the trained corps under Manager Allen A. DuBois has been working with clock-like precision at the Atlantic.

Special Washington Correspondence

(By Victor Elliott)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—When Senator Clark of Wyoming recently asked that the constitution of the United States be printed as a Senate document with a thousand additional copies for distribution, and furthermore that it be printed in the Congressional Record, a number of stopped reading their newspapers and writing at their desks long enough to wonder whether or not the distinguished member from the west was losing his grip upon his faculties.

Senator Root, the watch dog of the Senator's printing bill, arose and asked why the Senator wished the Constitution printed. Senator Clark replied that the people of the country would profit by reading the Constitution and intimated that the Senate itself should not consider that instrument entirely obsolete. So the Constitution of the United States has been printed, with all its amendments in the Congressional Record probably for the first time in the history of that publication which dates back to birth of Congress.

There are, indeed, reasons, why the Constitution should be set forth where it will be read. People have been treading a certain well worn path in the United States because the Constitution so ordained 125 years ago. Few of them, however, are familiar with the document.

The fact that a date when sciences were in their infancy, and education was not general, an instrument could be co-ordinated which would prove effective not only as a set of directions to guide a populace nation through all the vicissitudes of war and peace but to force the nation to conform to its directions, is little short of marvellous. The Constitution, from one view point, is a more powerful instrument than the Bible in that it can by force of arms compel those who profess allegiance to it to obey its mandates.

A passing glance at the articles of the Constitution will plainly show the power it wields. In fact, it seems as though the framers of the Constitution must have been guided by a supernatural power, so manifest was the display of wisdom.

Take, for instance, the lines, "Congress shall have power to regulate commerce . . . among the several states". This clause practically made provision 125 years ago for the Interstate Commerce Commission, and made this provision at a time when there was not a steam railroad or a steamship in existence.

But we also can find many clauses in the Constitution which apparently are obsolete and for which there is no use now. For instance the clauses "No bill of exaltation or ex post fac to law shall be passed" and "No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States," see into be rather futile provisions at present. Another is "Congress shall have power to . . . grant letters of marque and reprisal."

Had it not been for these prohibitive clauses, however, titles of nobility would have been granted in the early days and perhaps, even now! and there is little doubt that every general and civil officer of the Confederacy would have been attained had not the Constitution provided against it. Letters of marque and reprisal, useless as they may seem now, with the table navy which the United States boasts, were granted as late as the civil war and indeed the United States Congress was thankful that its Constitution gave it authority to enlist such private aid.

The Constitution guards officials against themselves in a hundred instances. The president may pardon any person convicted of any crime, according to the Constitution, with one exception. That single exception is when a man is convicted on the only charge upon which the president himself may be convicted—the high crime of misdemeanor in office punishable by impeachment.

The Constitution provides against a salary, during the term for an increase or a decrease in the pres- which he is elected. The same provision is made in the offices of many other public officials. Concerning the Justices of the Supreme Court, however, it merely says, that their salaries may not be diminished. This last clause probably took cognizance of the fact that justices of the Supreme Court, serve during good behavior, which usually means for life, while the terms of office for other officials are limited by a span of years.

As constitution foundation, the existence of which is not widely known, is that no state can be created within another. It was this provision which prevented the recognition of the state of Franklin which was founded shortly after the Constitution was adopted and included parts of the already surveyed state of North and South Carolina and Virginia.

The Constitution is a textbook of, the science and philosophy of government, the study of which cannot be neglected and Senator Clark's request and the Senate's grant of it doubtless will bear fruit in a fuller and more popular comprehension of the wonderful document upon which the very foundation of the United States rests.

Labor Notes.

The British Trade Union congress to be held this year has been fixed for September 2 and following days at Newport.

More than forty five thousand tailors in various parts of Germany who have been on a strike for an increased wage won a victory carrying a 9 per cent increase.

has voted to hold a general convention in Milwaukee in September. This will be the first convention held by the union in five years.

A journeyman carpenter who is an ardent trade unionist, a Presbyterian minister and a lawyer will comprise the workmen's compensation commission in Michigan.

Employees of Morris and Company, a Chicago packing house, who are 65 years old may retire and receive annually 2 per cent of their salary for each year of service to the corporation.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has adopted a pension plan, which will pay beneficiaries from $40 to $60 a month up, disability or retirement at the age limit of 60 years.

A bill for the establishment of free employment bureaus in all the principal cities of the State has been drafted by the law and legislative committee of the San Francisco labor council.

With a view of making farmers' daughters more content to remain at home, schools of housewifery have been established by the government of the Netherlands in various parts of the country. Other branches will eventually be added to them.

California, Connecticut, New York, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin have made laws requiring physicians to make reports on occupational diseases. The diseases specified are anthrax, calisson disease of the "bends," and lead, phosphorus, arsenic and mercury poisoning.

In Austria, conciliation courts or wages boards are generally established. Any strike or lockout after an award is made by the court or board is sharply punished. Under the commonwealth law a penalty of $2,500 may be imposed in the case of an organization or union, $250 in the case of a single employer and $40 in the case of a worker.

The issuance of individual labels by the several organizations that have such is very expensive. The advertising cost the garment workers between sixty and seventy thousand dollars a year, while the cost to the international Typographical Union, who advertises the international label only is estimated at about ten thousand dollars a year.

Because of its failure to accept the terms of amalgamation with the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters and Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers, the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers is no longer recognized by the American Federation of Labor. All central bodies in the United States have been instructed to act accordingly.

Hungarian law requires that all articles used by the government, by state institutions, railways, industries and etc., and by industrial and other companies subsidized by the State shall be of Hungarian manufacture, except when it can be shown that an article needed is not made in that country or is not procurable in Hungary in a suitable quality and at a reasonable price.

Convention Hosts Reach Chicago.
CHICAGO, June 14.—The tramp of convention hosts is now fairly under way, and today Chicago is beginning to throb with the confusion and excitement of arriving throngs, some with banners and bands and gayly uniformed marchers, others made up of State delegations with their conspicous leaders and their cohorts of strong lunged followers and shouters, others with the friends and admirers of the several presidential candidates, and still others an again others of the curious lookers-on drawn from every section of the country, who have come to witness the quadrennial spectacle of the Republican National convention. The effect of this influx is to be seen in the surging street crowds, the growing animation of the clogged and smoked hotel lobbies, the strain of music and the swell of oratory from which these headquarters are beginning some of the headquarters of candidates and the bounteous hospitality ning to dispense.

A MECHANICAL AGE.

To the unannounced, and this must perforce be the new arrival in this country of ours, the present presidential campaign must furnish a batch of surprises that will tend to shorten his apprenticeship into present day American politics.

What must our prospective American think of it all when going through the daily press in a still hunt for political news? Seven out of ten of every paper discuss at large "the steam roller" and the different machines that are being put to work by different state parties. To be sure, this is a mechanical age, but, our friend is bound to think, what on earth has a steam roller and a machine to do with the choice of the people for a certain office? There lies a source of worryment which at first must loom high before him. Back "home" (that is what he left behind) he had heard that America was the free country of them all. Freedom was much like the lion in several nobleman's coat of arms, rampant. The glowing pictures that make the rounds abroad have as much to do for the success of immigration in this country, as whatever facilities it affords to earn an honest living. In Europe, especially when you say America, you are saying about everything that has freedom attached to it. Freedom of thought, freedom of speech and almost freedom of action.

Imagine the immigrant's feelings when put up against the proposition America is going through today. The highest executive in the land allowing his friends to engage in such methods as have decided some of the pre-convention contests in Chicago furnish an example of anything but the freedom heralded abroad. We do not mean that Mr. Taft willfully had his representatives snatch Col. Roosevelt's delegates, but we are of the belief that had he thought over it with the deliberation due the matter and had he really thought about the will of the majority of grown up Americans, our wondering new comer would have remained ignorant of another use to which the steam rollers can be applied.

The base manipulation of state votes as conducted by the allies against Gov. Wilson, is another example of political juggling unworthy of such a great nation as ours. These allies have openly defied the criticism by the checker board tactics put in operation in states where Wilson would have had a predominating vote had not childish appeals been made to the people of those states and had not Harmon, Clark and Underwood repeated the "after you my dear Alphonse" stunt.

Such practices when the nation at large is trying to agree as to the best man to occupy the high office of president, speak pretty badly for some politicians that only think of the nation for what it can yield in personal gain. "The Will of the People" is just now a neat little farce, and that's about all. Roosevelt has used the phrase, like other phrases repeated with other meaning than their own, it has been prostituted. The will of the people has been led through the tortuous channels of political juggling and in its long course has picked up enough bacteria from the anything-but-clean watersheds of political struggle that on reaching its final point, the people cannot recognize their once will.

Students are here from all parts of Eastern North Carolina and even from other states, to take the summer course at East Carolina Teachers Training School. Five hundred teacher students could have been brought here had there been sufficient accommodations for them. Not only are the dormitories filled, but every home in town prepared to take boarders is occupied. Those fitting themselves for teaching in the public schools are realizing that this school is the place to get the necessary training for that work. As practically all of North Carolina is looking to this school to get teachers, it is the duty of the state to provide ample facilities for training them. With the great demand for trained teachers none who want to enter the school to equip themselves should be denied this opportunity.

Gov. Jarvis is a wise and good man, and the state of North Carolina takes delight in crowning his old age with love and honor.—Charity and Children.

Well said; yet the action of some little two-by-fours now and then brings to mind that saying of Scripture, "a prophet is not without honor," etc. Gov. Jarvis is truly a wise and good man, and one who has done more for his state than any man now living. He is entitled to the love and honor of every North Carolinian.

The talk of making Senator Lee S. Overman, of North Carolina, the Democratic candidate for vice president, sounds good, for a better man for this place could not be found in the whole country. But he says he had rather continue serving his people as United States senator and North Carolina will certainly be the loser if the time comes for him to vacate that place.

Jimmie Cowan, of the Wilmington Dispatch, up and says, "It takes an elastic conscience to stretch the truth". Not every time, boy, for there are some people with no conscience at all, elastic, or otherwise, who can pull the truth into unrecognizable shape.

Some newspaper men talk about the plentifulness of liquor in Raleigh during the recent state convention just like they found what they were looking for. Those who did not have a nose out for the ardent found no trouble in taking care of themselves.

One never needs to raise the argument that he is a gentleman. His actions will show whether he is entitled to that application.

The verdict of not guilty in the Hawkins case occasions no surprise. The whole trial has the aspect of a farce.

The man who got elected mayor of Norfolk after a lapse of sixteen years may regard it as a revival of the sixteen to one idea.

Roosevelt may yet reach the conclusion that he had better stick to it when he said he would not run again.

If the Republican party does not go busted, it will not be the fault of Teddy R.

The dopists usually make an early start and a late finish.

Editorial of Human Interest

No Man Understands Iron.

Hear the wise man:

God does not exist, because I cannot prove His existence. I can prove everything else. With my law of gravitation I point to a speck in space and say: "You'll find a planet there," and you find it. If a God existed could I not also point to Him? If I can trace a comet in its flight, could I not trace the comet's maker? Huxley says: "The cosmic process has no sort of relation to moral ends." That's a philosopher's way of saying something foolish. Lalande, the astronomer, remarked that he had swept the entire heavens with his telescope and found no God there. That's funnier than any ant who would say: "I've searched the whole dead caterpillar and found no God, so there is no God." The corner of space which our telescope can "sweep" is smaller, compared to the universe, than a dead caterpillar compared with this earth.

Moleschott, an able physiologist, believed that phosphorus was essential to mental activity. Perhaps he did prove that. But he said: "No thought without phosphorus," and thought he had wiped the human soul out of existence. Philosophers do not laugh at Moleschott. But they would laugh at a savage who would say:

"I have discovered that there is a satgut in a fiddle. No fiddle without catgut—no music without cats. Don't talk to me about soul or musical genius—it's all catgut."

We peek out at this universe from our half developed corner of it. We faintly see the millions of huge suns circling with their plant families billions of miles away. We see our own little sun rise and set; we ask ourselves a thousand foolish questions of cause and Ruler—and because we cannot answer, we decree faith. Wise doubter, look at a small piece of iron. It looks solid. You suppose that its various parts touch. But submit it to cold. You make it smaller. Then the particles did not touch. Do they touch now? No; invisible, millions of clusters in the smallest visible fragment. The atom is accepted by science as the final particle of matter. Its name indicates that it is supposed to be indivisible. When science gets to the atom it calmly gives up and says: "That is so small that it can no longer be divided." A reasonable enough conclusion on the surface, considering that you might have millions of atoms of iron in one corner of your eye and relatively they are farther apart than this planet from its nearest neighbor.

That piece of iron, apparently solid, consists of clusters of atoms wonderfully grouped, each cluster called a molecule. The molecule cluster is not know it.

But why should the atom be incapable of further division? If it is any size at all it can be thought of as split.

Where does the divisibility of matter end, if anywhere? What is there solid about iron? Nothing in reality, except that it seems to us solid. Already, with the X-ray, we can look through it. Forces such as heat and electricity pass through it more readily than through free air.

Science, which gradually finds out, denying as it goes along everything one step beyond, tells you truly that the clusters of atoms in iron float in a sea of ether, just as do our planets going round the sun. Heat the iron intensely. What happens? You get what you call white heat. The white heat and the white light come from the increase of wave motion in this ether and this ether, absolutely imponderable, of a tenacity inconceivable, possesses elasticity greater and more powerful than that of coiled steel.

So much for one small piece of iron, such as you would kick to one side in a junk heap. If it interests you, read pages 159 to 162 of John Fiske's admirable little book, "Through Nature to God". You will finish the book the day you get it.

If you are surprised to learn how much you did not know about iron—after living near bits of iron all your life—it is not just possible that your mind may be too feeble to conceive of God?

For the fly buzzing about the edge of Niagara Falls, the falls do not exist. The fly's brain cannot grasp their grandeur. It can understand only the speck or spray that falls on its wing.

You live with God around you, hopelessly incapable of preceiving His existence save through that faint spark of unconscious faith that was mercifully planted in you. Snuff that out with dull efforts at reason and you have nothing.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howard L. Pann.

THE VACATION PERIOD

THE vacation period is a verdant oasis situated midway between nervous prostration and the weekly payroll. It is comparatively new, on that account is the subject of a good deal of unseemingly levity. It has been only a few years since a man who went on a vacation in order to escape hearing what the thermometer had to say was liable to be followed to some shady retreat by suspicious creditors and a court summons. Of late years, however, vacations have become so popular that pale business men prefer them to any other form of getting rid of a surplus. A trip to a retired spot where the fish bite twice in every twenty-four hours and the caressing voice of woman does not disturb the scenery, is a better tonic than flirting with the pink pill or the bibulous liver cure. The only kind of vacation which returns any interest on the money invested is the one which is accompanied by a pair of corduroy trousers, hip boots, a minnow pail and a duck gun, which send the patient home looking like an enlarged portrait of a side of sole leather. This form of vacation is prolific in red corpuscles, barbed-wire cuts and appetites which never sound a retreat. The seashore and summer resort vacations are all right for men who prefer to secure their exercise by trying on neck ties and conversing about platonic friendship with members of the opposite sex, but they don't cause anybody to back in for a third helping out the corned beef and cabbage. Some men eke out their vacation by lying around an expensive hotel porch in white flannels and a receptive attitude and return to work with the same tint they left home with, while others plunge into the wilderness in a canvass suit, sleep in a dog tent, live on preserved beans and come back home with the ardor of a yearling colt and the fascinating flush of a June bride. Nothing will prevent a man from contracting premature sourness quicker than getting so far away from home that he can't kick on his wife's cooking.

Against Liars

A bill is in congress to require all newspapers to publish, regularly, a list of their editors, stockholders and bondholders, and in some states, Massachusetts, for instance, laws that have been carried out to punish with a fine of $10 or more for any advertiser who causes an untruth or misleading advertisement to be published. Why not? The people have a right to know what influence affects the publication that influence the public and its servants in office. The people certainly are entitled to protection against liars who are after their money through advertising.

The movement for an honest show-down by the newspapers will be endorsed by the honest part of the public press, for it will be to their advantage that the frauds in the business be cleaned out, which the will be when the character of their ownership and their dependence are exposed.—Twin-City Sentinel.

GOV. WOODROW WILSON

"The Most Available Democrat."

What Burleson Says

Representative Burleson, of Texas, the Chairman of the Democratic House caucus, said:

"A great opportunity, as well as a great responsibility, will confront Democrats when our convention meets in Baltimore. Certain success is within our grasp provided we there lay aside sentiment and prejudice and permit cool judgment to control our actions. The result of the coming election will depend upon the vote of two doubtful sections, the Central East, embracing New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts, and the Middle West embracing Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin and Nebraska. The element who will determine the contest is not the partisan Democrat, or the thick-and-thin Republican, but rather that large and increasing number of our fellow citizens who, standing on the border line of the two great parties, make up what is commonly called the independent vote.

"If we are wise at Baltimore, a candidate will be named whose record is such that he can command the support of this class of voters. If we name such a candidate, success is assured—if we fail to do so, the result will not only be inviolate in doubt, but we invite defeat. The outcome of the Chicago convention now can easily be forecast, and as against the formidable candidate who will issue therefrom Democracy must pit a man who is admittedly sound on the fundamental principles of our Government; who has convictions on the important tariff and trust problems and the courage to announce them; who has the manhood to stand for the interests of friends; who will refuse assistance the people, even though to do so results in the estrangement of personal from interests which have favors to ask, thus holding himself absolutely free to be guided by his own conscience as to what is best to be done to promote the welfare of the American people.

"Such a man is Gov. Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey. The result of the preliminary test for the nomination conclusively demonstrates that he appeals more strongly to the independent element than any other who has been mentioned in this convention. The great influential independent press led by the New York Evening Post, with one voice declares that he, of all of them, can command the largest percentage of this vote.

"Temperamentally, and otherwise, he is the very antithesis of the uncertain, erratic and dangerous person whose defeat will be necessary for the Democrats to secure victory in November. Governor Wilson has not been a candidate in spots, but has strength distributed through the entire Union. He now has a larger number of votes, instructed and pledged than any other candidate who will be before the convention, and, in gathering this strength, he has demonstrated that he is strong in the two sections where it is absolutely essential that Democracy secure votes in order to win.

"Can any man, permitting his cool judgment to control, escape the conclusion that in this great crisis Woodrow Wilson is the man to lead?"

Press Comment

Major E. J. Hale of Fayetteville, who is a delegate at large from North Carolina, is one of the staunchest Democrats in that state, and an ardent Wilson man.—Columbia State.

One result of Peary's polar dash is that it wrecked Hampton's magazine. Hampton paid Peary $43,000 for the story of the expedition. He also gave the literary agent who secured the contract $10,000 and paid a woman $5,000 for editing the copy. As the story fell flat so did Hampton's.—New York World.

The men in charge of the Kitchen campaign at the state convention may have been on the job, but the returns indicated that they were badly mistaken in their views of the case. Seem to us good politics would have not been opposed that resolution endorsed the North Carolina delegation in Congress. Such resolutions are usual.—Greensboro Record.

The cottonseed oil men in convention at St. Louis were interested the other day in the announcement that a "butter" from the oil could be made to be retailed at eighteen cents a pound. That is about one-half the price of the creamery product. The claim is made that the cotton oil "butter" is pure and wholesome, wherefore there should be no objection to its use. But the same has been said of oleomargarine, which has been fought both by rail by the butter people for years. The cotton oil people have been able to show that they got something better than lard and they may be able to show that they have got something as good as butter; but they will have to fight. There is a butter trust.—Savanna News.

Social and Personal

She's Changed.

Though Dorothy put up her hair That late was hanging down her back, She is still young and she is fair— She not a single charm doth lack; But now there's distance in her eye And introspection in her smile, I look at Dorothy and sigh And then I muse a little while,

Here was a careless, happy child, Who romped and laughed so frank and free; She ran, she climbed in pleasure world She'd even come caressing me! Her wind-blown curls then swept her cheeks Where tan—ah, that's the proper wear— Would show in long vacation weeks, Now Dorothy's put up her hair!

That is a sign to one and all That Dorothy's a woman grown, Oh her sweet youth I vainly recall And sitting here, I now make moan I'm pushed aside—I'm old, forsooth! My leaping heart's not told, I swear, But now will come some conquering youth, Since Dorothy's done up her hair! —Chicago News.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Red Men meet tonight.

A shower came today to kill the dust.

The crop of red bugs and chiggers is plentiful.

Put it in the Reflector and the people will read it.

When Greenville gets street cars we can all take a ride.

We thought it was getting time for something to shake up.

The trouble is not so much in flying as in the fall which follows.

Farmers are having a busy time getting grass out of their crops.

With vegetables and fruits coming in freely there is something to eat, even if the price is high.

Watch what Reflector advertisers have to say and you will learn something to your advantage.

Some of these days Greenville will get the needed opera house, too.

Episcopal Choir.

The choir of St. Paul's Episcopal church will meet in the church tonight for reorganization and practice.

Baptist Choir:

The choir of Memorial Baptist church will meet at the church tonight for practice. The new pipe organ that has been installed this week will be used at the services Sunday and those who are to take part in the singing Sunday are urged to be at the rehearsal tonight.

Where They Are Agreed.

Evidently Roosevelt concurs in the President's protection record. The president vetoed democratic bills relieving the people of some of the burdens of the tariff, but at no time has the Colonel berated the standpat president for standing by special privilege. About the only thing that Taft and Roosevelt are agreed upon is protection and plenty of it. Since the people feel the pinch on the protective tariff, they are little concerned whether Taft swallows Roosevelt or Roosevelt eats Taft alive.

Cottages That Have no Halls.

Simplicity and the practical use of space is a characteristic of the newer cottages, which are so appealing. In many the entrance and the hallway are receiving an entirely novel treatment. Often there is no actual "hall" at all. The reception hall, which is really another living-room on a small scale, takes the place of the narrow passage that accommodate merely the stairway and a hat rack in former days. It was well nigh impossible in those days, to evolve an attractive decorative scene for these entries. And, in many instances, they were dark and dreary, in the bargain, says the Newark News.

The reception hall, with perhaps an open fire, and andirons and a settee, gives a welcome in itself. And it can really be used for living purposes, whereas, the mere hallway was never a place to linger.

Some of the most charming planned among the modern cottages go even further than this in their utilitarian plan. Instead of a reception hall, they have the whole front of the house arranged as one large living room. The street door may open into a small vestibule or directly into the big room. No space at all is then wasted on passages.

A colonial house is built with such a living room. There is a small garden, but not much land in addition to the lots needed for the house. To utilize the space to best advantage, the cottage is built side wise on the lot; that is, the entrance is on the side and is reached by a little path from the street. This allows the full depth of the lot for the length of the living room, the lot having greater depth than frontage.

In this particular case the side arrangement is possible because there is an open garden place next door, which makes a pleasant outlook from the front of the house. A tiny porch, with two high backed settles, makes a quaint approach for the old fashion looking doorway. There is no vestibule and no hall of any kind on the ground floor. A fireplace is opposite the entrance. On one side of this is the door to the dining room; on the other a stairway, with artistic lines leading between the upper floors. A back of this stairway is the kitchen, but it must be entered through the dining room. In this way every bit of ground is made to tell. The plan made possible a much larger living room than could have been obtained by the introduction of the hallway or passage.

Along the back of the lot, and across the side of both the living room and the dining room, runs a wide veranda. The other side of the house, which is really on the street, is banked with shrubbery. Two formal box trees stand as sentinels at the entrance. Another path, graced with more shrubbery admits tradesmen to the practical and always desirable kitchen entrance.

The Return of The Girdle.

The colored sash and girdle is coming back, this pretty fashion which has been lost for the past few years in the voyage for Empire and one-piece effects, will be welcomed by many. There is no doubt that a touch of color at the waistline adds greatly to the becomingness of the white frock, while the smart effect on a gown of chiffon or lingerie is not to be questioned. Soft shades of blue, rose, ecru, green, red, lavender as well as black are mostly seen, in some cases the crushed girdle ends in a crossover finish at the left side; other styles show a narrower girdle with military sash ends, that is one short end coming under the girdle and falling over the top.—New Orleans Picayune.

A Simple Becoming Dress For The Growing Miss.

Girl's Dress with or without collar (in round neck) and with long or short sleeve.

White voile with Arabian lace bands is here shown. White lawn with embroidery of "Val" insertion will be equally effective. The color is unique in its shapings having a "tie end" front and deep round back. The waist has deep tucks in front and back. The sleeve may be long with a band cuff, or in shorter style with a turn back cuff. The skirt is straight and plaited. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. It requires 3 1-2 yards of 44 inch material for the 10 year size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

The Liner Imperator, the Largest Ship Ever Built

GERMANY now prides herself upon the possession of the greatest ship ever built, the Imperator of the Hamburg-American line, recently launched at Hamburg. She weighs 37,400 tons, inclusive of machinery and cargo; is 871 feet long, 97 feet wide and will carry 4,300 people—8,000 besides her crew. She has eleven decks and is equipped with the new "U tanks" to prevent her rolling and with turbine engines, one of which is shown in the illustration. Her time between Hamburg and New York will be from eight to eight and one-half days. The new boat, which will be placed in commission next year, will have a swimming pool, a veranda cafe and a concert room. It is also announced that she will carry lifeboats enough to accommodate every person on board. The emperor, who is a friend of Herr Ballin, head of the steamship company, was present at her launching.

Birthday of "Old Glory."

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14.—Flag Day, the anniversary of the adoption of the red, white and blue, as the national emblem, was more generally observed in the national capitol today than ever before. From public buildings, business houses and private dwellings, Old Glory waved triumphantly. Pennsylvania avenue always the main artery of the capitol, was today, especially the current where the stream of national pride showed itself. Hundreds of flags were floating on both sides of the thoroughfare. Special exercises in observance of the day were held at several of the government department offices and in all the public schools.

The American flag was adopted by Congress one hundred and thirty-five years ago today. There has long been a dispute as to who originated the design of the flag. George Washington and Benjamin Franklin approved the design and Betsy Ross, wife of John Ross, an upholsterer, living in Arch street, Philadelphia, made the one which the congress of the 13 original states adopted, and it is the same flag today except that a star has been added as often as a new state had been admitted into the union.

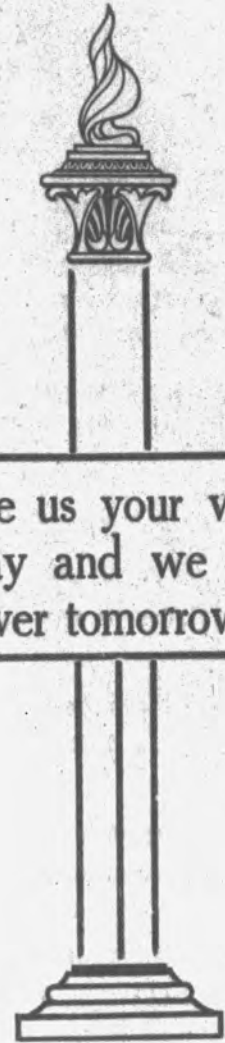

Reunion of Harvard Clubs.

The programme covers two days and provides for business sessions at the Harvard Club and a banquet at the Hotel Astor, with president A. Lawrence Lowell as the guest of honor. At the conclusion of the city today for the Chicago convention. The delegates are making the trip by special train and are accompanied by several hundred Roosevelt rooters.

Telephone For Railroad Use

The East Carolina Railway Company to Dispatch Its Trains by Telephone

In every phase of modern business and commercial life the telephone is becoming more and more a vital factor and in no way is this fact evidenced more plainly than in the rapid strides made in the introduction in the field of train dispatching. The East Carolina Railway Company is the latest of the Southern roads to equip its lines with telephone for this purpose and to this end has placed an order for the necessary material with the Western Electric Company, the manufacturers of more than 90 per cent of the telephone equipment used on the railroads of the United States.

The type of equipment to be installed makes use of the standard Western Electric telephone selector set. The "selector" as its name implies is an instrument so designed that when properly adjusted it will respond only to certain electrical signals or impulses which are regulated and sent out over the line by the train dispatcher. The latter can, therefore, signal any one of the way stations at which these selector sets are located without signalling any of the others on the same line.

The division to be equipped by the railroad extends from Tarboro, to Hooker ton, North Carolina, a distance of approximately forty miles. Ten way stations will be equipped with selector sets. The train dispatcher, having charge of train movements, will be located at Hookerton.

The many advantages accruing from the use of the telephone instead of the telegraph for the dispatching of trains, alone were responsible for its adoption. The telephone, in the first place, is quicker. It has been observed that the ring of the bell will insure a prompt answer and for this purpose large, so-called extension bells are used, which can be heard several hundred feet away. In the four years that the telephone has been used for dispatching, not a railroad accident has been laid to its door, so that it may be said to be as safe as if not safer than the telegraph. Furthermore, it has been made possible to increase the length of a division handled by one dispatcher by as much as 50 per cent.

The telephone, making possible, as it does, direct personal communication by word of mouth between the dispatcher and the men under him, has the effect of a warm, hearty hand-clasp every time it is used. A spoken sentence, even when an order, is infinitely more inspiring and impressive than a succession of cold and formal dots and dashes, and it is this feature as much as any other which has made for the success of the telephone as an improver of discipline and increaser of efficiency in railroad operation.

List Your Taxes—Last Call.

To the Taxpayers of Edgecombe County, whether residing in or out of the county, notice is hereby given that all property owned by them, either as principal or trustee, must be listed in the township where situated, on or before Saturday, June 15th, 1912. And thereafter all persons who have failed to list their taxes for any cause, are required to appear before the list taker at such times and places as he may designate in his notices and list their property. After the dates named in the notice posted by the list taker the tax lists will be closed.

Attention is also called to the fact that failure to list will result in your being double taxed and the taxpayer failing to list subjects himself to a misdemeanor.

The same penalty is provided for the citizens of the county liable for poll tax. The penalties prescribed by law will be enforced.

By order of the Board of Commissioners of Edgecombe County.

ACTIVITY OF MR. SIMMONS.

Senator Simmons just at this time is one of the most prominent men on the floor of the Senate and is bending every energy to force the passage of all important measures now pending before that body and which are calculated to be of material benefit to the agricultural and laboring masses of the country. While he is thus engaged making a high record for his state, we behold the pitiable sight of the great governor of North Carolina who is after Senator Simmons' job going over the state trying to injure the Senator, who has done more for his state and the South than Kitchin can ever hope, nor has he any idea of being able to accomplish. Simmons may have made some mistakes; and who has not, unless it might be the governor. That man in public life who boasts of not having made a mistake can also be shown to have never accomplished anything, unless it might be in those things that meant for his own personal aggrandizement.—Nashville Graphic, June 6th. 1d1w

No Levers. No Springs
Always in Balance.

Farmers actually want the "New" of its many distinctive features, which are briefly: Operator's weight balances gangs, perfectly balanced pole without even so much as a balance lever. Simplicity unequalled—not a lever, spring, ratchet or other nuisance on it. Light on draft, because it weighs less and has draft closer to shovels. Evenness of cultivation, that is, movement does not effect position of gangs. Six shovels, spring break works perfectly in widest or narrowest rows cotton, corn, beans, peanuts, tobacco, potatoes, etc.
